GAZETTE NOTICE No. 131

THE TRADE MARKS ACT

(Cap. 506)

NOTICE is hereby given that any person who has grounds of opposition to the registration of any of the trade marks advertised herein according to the classes may, within 60 days from the date of this Gazette, lodge notice of opposition on Form T.M. No. 6 (in duplicate) together with a fee of Sh. 50.

Notice is also hereby given that official objection will be taken under rule 21 (3) to all applications in which the specification claims all the goods included in any class unless the Registrar is satisfied that the claim is justified by the use of the mark which the applicant has made, or intends to make if and when it is registered. Where an applicant considers that a claim in respect of all the goods included in a class can be justified it will save unnecessary delay in examining applications if a claim is filed simultaneously with the application, accompanied in appropriate cases by supporting documents.

The period for lodging notice of opposition may be extended by the Registrar as he thinks fit and upon such terms as he may direct. Any request for such extension should be made to the Registrar so as to reach him before the expiry of the period allowed.

Formal opposition should not be lodged until after reasonable notice has been given by letter to the applicant for registration so as to afford him any opportunity of withdrawing his application before the expense of preparing the notice of opposition is incurred. Failure to give such notice will be taken into account in considering any application by an opponent for an order for costs if the opposition is uncontested by the applicant.

Where it is stated in the advertisement of the applicant that the mark, upon its registration, is to be limited to certain colours, the colours are, as far as possible, indicated in the accompanying representations of the mark in the usual heraldic manner.

Representations of the marks advertised herein can be seen at the Trade Marks Registry, State Law Offices, Nairobi.

Applications for registration in Part A of the Register are shown with the official number unaccompanied by any letter. Applications for Part B are distinguished by the letter B prefixed to the official number.

2. The Parties were heard in Nairobi on 27th, 28th and 29th November and 5th and 11th December 1968 and relied on their written and verbal submissions.

AWARD

3. The Recognition Agreement between the Parties was signed on 3rd August 1962 and it was slightly amended on 25th February 1964. As a result Clause 25 of the Recognition Agreement reads as follows:—

"This Agreement shall come into force on the third day of August 1962.

Any clause of this Agreement may be varied, altered or rescinded as a result of negotiations between the Association and the Union, subject to thirty days notice being given by either party of the proposed variation, alteration or amendment, and provided such amendments and alterations are mutually agreed by both parties."

The following nine banks in Kenya are the Respondents' members:—

1. Barclays Bank D.C.O.
2. The Bank of Baroda Ltd.
3. The Bank of India Ltd.
4. General Bank of the Netherlands.
5. Habib Bank (Overseas) Ltd.
6. National and Grindlays Bank Ltd.
7. Ottoman Bank.
8. The Standard Bank Ltd.
9. The Commercial Bank of Africa Ltd.

Disputes having arisen between the Parties regarding terms and conditions of service of the Respondents' employees in 1963, these were referred to an Arbitration Tribunal headed by Mr. J. M. Nazareth, Q.C. The Nazareth Award was announced on 15th August 1963 and confined itself entirely to terms and conditions of service of "Clerical and Subordinate staff". The Nazareth Award continued in force up to the end of February 1966 because on the expiry of the duration period of the award there was a subsequent standstill arising from the Tripartite Agreement of February 1964.

On 8th July 1966 a Collective Agreement was signed between the Parties which replaced the Nazareth Award. This agreement was effective from 1st March 1966 and had a life of two years.

On 2nd December 1967 the Respondents submitted their proposals to the Claimants for revising the 1966 agreement. The Claimants made their counter proposals on 28th December 1967 which envisaged amendments to the Recognition Agreement, as the Claimants' proposals related to Supervisory staff, sub-officers, local officers, engaged staff, signing officers and subordinate staff.

On 12th February 1968 negotiations between the Parties commenced and continued for 15 subsequent days when they eventually broke down and the Claimants reported a trade dispute to the Ministry of Labour on 21st May 1968. A conciliator was appointed and some further eight meetings were held between the Parties and the conciliator. Eventually on 21st September 1968 the Parties signed the notification of dispute form to the Industrial Court after, at one stage, the Claimants had threatened strike action. It should be noted that the framing of the issues as they appear in this dispute had caused considerable difficulty and the matter had to be referred to the Permanent Secretary, Ministry of Labour, before the Parties could agree on the exact terminology to be used on the notification of dispute form.

