GAZETTE NOTICE NO 2624

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE No 26 OF 1975

Parties —

Kenya Union of Commercial Food & Allied Workers
and

Distributive & Allied Trades Association

Issues in dispute —

- 1 Payment of overtime after six hours worked
- 2 Wages
- 3 Effective date

1 The Kenya Union of Commercial Food & Allied Workers shall hereinafter be referred to as the Claimants and Distributive & Allied Trades Association shall hereinafter be referred to as the Respondents

2 The parties were heard in Nairobi on the 3rd day of July 1975, and relied on their written and verbal submissions

AWARD

3 The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 14th February, 1975, was received by the Court on 29th April, along with the statutory certificate signed by the Labour Commissioner

The parties had appeared previously before the Industrial Court in Cause No 12/73 when the issues in dispute were hours of work, overtime, sorting charges, effective date and duration

At that time the Court conducted a full hearing and the Respondents also called a witness from the Cargo Handling Services, one Mr Aggrey Amon particularly on the issue of overtime and hours of work.

In the present dispute issue No 1—payment of overtime after six hours worked—is substantially the same as in Cause No 12/73 Since 1967 when the parties entered into an agreement through conciliation on the question of overtime and the subsequent interpretation of that particular clause the workers are entitled to be paid overtime for any time worked between 12 noon and 1400 hours regardless of the total number of hours they may have worked or may be required to work

It was agreed that overtime worked in excess of the normal number of hours per day should be paid for at a certain rate per hour The subsequent interpretation required an employee to work in excess of six hours before he could qualify for overtime Soon thereafter shopstewards objected to the practice and demanded that the workers should be paid overtime for work done between 12 and 2 p.m The Respondents agreed to this because there was a total withdrawal of labour in that all gangs ganged together and totally refused to work during the lunch break

In its award in Cause No 12/73 the Court, while rejecting the Respondent's demand that the workers should not be entitled to overtime if they work between 12 and noon if by that time they have not completed six hours of work, made the following remarks —

"The Court has carefully considered the difficulties which have been put forward by the Respondents on these issues and has come to the conclusion that the question of maximum utilization of the Port working arrangements is tied to all the Port users and not only the Respondents' members who employ the casual workers The Respondents' witness quite clearly stated that the Port authorities would like the godowns to operate three shifts to match the working at the Port yet the Respondents, apart from saying that they had to pay overtime rates for work done after four hours or sometimes only two hours work did not elaborate their plans to meet the desire of the Port authorities to use its facilities to the maximum other than to say that they could not engage another gang after 4 p.m., as the workers objected.

In any case the Court feels that this change of hours which were established through conciliation should not be disturbed in isolation and is a matter of such great importance that it should be approached by all the Port users to utilize the Port facilities to the maximum.

During the present hearing the Respondents have repeated their same demand as stated above and have linked it with the percentage increase which they have offered on wages.

At the meeting of 14th March, 1974 between the parties interesting discussion took place on this item when the Respondents rejected the Claimants' suggestion that working hours be from 0700 to 1300 hours. The Respondents also stated that they were unable to accept the Claimants' proposed increase on casual labour rates of 18 per cent. The Claimants eventually reduced their proposal to 15 per cent but the Respondents insisted that they would accept a 15 per cent increase provided it was linked with the Claimants' acceptance of the principle of 6 hours of work before payment of overtime. After further discussion regarding the starting and finishing time the parties recorded deadlock.

The Court cannot find any fresh evidence in the present dispute which would persuade it to change its earlier decision given in Cause No. 12/73. The Respondents should realize that any interference in the existing practice can easily result in the same situation as they encountered once before when there was just no casual labour available to work between 12 and 2. The Court advises the parties to seriously examine this problem and find a mutually acceptable answer.

After careful consideration of all the submissions the Court awards that the present practice regarding overtime payment for work done between 12 and 2 should continue and the Respondents' demand is accordingly rejected.

