GAZETTE NOTICE No 2017

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE No 40 OF 1968

Parties —

Kenya Union of Commercial Food and Allied Workers and
Kenya Bankers (Employers) Association

INTERPRETATION

1 The Respondents made an application for interpretation of the Court's award in this cause in respect of the following clauses of the award —

(a) Amendment to recognition agreement—Union representation

(b) Amendment to recognition agreement

(c) Collective agreement

2 The Respondents maintained that their interpretation of the said three items was as follows —

(a) Amendment to recognition agreement—Union representation

The Respondents stated that the existing collective agreement expired at the end of February 1968 although the existing recognition agreement had no expiry date. They recalled that as negotiations to amend the agreement were not successful the matter was referred to the Industrial Court. The Respondents submitted that after the announcement of the Court's award, they set about to draw up new agreements, the drafts of which were sent to the Claimants on 24th January 1969.

They pointed out that although these documents were complicated they did a quick work as the collective agreement was effective from 1st March 1968, and involved a large amount of arrears. The Respondents further stated that they held a meeting on 19th and 20th February 1969 with the Claimants but the Claimants' attitude was not co-operative and they appeared to be bent on going back on previous proceedings. The Respondents informed the Court that they were surprised when they learned on 31st March 1969 that the Claimants had divergent views on the award and refused to sign the new recognition agreement.

The Respondents maintained that in their view, the award was very clear and they hoped that when the matter was resolved the Claimants would sign the two agreements. They referred the Court to a certain paragraph in its own award which reads as follows —

However, as the definitions of these words have been referred to a sub-committee of COTU/FKE the Court rules that unless these definitions are finalized the present Recognition Agreement should remain in force.”

The Respondents stated that as the COTU/FKE had not met, these definitions could not be altered. They submitted that there was a difference of opinion on what the award meant, although to them it was very clear but the Claimants were trying to twist it.

The Respondents submitted that the Court had made it very clear in its award that after both parties had examined in detail the definition of supervisors, in the event of deadlock, the matter should be brought up as a fresh dispute before the Court. They pointed out that this could only happen when these definitions are finalized by the COTU/FKE otherwise the existing provisions as regards Union representation should continue in force.

The Respondents finally requested the Court to rule that their interpretation of the Court's award on this point was correct and the Claimants' interpretation was incorrect.

(b) Amendment to recognition agreement

The Respondents submitted that this interpretation related to clause 25 of the recognition agreement which was currently in force between them and which is reproduced herebelow —

“This agreement shall come into force on the 3rd day of August 1962

“Any clause of this agreement may be revised, altered or rescinded as a result of negotiations between the Association and the Union, subject to 30 days' notice being given in writing by either party of the proposed variation, alteration or amendment, and provided such amendments and alterations are mutually agreed by both parties.”

The Respondents stated that they could not agree with the Claimants' interpretation whereby they wanted this clause to read as follows —

In the event that there is no mutual agreement both parties agree that the issue in dispute should be processed as a trade dispute.”

The Respondents maintained that what the Court had done in its award was to rule that it had jurisdiction to amend the recognition agreement, but it did not amend this clause as it was not an issue in dispute before the Court.

The Respondents therefore requested the Court to state that the award did not in any way amend the wording of clause 25 of the agreement but merely ruled that it had jurisdiction to amend the recognition agreement, i.e. that the Court had jurisdiction to deal with the two items concerning “amendment to recognition agreement” which had been referred to it by the parties.

(c) Collective agreement

The Respondents referred to the first paragraph of the section under the above heading at page 6 of the award which is reproduced herebelow —

“In view of the Court's award given hereinabove under item (1) (a) the Court rules that its award on the following items should apply to such supervisors who, after the matter had been sorted out and settled on the lines indicated by the Court, are accorded the right of representation by the Claimants. In the meantime the award will apply to clerical and subordinate staff only.”

The Respondents submitted that according to their interpretation the Court had ruled that until such times as the question of union representation as it affected supervisors had been sorted out—initially by COTU (K) and FKE and then by the Kenya Bankers (Employers) Association and the Kenya Union of Commercial Food and Allied Workers—the collective agreement should apply to clerical and subordinate staff only.

They stated that their view had been reinforced by the fact that various awards which had been made by the Court in relation to the collective agreement on such items as salaries, length of scales, efficiency bars, annual increments, merit increments, house and housing allowance, local leave and local leave allowance, accumulation of local leave, etc., were all in respect of clerical and subordinate staff only—no mention in any of these individual awards was made to any category of staff other than clerical and subordinate.

The Respondents added that the Claimants refused to accept this interpretation of the award as it affected that particular point and contended that the Court's award laid down that collective agreement should cover supervisors and subordinate staff also. They therefore requested the Court to rule that their interpretation on this point was the correct one and the Claimants' interpretation was incorrect.

In conclusion the Respondents stated that the Claimants' stand was completely frivolous and as far as they were concerned the award was very clear. They submitted that the Claimants were trying to read in the award matters which were not there. They added that the parties had agreed to be bound by the Court's award and that the Claimants were committing contempt of the Court. They finally stated that the Claimants should be rebuked for this situation as it was a waste of Court's time.

SUBMISSIONS BY THE CLAIMANTS

The Claimants submitted that strictly speaking they did not have different interpretation to that of the Respondents on the Court's award. They had refused to sign a new recognition agreement because the existing one continued in force with all the amendments they had agreed. They preferred to wait the outcome on the issue of supervisors before signing a new document. They did not see anything wrong in this.

