THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE No. 34 OF 1968

Parties:—

Kenya Plantation and Agricultural Workers' Union
and

Theta Tea Co. Ltd.

Issues in dispute:—

1. Severance pay.
2. Protective clothing.

1. The Kenya Plantation and Agricultural Workers' Union shall hereinafter be referred to as the Claimants and the Theta Tea Co. shall hereinafter be referred to as the Respondents.

2. On 21st August 1968 the parties registered a dispute with the Court and it was arranged that the hearing should take place on 11th November 1968.

On 11th November 1968 the Counsel for the Respondents informed the Court that the issue relating to protective clothing had been settled between the parties and requested further time with a view to continuing discussions in order to settle the remaining issue as well out of Court. The Court acceded to this request and stood over the dispute generally.

On 2nd December 1969, however, the Claimants informed the Court that no settlement had been reached on the issue of severance pay and requested that the case be heard. The Court listed the dispute for hearing for 18th December 1969.

During the resumed hearing of the dispute, the parties informed the Court that as a result of the further discussions that they had had in the morning, an agreement had been reached on the issue of severance pay. They requested the Court to make an award in terms of the Respondents' offer on this issue made in their written submission which reads as follows:—

"On Redundancy, not less than 2 months' notice shall be given to either party. In addition, where an employee is declared redundant, he shall be entitled to two weeks' pay for every completed year of service provided that the amount due to an employee under the gratuity scheme shall be set off against the severance pay on redundancy with the employee getting the higher of the two benefits, severance pay shall be worked out at the rate of an employee's wage at the time he is declared redundant."

The Court accordingly made an award as requested by the parties.

Given in Nairobi this 18th day of December 1969.

GAZETTE NOTICE No. 101

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE No. 35 OF 1969

Parties:—

Kenya Union of Commercial Food and Allied Workers
and

National and Grindlays Bank Ltd.

Issue in dispute:—

Employers deducting their provident fund and National Social Security Fund contributions from compensation paid to employees leaving the banks (objected to by National and Grindlays Bank Ltd.).

1. The Kenya Union of Commercial Food and Allied Workers shall hereinafter be referred to as the Claimants and the National and Grindlays Bank Ltd. shall hereinafter be referred to as the Respondents.

2. The parties were heard in Nairobi on the 20th and 21st day of November 1969, and relied on their written and verbal submissions.

AWARD

3. The Claimants, who have been recognized by the Kenya Bankers Employers' Association (hereinafter referred to as the Association), as a collective bargaining unit on behalf of all the unionizable employees employed in the Kenya banking industry, have brought this dispute on the aforesaid issue against the Respondents who are a member of the Association.

On or about 26th July 1969, the Kenya banks made public a compensation scheme in respect of their non-citizen employees who would be affected by the Immigration Act 1967. The heading of the scheme is as follows:—

"NATIONAL AND GRINDLAYS BANK LTD.

IMMIGRATION ACT 1967

1. In the event of an employee's services having to terminate prematurely (that is before normal retirement age in accordance with the rules of the Scheme for the payment of Retiring Allowances to staff employed in Kenya) through the operation of the Immigration Act 1967, the under-mentioned ex gratia terminal payments will be made.

All sums payable under the provisions outlined below shall be deemed to be expressed in Kenya shillings and payable locally."

The full scheme was attached to the Respondents' submission as Appendix I but the relevant part of it which has led to this dispute is contained in Note (a) to para. 2 of this scheme which reads:—

"In all cases where an employee leaving the service of the Bank in the circumstances set out in paragraph 1 above is entitled to receive from the Bank, either directly or indirectly, any payment under his conditions of service, under any Government legislation, under any Arbitration and/or other award, under any agreement with a Trade Union or other labour body, the amount of the payment in question will be set off against the ex gratia terminal payment calculated in accordance with the provisions of paragraph 2 above. The Bank's total contributions plus interest to its private Provident Funds and the Bank's total contributions to the National Social Security Fund in respect of the employee concerned will also be set off against the ex gratia terminal payment calculated in accordance with the provisions of paragraph 2 (a) to 2 (c).