During the hearing the Parties made very detailed verbal submissions in addition to their very lengthy and exhaustive written submissions. The Court was given the impression that the hearing before the Industrial Court was considered as if the proceedings were before a Board of Inquiry. This sort of attitude is not desirable and the Parties should understand that the issues referred to the Court for adjudication should be specific as the Court cannot and will not make an award on vague and nebulous issues. Moreover the Court is not inclined to make recommendations in any matter unless it is of utmost importance.

The Court has very carefully considered the relevant submissions made by the Parties on the various issues in dispute before making its findings.

(1) Amendment to Recognition Agreement—(a) Union Representation:

The main bone of contention between the Parties is the Claimants' demand to win the right of representation for supervisors employed by the Respondents which demand has been vigorously opposed by the Respondents. There are about 410 supervisors working in the various banks and the Claimants maintained that they are nothing more than glorified clerks and exercised no supervisory functions as such. They argued that the word "supervisor" was a wrong nomenclature and was being loosely used in the banking industry for those workers who checked the work of others. The Claimants produced extracts from the previous proceedings between the Parties where the Respondents' advocate had referred to these supervisors as mere clerks. Finally the Claimants referred the Court to I.L.O. Conventions Nos. 84, 87 and 98 in connexion with the workers right of association, and to Article 24 of the Kenya Constitution which guarantees an individual's right of association.

The Respondents, on the other hand, asked the Court to uphold the sanctity of a written agreement and to find that unless it was by mutual consent, the Recognition Agreement could not be amended. Furthermore they maintained that any disagreement on Recognition Agreement did not constitute a trade dispute and likened it to a "Constitution" defining the relationship between a union and employer and how it should be regulated, etc. For these reasons they submitted that the Industrial Court had no jurisdiction to award an amendment to the Recognition Agreement.

The Respondents have allowed this issue to come before the Court under protest. The Court feels that if the Respondents' arguments were to be accepted industrial strife on a major scale in the banking industry is inevitable. The Respondents' stand would lead the Parties to an impasse. It should be remembered that problems relating to recognition agreements, wages, terms and conditions of service are industrial relations problems in a society which recognizes the trade union movement and believes in the industrial democracy. The Government of Kenya has provided adequate machinery for the settlement of disputes between organized labour and the employers: an industrial court has been established for the settlement of these disputes as the final arbiter after other laid down machinery has been exhausted.

The Court must overrule the Respondents' submission that the Court has no jurisdiction to adjudicate on matters of recognition agreements.

The relevant clause giving rise to this dispute is worded in a manner which can cause a lot of difficulty and, in fact, has done so. It is undoubtedly desirable that wherever possible Parties should mutually agree on their differences, but what would be the result if mutual agreement was not forthcoming.

Having found that the Court has jurisdiction to amend a recognition agreement the next step is to consider to what extent the present recognition agreement should be amended. In any undertaking there must be those who manage and others who are managed, otherwise it would lead to chaos. The difficulty arises when the level of Union representation has to be demarcated. If what the Claimants have alleged the supervisors in banks do is true, then there appears to be no reason as to why they should not represent them. During the hearing the Parties gave a lot of detailed background information on this subject and the Respondents maintained that these people were supervisors in the true sense of the word.

The Respondents drew the Court's attention to the fact that they had on three occasions tabled proposals to amend the recognition agreement on the basis of definitions of the words "Confidential", "Directive and Administrative", "Representational" and "Supervisory". The Respondents conceded that the present provision in the recognition agreement on this matter was not satisfactory by any standard.

The Court is aware that these definitions have been challenged by the Unions and their parent body C.O.T.U. and, in fact, the Court has referred this problem to a sub-committee of C.O.T.U. and F.K.E. in its award in Cause No. 21 of 1966 (Kenya Local Government Workers' Union and Nairobi City Council).

In view of this and the fact that adequate evidence was not produced before the Court as to what these supervisors actually do, the Court has decided to award that the recognition agreement should be amended so that the Claimants have the right to represent all those workers who do not fall within the category of "Confidential", "Directive and Administrative", "Representational" and "Supervisory". However, as the definitions of these words have been referred to a sub-committee of COTU/FKE the Court rules that unless these definitions are finalized the present recognition agreement should remain in force. Once the definitions have been decided upon either through voluntary agreement or an award of the Industrial Court, the Parties should examine in detail if the supervisors fall within the new definitions and in the event of deadlock the matter should be brought up as a fresh dispute before the Industrial Court. The Court would like to see the revision of the definitions of the aforesaid terms by COTU (K) and FKE to be finalized before the end of March 1969.

