THE NATIONAL ENVIRONMENT MANAGEMENT AUTHORITY

ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT ASSESSMENT STUDY REPORT FOR THE PROPOSED KENYA TANZANIA POWER INTERCONNECTION PROJECT: ENVIRONMENT AND SOCIAL IMPACT ASSESSMENT AND RESETTLEMENT ACTION PLAN

INVITATION OF PUBLIC COMMENTS

PURSUANT to regulation 21 of the Environmental Management and Co-ordination (Impact Assessment and Audit) Regulations, 2003, the National Environment Management Authority (NEMA) has received an Environmental Impact Assessment Study Report for the above proposed project.

The proponent; Kenya Electricity Transmission Company (KETRACO) is proposing to put up a 400 kV transmission line extending from Isinya (Kenya) to Singida (Tanzania). The final corridor is about 505 km long with about 90km located in Kenya.

The following are the anticipated impacts and proposed mitigation measures:

Impacts	Mitigation Impacts
Soil quality	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Contractors shall adapt their work schedule to take into account the rainy season; some activities shall be delayed or interrupted during the rainy season. • Maintenance vehicles should remain in identified access roads and ROW to avoid damaging soil and vegetation. • Identify and monitor erosion prone areas. Implement erosion-control measures when required. • Strip and save all available topsoil from within the ROW and all ancillary sites, including burrow pits, and make beneficial reuse for site rehabilitation. • Promote mechanical maintenance techniques in ROW, rather than the use of pesticides. • Establish a protocol for pesticides use, storage, and disposal. • Ensure sound management practices for dangerous products and solid wastes.
Surface water quality	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Limit vegetation removal and drainage patterns alteration. • When applicable, remove backfill from the swamps/wetlands when tower erection is completed. • Survey and peg the designed drainage work prior to construction. • Construct all designed drainage works prior to, during or immediately following excavation work in order to minimize erosion. • Inspect all works and ancillary sites for drainage and erosion problems after each major storm events during the period of construction. Repair all failed drains and take other appropriate actions. • Schedule works requiring large areas of soil disturbance or river crossings to avoid the rainy season. • Promote mechanical maintenance techniques, rather than the use of pesticides. • Establish a protocol for pesticide use storage and disposal. • Ensure sound management practices for dangerous products and solid wastes. • Prepare a waste management plan and provide appropriate number of toilets at worksites.

- Identify and monitor erosion prone areas, including access roads' culverts and bridges. Establish and implement erosion-control measures when required such as outlined above.
- Avoid the installation of towers in or immediately adjacent to river banks to reduce the potential for soil erosion into the stream.
- All necessary measures should be undertaken to prevent earthworks from impeding cross drainage at rivers/streams, irrigation canal, etc.
- Install culverts or bridges for temporary and permanent access roads.
- Upgrade existing bridges rather than construct new ones.
- Maintain a vegetation buffer along both sides of watercourse crossings.
- Prohibit construction, operation and maintenance vehicles from driving in watercourses.
- Carry out regular maintenance on all vehicles and other machinery used for construction.
- Confine vehicle maintenance to specific areas designed to contain any spill of fuel or lubricant.
- Ensure that construction, operation and maintenance teams have access to a spill kit at all times.
- Collection, storage and disposal at authorized facilities of waste petroleum products and used oils.
- Protection of natural vegetation along the ROW and access roads.
- Protection of stockpiles of friable material subject to wind erosion with a barrier, windscreen or vegetation.
- Cover loads of friable material during transportation.
- Restrict speed on loose surface roads to 25 km/h during dry or dusty conditions.
- Enforce vehicle load restrictions to avoid excess emissions from engine overloading.
- Where practical, turn off engines when not in use.
- Prohibit uncontrolled burning of woody and plant debris within the ROW.
- Restrict construction and maintenance activities to daylight hours.
- Maintain machinery and vehicles in order to minimize noise and gas discharge. Undertake regular inspections to confirm that appropriate maintenance is performed.
- Limit construction to a period as short as possible.
- Provide workers in the vicinity of loud noise with earplugs and limit their exposure.

Air and noise

Natural habitats and wildlife

- Minimize vegetation clearing.
- Adjust tower location and span length to minimize the need for tree removal and trimming along forest edges.
- Avoid construction of the transmission line through wetlands and span wetlands whenever possible.
- Where it is not possible to completely avoid wetlands, the use of mats and wide-track vehicles when crossing wetlands is preferable.

