THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE NO 10 OF 1975

Parties —

Kenya Petroleum Oil Workers' Union
and Camoto

Issue in dispute—Reinstatement of eleven people who are wrongfully dismissed by Messrs Camoto

1 The Kenya Petroleum Oil Workers' Union shall hereinafter be referred to as the Claimants and Messrs Camoto shall hereinafter be referred to as the Respondents

2 The parties were heard in Nairobi on 18th July and 21st August, 1975, and relied on their written and verbal submissions

AWARD

3 The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 16th December, 1974, was received by the Court on 10th February, along with the statutory certificates from the Minister for Labour and the Labour Commissioner. The parties were invited for a mention before the Judge on 25th February, 1975, when dates for parties' written submissions were arranged and the hearing was fixed for 4th April, 1975. The Claimants, however, did not put in their written submission as arranged with the result that the Court had to fix another hearing date for 29th April 1975. Unfortunately the Claimants failed again to put in their submission in time and the hearing was again deferred and eventually started on 18th July, 1975, and continued on 21st August as stated hereinabove.

The services of some 18 employees of the Respondents were terminated on 16th August, 1974, and the letters of dismissal which were served on all of them read as follows —

"We wish to refer to the circular which was signed by the Acting Joint Aviation Superintendent concerning the change in working hours at the Joint Aviation Depot, Embakasi, which became effective on Wednesday, 14th August, 1974, at 0700 hours

Although you were given a copy of the revised Shift Roster, and a copy posted on the notice board for general information, we regret to note that you have deliberately defied the clear instructions given to you regarding the time of reporting for shift work and the time of departure. By refusing to comply, you have continued to choose your own time which is contrary to the instructions given to you by the Management

The Management cannot accept an employee who defies the company's rules and regulations. We are therefore forced to terminate your services summarily with effect from the date of this letter."

Seven of the 18 employees involved were subsequently re-employed on tendering letters of apology. The remaining eleven who refused to do so remained dismissed and the Claimants took up the matter on their behalf.

The particulars of these employees appear below —

Name	Company	Designation	Length of service
Abwao Okoth	Caltex	Fuel hand	Years 22½
Alexander Swin	"	"	3½
Peter Muchiri	"	Driver	18
Nelson Nyadimo	"	"	13½
Mutua Maako	"	"	17½
Benjamin Mukewa	Total	"	12½
Mbari Mwaniki	"	"	15½
Muthamam Kyanguti	Mobil	"	11
Geoffrey Gitungo	"	"	1½
George Kamau	"	"	1½
Peter Kigunyū	Agip	"	1½

Mr Alexander Swin whose name appears as number 2 in the above list and has only three and a half years of service was the shopsteward at the material time and played a very important role in the events that culminated in the dismissal of these employees.

The matter was reported to the Minister for Labour as a dispute and the then Senior Labour Officer, Nairobi C. A. Agengo was appointed as an investigator. The Chief Industrial Relations Officer forwarded his findings and recommendation to the parties based on Mr Agengo's investigation on 3rd December, 1974.

The Court has gone through the investigation report and must place on record that Mr Agengo did indeed carry out a thorough investigation into this dispute. His report was placed before the Court as an appendix to the Respondents' submission.

The relevant part of Mr Agengo's findings is reproduced below —

"After careful examination of the circumstances surrounding the case, there is no evidence to indicate that the Management's action in changing the shift roster was uncalled for. In fact, it has been established that it was not only necessary but essential as the airlines had changed their flight times. What was therefore needed here was co-operation of all those involved to ensure that the planes were serviced in time without delays. There is no evidence to indicate that the instructions given to the workers were unlawful. If there was any fault in the shift roster, the workers were given ample opportunity to put up their suggestions which they failed to do.

It has also been pointed out that it was not a negotiable issue. This being the case, it is not understood why the employees refused to work a new shift roster as required by the Management.

The employees' action was therefore a direct refusal of a lawful order and the Management's action in dismissing them was justified.

Despite this justifiable dismissal, the Management offered to employ them, nine of them accepted the offer but the remaining eleven refused. They are therefore only to blame themselves for the loss of their employment."

The Claimants are alleging that the aforesaid eleven employees were wrongfully dismissed by the Respondents because these employees had every right to resist moves by the Respondents when they contravened express provisions of the Collective Bargaining Agreement existing between the parties. Their argument was that the new shift roster which the Respondents sought to impose on the workers violated the Collective Bargaining Agreement because the Respondents have no right under the said Agreement to exceed the 45 hours a week limit without consulting and obtaining the consent of the Claimants.