(b) Provident Fund, Pension and Gratuities be negotiable:

The Claimants have further demanded an amendment to the recognition agreement to enable them to "negotiate" with the Respondents on the above items. They maintained that these were terminal benefits and were part of terms and conditions of service of a worker and that the Industrial Court had given awards on the issue of gratuity in many disputes. Their main argument, however, appeared to be that the enactment of the Immigration Act 1967, was not foreseen at the time the recognition agreement was signed in 1962 and the provisions of this Act, affecting the careers of the future non-citizens in the banks, were not envisaged, whereby these employees would have their services terminated before normal retirement age.

The Respondents, on the other hand, stated that adequate consultative machinery existed for the purpose of ascertaining the views of the workers on these items and pointed out that there was a very good reason why they could not agree to the Claimants' demand for negotiations on these items, this being the different and varied pension and provident fund schemes which had been in existence in the various banks long before the Claimants had appeared on the scene. All these schemes were subject to and regulated by their own rules and it would not be a feasible proposition to negotiate on them to evolve a uniform scheme; in fact it would be impossible to do so.

To allay the fears of those non-citizen employees who would be affected by the Immigration Act 1967, the Respondents have instituted a scheme whereby generous compensation would be paid to such employees, twelve employees having already been paid such compensation. The Respondents stated that this compensation scheme was better than the one in the East African Power and Lighting Company Limited and the one awarded by the Industrial Court in the Oil Industry.

The Court is satisfied that the Parties had acknowledged the difficulties that they would have to face if these items had been rendered negotiable when the recognition agreement was signed. In view of the Respondents' arguments mentioned hereinabove the Court can find no reason to award an amendment of the recognition agreement as demanded by the Claimants. The Court, therefore, makes a nil award on this issue. The Court would like to stress that the Claimants should instruct their members without any delay to complete their nominations on the joint consultative committees in the various banks so that these may start functioning.

(2) Collective Agreement

In view of the Court's award given hereinabove under item (1) (a) the Court rules that its award on the following items should apply to such supervisors who, after the matter has been sorted out and settled on the lines indicated by the Court, are accorded the right of representation by the Claimants. In the meantime the award will apply to clerical and subordinate staff only.

(a) Salaries—General Increases:

Under this issue are covered clerical and subordinate staff.

Clerical Staff:

The clerical scales as they exist at present are as follows:—

	£ per annum
On engagement	396
After 1 year	418
„ 2 years	440
„ 3 years	468
„ 4 years	495
„ 5 years Efficiency Bar	523

	£ per annum
„ 6 years	567
„ 7 years	600
„ 8 years	633
„ 9 years Efficiency Bar	666

	£ per annum
„ 10 years	726
„ 11 years	759
„ 12 years	792
„ 13 years	817
„ 14 years	842
„ 15 years	867

The Claimants had demanded a 33½ per cent increase overall in reply to the Respondents' offer of 3 per cent increase. Both the Parties criticized each other for their respective demand and offer. The Claimants drew the Court's attention to the Nazareth Award and their 1966 Agreement and stated that in 1966 they had won a 10 per cent increase for all their members. They submitted that the Respondents' salaries and wages were inferior to the ones being paid in comparable industries and cited a few examples. They added that in addition to the cost of living increase their members should be compensated for higher taxes and the increased rents which they are required to pay in places like Nairobi, Mombasa and elsewhere. For these reasons they had also demanded a 20 per cent house allowance. The Claimants submitted that the Respondents had made huge profits and had already increased the charges to their customers with effect from 1st March 1968 (which is the agreed effective date for the new agreement). In view of this the workers were entitled to their share in the prosperity of their employers. They criticized the Respondents for their negative attitude and stated that the managerial staff enjoyed immensely superior benefits.

The Respondents, on the other hand, argued that—

(i) On prevailing rates in the banks compared more than favourably even when the increases offered were not taken into account.

(ii) The increases offered by the banks ranging from Sh. 33 per month to Sh. 72 per month (and more in case of those clerks who are above the scale) also compared more than favourably with the increases recently granted in Oil, Tobacco, East African Power and Lighting Company Limited, K.F.A., etc. particularly when it is remembered that in oil and tobacco whilst the employees concerned receive modest increases, the rates/scales remained unaltered for new entrants.