- Carry out activities during the dry season to minimize disturbance of sensitive soils and problems in flood prone areas.
- Use existing roads for construction and operational access whenever possible.
- Regular control of vehicles to prevent introduction of invasive species.
- Carefully clean construction equipment after working in areas infested with known invasive species.
- Favour mechanical maintenance techniques in ROW rather than the use of pesticides.
- Allow tree and shrub species with limited heights of 5m to grow within the ROW.
- Demarcate the extent of clearing within the approved worksite areas at 50 m intervals or less.
- Identify individual trees for retention along a section within the marked extent of clearing.
- Trees along the ROW should be protected from machinery.
- Rehabilitate ancillary sites as soon as they are not requested anymore.
- Progressively sow all disturbed construction and ancillary site surface with a cover crop mix immediately following final use of each ancillary site.
- In wetlands, staging areas, and/or bird migration corridor, install reflectors on the ground wire at intervals along the line to minimize potential bird collisions.
- In areas of high bird density, use specially-designed towers so that the conductors of the new line are at the same heights as those of the existing line it parallels.
- Implement a bird monitoring program in areas where there is a higher risk of bird strike.
- Survey of endangered species and monitoring of migration corridor use by large mammals and birds.
- Maintain shaded stream areas for aquatic fauna, where possible.
- Devise customized measures targeting specific species and/or habitats, if needed.
- Inform workers about the regulations related to wildlife protection and conservation areas.
- Minimize the number of access roads to the ROW. When possible, proceed to early closing of access roads nearby wildlife and conservation areas.
- Noise should be minimized during construction in order that animals in the neighbouring areas are not chased away and land in the hands of hunters.
- Take into account migratory patterns and prevent construction during specific period if identified.
- Prohibit workers from possessing firearms and other hunting and fishing devices.
- Prohibit wildlife disturbance and poaching.

Land occupation	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Final survey of all affected assets to update the RAP cost estimates prior to payment of entitlements. • Appropriate valuation of the affected properties should be done by the property owner and the PIU. • Based on the valuation reports, provide appropriate compensation before construction is initiated and allow sufficient time for the affected households to transfer or reconstruct structures. • Complete all necessary land and building acquisition in accordance with RAP prior to commencement of any construction works. • Encourage the practice of compatible agricultural activities within the ROW. • Plan maintenance works outside of the growing and grazing season. • Provide compensation of a year of harvesting of the area under cultivation in the ROW to all affected households. In addition, crops that may be removed from land to be temporarily used for construction purposes will have to be compensated on the same basis (cash equivalent to a year of harvesting). • Remove all construction debris and leftovers at the end of construction of each portion of the line. • In order to reduce the impact of the project on land and agricultural production, restrict permanent acquisition of land for the ROW (except for the towers) and favor leasing with restrictions on cultivation practices (forbid trees with potential to grow beyond 5 m at maturity).
Existing infrastructure	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Contractor to implement measures to keep all roads and accesses affected by the work open and not to obstruct traffic flows and existing accesses at all times. • Regular inspection of access road conditions; traffic-related construction damage to be repaired as soon as practical. • Installation of electric cables over roads should be done during non-peak traffic times to reduce impacts on pedestrians, cyclists and cars. • Planning construction activities should be done in collaboration with local authorities and well in advance to ensure minimal traffic interference. • Conduct an inventory of all services that will be disrupted during construction. • Liaise and reach agreement with affected landowners, local authorities, public undertakings and local people regarding services to be maintained, temporarily cut and reinstated, including the timing and location of cuts and reinstatements. • Obtain written permission from affected landowners and local people regarding the temporary cessation of services. • Maintain or provide temporary services during construction, including temporary water supplies. • Progressively reinstate or repair all interrupted services to their previous capacity. • Involvement of local population in
		Cultural properties	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> reconstruction. • Should any archaeological or historic remnants be encountered, construction work should immediately stop along that section, and the relevant authorities should be informed. Any archaeological findings should be reported to the national museum authorities. • Affected cultural sites should be properly compensated and/or relocated in accordance with customs and norms of the communities. • Further investigation about actual locations and ceremonies associated with graves, shrines and other properties should be carried out before project implementation.
		Economic activities	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Adopt procurement policies promoting local products and services, when available. • Final survey of all affected assets to update the RAP cost estimates prior to payment of entitlements. • Based on the valuation reports, provide appropriate compensation before construction is initiated and allow sufficient time for the affected households to transfer or reconstruct structures. • Complete all necessary land and building acquisition in accordance with RAP prior to commencement of any construction works. • Encourage the practice of compatible agricultural activities within the ROW. • Plan maintenance works outside of the growing and grazing season.
		Employment	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Adopt human resources policies favouring local labour involving women effectively. • Adopt procurement policies promoting local products and services, when available. • Adopt policies and procedures that comply with national legislation and as well as the IFC policies. • Form local decision committees composed of members from Maasai clans along the proposed line route for local employment matters.
		Gender, vulnerable and minority groups	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Develop specific employment programs for women, young, poor, and other vulnerable groups. • Establish culturally adapted grievance mechanisms readily accessible to vulnerable groups. • Meet regularly with local community representatives to discuss any community issues related to the project. • Engage with traditional authorities and vulnerable group representatives in the elaboration of RAP. • Encourage the practice of compatible subsistence activities within the ROW. • Prohibit child labour and give priority to women for jobs related to cooking and cleaning services.
		Health and safety	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Educate local population on hazards and safe practices when playing and working near high voltage power lines. • Provide safety equipment to workers. • Install warning signs and anti-climbing devices near construction sites and towers.

