GAZETTE NOTICE NO. 3645

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE NO. 56 OF 1966

Parties:—

Kenya Chemical Workers' Union
and
Elephant Soap Factory Limited

Issue in dispute:—

Whether (a) Industrial Court (b) Arbitration award (c) Negotiated terms of employment have been properly applied to Z. Machemba.

1. The Kenya Chemical Workers' Union shall hereinafter be referred to as the Claimants and Elephant Soap Factory Limited shall hereinafter be referred to as the Respondents.

2. The Parties were heard in Nairobi on the 7th day of September 1966, and relied on their written and verbal submissions.

GENERAL BACKGROUND

3. The Respondents were members of the now defunct Nairobi Soap Manufacturers' Association which Association had entered into a Recognition Agreement with the Claimants on 5th February 1962. The Parties hereto continued to abide and honour this Recognition Agreement after dissolution of the said Association. The first agreement on terms and conditions of service between the Parties was signed on 26th June 1962, and became effective from the 1st of February 1962. This raised the minimum wage for the lowest type of worker to Sh. 126 per month plus Sh. 32/50 per month as housing allowance. At this stage the Respondents decided against the employment of females and discharged in two batches seven females who were employed in addition to Zaina Machemba, who is the subject matter of this dispute. The reason for the dismissal was the fact that, the Respondents found the Claimants' policy made the female more expensive than the male. Subsequently the Respondents and the said employee Zaina Machemba entered into an agreement on 14th September 1962, as a result of which she was retained in employment. This agreement is reproduced hereinbelow:—

"Zaina

It is agreed that we shall continue to employ you at a salary of Sh. 100 per month, and that you shall not be effected at all with any agreement between the Union and Elephant Soap Factory.

SUBASH C. KAHLI,
Director."

The second agreement between the Parties resulted from an Arbitration Award on 4th May 1963, and the Respondents implemented the Arbitration Award as from 1st March 1963. This award brought the minimum consolidated wage to Sh. 175. This was followed by an Industrial Court award made in Cause No. 14 of 1964 with effect from 1st February 1965, which raised the minimum wage to Sh. 195 consolidated per month. During all this time Zaina Machemba continued to get remuneration as laid down in the aforesaid agreement between her and the Respondents. Sometime in April 1965, the Claimants made verbal complaints to the Respondents pointing out that some of their employees were not being paid the wages awarded by the Arbitration Tribunal and the Industrial Court and followed it up by writing to the Respondents officially in July 1965. Further letters were sent to the Respondents by the Claimants in August and September and as a result the Respondents discharged Mrs. Zaina Machemba from employment on or about 23rd September 1965. The Claimants took up this employee's case with the Respondents and several meetings took place, but the Respondents could not agree to the Claimants' demands and maintained that the agreement between them and Zaina Machemba was a valid and proper agreement and, therefore, there was nothing due to her. Eventually, the Claimants threatened strike action on 5th January 1966, but it was put off by the intervention of the Ministry of Labour; return to work formula being as follows:—

"1. All workers report back on duty on Monday, 10th January 1966.

2. No victimization from either side.

3. The leave travelling allowance to be paid on Monday not later than 4 p.m. 10th January 1966.

The other two issues to be discussed on Monday at 3.45 p.m. The issues to be discussed are:—

1. Safari allowance.

2. Zaina Machemba gratuity, leave entitlement, salary in arrears and termination of service. If after the informal negotiation both parties do not agree the matter concerning two items above shall be referred to Industrial Court for ruling."

(An extract from the original agreement).

From then on meetings took place at the Ministry of Labour with a view to settling this dispute, but no settlement could be reached and the Parties were recommended to take it to the Industrial Court. Further delay appears to have taken place due to the lack of interest shown by the Respondents in referring the matter to the Industrial Court. Eventually a notification of dispute form was signed by the Parties on 21st May 1966. In this notification the issue was worded as "all items in dispute as contained in Appendix 'A' attached to this form", on the Appendix were given the details of Zaina Machemba's claim of Sh. 6,409/50. When the case came up for mention before the President of the Court on 15th August 1966, the Parties re-framed the issues in dispute as stated hereinabove. The hearing proceeded on this issue.

