THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE No 78 OF 1974

Parties —

Kenya Union of Commercial Food & Allied Workers and
Cadbury Schweppes (K) Limited

Issue in dispute —

Wrongful termination of Mr Fredrick Nyaga

1 The Kenya Union of Commercial Food & Allied Workers shall hereinafter be referred to as the Claimants and Cadbury Schweppes Kenya Limited shall hereinafter be referred to as the Respondents

2 The parties were heard in Nairobi on the 26th day of February, 1975 and relied on their written and verbal submissions

AWARD

3 The Notification of Dispute Form 'A' dated 16th September, 1974, was received by the Court on 13th December, along with the statutory certificates signed by the Minister for Labour and the Labour Commissioner

Mr Fredrick Nyaga was recruited by the Respondents as a prospective management trainee on 1st March, 1969, at a salary of Sh 300 per month. The Court was informed that there were four other management trainees who were recruited at the same time

Mr Nyaga was subjected to a training programme on a rotation basis in various departments and on 7th April, 1972, he was issued with a letter of appointment which Mr Nyaga read and signed stating that he had understood the contents. In this letter of appointment it was provided that he was to serve a three months probationary period during which time his appointment could be determined at any time by either party giving to the other seven days' previous notice in writing. On completion of the probationary period, notice period was to be one month on either side. His salary rate was fixed at Sh 914 per month plus commission if on special route

When the time came for his confirmation after the three months probationary period the Respondents decided that this probation period be extended for a further period of six months. On 10th November, 1972, he received a communication from the Respondents' General Sales Manager which contained the following two paragraphs —

Further to our conversation yesterday morning, I would like to confirm that it has been agreed that your probationary period will end at the end of this month

As I explained, the reason why your probationary period was extended was because I received unfavourable reports on your work from Mr Hashi. All the other four trainees have done extremely well and have all been confirmed in their various departments. But in your case you were somewhat lazy and have not given the various jobs assigned to you your maximum effort."

On 4th January, 1973, it is alleged that he drove a company van without permission via his Nairobi house while on duty. He stopped at his house and went in but left the ignition key in the car with the result that one of the two casual workers who were with him at the time started the car and thus caused extensive damage to another stationary vehicle.

On 19th January 1973, Mr Nyaga's services were terminated and the reason stated in his letter of termination was that the Respondents were dissatisfied with his selling ability which was very unsatisfactory and secondly he had been very careless while driving Respondents' vehicles as a result of which he had caused unnecessary accidents through his negligence.

The Claimants took up the matter on his behalf and after it had been discussed at the Joint Industrial Council level between the parties it was reported as a trade dispute to the Minister for Labour and an Investigator was appointed. On 28th August, 1974, the Permanent Secretary, Ministry of Labour, forwarded his findings and recommendations which were based on the Investigator's report, to the parties.

The Investigator found that in the light of all the available evidence Mr Nyaga's termination of services was wrongful and it was recommended that he should be compensated for wrongful termination by payment of three months' salary in addition to the payment in lieu of notice already made.

The Claimants rejected compensation as they insisted on reinstatement but the Respondents accepted the recommendation on 30th September, 1974.

During the hearing the Claimants insisted on reinstatement as it was quite wrong on the part of the Respondents to have subjected Mr Nyaga to so many probationary periods. They asked the Court to find that on completion of his training it was not necessary for him to be placed on another probationary term.

They also criticized the Respondents for having offered a salary of Sh 300 per month only to a management trainee.

The Claimants strongly submitted that the real reason why Mr Nyaga's services had been terminated was because his immediate superiors wanted to get rid of him as it could not be proved that the accident was caused by Mr Nyaga's negligence and further if it was found that Mr Nyaga had been negligent then as had been the practice in the past, Mr Nyaga should have been asked to make good the loss which the Respondents had suffered rather than impose a termination.

The Claimants were generally in agreement with the Investigator's report except that they felt that a mere three months compensation to Mr Nyaga was not adequate at all. They asked the Court that Mr Nyaga should be reinstated in his position with the Respondents or he should be adequately compensated for loss of career.

The Respondents' main submission in brief was that they had given every opportunity to Mr Nyaga to prove his worth and to succeed in his employment but he had repeatedly proved most unsatisfactory with the result that when on 4th January, 1973, as a result of an accident due to his negligence the company suffered a loss of about Sh 10,000 they had no alternative but to terminate his services.

