THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE No. 56 OF 1986

Parties:

Kenya Engineering Workers Union
and
Desan Engineering Works

Issue in dispute:

Termination of service of Stephen Njeru.

THE Kenya Engineering Workers Union shall hereinafter be referred to as the claimants and Desan Engineering Works shall hereinafter be referred to as the respondents.

2. The parties were heard in Nairobi on 8th April, 1987, and relied on their written and verbal submissions.

AWARD

3. The dispute was referred to the court by the Minister for Labour in accordance with section 8 of the Trade Disputes Act and the reference was received by the court together with the statutory certificates signed by the Minister for Labour himself and the Labour Commissioner, on 3rd June, 1986.

Stephen Njeru was first employed by the respondents as a general fitter/welder on 6th May, 1977, at a consolidated salary of KSh. 960 per month.

The claimants stated that during his period of employment, Mr. Njeru became their chief shopsteward representing workers in the undertaking. The claimants further stated that the grievant had his services wrongly and unjustifiably terminated in August 1983, because it was alleged that he wanted to fight the respondents' manager at the place of work.

The claimants refuted this claim as they felt that Mr. Njeru was victimized for his trade union activities.

On the issue leading to the termination, the claimants stated that on 18th July, 1983, the grievant fell sick and was given four days off-duty and two days light-duty by the doctor. After the expiry of the four days he did not report on duty as instructed until 23rd July, 1983. He was verbally informed that the two (2) days he failed to report on duty would be deducted from his salary or leave. On 28th July, 1983, the grievant became sick again at the place of work and had to see a doctor.

The claimants went on to say that on 30th July, 1983, being a pay-day, the general manager stood by the management's decision of deducting the two days from the grievant's annual leave and to pay him his full month's salary. The decision was not acceptable to Mr. Njeru on the ground that his absence was due to sickness which fact was fully known by the management. As a result of the disagreement, the grievant was dismissed the same day.

The claimants pointed out that the management, however, have not proved beyond any reasonable doubt that the grievant fought the general manager and as there are no witnesses to that effect the allegations made against him cannot hold much weight. Finally, the claimants stated that the management acted very inhumanely in trying to deduct the grievant's two days' absence from his annual leave when the respondents were aware of the circumstances of his absence.

The claimants, therefore, consider the instant dismissal of the grievant to be wrong and unjustifiable and asked the court to order his reinstatement without loss of all benefits.

The respondents in their submission stated that the services of the grievant were terminated on 30th July, 1983, and the Ministry of Labour was advised accordingly.

The respondents further stated that the circumstances which led to the dismissal of the grievant were as follows:

The grievant was entitled to four days off-duty, the days in question being 11th, 18th, 19th and 20th July, 1983. He was further entitled to two days light-duty on 21st and 22nd, July, 1983. The respondents agreed to pay the grievant for the days off-duty in full. However, the grievant did not turn up for the subsequent two days light-duty and the respondents rightly and justifiably in the absence of any evidence whatsoever pointing to any valid reason for not so turning up for work as prescribed by the medical certificate, refused to pay the grievant for the said two days. The refusal to pay was implemented by the respondents not by deducting the grievant's wages for the month of July 1983, but by deducting two days from the grievant's annual leave. The method, referred to earlier was made known to the grievant on 30th July, 1983, at about 12.45 p.m. when he was being paid his wages for July 1983. The grievant's reaction to this was to attack one Shamji Hirji Patel who is a manager at the respondents' firm. Mr. Patel in an attempt to escape from his unprovoked attack was chased through the offices and the workshop and the grievant finally caught him and proceeded to beat him further. Mr. Patel's shirt ripped off him.

The attack was reported to the Embakasi Police Station on the same day, 30th July, 1983. After the attack as described before, the respondents summarily dismissed the grievant.

The respondents refuted the allegations by the claimants that they were unco-operative and maintained negative attitude throughout the said investigations. Pursuant to Mrs. C. N. Mwangi of the Industrial Area Labour Office being appointed as an investigator, the respondents submitted a memorandum of facts relating to the grievant's summary dismissal to her. The matter was looked into and a report of the findings was produced by the Ministry of Labour which was found unacceptable by the respondents. However, in their final submissions, the respondents admitted that the check-off system had been instituted and complied with and furthermore had not issued a proper letter of dismissal to the grievant. Finally, the respondents feel that an attack as described before comes within the scope of the grounds for summary dismissal as laid down in section 17, of the Employment Act, and, therefore, the respondents reject the demands by the claimants to pay him any compensation or reinstatement.

