GAZETTE NOTICE No 786

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE No 49 OF 1969

Parties —

Kenya National Union of Teachers

and

Teachers' Service Commission

Issue in dispute —

The difference between the recommendations of the Teachers' Service Remuneration Committee and the salary increases offered by the Minister for Education

1 The Kenya National Union of Teachers shall hereinafter be referred to as the Claimants, and the Teachers' Service Commission shall hereinafter be referred to as the Respondents

2 The parties were heard in Nairobi on the 30th day of January 1970, and relied on their written and verbal submissions

AWARD

3 The general background to this dispute is that a Teachers' Service Remuneration Committee (hereinafter referred to as the committee) was established by the Minister for Education (hereinafter referred to as the Minister) in or about August 1968, acting under powers vested in him under section 13 of the Teachers Service Commission Act 1966 (hereinafter referred to as the Act) As laid down in section 13 (2), an independent chairman, Mr H C Waruthi, was appointed, the other members of the committee being as laid down in section 13 (2) (b) and (c) with the result that two members represented Ministry of Education, two the Respondents, one the Ministry of Local Government and five members were nominated by the Claimants Mr J M G Muhoio who was a member on the committee representing the Respondents acted as the secretary to the committee

The committee commenced its work of reviewing the teachers' salaries and held its first meeting on 22nd April 1969 This was in pursuance of section 14 (1) of the Act which requires that the committee "shall, whenever they think fit or are required by the Minister to do so, review the remuneration of teachers in the teachers service as that remuneration exists (whether in pursuance of this Act or of any previous enactment or otherwise) at the time of the review" The committee held several meetings and at the final meeting in July 1969, the members of the committee unanimously agreed and signed recommendations with respect to the teachers' remuneration and transmitted those recommendations to the Minister as required under section 14 (2) of the Act A letter was addressed to the Minister dated 3rd July 1969, and was signed by all the members of the committee This letter reads as follows —

"We were appointed as Teachers' Service Remuneration Committee to review and report on changes in the remuneration of all grades of teachers employed in public institutions in Kenya The terms of reference of our committee are set out in section 14 (1) of the Teachers' Service Commission Act 1966 (No 2 of 1967) The committee began its work on 22nd April 1969, and we now submit our recommendations"

Recommendations of the committee were attached to this letter

The Court notes that during the hearing the Respondents did not challenge the allegation that the recommendations of the committee were unanimous and the Court was led to believe that the total estimated cost of the salary revision for 1969 as recommended by the committee was £1,273,396

After the Minister had received the recommendations from the committee he took no action for some time and the Claimants approached him to find out when he intended to prepare a draft order to give effect to these recommendations as required under section 14 (3) of the Act The Claimants held several meetings with the Minister for this purpose during which the Minister indicated that he did not intend to prepare a draft order in compliance with the recommendations

In the meantime on 2nd October 1969, the Minister for Labour ordered the Claimants to disaffiliate from the Central Organization of Trade Unions (K) and he also declared teaching as an essential service within the meaning of the Trade Disputes Act 1965. On 6th October 1969, the Claimants gave notice of intention to go on strike under the provisions of the Trade Disputes Act relating to essential services on the grounds that the Minister had failed to give effect to the recommendations of the committee. No solution was found to the dispute and on 5th November 1969, the teachers were called out on strike by the Claimants as the organization representing them and the strike continued until 11th November 1969, when the following return to work formula was agreed upon —

- “(a) That the union accepts the offer of salary increases to teachers by the Minister for Education, Hon J G Kiano, to be paid not later than the end of November 1969,
- (b) that the Minister for Labour refers the issues still in dispute to the Industrial Court which are the difference between the recommendations of the Teachers’ Service Remuneration Committee and what was offered,
- (c) the Kenya National Union of Teachers undertakes to call off the current teachers’ strike with immediate effect, and
- (d) there will be no victimization on either side’

This agreement was signed by the Minister for Labour, the then Permanent Secretary for Education and the Claimants’ General Secretary. The offer of salary increases to the teachers by the Minister as mentioned in (a) above was shown to the committee members in the form of a draft order at a meeting which the Minister had held at his house on 10th November 1969. This draft order has since been published as LN 260/1969.

On 20th November 1969, the parties signed the notification of dispute form and referred the matter to the Industrial Court for adjudication.

The Claimants’ main arguments during the hearing were that section 14 (3) made it mandatory for the Minister to prepare a draft order to give effect to the committee’s recommendations as the wording was clear that the “Minister shall, after preparing a draft order to give effect to those recommendations, and after consulting the committee with respect to that draft and considering any representations made by the committee with respect thereto, make and publish in the Gazette an order directing that the remuneration of teachers in the teachers’ service shall be determined in accordance with the provisions thereof”. The Claimants submitted that the Minister has no alternative but to give effect in full to the recommendations of the committee and accordingly asked the Court to award that—

- (a) the Claimants are entitled to the salaries recommended by the committee,
- (b) the committee having agreed on and made recommendations, the Minister for Education is bound by those recommendations,
- (c) section 14 of the Act is a statutory substitution for negotiating machinery with regard to teachers’ salaries and creates a form of a Joint Industrial Council,
- (d) the committee acts as a negotiating body with regard to teachers’ salaries, and
- (e) the preparation of draft order by the Minister for Education under section 14 (3) of the Act is a mere administrative formality.