The Respondents stated that Mr Nyaga had a very poor sales record and in 1972 he earned commission as follows —

	Sh	cts
March 1972	166	00
April, 1972	168	00
October, 1972	291	75

The Respondents pointed out that had he been a good worker his average commission according to their formula would have earned him Sh 600 per month as was the case with the others.

The Respondents asked the Court to uphold their action and to find that the terminal benefits which had already been paid to Mr Nyaga were adequate.

The Court finds that in this dispute there is much to be said for both sides. To begin with it appears strange to the Court that a management trainee was offered a starting salary of Sh 300 per month. Furthermore it does not seem that Mr Nyaga's on job training was satisfactory or that he was made aware of appraisal reports made by his superiors. This resulted in Mr Nyaga having put in generally a rather poor performance.

The fact however remains that the Respondents carried him along and his salary progressed from Sh 300 per month to Sh 915 per month as at 1st April, 1973, when he was appointed in Advertising Driver/Salesman. The Court has carefully gone through the complete history of Mr Nyaga's employment and all the writings given to him and the exchange of inter-departmental memos and has come to the conclusion that the Respondents although finding him to be erratic in his performance were determined to give him every opportunity as they no doubt had spent considerable money and effort on his training.

The Court considers that the accident which it is alleged is caused by Mr Nyaga's negligence in that he left the ignition key in the car when he went to his house on unauthorized business was only a culmination of the general dissatisfaction which the Respondents had towards his work performance.

The accident itself was caused by the irresponsible act of a casual worker who happened to be in the van at the time. It is quite human for a person in a hurry to leave the ignition key in the car when he leaves it for a few minutes. This, however, does not mean that Mr Nyaga's drive to his house while on duty can be condoned. The fact however, remains that the Respondents themselves have not made this accident the main plank for terminating his services.

After careful consideration of all the submissions, the Court finds that the proper thing for the Respondents to do was to serve a final letter of warning on Mr Nyaga instead of terminating his service. The Respondents' Chairman also appeared to be of this view as is evident from his comments on an inter-office memo which was produced during the hearing.

For the aforesaid circumstances the Court finds that Mr Nyaga has suffered a wrongful dismissal in terms of industrial relations.

Regarding the receipt which Mr Nyaga is alleged to have signed by way of final payment the Investigator had this to say on it —

The Management's reference to the statement signed by Mr Nyaga to the effect that he had received Sh 1,264 being his final payment and that no other dues were remaining carries the inference that Mr Nyaga had accepted his termination but this is not the case. The payment only discharged the employer's liabilities to Mr Nyaga for services rendered already but did not debar Mr Nyaga from claiming his job back."

The Court concurs with this view and moreover keeping in view the fact that the Respondents accepted the findings and recommendations of the Ministry of Labour issued on 28th August 1974 which recommended three months compensation to Mr Nyaga the Court awards that Mr Nyaga should be paid compensation amounting to four months' salary for his wrongful dismissal. This is to be in addition to the dues which he has already received.

THE TRADE MARKS ACT

(Cap 506)

NOTICE is hereby given that any person who has grounds of opposition to the registration of any of the trade marks advertised herein according to the classes may, within 60 days from the date of this Gazette, lodge notice of opposition on Form T M No 6 (in duplicate) together with a fee of Sh 50

Notice is also hereby given that official objection will be taken under rule 21 (3) to all applications in which the specification claims all the goods included in any class unless the Registrar is satisfied that the claim is justified by the use of the mark which the applicant has made, or intends to make if and when it is registered. Where an applicant considers that a claim in respect of all the goods included in a class can be justified it will save unnecessary delay in examining applications if a claim is filed simultaneously with the application, accompanied in appropriate cases by supporting documents

The period for lodging notice of opposition may be extended by the Registrar as he thinks fit and upon such terms as he may direct. Any request for such extension should be made to the Registrar so as to reach him before the expiry of the period allowed

Formal opposition should not be lodged until after reasonable notice has been given by letter to the applicant for registration so as to afford him any opportunity of withdrawing his application before the expense of preparing the notice of opposition is incurred. Failure to give such notice will be taken into account in considering any application by an opponent for an order for costs if the opposition is uncontested by the applicant

Where it is stated in the advertisement of the applicant that the mark, upon its registration, is to be limited to certain colours, the colours are, as far as possible, indicated in the accompanying representations of the mark in the usual heraldic manner