In the analysis that was carried out at the Court's request by the Employment Promotion Division it is stated as follows —

'The latest date of revision of wages appears to be 1st November 1972 when the Court Award on Cause No. 12/73, became effective for a period of 18 months. Since that date the costs of living have gone up by 47.5 per cent up to the month of May, 1975 for which the official figures are available. This figure would appear to be the maximum ceiling for compensation with reference to Guideline (iv) which compensation should be given to lowest paid workers. From the rates stipulated in Appendix A (1) of the Respondents' submission it would appear that the employees belong to the said category.'

After careful consideration of all the submissions the Court awards that the present rates of wages should be increased by 15 per cent with effect from 1st May 1974, the parties having already agreed at a duration period of two years.

The Court paid particular attention to the Respondents' statement that any backdating will be impossible because no records of casual employees were kept. The Court, however, has decided to reject this argument and awards the effective date to be 1st May, 1974.

1 The Kenya Chemical Workers' Union shall hereinafter be referred to as the Claimants and Sterling Products International Ltd shall hereinafter be referred to as the Respondents.

2 The parties were heard in Nairobi on the 21st day of July, 1975, and relied on their written and verbal submissions.

AWARD

3 The Notification of Dispute Form 'A' dated 11th March, 1975, was received by the Court on 14th May along with the statutory certificate signed by the Labour Commissioner.

The parties entered into a recognition agreement on 18th July, 1974, after a demarcation dispute between the Claimants and the Kenya Union of Commercial, Food & Allied Workers (hereinafter referred to as the Commercial Union).

Prior to this the Respondents had concluded a collective agreement with the Commercial Union effective from 1st July 1971, for a period of 36 months.

The present dispute has arisen as a result of the proposals on a new collective agreement which they submitted to the Respondents on 28th May, 1974. The Respondents gave their counter proposals on 10th July, 1974. Thereafter the parties held a series of meetings and reached agreement on a number of items and on 3rd December, 1974, the Claimants reported a dispute to the Minister for Labour on eight issues. During conciliation the parties settled one other item but recorded deadlock on the remaining seven which are issues in dispute before the Court.

The Claimants have based their demands mainly on the increase in the cost of living which they submitted had risen by 55.6 per cent between July, 1971 to June, 1975.

The Claimants further stated that between the period July, 1971 to July 1973, the workers had been compensated to the extent of 22.5 per cent only leaving a clear case for the workers to be awarded a 33.1 per cent increase.

The Claimants stated that they would be prepared to accept a wage increase of 33.1 per cent for the first year effective from 1st July, 1975, and another increase of 26.2 per cent for the second year as they preferred a two year contract. They based their demand for the second year increase on the anticipated increase in the cost of living.

The Respondents on the other hand pleaded very strongly that due to the economic difficulties faced by their undertaking they could not meet the Claimants' demands and offered a 7½ per cent increase only each year. The Respondents gave certain confidential figures to the Court in support of their submission that their sales had declined considerably and pointed out that they were also in dispute with the Claimants on certain redundancies which had been necessitated as a result of poor business.

The Respondents produced an analysis of wage increases under existing collective agreement for the period 1st July, 1971 to 1st July, 1973, which showed that the workers had received an average increase of 24.5 per cent during that period. They pointed out that this increase taken with their offer would result in the workers getting an increase of about 43.8 per cent from 1st July, 1971.

The Court notes that in the report prepared by the Employment Promotion Division in consultation with the parties at the request of the Court it is stated that from 1st July, 1971 up to June, 1975 the cost of living had risen by 55.6 per cent and since the workers had received an increase of 24.5 per cent as stated hereinabove this left the figure of 35.2 as the maximum increase that could be claimed by the workers.

The Court further notes that the parties have a grading structure and the rates have been specified in respect of each grade. The total number of employees affected by this dispute appears to be over 200. The industry is said to be 60 per cent labour intensive and the labour costs no doubt are a critical factor although it would not necessarily play a decisive role in affecting future profitability and expansion of the Respondents' undertaking.

