GAZETTE NOTICE No. 1707

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE No. 12 OF 1976

Parties:

Kenya Management Staff Association
and Tippets-Abbott-McCarthy-Stratton

Issue in dispute.—Wrongful termination of Oyuko O. Mbeche.

1. The Kenya Management Staff Association shall hereinafter be referred to as the Claimants and Tippets-Abbott-McCarthy-Stratton shall hereinafter be referred to as the Respondents.

2. The parties were heard in Nairobi on the 8th April, 1976, and relied on their written and verbal submissions. The Claimants called O. O. Mbeche and the Respondents called M. Asin as witnesses.

AWARD

3. The Court received the notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 15th November, 1975, together with the statutory certificates signed by the Minister for Labour and the Acting Labour Commissioner on 23rd January, 1976.

Mr. Oyuko O. Mbeche is a qualified civil engineer having obtained his professional degrees in U.S.A. where he also worked as a civil engineer for 2½ years before coming to Kenya.

In Kenya he worked for two other firms prior to joining the Respondents as a Highway Engineer with effect from 12th May, 1975, at a monthly salary of Sh. 5,500. It was also stipulated in his employment agreement that he would serve a probationary period of three months after which his salary would be adjusted in accordance with his abilities.

In another section of his employment agreement it was stated that the period of employment would be subject to the satisfactory performance of his duties and to the firm's backlog of work.

It is not disputed that he was in regular employment from where he resigned to take up the position with the Respondents after reading about the vacancy in an advertisement in a local paper.

His services were terminated on 3rd July, 1975, and this termination notice read as follows:—

"We regret to inform you that due to the reduction in the firm's backlog of work and non-availability of anticipated highway work, we must issue this termination notice. Your services with this firm will not be required after 4th August, 1975.

At the completion of your employment with this firm, a formal letter of recommendation detailing the assignment on which you have participated, will be furnished.

We appreciate the efforts that you have expended on the tasks to which you have been assigned and hope that it may be possible to place you on future projects as they develop."

This matter was taken up by the Claimants and a dispute was reported to the Minister for Labour who appointed an investigator.

The "findings" of the investigator as conveyed to the parties by the Permanent Secretary were as follows:—

"After a careful consideration of the submissions by both parties, several points come to the fore. Mr. Mbeche assumed that he would take over from his immediate supervisor but the basis of his assumption are not understood. His employer hired him purely on anticipation of further contracts which did not materialise and this in my opinion appears to be the crux of the dispute.

Unfortunate as the foregoing may be, the most important thing is that Mr. Mbeche's employment was terminated during his probationary period. This raises the fundamental question of the purpose of a probationary period in new employment. The purpose of a probationary period is for each party to assess one another with a view to finding out whether (a) the employee is suitable in all respects for the job for which he is hired; and (b) he, the employee is satisfied with the employer, the terms offered to him and such things as the employer's personnel practices. In this case the employer was not satisfied with the employee's performance of his duties and proceeded to terminate his services in accordance with the terms of the contract entered into between the parties. It is considered that the employer acted within his rights and reasonably.

Anybody who changes his employment must realize that the prospect of a better pay or promotion carries the risk of the new employment being terminated during the period of probation.

In the circumstances I am unable to make any recommendation on reinstatement or compensation as demanded by the Association."

The Claimants rejected the above "findings" and stated that someone in the Ministry of Labour had tampered with the original findings of the investigator which they suspected were in their favour. Both the parties requested the Court to go through the relevant Ministry file. This the Court has done.

Since the Claimants made serious allegations against the Respondents that they were frustrating the Government policy on Kenyanization the Court again with the consent of both the parties called for and perused the relevant file from the Kenya-nization of Personnel Bureau.

The Claimants submitted that the Respondents had admitted before the investigator that they were wrong and had agreed to pay Mr. Mbeche such compensation as would be recommended by the Ministry of Labour.

The Claimants also submitted that the Respondents had declared Mr. Mbeche redundant and he was made to suffer a wrongful termination in order to make it easy for the expatriates to continue working in Kenya for the Respondents.

The Claimants asked the Court to award compensation to Mr. Mbeche for loss of career and for wrongful termination.

The Respondents rejected the Claimants' allegations that Mr. Mbeche was victimized in order to secure work permits for expatriates. They stated that the following two unfortunate factors prompted them to terminate Mr. Mbeche's services during his probationary period strictly in accordance with his employment agreement which Mr. Mbeche had properly read and understood before signing.