The court has carefully considered the parties submissions and finds that had the grievant not misbehaved by chasing the manager all over the place with a view to assaulting him, the court would have found in his favour notwithstanding the two (2) days absence on his part without permission. The court is satisfied that the grievant did chase the manager in the workshop although physical assault has not been conclusively proved.

Under these circumstances, the court has decided to reduce his dismissal to a normal termination and so awards.

The Chief Industrial Relations Officer will determine the grievant's lawful dues in accordance with the law as there is no collective agreement between the parties.

Given in Nairobi on the 22nd May, 1987.

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE No. 116 OF 1986

Parties:

Kenya Building, Construction Civil Engineering and Allied Trades Workers Union
and
Steel Structures Limited

Issue in dispute:

Termination of employment of Peter Gachanja Karuri.

THE Kenya Building, Construction Civil Engineering and Allied Trades Workers Union shall hereinafter be referred to as the claimants and Steel Structures Limited shall hereinafter be referred to as the respondents.

2. The parties were heard in Nairobi on 7th April, 1987, and relied on their written and verbal submissions. In addition they called the following witnesses:

Claimants—Peter Gachanja Karuri.

Respondents—M. Patel.

AWARD

3. The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 10th September, 1986, signed by the parties was received by the court together with the statutory certificates duly signed by the Minister for Labour and the Labour Commissioner on 8th December, 1986.

The grievant Peter Gachanja Karuri was employed by the respondents on 2nd February, 1980, initially as a helper and was later promoted to a trainee fitter on 1st January, 1983, at a salary of KSh. 882 per month.

The circumstances that led to his dismissal started during March 1985, when he failed to show up at his workplace for four (4) days after a compassionate leave that ended on 8th March, 1985. His days of absence were, however, deducted from his annual leave after giving a satisfactory explanation to the respondents.

After this leave, Mr. Karuri was asked to do overtime on Saturday, 13th April, 1985, but failed to appear, and, gave reasons that he was unable to cross a flooded river. His explanation was unacceptable to the respondents and was issued with a warning letter dated 15th April, 1985. Despite this warning he continued to ignore instructions to report for overtime, but when pressed, he told his supervisor that his house had been broken into and everything stolen, so, he had to move to stay with his brother at Githurai, a place, he said, was away from the city boundary and where he could not find regular transport to his place of work. This statement, although stated to the supervisor was never officially put to the respondents in writing for their consideration. He still continued not to appear for overtime assignments.

The respondents arranged for a meeting in an effort to resolve this matter on 22nd April, 1985, but, the grievant without reason, failed to attend. A further joint meeting was convened on 24th April, 1985, where it was established that the grievant was neither willing to do overtime nor give reasons for not reporting when asked to do so. The respondents found Mr. Karuri totally unco-operative and insubordinate and was handed a dismissal letter on 25th April, 1985, when he again failed to turn up for overtime.

The matter was then taken up by the claimants on his behalf and after going through the laid down procedures, the Ministry's finding and recommendation to the parties were that Mr. Karuri be paid his full benefits plus six (6) months' salary by way of compensation. The respondents refused to accept this and the matter is now before the court for adjudication.

The claimants submitted that Mr. Karuri discussed his accommodation problem and distance from his place of work with the production manager who allowed him not to come for overtime assignments. This statement was refuted by the said manager during his testimony to the court. However, the claimants further said that the company transport left the grievant far from home as he could not report for overtime although he used to report for overtime prior to moving to his new residence. They pointed out that the grievant was ready to co-operate only if the respondents could have been considerate. The alleged meetings to resolve the overtime issue with the grievant were never called and the grievant was never invited to defend himself. Instead a dismissal letter was handed down to him after serving the respondents for about five (5) years with a clean record.