The number of workers in employment by the Respondents has fluctuated as at one time they had 201 employees which figure increased to 248 going up to 280 then falling off to 263 which is the present figure of their total number of employees.

After careful consideration of all the submissions and having due regard to the Guidelines which have been issued by the Minister for Finance to the Industrial Court, the Court awards a wage increase of 15 per cent to all those employees who are earning Sh 600 or less and 10 per cent increase to all others. These increases would be for the first year and the employees shall be awarded further increases for the second year as follows—

15 per cent increase to all those who are then earning Sh 690 or less and

10 per cent increase to all others

The Court further awards that the existing rates for the various grades should also be increased by the aforesaid percentages

2 Annual paid leave—The Court awards that the present arrangements should be amended to the extent that employees with less than five years' service shall be entitled to 21 working days and those with more than five years' service shall be entitled to 24 working days annual paid leave

3 Injury by accident—The Court has taken due note of and considered the Claimants' submissions on this issue in that the present Workmen's Compensation Act was enacted during colonial days and that therefore workers should be entitled to higher benefits than provided for under the Act

The Court, however, believes that there is substance in the Respondents' argument that at present the employers had entered into insurance arrangements to cover their liability under the Workmen's Compensation Act and any departure from such arrangements would be a serious burden on the employers

After careful consideration of all the submission the Court awards that the relevant provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Act should be followed for the duration of the collective agreement

4 Gratuity/service benefits—During the hearing the demand under this issue was clarified to be in respect of female employees only as the Claimants pointed out that the female workers were not affected by the National Social Security Fund (NSSF) which had commenced in July, 1966, and although moves were in hand to extend the NSSF to cover the females as well the fact remained that they would have no gratuity or service benefits in respect of their service prior to the commencement of their contributions to the Fund

After careful consideration of all the submissions and particularly taking into account the Respondents' financial situation the Court has decided to reject this demand

5 Safari allowance—The Court awards in terms of the Respondents' offer as contained on page 10 of their written submissions with amendment to clause (a) (i) (ii) and (iii) as follows—

(a) where an employee is required to perform work away from his principal area of employment, he shall be entitled to be paid subsistence allowance as follows—

(i) for any such period of duty exceeding six hours but less than ten, Sh 15,

(ii) for any such period of duty exceeding ten hours and not including an overnight stop, Sh 20,

(iii) for any such period of duty exceeding twelve hours and including overnight stop, Sh 40

6 Maternity benefits—The Claimants have made a strong plea on behalf of the 50 employees affected by this issue that they should be accorded the same maternity benefits as had been announced by H.E. the President in respect of female civil servants

The Respondents on the other hand pointed out that it was currently being discussed to extend the NSSF benefits to cover maternity leave once females commence to contribute to the Fund. The Court is satisfied that this matter is before the NSSF Advisory Council

After careful consideration of all the submission the Court awards as follows—

A female employee may be entitled to 12 weeks unpaid maternity leave in any period of 12 months. However, such female employee shall be entitled to the balance of her sick leave up to a maximum of 30 days with full pay and 30 days with half pay in any period of twelve months

In making this award the Court would like it to be clearly understood by the parties that this is only an interim award and the parties would be at liberty to make further submissions on this issue in light of the events that take place during the life of the current collective agreement

7 Effective date and duration of Agreement—The Court awards that the effective date of the agreement should be 1st April, 1975, and that it should remain in force for a period of two years from that date

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE No 35 of 1975

Parties —

Amalgamated Union of Kenya Metal Workers
and

J. S. Davies & Co (K) Ltd

Issue in dispute —

Termination of employment of Mr. Munyao Nzioka

1 The Amalgamated Union of Kenya Metal Workers shall hereinafter be referred to as the Claimants and J. S. Davies & Co (K) Ltd shall hereinafter be referred to as the Respondents

2 The parties were heard in Nairobi on the 31st day of July, 1975, and relied on their written and verbal submissions

AWARD

3 The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 28th February, 1975, was received by the Court on 21st May along with the statutory certificates signed by the Minister for Labour and the Labour Commissioner