In the case of an employee receiving an ex gratia terminal payment under paragraph 2 (d) the Bank's total contributions plus interest to its private Provident Funds shall be taken into account in the assessment of the ex gratia retiring allowance due under paragraph 2 (d) (i) whereas the Bank's contributions to the Kenya National Social Security Fund on account of the employee will be offset against the cash payment due under paragraph 2 (d) (ii)."

The Claimants object to the Respondents deducting their provident and National Social Security Fund (hereinafter referred to as NSSF) contributions from compensation paid to employees leaving their service through the operation of the Immigration Act 1967. Their main arguments are that the employer's provident fund contributions are part and parcel of an employee's terms of employment and the employer's contribution to the NSSF are required under the law of the country. As such it is patently unfair and unjust for an employer to deduct his contributions to these funds from a compensation scheme which has been brought in to compensate employees whose services have been terminated prematurely.

The Claimants referred the Court to a letter which their members concerned in the present dispute had written on 15th August 1969, to the Rt. Hon. Lord Aldington in which they had quoted facts and figures which had been handed to them by the Respondents' Manager on 17th August 1955, the relevant portion being as follows:—

"In addition to the above, clerks in this Bank enjoy the benefit of many small allowances which the clerks in Barclays Bank D.C.O. do not; for instance the bonus paid by Barclays Bank for some years past has been 10 per cent p.a. whereas the bonus paid to our staff, including the amount credited to Provident Fund, has been 20 per cent p.a. Income Tax, Personal Tax and Provident Fund contributions by this Bank are also paid whereas Barclays Bank staff enjoy none of these concessions."

"You will see therefore that you are paid during the first five years of your service from Sh. 112 p.m. to Sh. 66 p.m. higher than clerks in Barclays Bank D.C.O."

The Claimants argued that this was clear proof of the fact that the provident fund was an important inducement for their members to take up employment with the Respondents. They accused the Respondents of breaking the sanctity of a contract.

The Claimants were very critical of the Respondents' attitude to the whole question of the compensation scheme for their non-citizen employees particularly the fact that the Respondents along with the other members of the Association had not disclosed to them the details of this scheme until July 1969, despite the fact that the Claimants had been pressing for such compensation from the time of independence.

The Claimants strongly submitted that the compensation payable was not an ex gratia payment and in fact was an employee's right based on the Respondents' numerous promises over the past six years which they should now honour. They further argued that even if this was not the workers' legal right the fact that the Respondents had now announced such a scheme rendered it open for the Industrial Court to vary, modify or amend it as the Court may deem fit.

The Claimants stated that the Respondents were being unnecessarily rigid on a small matter involving about £82,000. They could not understand the reason why the Respondents were insisting on harmony with other banks on a compensation scheme when there was no harmony in the retirement schemes being operated by the various banks.

The Claimants drew the Court's attention to the fact that the Respondents had millions of pounds already put aside in the pension funds to which their members would not be entitled in view of the premature termination of their employment.

The Respondents on the other hand categorically stated that the workers affected by the Immigration Act 1967 were paid their provident fund entitlement including the Respondents' contributions in full. They were also paid their NSSF dues in full. There was no question of any amount being deducted from these two funds. What they did was and what they claimed they were perfectly legally entitled to do was to reduce the compensation payable to a worker by the amount which they had paid into his provident fund and to his account in the NSSF.

The Respondents strongly stated that they were under no legal or contractual obligation to pay any compensation to workers affected by the Immigration Act 1967. Despite this they had lived up to their past promises and had come out with a scheme which they maintained was far more generous than the scheme initiated by the E.A. Power and Lighting Co. and the one awarded by the Industrial Court in the oil industry dispute.

The Respondents submitted that the pension/provident fund payments (service gratuities) and severance payments/terminal payments (for redundancy/loss of career) are intended to cater for the same contingencies, and since it was a well-established principle in Kenya and in many other countries that the provident fund contributions could be set off when calculating terminal payments their stand in this matter was right and proper.

The Respondents maintained that by applying the set off in calculating the terminal payments, the subject matter of this dispute, they were infringing no law, neither were they in breach of any contract or agreement.

During the hearing of this dispute the Court had the benefit of very comprehensive written submissions put forward by the parties and very interesting arguments put forward most ably by the spokesmen for the two sides.