MAIN SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE CLAIMANTS

4. The Claimants submitted that, their Recognition Agreement with the Respondents prevented any individual agreements being drawn up between the Respondents and various employees. The Claimants stated that this was a very serious matter and they had come to know of it for the first time in April 1965, and when they had started chasing the Respondents, Zaina Machemba was discharged from the employment. The Claimants submitted that, the agreement of 4th September 1962, was written in English, a language which the employee did not know or understand and had not been witnessed by any person. They claimed that, this was an unauthorized document and the Respondents had never informed either the Claimants or their shop steward about it. The Claimants submitted that, by law, the wages awarded by the Arbitration Tribunal and the Industrial Court applied to all employees and, therefore, this agreement did not have any validity. The Claimants stated that, the Respondents had conceived this agreement in order to exploit the said Zaina Machemba. The Claimants were very critical of the Respondents' attitude in this particular case and stated that this sort of thing could have serious repercussions throughout the country if employers were allowed to find a way out of negotiated agreements and awards. The Claimants pointed out that, Zaina Machemba had at no time resigned from their Union and that during negotiations the Respondents had agreed to give her gratuity and annual leave payments on the basis of the Arbitration and Industrial Court awards. The Claimants stated that, the Industrial Court was being asked by the Respondents to allow them to get away, in respect of one employee, from the Court's own award in Cause No. 14 of 1964. In these circumstances the Claimants requested the Court to find that the Respondents had not implemented the negotiated terms of employment and the subsequent awards of the Arbitration Tribunal and the Industrial Court in respect of Zaina Machemba. They asked the Court to award a sum of Sh. 6,409/50 to this employee, being the difference which she had not received from the Respondents during her employment with them.

MAIN SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE RESPONDENTS

5. The Respondents submitted that, the Kenya Constitution at Chapter 2, clause 15, subsection (b) guaranteed the individual "freedom and association of expression and of assembly and association" and it was with these guarantees that this case was largely concerned. The Respondents stated that, the employee involved had chosen to dissociate herself from her Union in order to secure her employment. She had opted out of the benefits afforded by the negotiated agreement on terms and conditions of service and had signed an agreement to that effect. The Respondents argued that the Claimants sought equality of wages at the same time as they sought discriminatory benefits such as maternity leave with pay. When the time came for this employee to be discharged in 1962 along with seven other female employees, she had made a personal appeal to the Managing Director of the Respondents and pointed out that she had been in employment with them for a long time and was unable to seek gainful employment outside, additionally she had no training which fitted her for other employment. The Respondents submitted that, the Claimants were approached and advised that consideration was being given to the employment of this woman on simple menial duties such as the maintenance of the factory yard in a clean condition and the feeding of the three guard dogs in the factory. The Claimants declined the proposal that Zaina Machemba should get a sum of Sh. 87 per month, but eventually agreed to her being paid two-third of the minimum salary provided in the agreement. This the Respondents could not accept. Subsequently initiative was taken by the said employee herself and she entered into an agreement which is quoted hereinabove. This agreement had continued in force until September 1965, when she was discharged.

The Respondents argued that, it was a simple document and clearly stated that the woman should continue in employment without regard to the terms and conditions of service negotiated by the Claimants. They argued that Zaina Machemba was competent to enter into an agreement and the agreement itself did not offend against her constitutionally granted liberties. It was also clear that, her intention was the preservation of employment with the Respondents. The Respondents requested the Court to take into account the period of time over which this agreement had been applied to the relationship between the Respondents and the woman because it was unreasonable to presume now that the Claimants were not aware of its existence.

The Respondents stated that, the said Zaina Machemba had been paid in accordance with their agreement since 1962 and when the dispute was referred to the Ministry of Labour, the Ministry had rightly declined to take any action against the Respondents in spite of the fact that adequate labour legislation existed for prosecuting an employer who failed to pay wages, instead the Ministry of Labour had advocated that the issue be resolved by the Industrial Court.

The Respondents argued that, the established law laid down very clearly that no person may opt out of his or her rights and obligations and it would be inappropriate for the Industrial Court to seek a compromise of this issue. The Respondents further argued that the Claimants, after a very considerable period of time now sought to gain for this employee a substantial sum of money to which by her actions she was not entitled. They stated that, Zaina Machemba at all times had been fully aware and understood what she was doing, she had exercised her right of association and action and had benefited to the extent of four years' employment.