The Court has carefully considered the various submissions made by the Parties some of which are mentioned hereinabove and has decided to award a 6 per cent increase to the clerical staff. Accordingly all the points in the aforesaid scale will be increased by 6 per cent. The Parties have already agreed on the effective date of this increase which is 1st March 1968 and the duration period of two years from that date. In view of the fact that the workers are on an incremental scale they will be entitled to their normal increments on 1st January 1969 and on 1st January 1970 which means that they will receive at least three increases before the next agreement is entered into.

Subordinate Staff:

The current minimum basic salaries for subordinate staff are as follows:—

	Sh. per month
Office messengers, Whole-time Cleaning Staff and Printing Staff (Warehousemen, Packers and General)	310
Watchmen	340
Drivers	415
Chauffeurs	455
Painters	420
Other Printing Staff	365

The final position reached by the Parties during negotiations was that the Claimants had come down to an increase of Sh. 60 and the Respondents had brought their offer up to Sh. 40 to be paid to all members of the subordinate staff. After a careful consideration of all the submissions and the various wage rates quoted by the Parties, the Court has decided to award an increase of Sh. 50 per month to all subordinate staff.

(i) Length of scales

Prior to the Nazareth Award in 1963 the scales for clerical staff varied in length from Bank to Bank. Uniformity was brought about by the Nazareth Award as a result of which a twelve-year scale came into force in all Banks. In 1966 the scales were increased to 15 years.

The Claimants now demand that there should be no ceiling on the scale as otherwise workers would become stagnant after 15 years service and would feel frustrated. In view of the conditions attached to the terminal benefits the workers could not even leave the service as they would lose all their benefits.

The Claimants gave the names of a few clerks who had not received any increments after having reached the present top of the scale. The Claimants pointed out that the Banks were harsh in the application of merit increases to those clerks who reach the top of the scale.

The Respondents maintained that an incremental scale must have a ceiling and no case was known of an incremental scale that progressed indefinitely without a top point. They submitted that in Tanzania and Uganda also there was 15 years incremental scale.

In view of the fact that the length of scale as laid down in the Nazareth Award was increased by the Parties in 1966 from 12 years to 15 years, the Court feels that adequate time has not passed yet to enable it to decide whether or not this length is satisfactory. The Court, therefore, rejects this demand.

(ii) Efficiency Bars:

The Court can find no reason whatsoever for abolishing efficiency bars as demanded by the Claimants who made certain half hearted allegations that clerks who failed to pass efficiency bars after a second attempt were sacked. This was denied by the Respondents who pointed out that all clerks, with the exception of a few doubtful ones, were promoted automatically. They denied that efficiency bars were being operated harshly. After a careful consideration of the submissions made by the Parties the Court has decided to reject the Claimants' demand.

(iii) Annual Increments:

Clerical Staff:

The Claimants' demand of an annual increment of £80 for clerks was strongly resisted by the Respondents on the ground that the present provisions were considered both sound and fair. The Court notes that the Claimants produced no arguments whatsoever other than to pick out an arbitrary figure of £80 in support of their claim on this item and finds no merit in this demand. As a result of the Court's award on the salary increases the annual increments (i.e. the difference between each point in the scale with the next point in the scale) will also be increased by 6 per cent. Accordingly the Claimants' demand is rejected.

Subordinate Staff:

The Claimants have made a strong plea for the reintroduction of incremental scales in respect of subordinate staff. Alternatively the Claimants wanted the period of long service increments to be reduced to four yearly intervals and the amount of the said increment to be increased to Sh. 25 coupled with an adequate rise in the minimum salary.

The Court can see no reason as to why an incremental scale should be reintroduced for the subordinate staff.

In an explanation of its award on this point the Nazareth Tribunal made a statement as follows:—

"In the light of the steep rise in the minimum wage rates offered by the Association which have been further raised by the Tribunal, and having regard to the concession made by the Association in the course of the hearing, the Tribunal does not feel justified in imposing on the Banks an incremental scale starting from a steeply raised minimum which is related to a 'rate for the job'."

In 1966 the Claimants negotiated with the Respondents on the same basis.

It is quite obvious that the Claimants having achieved a rise in wages as a result of the Nazareth Award in 1963 followed by another rise in 1966, now wish to obtain another increase and at the same time to tack on annual increments in addition.

