ID-EL-FITR.

On Friday February 2nd the Id-el-Fitr, the Siku Kuu of the Mahommedan year, was celebrated with the customary formalities. H. M. Acting Sub-Commissioner and Consul accompanied by the Protectorate Officials proceeded to the Jubilee Hall at 9-30 A.M. and there met the Wali, Sheikhs, and principal Mahommedans of Mombasa in full Baraza. The usual salute was fired and the band of the East Africa Rifles was in attendance. After greetings had been exchanged H. M. Acting Consul and Sub-Commissioner addressed the Baraza as follows:—

“Wali, Sheikhs, and Mahommedans of Mombasa, I have much pleasure in expressing to you on behalf of myself and the rest of the European Community our gratification in being able once again to meet you here in this beautiful hall and offer you our congratulations on the beginning of your Id-el-Fitr.

During the past year we have suffered from Famine and Disease but I hope the worst is now over and that the next twelve months will be, by God's Grace, a time of peace happiness and prosperity.

It has been Customary in the past to congratulate H. H. the Sultan and so I propose to send the following telegram to Sir Arthur H. Hardinge for him.

From H. M. Acting Consul to H. M. Consul-General, Zanzibar.

Please convey following to H. H. the Sultan of Zanzibar.

The Wali, Sheikhs, and inhabitants of Mombasa join with myself and English Officials in offering your Highness our cordial and respectful congratulations on the occasion of this festival and in expressing a hope that you may continue to enjoy and health prosperity for many years to come.

May God crown all your wishes and undertakings with success and bestow on you all happiness and blessings.”

At the conclusion of the speech refreshments were handed round and the Government Officials left the hall, the band meanwhile playing the “National Anthem.”

Quarter's Telegrams.

FEBRUARY 1ST.—The fight at Spionkop is described in several telegrams as bitter and bloody. Our troops on the summit of the kopje endured a terrific cross-fire of artillery and musketry the entire day with splendid heroism losing about 500, mostly from shell-fire. The use of smokeless powder by the Boers made it difficult to locate their guns. The inaccessibility of the heights having rendered it necessary to withdraw our artillery that operation was carried out in good order and unmolested.

The Times reports that Ladysmith can hold on and that the garrison is healthier.

FEBRUARY 2ND.—Sir Michael Hicks-Beach immediately denied the charge brought against him by Mr. Buxton in the House of Commons of having stinted the money required for the war.

The casualties at Spionkop are now announced as 138 killed, 392 wounded and 90 missing, and our total losses since crossing the Tugela 301 killed, 1,564 wounded, and 130 missing.

It is reported that a British force with artillery has occupied Prieska.

Powell reports having forced the enemy to move their big guns. The garrison of Mafeking is healthy and cheery.

Buller in addressing the troops said he hoped to relieve Ladysmith within a week.

FEBRUARY 3RD.—Wyndham's speech is regarded by the Press as the most effective vindication of the Government yet made.

FEBRUARY 5TH.—Buller is believed to be about to make a fresh movement. All accounts describe the spirit of the troops as splendid.

Methuen's force is being rapidly reinforced.

French has gone to Capetown to confer with Roberts.

It is reported that the Free Staters are sick of the war and are secretly negotiating for separate terms of peace.

The Boers are burning cover along the last British line of advance.

Roberts has arranged for the release of Commandant Pretorius whose leg has been amputated. He says he does not wish to detain a brave man.

FEBRUARY 6TH.—There is an unconfirmed report, of which the War Office knows nothing, that Buller has crossed the Tugela and is marching towards Ladysmith. But no immediate movement is expected as the roads are impracticable owing to rain.

Our infantry now line the low ridges on the north of the Tugela in order to check Boer snipers.

From Nauwport great activity is reported at Rensburg. An overwhelming force of infantry has been sent to seize Norvalspont.

It is surmised that Sir Edmund Monson's departure from Paris to the Riviera was caused by diplomatic reasons.

FEBRUARY 7TH.—Sir Edmund Monson left Paris on his own initiative owing to the painful impression caused by the decoration of M. Leandre the caricaturist of the journal Le Rive, being of opinion that his presence in Paris would rather embarrass than improve matters. The Government did nothing to dissuade him but there is no question of his recall.

There is a report from Pretoria that a British force is within 7 miles of Achtertang. Otherwise nothing has been heard of French.

13,700 men and 3,000 horses including Cavalry, Yeomanry, Militia and Volunteers will sail for the Cape during the present week.

Lord E. Fitzmaurice's amendment was lost by 352 to 139.

