GAZETTE NOTICE No. 1439

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

Cause No. 68 of 1980

Parties:

Domestic & Hotel Worker's Union
and
Nairobi Christian Centre

Issue in dispute:

Wrongful dismissal of 1. Mrs. Rebecca Mbulu and 2. Mrs. Elizabeth W. Githui.

1. The Domestic & Hotel Workers' Union shall hereinafter be referred to as the Claimants and Nairobi Christian Centre shall hereinafter be referred to as the Respondents.

2. The parties were heard in Nairobi on 4th March and 22nd April, 1981 and relied on their written and verbal submissions. The Respondents also called Mr. A. Mwakyusa to give evidence on oath.

AWARD

3. The notification of dispute Form "A" dated 1st August, 1980 duly signed by the parties was received by the Court on 25th November together with the statutory certificates signed by the Minister for Labour and the Labour Commissioner.

The two ladies involved in this dispute used to work with the Respondents—Mrs. R. Mbulu as a nursery school teacher and then as a headmistress and Mrs. E. W. Githui as a receptionist. Mrs. Mbulu's services were terminated with effect from 22nd April, 1979 and she was told that this was due to recent reports of her dissatisfaction with the Respondents' nursery school.

Mrs. Githui lost her job on 18th July, 1979 and was told that she would be paid one month's pay in lieu of notice in addition to 18 days' salary for the month of July. The reasons for her termination were as follows:

"1. You are again showing great negligence of duties since your first letter of warning dated 4 September, 1978 according to the nursery guidelines, and

2. You have refused to do what the headmistress instructs according to nursery guidelines and

3. You have refused to even accept by hand a letter of warning dated 11th July, 1979."

The Claimants took up the matter on behalf of both of them and reported a trade dispute to the Minister for Labour after which an investigator was appointed to look into the dispute. The Ministry's findings and recommendation were handed out to the parties on 27th May, 1980 and in the case of Mrs. Mbulu the Ministry found that she had been harshly treated and it was recommended that she should be reinstated to her former job as a headmistress without any loss of benefits and her salary should be brought in line with that of the previous headmistress. Further she should be paid half month's pay for the period she had been out of employment.

In the case of Mrs. Githui the finding was against her as it was found that the termination was justified.

During the hearing the Claimants did not call any witness, not even these two ladies, and the Respondents called only one although they had originally given notice of intention to call four witnesses.

At the outset the Court would like to say that the Respondent's only witness, Mr. A. Mwakyusa, did not help their case very much as the Court finds him to be an unsatisfactory witness. To begin with the Court could not ascertain exactly what his position in the nursery school was and on what basis he was insisting that Mrs. Mbulu should give all the fees collection to him instead of handing them direct to the principal, Mr. Harrup. According to this witness there was only one misunderstanding between him and Mrs. Mbulu and he emphasized that there were no other problems between them. This being the case the Court must question the validity of the letter dated 16th March, 1979 which was written to Mrs. Mbulu by Pastor Harrup in which Mrs. Mbulu's probation period was extended by another three months and she was warned that if there are any further serious complaints then they would be grounds for her immediate dismissal. In the last paragraph of this letter it is stated as follows:

"Mrs. Mbulu, this is the most sorrowful kind of letter for me to have to write. You really know how to teach. Your handling of finances has kept on such an even balance of honesty. It's in the area of personal relationships where the improvement really needs to be made. I would hope that this improvement will be made so that you can remain in our employment."

In view of Mr. Mwakyusa's evidence in Court the Court is satisfied that there was no serious problems on the score of Mrs. Mbulu's personal relationship with others in the nursery school. In the written submission and according to Mr. Mwakyusa other teachers had refused to eat the food which was supplied at the school free of charge and opted to go and eat outside. This point, however, was not elaborated as to what caused these teachers to leave the free food and go and spend their own money on meals outside.

The Court has come to the conclusion that Mrs. Mbulu was a competent teacher and honest and the other allegations on which she suffered termination were not at all that serious to warrant it. The Court agrees with the findings of the Ministry of Labour that her termination was wrongful. The Claimants have in addition to a prayer for her reinstatement claimed Sh. 14,810 by way of arrears in respect of acting allowance as they maintained that she should have received the same salary as the former headmistress Mrs. Wainaina who was earning Sh. 1,680 p.m. as against Mrs. Mbulu who was paid initially Sh. 700 and eventually going up to Sh. 1,100 p.m. The Claimants have also asked that she should be paid full salary for the period that she has been out of employment.

The Court has carefully considered the question of reinstatement and finds that it would be neither in the interest of Mrs. Mbulu nor the Respondents to award her reinstatement as it would only lead to a situation which would be detrimental to the efficient running of the nursery school. The Court feels that she should be awarded compensation instead. On the question of compensation, however, the Court is confronted with the Respondents who operate on charities received from their members and is not a profit making organization. In view of this the Court is inhibited from making an award of heavy compensation and the Court therefore awards that Mrs. Mbulu should be paid three months' salary for the wrongful dismissal that she has suffered amounting to Sh. 3,300. This compensation includes one month's salary in lieu of notice.

On the question of Mrs. Mbulu's claim for acting allowance the Court agrees with the Respondents' submission that Mrs. Wainaina's salary of Sh. 1,550 plus Sh. 135 travelling allowance was personal to her as the Respondents did not have any established salary scheme of service for their employees. The Court, however, feels that Mrs. Mbulu who was appointed the acting headmistress and eventually placed on probation as the headmistress does deserve the payment of an acting allowance for the period under review. The Court has assessed this allowance at Sh. 2,000 which should be in addition to the salary increases which Mrs. Mbulu received during the period of her employment. Mrs. Mbulu's total compensation therefore stands at Sh. 5,300 which the Respondents should pay her less any amount already paid in lieu of notice.

Mrs. Githui

The Court is satisfied that Mrs. Githui was in the wrong in refusing to undertake other duties as assigned to her by her employers besides that of a receptionist. The Ministry of Labour investigator found that she was employed as a general clerk to perform general duties at the school and that although her formal letter of confirmation referred to her as a receptionist it was implied that she should perform general duties within the school as there was not much work as a receptionist in the nursery school. The Ministry also found that she took undue advantage of her job description to dictate her own terms as to what she should and should not do.

The Court has gone through the documentary evidence that was relevant to Mrs. Githui's case and has come to the conclusion that she deserved termination. The Court finds that the Claimants have failed to prove that she for some period acted as the headmistress of the school. As there is no merit in the claims made by the Claimants on behalf of Mrs. Githui the Court rejects them and makes a nil award.