On the first interpretation sought, they recalled that they had to wait up to the end of March 1969 because COTU/FKE had to settle the matter by then. The Claimants stated that although they had made representations to COTU (K) no action had been taken in the matter so far. The date recommended by the Court, i.e. the end of March 1969, had expired and they only wanted to know what the position now was. They submitted that the Court should now have a fresh hearing on this issue to decide it. The Claimants further stated that as COTU (K) had submitted some names to the FKE as their representatives on the committee to revise the definitions of the words "supervisory", "confidential" and "managerial", the Court should extend the time beyond the one recommended by it in the award.

On the second interpretation the Claimants submitted that they had only put a proposal to the Respondents to bring the recognition agreement in line with the Court's ruling, i.e. that the Court had jurisdiction to amend the recognition agreement.

They further stated that this was not an issue in dispute, it was only a proposal which they could make at any time for the amendment of the recognition agreement. They added that although they agreed with the Respondents that the award was very clear, it did not mean that they should sign a new agreement.

On the third point the Claimants stated that they had all along accepted the Respondents' interpretation but there was no necessity for them to sign an agreement as the terms and conditions were quite clear.

RULING

There does not seem to be much difference between the parties on the interpretation of the three matters which have been referred to the Court by the Respondents in this application.

The Claimants have explained that they had refused to sign a new recognition agreement because they understood that the existing one continued in force with all the amendments that had been agreed between the parties. In any case it was a mere formality which they would rather comply with after the issue of supervisors had been decided. The Court has in the past expressed the view that the parties should as soon as practicable reduce their obligations in writing but in the present dispute elaborate agreements do exist to which minor amendments have been made. Therefore if the Claimants prefer to wait for the one outstanding issue to be finalized before a new agreement is drawn up incorporating all the amendments to date, it does not amount to a negative approach. The Court does not find this attitude to be unreasonable.

It is also to be noted that the Claimants had suggested to the Respondents to amend clause 25 of the recognition agreement in such a way so as to give force to the Court's ruling that it had jurisdiction to amend the recognition agreement. It is only a proposal which the Claimants are entitled to make at any time and which the Respondents would then have to discuss. The Claimants have made it very clear that it was only a proposal subject to discussion and that they were fully aware that it was not an issue in dispute in the present case. Here again, the Court feels that the Claimants' approach is legitimate and the least the Respondents could have done was to discuss it although quite separately from the award in the current dispute.

The Claimants conceded during the hearing of the application that all along they had accepted the Respondents' interpretation on item (c) before the Court under this application but maintained that they were not bound to sign an agreement as the terms and conditions were quite clear. The Court understands the fears of the Claimants on this matter as the Court has previously ruled that the parties are debarred from raising new matters during the lifetime of a valid and binding agreement. In view of the fact that the question and status of supervisors in the banks is a burning issue and the decision in respect of this matter is still pending, the Court rules that the Claimants should not be forced to sign an agreement until this matter has been sorted out.

The most important item in this application is the one relating to the status of supervisors whom the Claimants want to represent. The Court had ruled in its award very clearly that as the definitions of certain categories of workers including "supervisor" had been referred to a subcommittee of COTU/FKE the present recognition agreement should remain in force until such time as the subcommittee completes its work. The Court had also made it clear that after the aforesaid subcommittee had agreed on the definitions or the definitions had been finalized by the Industrial Court, the parties should then get together and examine in details whether the supervisors in the banks fall within it or not. In the event of the parties failing to sort this matter out then it should be brought before the Court as a fresh dispute. The Court had further expressed the hope that the COTU/FKE would finalize the matter before the end of March 1969.

It is quite clear to the Court now that the chances of the definitions of the words "confidential", "directive", "administrative", "representational" and "supervisor" being revised and agreed upon by COTU/FKE are very slim indeed. This manner has been pending since the Court's award in Cause No. 21 of 1966—Kenya Local Government Workers' Union and Nairobi City Council—but no progress seems to have been made in this matter at all. The Court is not prepared to let this matter drag on in this unsatisfactory state as these definitions are causing a lot of difficulty not only in the banks but in various other industries in the country as well. The Court therefore rules that if no definite decision is reached by COTU/FKE on this matter by the end of August 1969 then the Claimants and the Respondents should embark on discussions on the question of Union representation as far as their supervisors are concerned. These discussions will naturally start off by finding an acceptable definition of the word "supervisor" after which a detailed examination will be made to find out whether or not the supervisors in the banks fit into the agreed definition. In the event of a deadlock the matter should be referred to the Ministry of Labour and if still not settled then it should come before the Industrial Court for adjudication as a fresh dispute. The Court is aware that the discussions between the parties and the efforts of the Ministry of Labour officials are not likely to succeed in solving this complex issue but the Court is not prepared to bypass the pre-Industrial Court steps—the parties must go through this procedure and define their demands and offers and their respective attitudes in respect thereto. The Court hopes that during these discussions it will be brought out what work these "supervisors" in the banks actually do.

President

The period for lodging notice of opposition may be extended by the Registrar as he thinks fit and upon such terms as he may direct. Any request for such extension should be made to the Registrar so as to reach him before the expiry of the period allowed.

Formal opposition should not be lodged until after reasonable notice has been given by letter to the applicant for registration so as to afford him any opportunity of withdrawing his application before the expense of preparing the notice of opposition is incurred. Failure to give such notice will be taken into account in considering any application by an opponent for an order for costs if the opposition is uncontested by the applicant.