There is no doubt that the non-citizen employees in the Kenya banks, mainly Asians, had anticipated that their jobs would sooner or later be Africanized. This matter had therefore not unnaturally figured prominently in two disputes between the Claimants and the banks in the past. On both occasions the banks in most unequivocal terms had made their position clear that as and when the time came they would not forget their Asian employees and would compensate them generously for the loss of their careers.

The board of inquiry which looked into this dispute, in its recommendations on 22nd September 1965, stated, inter alia:—

"The Board does not recommend a scheme of compensation for Asians immediately, but in view of the findings on Africanization hereinabove, it is inevitable that, due to the policy of rectifying racial imbalance, the axe will fall on the Asians in spite of the Bank's assurances. Keeping this in mind, it is recommended that if, and when, such an eventuality does arise then the parties should get together to work out a compensation scheme which is acceptable to everyone concerned.

It may take the form of compensation and/or eligibility for pension benefits due to premature retirement. But as has already been mentioned it is premature at this stage for the Board to make any other recommendations. It is quite obvious from the Association's stand that Africanization would not lead to the loss of jobs of non-African citizens for quite some time to come even of non-African non-citizens unless it was absolutely necessary."

In Cause No. 40/68 between the Association and the Claimants, the Court had included the following passage in its award:—

"To allay the fears of those non-citizen employees who would be affected by the Immigration Act 1967, the Respondents have instituted a scheme whereby generous compensation would be paid to such employees, 12 employees having already been paid such compensation. The Respondents stated that this compensation scheme was better than the one in the E.A. Power and Lighting Co. Ltd. and the one awarded by the Industrial Court in the oil industry."

The Court must state that the banks in Kenya, including the Respondents, have, by fulfilling their promises which they had made in the past to compensate their employees who would lose employment through the Kenyanization policy of the Kenya Government, behaved as good and enlightened employers. All the credit must go to them for having taken an extremely sympathetic view of the plight of their Asian non-citizen employees who would be losing their jobs through no fault of their own and through no fault of the banks either. The Immigration Act 1967 requires that non-citizens should make way for the citizens and that is how it should be.

The Court notes that the number of workers affected by the issue in dispute consist of 321 non-citizen employees of the Respondents who are on local terms of service made up as follows:—

Africans	2
Asians	293
Europeans	26
					321

As at 26th September 1969, 14 Asian and three European non-citizen employees have already left the Respondents' employment arising from the operation of the Immigration Act 1967 to whom terminal payments were made. The cost of the terminal payments based on the current compensation scheme to the Respondents would be £408,793. The bank's provident fund set-off amounts to £55,052 and the NSSF set-off amounts to £27,437. The Court was assured by the Respondents' spokesman that no employee affected would find that his compensation benefits are completely set off by the provident fund and NSSF deductions. In fact every employee affected would definitely get a reasonable amount, if not more, over and above his provident fund and NSSF contributions.

The Court has very thoroughly examined the ingenious arguments which have been put forward by the Claimants but finds that there is not enough merit in them to persuade the Court to make an award in their favour. The simple fact of the matter is that all the banks in the country, of their own volition in order to fulfil their past promises, have initiated a common scheme for compensating their non-citizen employees who would be losing their employment through the operation of the Immigration Act 1967. In that scheme they have laid down a formula for working out compensation which includes the condition that the banks' contribution to the provident fund and NSSF would be set off against the employee's entitlement under this scheme. The Court finds nothing unreasonable in this. In fact were the Court to find otherwise it might work as a deterrent to other good employers who might be thinking of initiating schemes for compensating their non-citizen employees in the same predicament as those in the banks. The Court must point out that—

- this scheme is an ex gratia scheme;
- the banks, including the Respondents, were under no legal or contractual obligation to have such a scheme; and
- if the scheme has now become a legal right then the Court cannot see in what manner the Respondents are committing a breach in respect thereof because the set-off is part of the said scheme.

Finally the Court is confronted with a request by the Claimants that it should vary this scheme but in view of the foregoing reasons and circumstances and considering the fact that the cost of terminal payments to the Respondents is already £408,793 the Court is not prepared to further burden them with an additional cost of nearly £82,000. Another reason why the Court is not inclined to make any amendment to the scheme in respect of the Respondents' employees only is that this would break the uniformity of the compensation scheme applicable to all the banks in the country.