Further the Claimants submitted that it was implied in the Collective Bargaining Agreement that the parties' intention was that the hours of work issue shall be negotiable and considering all the circumstances of the dispute the Respondents had acted unreasonably in terminating the services of the aforesaid eleven employees.

It is common ground that in July, 1974, one of the oil companies namely Mobil Oil Kenya Ltd won a contract to service domestic and international flights of the East African Airways Corporation. In terms of work volume this contract imposed an additional work load in the existing schedule and this called for immediate reorganization of the shift schedules.

The Respondents carried out a preliminary study and found it absolutely necessary to reschedule the shifts in order to accommodate the additional refueling requirements. A new shift roster was produced to meet the operational requirements of the pool at the Nairobi Airport and it was intended to be effective from 5th August, 1974.

At this stage the Court would like to refer to clause 2-5 (a) and (b) of the Collective Bargaining Agreement regarding hours of work which relates to non shift employees and shift employees. Clause 2-5 (b) covering shift employees reads as follows —

"Shift employees

The average working week for shift employees shall be 45 hours. Such shift employees shall be allocated by the companies to a roster of shifts to meet local requirements. It is recognized that because of the incidence of shift rosters the rest day of such employees may not coincide with the normal rest day of Sunday.

In order to ensure continuity of operations all shift employees shall remain on duty until relieved by the succeeding shift or until permitted by the Supervisor in charge to leave."

The Court notes that whereas in the case of non shift employees it is clearly stated that companies may change the working hours arrangement to meet operational requirements by giving the Claimants one month's notice of decision to make a change, there is no such provision in the case of shift employees.

Nevertheless there is evidence to show that the employees, the shopsteward and the Claimants were all in turn given opportunity by the Management to put forward their views if any on the new shift roster.

The Court would like to make it clear that it is entirely a Management prerogative to organize its undertaking in the manner it deems most fitted to serve the operational needs at the time. The workers have no say in such reorganization and it is their duty to obey instructions and do the work as instructed.

It is most unfortunate that the Claimants allowed the shopsteward, Mr A Swin, to have meetings with the Management without a national official being present particularly the General Secretary, because it is obvious that the shopsteward was determined not to accept and work according to the new shift roster. In fact Mr Swin went as far as to write the following note to the Management on 13th August, 1974 —

‘Mr Ndungu John,

Please send back these shift rosters to the Management

The hours imposed are unworkable

We shall report at work as usual”

There is evidence to show that the General Secretary was given two copies of the new shift roster and although the General Secretary had asked for further meetings to discuss the matter the General Secretary surprisingly was busy on other official functions and was unable to attend them when the time came.

At the meetings which were attended by the shopsteward the pros and cons of the matter were discussed and the Management were at great pains to explain the reasons for the new shift rosters but were told by the shopsteward that the employees had made up their minds not to work in accordance with the revised hours but he refused to give his reasons at the unworkable nature of the new hours and insisted that the existing hours should be adhered to. Another meeting was arranged to enable the General Secretary to come into the picture but once again he was busy and could not attend and all the previous arguments were again gone over.

The Court notes that although the new shift schedule was intended to be operative from 1st August, 1974, because of the incidents that took place between the workers the shopsteward and the Management it was deferred and eventually the Management decided to notify all the employees that the change in working hours in accordance with the new schedule would be effective from 14th August, 1974. A circular letter dated 12th August, 1974, was addressed to each individual worker with a copy posted on the notice board for general information. These were all collected by the shopsteward and thrown back at the Aviation Superintendent along with the note which is reproduced hereinabove.

The Respondents’ main submissions in brief are that—

- “(a) staff regulations and Civil Aviation regulations were deliberately violated
- (b) Management’s instructions violated,
- (c) workers went to Apron in their fancy clothes refusing to wear uniforms up to 16th August, 1974, during which time they refused to be picked up from their homes, reported in and walked out from their work places as they chose,
- (d) the services had to be taken over temporarily by senior members of staff from member companies—head offices,
- (e) that on 16th August, 1974, there was no alternative but the 18 disobedient workmen had to be dismissed by their respective companies individually, and
- (f) that despite an open deadline for re-employment up to 28th August, 1974, only seven out of 18 employees accepted the offer leaving out 11 dismissed workmen who were adamant and had since been replaced by new recruits”

The Court notes that all the employees involved in this dispute were engaged in the aviation services provided by the Respondents at the Nairobi Airport and that they were engaged in an Essential Service as classified in the Trade Disputes Act (hereinafter referred to as the Act). The provisions of the Act relating to Essential Services are very clearly set out in sections 27-34 in the Act.

There is no gainsaying that the National Assembly had good and solid reasons for requiring workers engaged in Essential Services to exhaust the laid down machinery before resorting to either withdrawal of labour or any other action arising out of any dispute they may have with the management.