The respondents on the other hand vigorously refuted the allegation that they denied the grievant a hearing and that they were bent on dismissing Mr. Karuri. The respondents, indeed, were surprised with the grievant's behaviour after the compassionate leave when without authority or explanation he failed to report on duty. In fact they were perfectly entitled to dismiss him over his unlawful absence from duty but, instead, they deducted the days he was away from his annual leave. This was in an effort to try and accommodate him by giving him one more chance to reform. But, when the situation persisted they had no alternative but to bring the matter before the works committee held on 24th April, 1985. At this meeting which he never attended, saying the meeting was held late and he could not get transport home. This time again he was notified that he was booked for overtime as his name was listed among others on the noticeboard but he still never turned up for work as required.

After this the respondents felt that they had given him enough chance to defend himself but he totally refused to do so. At the time, the respondents were on shifts involving between 70-80 employees, all of whom were provided with transport to points near their homes, but no problem affecting the grievant such as a break into his house was raised with the respondents. The allegations that he moved from Dandora to Githurai to stay with his brother was never brought to the respondents notice. They confirmed that if the grievant had approached them for financial assistance, under these circumstances, they could have willingly assisted him until he was on his feet again, but instead he kept his problem to himself with the subsequent result that the respondents had to dispense with his services.

The court having heard the evidence adduced by the parties would first like to point out that the court cannot rely on the evidence of the grievant when he said that he had permission from the respondents' production manager not to report for overtime. If this was the case, he had all the opportunity to state this during the works committee meeting where he would have explained all the problems affecting his work, but he chose not to attend the meeting. He, in fact, confirmed to the court that he has had a good working relationship with the respondents during his term of employment. The court, therefore, cannot see any act of unfair labour practice on the part of the respondents. Under the circumstances the court can only conclude that the grievant worked himself out of employment by openly disobeying a lawful order from the respondents. The court cannot therefore condone this kind of behaviour in the industry and sees no reason to vary the respondents decision of dismissing the grievant summarily from service.

All demands put on his behalf by the claimants are rejected.

CAUSE No. 117 of 1986

Parties:

Kenya Union of Domestic, Hotels, Educational Institutions, Hospitals and Allied Workers
and Kitale Hotel

Issue in dispute:

Non-payment of benefits to Joseph Njoroge, namely: annual leave; travelling allowances; underpayment of wages as a receptionist; severance pay; and services charge.

THE Kenya Union of Domestic, Hotels, Educational Institutions, Hospitals and Allied Workers shall hereinafter be referred to as the claimants and Kitale Hotel shall hereinafter be referred to as the respondents.

2. When this dispute came up for mention on 16th January, 1987, the respondents failed to attend the mention but the court proceeded and fixed the hearing for 27th April, 1987. The respondents were informed of this through the court's letter dated 24th February, 1987.

On 27th April, 1987, when this dispute came up for hearing the respondents again failed to attend the court and the court allowed the respondents a final chance to appear before it by adjourning the hearing to 15th May, 1987. The court confirmed this new date to the parties and cautioned the respondents that hearing would proceed and judgement passed ex parte if they failed to be present in court on this date.

Finally, this dispute was heard on 15th May, 1987, as scheduled but the respondents once again failed to turn up for the hearing.

AWARD

3. The grievant, Joseph Njoroge, was employed by the respondents on 1st January, 1970.

The claimants told the court that this dispute arose as a result of the respondents' refusal to pay the grievant his lawful benefits following his resignation from their employment after fourteen (14) years service.

The claimants submitted that the grievant voluntarily tendered his resignation by giving three (3) months' notice on expiry of which the respondents asked him to work for an additional two (2) months to enable them get a suitable replacement. They stated that their member agreed with the respondents request due to the good relationship that existed between them.

The claimants submitted that during the parties conciliation meeting under the chairmanship of the District Labour Officer, Kitale, Mr. R. K. Kisia, the parties were able to reach an agreement to pay the grievant a sum of KSh. 12,792.70. They further stated that the respondents, however, expressed the inability to pay the amount at once and further meetings were arranged to discuss the method of payment but the respondents failed to show up.

Finally the claimants requested the court to make an award in their favour.

After careful consideration of the claimants submissions the court orders that the respondents should pay Joseph Njoroge the sum of KSh. 12,792.70, as agreed between the parties on 14th March, 1986, in the presence of the Ministry of Labour's conciliator, Mr. R. K. Kisia, the respondents are, however, allowed to pay this amount in monthly instalments of KSh. 2,000 commencing 1st July, 1987.