(1) The Swaziland Highway Project, in anticipation of which Mr. Mbeche had been appointed, was withdrawn by the Kingdom of Swaziland. As a direct consequence of the cancellation of this project the Respondents' work received a serious blow causing a marked decrease in the workload available to their office.

(2) Secondly, it became clear that even though at the time of his hiring, Mr. Mbeche seemed to have sufficient academic background to handle the work which the Respondents had, he could not grasp the scope of the work entrusted to him nor would he make any effort to learn new techniques which they tried to teach him. It was realized that Mr. Mbeche would probably do better as a Transportation Engineer than a Highway Engineer. He could not cope with the duties assigned to him as a Highway Engineer. For example, he could not understand basic elements of Highway Engineering.

To begin with the Court would like to dispose of point (2) as stated above. The Court is satisfied that this allegation has not been proved. In any case it would be inconceivable that a person of Mr. Mbeche's qualifications would have experienced such difficulties in his work performance. This allegation is really an afterthought with which the Respondents are trying to justify the termination of Mr. Mbeche's services once this dispute was reported to the Minister for Labour.

The real reason appears to be the fact that the Swaziland Highway Project did not materialize thus causing a significant decrease in the work available. This is confirmed in the letter of termination.

At this stage the Court would like to revert to the Claimants' complaint that the investigator's findings were altered. This appears indeed to have been the case but the Court like the Permanent Secretary, is of the opinion that the investigator's original findings were based on a complete misdirection on certain important points. The Court has ruled in the past that the Permanent Secretary through the delegation of powers by the Minister has the right to alter the findings and recommendations of an investigator which right however he does not frequently exercise. In this case he had every reason to do so.

On the other topical allegation regarding work permits for the expatriates the Court would like to make it clear that it does not sit as a commission of inquiry into the workings of the Kenyanization of Personnel Bureau. The Court's function is merely to ascertain whether or not there is any truth in the Claimants' allegation that Mr. Mbeche lost his services because an expatriate was brought in his place. After having gone through the relevant file the Court finds that both Mr. Mbeche and the expatriate whom he was understudying lost their employment. The expatriate was sent back to New York from where he has since left the Respondents' employment and Mr. Mbeche's services were terminated here.

The other allegation regarding the Respondents' dishonesty in taking a Ugandan as an understudy for another expatriate without informing the Kenyanization of Personnel Bureau is a separate matter and the Bureau will no doubt take prompt action in the matter to rectify the situation. The expatriate who came here from Vietnam is a Soil Engineer which Mr. Mbeche clearly is not.

The dispute therefore simply is whether or not the Respondents were justified in terminating Mr. Mbeche's services in the circumstances in which they found themselves after their anticipated contracts down south fell through.

The Court would like to make it clear that both an employer and an employee have a right to terminate employment within the probationary period under normal circumstances but when it comes to redundancy then the Trade Disputes Act clearly states that all cases of redundancy shall be subject to the approval of the Industrial Court. It should be noted that employees on probation are not exempt from this provision.

Since the Respondents did not obtain the Court's approval before terminating Mr. Mbeche's services which the Court finds to be on grounds of redundancy the Respondents have terminated his services wrongfully. The Respondents have however, committed a mere technical error.

The Court notes that Mr. Mbeche has already secured another employment although temporary from October, 1975. This job will finish at the end of August this year. On the other hand the Respondents have paid him up to 4th August, 1975.

After careful consideration of all the submissions the Court finds that Mr. Mbeche has suffered a wrongful dismissal and awards that the Respondents should pay him one month's salary by way of compensation.

Notice is also hereby given that official objection will be taken under rule 21 (3) to all applications in which the specification claims all the goods included in any class unless the Registrar is satisfied that the claim is justified by the use of the mark which the applicant has made, or intends to make if and when it is registered. The period for lodging notice of opposition may be extended by the Registrar as he thinks fit and upon such terms as he may direct. Any request for such extension should be made to the Registrar so as to reach him before the expiry of the period allowed.

Formal opposition should not be lodged until after reasonable notice has been given by letter to the applicant for registration so as to afford him any opportunity of withdrawing his application before the expense of preparing the notice of opposition is incurred. Failure to give such notice will be taken into account in considering any application by an opponent for an order for costs if the opposition is uncontested by the applicant.