FEBRUARY 8TH.—Lords Roberts and Kitchener have left Capetown (The Censor omits date of their departure also their destination). A Boer despatch states that the British yesterday crossed the Tugela at Pontdrift and Molendrift being covered by a furious bombardment.

General Buller repulsed the British at Pontdrift, they recrossed in great confusion. A cannonade unprecedented in fierceness continued all day, and was resumed on the 6th with even more guns.

The War Office advise that General Buller crossed the Tugela on the 5th and is now advancing on Ladysmith. Beyond the fact that operations are proceeding, they have no information as to result.

A later Boer despatch dated the 6th states that the British lost heavily at Pontdrift but captured the position (a small Kopje) at Molendrift, and still hold it. The Boers lost 4 killed.

Reuter's Agent at Spearman's Camp states that Buller commenced his advance on Monday, the Naval guns opened fire at 7 a.m. Three Battalions made a feint of a frontal attack, and advanced towards Brakfontein, the Boers opened artillery fire at 11 a.m. and sent several shells among our infantry, who retired at noon. Meanwhile the British attacked vigorously on the extreme right, the Engineers quickly constructed a pontoon, and the artillery, hidden among trees, bombarded furiously.

The infantry advanced, completely surprising the Boers. A high hill, a continuation of the Brakfontein Range was captured by 4 p.m. The Boers the next day endeavoured to retake it, but were repulsed. The British advanced along the ridge.

FEBRUARY 9TH.—The casualties at Potgieters up to noon on Tuesday last are 2 officers killed 15 wounded and about 216 men killed and wounded.

Wyndham states that it has been decided to send 17 more Militia Battalions, and 3,000 more Yeomanry to the Cape. This will bring the force to 194,000 men.

FEBRUARY 10TH.—General Macdonald was engaged all Wednesday in repelling a series of attacks at Koodoosberg, casualties 50. Lord Methuen has been ordered to return to the Modder River. The new Government Military Scheme includes an addition of 37 Batteries, third Battalions to many regiments, and erection of barracks. Salisbury plain is to be the headquarters of the artillery.

A Boer despatch dated Ladysmith the 8th instant, states that the British retired across the Tugela that morning, abandoning the position after the Boer bombardments.

The House of Commons adopted the address by 229 votes to 39.

Balfour stated in the House of Commons that Buller was not pressing an advance from the position occupied last Wednesday.

FEBRUARY 12TH.—Reuter at Springfield Camp on the 9th reports that on finding the enemy in great strength on the Brakfontein Hills to the left and the position exposed to a convergent fire, Buller decided that it was impossible to advance by this route without needless sacrifice of life, and therefore ordered a retreat. This was effected on Wednesday night under cover of the big guns on Swartz Kop.

The superiority of the enemy's shell fire rendered an advance impracticable.

It is reported in Pretoria that the Ladysmith garrison on Wednesday night were trying to force a passage in the direction of the Orange Free Staters' Laager. No details are to hand.

Reuter at Kimberley telegraphs on the 6th that the Boers are continuing the bombardment and that the women and children in the town are bearing the hardships of the prolonged siege with great bravery.

No further official news has been received.

Reuter at the Modder River telegraphs that Lord Roberts arrived on the 10th and had an enthusiastic reception.

He inspected the Highland Brigade in Camp and congratulated them on the steadiness they displayed at Koodoo's Berg where the Boers left twelve dead after burying many.

The Naval guns yesterday bombarded Magersfontein from whence the Boers have withdrawn a portion of their guns and men to other points.

Skirmishing continues about Colesberg.

Horse Artillery supported by detachments of the Inniskillings and Australians shelled the Boers yesterday out of their position at Slangersfontein and secured passage for a large convoy.

FEBRUARY 13TH.—In the House of Lords, Lord Lansdowne explained that the first duty of the Army scheme was to provide a field Army of 130,000 which would form a reservoir for the further reinforcements of the force in South Africa, and also form an Army of 15 Battalions, 43 Batteries and 7 Cavalry Regiments. The proposed change adds 30,000 Regulars and 50,000 Auxiliaries making a total force of nearly 600,000.

FEBRUARY 14TH.—The Eastern Flank at Rensburg on being threatened by a force from Slingersfontein was obliged to retire on Rensburg.

Reuter at Rensburg telegraphing on the 13th reports that under pressure from a strong force who had likewise mounted a big gun on Bastardsnek, thus commanding the surrounding country, the British evacuated every post Westward of Rensburg including Coleskop.

Buller's casualties from the 5th to the 7th are 26 killed and 324 wounded.