The Court had the benefit of comparing the new shift roster and the old one in addition to hearing the parties’ detailed comments in respect thereto. The Respondents admitted that in their new schedule there was a typographical error which had resulted in one hour being shown as extra work but this had been pointed out to the workers and had subsequently been amended.

The Court has come to the conclusion that the workers were not being required to do more than 45 hours per week according to the new schedule. In any case if there was any extra work involved the workers were entitled to be fully compensated for that such extra work under the overtime entitlement.

The Court was told by the Claimants that once on a previous occasion the Respondents had committed a breach of faith in that they had refused to pay overtime to workers after having agreed to do so. The Court does not attach any weight to this statement first because no evidence was produced setting out the exact circumstances of this incident and secondly there was nothing to prevent the Claimants from taking up the matter on behalf of the workers and pressing their claim before the Industrial Court. In fact this is precisely what the workers should have done under the circumstances which have led to the present dispute. They should have started working according to the new schedule and then if they had any legitimate grievances they should have asked the Claimants to process them on their behalf with the Respondents and failing that the matter could have come to the Industrial Court.

Unfortunately these workers in the heat of the moment allowed themselves to be seriously misled. To make matters worse in such an important matter the General Secretary of the Claimants found himself too busy with some other work and allowed the same shopsteward to have discussions with the Management.

As has been set out hereinabove most of the workers have rendered long services to the Respondents but allowed themselves to be misled by a person who had only 3½ years’ service. The Court is of the view that these senior workers should have known better and should have allowed the Claimants to process their grievances. They know well that their Union is a powerful Union.

The Court is satisfied that these workers did defy the Management instructions in that they reported for duty according to their own time and left as they liked. They avoided to be picked up from their homes and simply walked out of the Depot and Apron when they wished. In fact there was a complete breakdown of discipline and the Management had no control over them.

The Court cannot condone such behaviour in any industry, leave aside an Essential Service.

This is indeed a sad case because the employees involved had long services with the Respondents but with all the goodwill that the Industrial Court has for the workers in the country, in this case the Court would be failing in its duty to the country if the Court was to allow these workers to get away with such high handed acts of indiscipline in an Essential Service.

The Court must uphold and maintain discipline amongst the workers in the country because without such discipline and total dedication by the workers to their respective undertakings, little, if any, progress can be expected. Lack of discipline can easily lead to chaotic conditions with the consequent loss not only to the undertaking but to the economy of the country as a whole.

After careful consideration of all the submissions the Court finds that the Respondents have not violated any provisions of the Collective Bargaining Agreement and that the workers were completely unjustified and most unreasonable in their conduct when the new work schedule was introduced at the Nairobi Airport.

The Court finds that the Respondents dismissed these employees with full justification and that these employees have no one to blame for having lost their jobs except themselves the shopsteward Mr Alexander Swin and the Claimants’ national officials who did not give the attention which this dispute merited in its very early stages.

The Court therefore rejects the Claimants’ demands.

THE TRADE MARKS ACT

(Cap 506)

NOTICE is hereby given that any person who has grounds of opposition to the registration of any of the trade marks advertised herein according to the classes may, within 60 days from the date of this Gazette, lodge notice of opposition on Form T M No 6 (in duplicate) together with a fee of Sh 50

Notice is also hereby given that official objection will be taken under rule 21 (3) to all applications in which the specification claims all the goods included in any class unless the Registrar is satisfied that the claim is justified by the use of the mark which the applicant has made, or intends to make if and when it is registered. Where an applicant considers that a claim in respect of all the goods included in a class can be justified it will save unnecessary delay in examining applications if a claim is filed simultaneously with the application, accompanied in appropriate cases by supporting documents

The period for lodging notice of opposition may be extended by the Registrar as he thinks fit and upon such terms as he may direct. Any request for such extension should be made to the Registrar so as to reach him before the expiry of the period allowed

Formal opposition should not be lodged until after reasonable notice has been given by letter to the applicant for registration so as to afford him any opportunity of withdrawing his application before the expense of preparing the notice of opposition is incurred. Failure to give such notice will be taken into account in considering any application by an opponent for an order for costs if the opposition is uncontested by the applicant

Where it is stated in the advertisement of the applicant that the mark, upon its registration, is to be limited to certain colours, the colours are, as far as possible, indicated in the accompanying representations of the mark in the usual heraldic manner

Representations of the marks advertised herein can be seen at the Trade Marks Registry, State Law Office, Nairobi

Applications for registration in Part A of the Register are shown with the official number unaccompanied by any letter. Applications for Part B are distinguished by the letter B prefixed to the official number