Mr. Munyao Nzioka's services were terminated by Respondents vide a letter dated 18th June, 1974, in which they informed him that his services were no longer required and his services were being terminated in accordance with clauses 10 and 14 of the collective agreement between the parties

He was paid a sum of Sh 1,146/25 which included pay for days worked up to 18th June, 1974, accrued leave, one month's pay in lieu of notice and ex-gratia payment being the equivalent of 10 days pay for every completed year of service and pro rata leave travelling allowance

Mr. Nzioka had been in employment since 1969 as a watchman. In June, 1973, he lodged a claim against the Respondents for an overtime claim in respect of 9,516 excessive hours worked by him during the period of three years preceding. This particular claim was a subject matter of dispute before the Industrial Court in Cause No 57/73 and as a result of the Court award in which the Chief Industrial Relations Officer was directed by the Court to work out the overtime dues to which Mr. Nzioka was entitled in accordance with the Court's award Mr. Nzioka was paid a sum of Sh 1,271/25. This amount was lodged by the Respondents with the Ministry of Labour on 11th April, 1974

The Claimants took up the matter of his termination and having reported a trade dispute to the Ministry of Labour, the Chief Industrial Relations Officer forwarded his findings and recommendations to the parties in the following terms—

Findings—It is not disputed that the Management invoked relevant clauses in the parties' Collective Agreement in deciding to terminate the services of Mr. Nzioka. However, it is quite strange and unfair that an employee of that period of service and, apparently with quite a clean-record, should have his services terminated without any explanation from the Management. It is natural justice that an employee should have whatever shortcomings to his/her attention for record and necessary action, if any

The termination of services of Mr. Nzioka followed closely on the claim of arrears of underpayment by the Ministry of Labour on a complaint from the Union. It is conceivable and reasonable to infer that this claim prompted the plight of Mr. Nzioka. In the circumstances the termination was wrongful and unjustified

Recommendation—In view of the above I recommend that Mr. Nzioka be reinstated into his employment without loss of wages or any other benefits or else he be paid six months' salary as compensation for loss of earnings

The Claimants are seeking either an unconditional reinstatement of Mr Nzioka or full compensation amounting to 12 months' wages for his wrongful termination on the grounds that he had been clearly victimized by the Respondents because of the aforesaid Industrial Court award in Cause No 57/73 under which the employers had to pay him the amount as stated above. Moreover, they alleged that the Respondents had not followed the warning procedure which appears in Clause 12 of the Collective Agreement.

The Respondents on the other hand dubbed the Claimants submission as mischievous because Mr Nzioka had been offered a sum of Sh 2,500 by the Respondents prior to the Industrial Court proceedings in Cause No 57/73 and in fact the Respondents were quite satisfied with the Industrial Court award.

The Respondents maintained that Mr Nzioka was not performing his duties properly because apart from a major burglary which had taken place on 21st April, 1973, in which they suspected Mr Nzioka of complicity in theft they had continued to lose property which Mr Nzioka was supposed to guard.

The Respondents stated that after terminating Mr Nzioka's services they were paying a security firm an average of Sh 1,000 p.m. for each watchman instead of Sh 379/50 they were paying to Mr Nzioka and if what the Claimants stated was to be believed then this would amount to a case of someone cutting his nose to spite his face. The Respondents stressed that his services were terminated for poor performance and unreliability as a watchman.

The Court is satisfied that the Respondents have not victimized Mr Nzioka for the Industrial Court proceedings regarding his overtime claim. It is obvious that the Respondents in fact were financially at an advantage as they had offered Mr Nzioka a sum of Sh 2,500 prior to the Court award. And now they are incurring an expenditure of Sh 1,000 p.m. instead of Sh 379/50. The Court believes that the Respondents had legitimate grounds for terminating Mr Nzioka's services for poor performance and unreliability as a watchman.

Having made this finding the Court would now like to examine if the Respondents terminated his services properly.