The Respondents on the other hand submitted that upon the true construction of the notification of dispute Form A, the only issue between the parties to this reference is the merits of differences between the salary increases of the classes of teachers referred to in the said Form A recommended by the committee and those awarded by LN 260/1969. They further submitted that the Industrial Court had no jurisdiction of hearing the claim put forward by the Claimants on the ground that—

- (a) the said claim is not within the dispute referred to the Court by the parties to these proceedings,
- (b) this Court is not the tribunal to adjudicate upon the performance by other statutory bodies of their statutory duties and functions.

The Court is not prepared to accept that the real purpose of the dispute before it on the issue as framed by the parties is to go into the merits of the Claimants’ claim as they would clearly amount to duplicating the work of the committee. In the return to work formula quoted hereinabove under section (b) it is clearly stated that “the Minister for Labour refers the issues still in dispute to the Industrial Court which are the difference between the recommendations of the committee and what has been offered”. This is very clear and the Court fails to see how the issue in dispute can be interpreted to mean that what the Respondents were submitting to the Court was the question of going into the merits of the Claimants’ claim to justify a salary increase. This argument does not fit into the facts leading up to this dispute which are enumerated hereinabove.

The Court notes that the recommendations of the committee were unanimous and that on that committee the Minister, the Respondents and the Claimants were adequately represented and that the committee had an independent chairman. In these circumstances the Court is entitled to assume that the Respondents were fully aware of what they were committing the Government to when the committee’s recommendations were formulated, agreed unanimously and forwarded to the Minister.

It is also pertinent to note that section 15 of the Act gives powers to the Minister to make arrangements whereby, in such circumstances and subject to such exceptions as may be provided in the arrangements, matters in respect of which agreement has not been reached in the committee after they have been considered by the committee in accordance with section 14 of this Act may be referred for further consideration and recommendations to such persons, and in such manner, as may be so provided.

The fact that the Minister did not use these powers reinforces the view that complete agreement had been reached in respect of all matters at the committee stage.

The position then is that the Claimants have exhausted all legitimate steps as laid down by the statutes governing the settlement of the claims then members have in the matter of remuneration and as a result the committee made unanimous recommendations to the Minister. Unfortunately the Minister through LN 260/1969 gave effect to the said recommendations in part only with the result that there is a considerable difference between the committee’s recommendations and what the Minister has implemented through the said legal notice.

The Claimants have asked the Court to give a ruling on what section 14 (3) means, in other words, to find in their favour that the Minister should have made an order completely consistent with the committee’s recommendations.

The Court has carefully considered the wording of section 14 (3) and notes that the word “recommendations” is used and not the word “decision”. The Court considers that the word “recommendation” should mean just what it is normally intended to mean and were it not for the fact that the other words to the effect that “the Minister shall” had been used the Court would have been inclined to find that the Minister had discretion either to accept, modify or reject the recommendations. But in view of the fact that the word “shall” is used the Court has come to the conclusion that the Minister has no alternative but to make and publish in the Gazette an order to give effect to those recommendations. The Court must confess that this subsection (3) appears to be very badly worded but it has come to the conclusion that in the absence of any disagreement in the committee when the Minister can use powers under section 15 (1) the Minister appears to have no alternative but to give effect to the committee’s recommendations in toto.

The Court is aware that the Minister is not a party to this dispute and the Court also accepts the Respondents’ submission that the Court is not a tribunal to adjudicate upon the performance by other statutory bodies of their statutory duties and functions. The dispute before the Court is between an employer and his employees and the Court finds that the necessary machinery laid down for settling the employees’ remuneration has been gone through and to all intents and purposes they are now entitled to benefit in full from the committee’s recommendations. The Court can do no more than to make this finding which as the law stands now cannot be implemented unless the Minister acts under section 14 (3) and gives effect to such recommendations through a legal notice. It seems that for so long as he does not do so the Minister himself is in breach of the law. This, however, is a matter which should be sorted out between the Respondents and the Minister. The Court has no jurisdiction to order the Minister to do so as he is not a party to these proceedings.

THE TRADE MARKS ACT

(Cap 506)

NOTICE is hereby given that any person who has grounds of opposition to the registration of any of the trade marks advertised herein according to the classes may, within 60 days from the date of this Gazette, lodge notice of opposition on Form TM No 6 (in duplicate) together with a fee of Sh 50

Notice is also hereby given that official objection will be taken under rule 21 (3) to all applications in which the specification claims all the goods included in any class, unless the Registrar is satisfied that the claim is justified by the use of the mark which the applicant has made, or intends to make if and when it is registered. Where an applicant considers that a claim in respect of all the goods included in a class can be justified it will save unnecessary delay in examining applications if a claim is filed simultaneously with the application, accompanied in appropriate cases by supporting documents

The period for lodging notice of opposition may be extended by the Registrar as he thinks fit and upon such terms as he may direct. Any request for such extension should be made to the Registrar so as to reach him before the expiry of the period allowed

Formal opposition should not be lodged until after reasonable notice has been given by letter to the applicant for registration so as to afford him any opportunity of withdrawing his application before the expense of preparing the notice of opposition is incurred. Failure to give such notice will be taken into account in considering any application by an opponent for an order for costs if the opposition is uncontested by the applicant

Where it is stated in the advertisement of the applicant that the mark, upon its registration, is to be limited to certain colours, the colours are, as far as possible, indicated in the accompanying representations of the mark in the usual heraldic manner