- Erect an appropriate number of lighting arrestors.
- Ensure the development of local and regional emergency plans and local major break in case of infrastructure breakdowns, especially near roads or residential areas.
- Monitor and control illegal connections.
- Devise and implement HIV/AIDS prevention program.
- Organize environmental and safety training for employees.
- Preparation of a health and safety plan for workers and impacted communities.
- Education and sensitization of workers and communities on STDs including HIV/AIDS and the dangers associated with construction activities.
- Prohibit child labor.
- Contractor and sub-contractor should use appropriate vehicles and comply with legal gross vehicles and axle load limits.
- Contractor and sub-contractors should minimize road safety hazard and inconvenience to other road users by taking all appropriate measures.
- Design and construct the transmission line in compliance to EMF levels set for occupational and human health exposure.
- Minimize exposure of the general public to EMF by forbidding construction of business, educational or residential building structures in the ROW.
- Incorporate ground wire on top of the line during design to protect the transmission line from lightning strikes by directing lightning ions safely to ground. Lightning is therefore not more likely to strike houses or vehicles close to the transmission line. Shorter objects under or very near the line may actually receive some protection from lightning.
- Forbid members of the public from construction areas.
- Provide emergency fire assembly points at strategic locations, clearly marked.
- Enforcement of maximum load restrictions.
- Enforcement of speed limits.
- Compliance with all relevant applicable laws related to transportation.
- Integration of potential impact on landscape as a key variable in the definition of the corridor route.
- Where possible, straight lines are maximized in order that the need for angle towers, which have a more negative visual impact due to their heavier construction, is minimized.
- Where feasible, the transmission line route is positioned immediately adjacent to the existing 132 kV line, limiting the visual impact to an already disturbed area.
- Way-leave management can also mitigate aesthetic impacts by planting vegetation screens to block views of the line, leaving the way-leave in a natural state and providing wildlife habitats.
- Landscaping all disturbed areas, restoration of all temporary construction work areas.

- Existing tracks will be used for construction and maintenance as much as possible

| Impact on site drainage | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Ensure that storm drainage system remains clear during construction clear . • Any excess soil from the construction site should be dumped at an approved site if it has to be disposed away from the site. • The contractor should re-use the soil excavated from the site to minimize massive movement of soil into or out of the project site. • Design clear drainage system to ensure that the site is properly drained even during the construction period. This will be critical given that the project will be implemented in phases. Poor drainage of the site could to creation of habitats for disease vectors such as mosquitoes and bilharzia. |
| Air Pollution | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Sprinkle water on dusty surfaces. • Place the concrete mixer in well ventilated area. • Ensure the workers wear proper PPEs (including dust masks). • Enclose construction sites to minimize off-site transmission of dust. |