The Court notes that the Respondents relied on having discharged their contractual obligations as specified in the collective agreement but clearly they have not exhausted the warning procedure as specified in the same collective agreement. The Court would like to draw the parties' attention to the remarks made by the Court in Cause No 4/75 between the Claimants and Firestone E.A. (1969) Ltd —

"The Court would like to point out that the warning procedure in the collective agreement which the Unions in the country have won during negotiations and through the Industrial Court awards in the collective agreements is meant to cater for this type of case where an employee is alleged to be careless or approaches his work with an attitude of 'couldn't care less'. The employee in these circumstances certainly is not guilty of gross misconduct and it is the employer's duty to point out to the worker concerned his faults in his work performance and if after the stipulated warnings he still does not improve then they can summarily dismiss him."

The Court would further like to reiterate the Court's views regarding the claim of an employer that once he has complied with his contractual obligations then that is the end of the matter and the worker has no further remedy. The Court would like to refer to the following part of its award in Cause No 23/72 between the Kenya Union of Commercial Food & Allied Workers and K.C.C. Ltd —

"If it is found by the Court that the termination is in fact founded on misconduct, negligence, or inefficiency then the Court must find out if the facts support the allegation made against the worker. In such cases, the Court will not, however, easily set aside the Management's decision. It will interfere only—

- 1 when there is want of good faith,
- 2 when there is victimization or unfair labour practice,
- 3 when the management has been guilty of a basic error or violation of principles of natural justice, and
- 4 when on the materials the findings is completely baseless or perverse.

Once the Court comes to the conclusion that it must interfere in the Management's decision to terminate a worker's services then it naturally follows that the termination was not justified and was wrongful. The Court must add that in this context there is no material difference in the words 'termination' and 'dismissal'.

"The Court is then empowered to make necessary orders in accordance with the new section 9A of the Trade Disputes Act which was passed by Parliament last year.

The Court would like to state that were it to accept the Respondents' submission on this point then every employer would get rid of unwanted workers by giving them the agreed notices of termination. This would make a mockery of the whole industrial relations machinery and plunge industry into serious confrontation with the trade unions."

After careful consideration of all the submissions the Court finds that whereas the Respondents had cause for terminating the services of Mr Nzioka they defaulted in not following the warning system specified in the collective agreement. They are therefore technically in breach of their contractual obligations and also the practice of industrial relations system. Mr Nzioka has therefore suffered a wrongful dismissal.

The Court awards that Mr Nzioka should be paid an additional sum of Sh 1,516 being his four months' salary by way of compensation for the wrongful dismissal that he has suffered. This includes the additional one month's notice to which he is entitled and which fact was conceded by the Respondents.

NOTICE is hereby given that any person who has grounds of opposition to the registration of any of the trade marks advertised herein according to the classes may, within 60 days from the date of this Gazette, lodge notice of opposition on Form T.M. No 6 (in duplicate) together with a fee of Sh 50.

Notice is also hereby given that official objection will be taken under rule 21 (3) to all applications in which the specification claims all the goods included in any class unless the Registrar is satisfied that the claim is justified by the use of the mark which the applicant has made, or intends to make if and when it is registered. Where an applicant considers that a claim in respect of all the goods included in a class can be justified it will save unnecessary delay in examining applications if a claim is filed simultaneously with the application, accompanied in appropriate cases by supporting documents.

The period for lodging notice of opposition may be extended by the Registrar as he thinks fit and upon such terms as he may direct. Any request for such extension should be made to the Registrar so as to reach him before the expiry of the period allowed.

Formal opposition should not be lodged until after reasonable notice has been given by letter to the applicant for registration so as to afford him any opportunity of withdrawing his application before the expense of preparing the notice of opposition is incurred. Failure to give such notice will be taken into account in considering any application by an opponent for an order for costs if the opposition is uncontested by the applicant.

Where it is stated in the advertisement of the applicant that the mark, upon its registration, is to be limited to certain colours, the colours are, as far as possible, indicated in the accompanying representations of the mark in the usual heraldic manner.