The Court has awarded a monthly wage increase of Sh. 50 per month to all subordinate staff and as it is satisfied that no case has been made out for an introduction of incremental scale or for varying the long service increments, these demands are rejected.

(iv) Merit Increases:

The current practice on this item is to be found in the following provision in the 1966 agreement:—

"Merit Increases—Clerical Staff"

Increases after the 15-year point in the scale has been reached shall be by merit at the discretion of the employer at such time as the employer shall decide.

The amount of such increase, when granted on merit, shall not be less than £20 until the employee has completed sixteen (16) years' service and thereafter shall not be less than £17.10.0."

The Claimants maintained that both the Nazareth Award and the Collective Agreement represented the minimum amounts for granting merit increases but did not derogate the right of the Banks to make such revisions based on merit, in excess of these figures at their sole discretion. They further alleged that the Banks have misinterpreted the provision of this clause and in almost all cases had stuck to the minimum amounts laid down and had at the same time declared their intention of withholding further increments of certain officials on the ground that the salaries earned by them were not commensurate with the amount of work they did.

The Respondents pointed out that of the 69 clerical staff employees who had reached the top of the scale by 31st December 1966 only three were not granted merit increases with effect from 1st January 1967. And of the 76 clerical staff employees who had reached the top of the scale by 31st December 1967, 11 were not granted merit increases with effect from 1st January 1968.

The Court is satisfied from the figures produced that the system of merit increases was not being harshly applied by the Respondents. The Court does feel, however, that the amount of merit increase when granted after an employee has completed 16 years of service should not be less than £20 and so awards. Accordingly the words "and thereafter shall not be less than £17.10.0" are deleted from the existing provision.

(b) House and Housing Allowance:

The Court is satisfied that in the Banking Industry workers have always been paid a consolidated wage. In the Nazareth Arbitration Award it was stated as follows:—

"The Tribunal finds no case for imposing on the Banks a general obligation to provide housing for all employees. That would clearly be a retrograde step. In the new scales contained in this Award the tribunal has taken into account an element for housing.

Accordingly, in respect of Housing and/or Housing Allowance a separate item or allowance to be paid in addition to salary, in agreement with the Assessors, I make a Nil Award. . . ."

In awarding the current increase in salaries the Court has taken into consideration the arguments advanced by the Claimants on this issue. Accordingly a nil award is made.

(c) Local Leave and Local Leave Allowances:

The current entitlement on these two items are as follows:—

Local Leave—Clerical Staff

(a) Clerical Staff on Local Terms of Service (whether engaged locally or from overseas) with Overseas Leave Privileges.

The existing local leave entitlement of Clerical Staff on local terms of service with overseas leave privileges will remain in force as personal to each individual employee concerned.

(b) Clerical Staff on Local Terms of Service (whether engaged locally or from overseas) without Overseas Leave Privileges:

(i) Up to 10 years' service or up to 30 years of age.	21 working days per annum.
(ii) 10 years' service and over or 30 years of age and over.	28 working days per annum.

Local Leave—Subordinate Staff

(a) Up to 10 years' service	21 working days per annum.
(b) 10 years' service and over	28 working days per annum.

Local Leave Allowances—Clerical and Subordinate Staff

(a) Clerical Staff

Up to 10 years' service	Sh. 500 per annum
10 years' service and over	Sh. 700 per annum

(b) Subordinate Staff

Up to 10 years' service	Sh. 80 per annum
10 years' service and over	Sh. 95 per annum

The Court has gone through the facts and figures produced by both sides on these issues and after a careful consideration of all arguments has decided to reject the Claimants' demands for an increase in local leave entitlement. On the question of local leave allowances the Court has decided to increase the existing allowances for clerical staff by Sh. 100 and so awards; in the case of subordinate staff the Court awards that workers should be entitled to the increased leave allowance after five years' service and over, the parties having already agreed on the allowance.

(d) Accumulation of Local Leave:

On the evidence produced by the Respondents the Court is satisfied that there is no general inclination to accumulate leave amongst the Bank workers. The argument put forward by the Claimants that the workers do not at present accumulate leave because it is not long enough is without merit and cannot be taken seriously. The Court accordingly rejects the demand made by the Claimants.

(e) Expatriate Staff and Local Staff:

The issue as it is framed is very wide and is not specific. In fact it has been largely used by the Claimants to air their grievances over the superior lot of the mainly European Managerial Staff in the Banks who are being called "expatriates" by the Claimants and "British Covenanted staff" by the Respondents.

During the proceedings the Claimants were very critical of certain European ladies employed by the Banks and particularly referred to the case of one employed on issuing travellers cheques in one Bank. The Claimants alleged that this lady like a few others was getting a fat salary for doing work which could easily be done by a local person. The Respondents informed the Court that a work permit had been issued to her by the appropriate authorities. The Court has no alternative but to accept the fact that the authorities must have been satisfied that the work she did could not be done by a local person before they issued her with a work permit. In view of this there is nothing that the Court can do in this matter to assist the Claimants.

Under this issue the Claimants had also complained that in the Banking industry no job grading exercise had been carried out with the result that people with long services were stagnating at salaries of Sh. 1,700 to Sh. 2,750 per month. In contrast to this all European employees were getting numerous superior benefits including big salaries. The Claimants maintained that in all fairness there should be a reasonable gap between the locally engaged staff and the European expatriates.

The main issue under this broad heading emerged to be the demand by the Claimants on behalf of some 31 Asian non-citizen employees, most of them British passport holders, to be elevated to the status of expatriates on the following grounds:—

- (1) They had been engaged from overseas, i.e. India and Goa.
- (2) They were required by terms of their contracts to serve in countries beyond East Africa and that some of them had served in Seychelles, Ethiopia and Somalia. Further that these workers had not signified their unwillingness to serve their employers in any country where they were required to do so. In case of Barclays Bank they referred to a Staff Circular No. 105 dated 26th November 1963 under the heading "Local Staff and Local Citizenship" in support of their demand.
- (3) In some Banks these persons having been recruited from overseas had no alternative but to sign the same contracts as locally engaged staff under threat of repatriation.
- (4) As a result of the East African Income Tax (Management) (Amendment) Act 1967 all the Asian staff who had been recruited abroad other than those who had taken Kenya Citizenship were exempt from the new Pension Fund in Kenya as from 1st January 1968.

The Claimants submitted that for nearly five years now they had repeatedly taken up this matter with the Respondents and have on several occasions discussed it with them but without any success. The Claimants added that once the Court had declared these people to be in the category of "expatriate staff", they would then negotiate their benefits and allowances with the Respondents.

The Respondents, on the other hand, maintained that this issue had never been discussed between the Parties in the context of the Collective Agreement and, therefore, had no place whatsoever in this dispute. They stated that they had repeatedly attempted to find out from the Claimants what they were after under this item. It was only during conciliation proceedings that they came to know the exact nature of the Claimants' demands and they had promptly pointed out that this matter had never been discussed during negotiations on the Collective Agreement.

The Respondents submitted that the terms and conditions of service of all clerical staff whether recruited overseas or locally are covered by the provisions of the Collective Agreement and referred to various items in their agreement where reference was made to employees whether recruited locally or from overseas.

This is an interesting point which the Claimants have raised but they forget that they have committed their members whether recruited from overseas or locally to certain wages and terms and conditions of service embodied in the Collective Agreement and the revision of which has given rise to this dispute. The contracts of service of employees remain valid, and are amended from time to time in certain respects as a result of bargaining carried out on their behalf by their Union. The Parties are bound by this contractual relationship.

The Court cannot declare these people to be in the category of "expatriate staff" because the Court has great doubt as to what the word "expatriate" actually means. Most of the time this word is being loosely used to define the European non-citizen employees serving in Kenya but it is often forgotten that each one of them has his/her individual contract of service.

The Court cannot see any reason why these 31 Asian employees who all along have been bound by the Collective Agreement should be given now some five years after, a special and preferential treatment.

It should be realized that conditions in independent Kenya are rapidly changing and it is only a matter of time before non-citizen employees are reduced to the barest minimum.

On this issue the Claimants have been more emotional than logical. The Court can understand their feelings but is not inclined to make an award on the lines suggested by them.

The Court must reject this demand because it has never been discussed in the context of collective agreement and the issue as it is before the Court is too vague and nebulous to warrant an award by the Industrial Court. As has been pointed out earlier in this award proceeding before the Industrial Court have to be confined to specific issues on which enforceable awards can be made as the Industrial Court is not a forum like a Board of Inquiry.