The Respondents submitted that, the Court's obligation would appear to begin and end with the need to establish whether the said employee had opted out of the Claimants' agreement. If this was the case, there the matter ended. Should the Court find that the said Zaina Machemba did not opt out of the agreement, then the Court would be establishing contractual rights which must be pursued by the interested party in a Civil Court or under the relevant labour legislation.

AWARD

6. The Court has very carefully considered the various submissions made by both sides in this dispute.

The Court is satisfied that the agreement entered into by Zaina Machemba and the Respondents was most improper. If this sort of thing were allowed to develop, then the whole basis of sound industrial relations in the country would be destroyed and it would give the employers a powerful weapon with which to exploit labour. This would be a complete negation of all that the Trade Union movement stands for.

After the agreement of 14th September 1962, there have been two awards, one by an Arbitration Tribunal in April 1963 and one by the Industrial Court in Cause No. 14 of 1964. The first one raised the consolidated minimum wage to Sh. 175 and the second one brought it up to Sh. 195.

The Arbitration Tribunal was appointed under the Trade Disputes (Arbitration and Inquiry) Ordinance which under section 11 provided as follows:—

"11. An award shall take effect from such date as may be determined by the Tribunal or specified in a negotiated agreement, and every contract of service in force, at such date or at any time thereafter, between employers and employees to whom such award relates shall be deemed to be varied in accordance with the terms of such award."

The Industrial Court came into existence through the Trade Disputes Act 1964, which under section 10 (6) provided as follows:—

"Subject to the provisions of this section, an award shall, as from the date that the award has effect, be an implied term of every contract of employment between the employers and workers to whom the award relates, so that the rate of wages to be paid and the terms and conditions of employment to be observed under the contract shall be in accordance with the award until it is varied by a subsequent award, or by agreement."

A recognition agreement was entered into between the Claimants and the now defunct Nairobi Soap Manufacturers' Association of which the Respondents were members and which recognition agreement still continues to bind the Parties hereto.

In this agreement it is provided as follows in clause 2 (a) and (b):—

"(a) The Association accords full recognition to the Union as a properly constituted and representative body and the sole Labour Organization representing the interests of its workers within the Company concession area or associated with its concession in all matters concerning Wages and Conditions and Terms of Employment.

(b) The Union undertakes, after elections have been carried out as constituted by the Union and in accordance with the provisions of the Trade Unions Ordinance 1962, to present without delay the names of all local officials and national officials to the Company. The Company on its part undertakes not to enter into discussions and negotiations on the subjects specified in section 2 (a) of this Agreement with any individual or individuals purporting to represent the Union other than its accredited representatives."

There is no doubt that the Claimants were accorded the full right of speaking on behalf of their members and there was no evidence before the Court that Zaina Machemba had resigned from the Union. The position, therefore, is that even if a member opts out of the terms and conditions negotiated by its Union and agrees to a different wage structure, any subsequent award would, by virtue of the relevant sections quoted hereinabove, take the place of any private agreement. There is no evidence that Zaina Machemba and the Respondents entered into fresh agreements after the Arbitration Tribunal and the Industrial Court awards. Even if fresh agreements had been made, their validity would be doubtful.

The Court has doubts about the applicability to this case of clause 14, subsection (b) of the Kenya Constitution because (a) the Kenya Constitution was not in force in 1962 and (b) this clause 14 has to be read with clause 24 (1) which provides as follows:—

"Except with his own consent, no person shall be hindered in the enjoyment of his freedom of assembly and association, that is to say, his right to assemble freely and associate with other persons and in particular to form or belong to trade unions or other associations for the protection of his interests."

In this case Zaina Machemba having joined the Union and by having remained a member, surrendered her fundamental rights to that extent. She from then on allowed her trade union to speak on her behalf and brought herself under the appropriate Trade Disputes Legislation.

The situation that emerges now is that, the Respondents knowing fully well their commitments to the Claimants through the Recognition Agreement, entered into a separate agreement with a Union member whereby they obtained her services at a cheaper rate. And Zaina Machemba enjoyed employment for all these years until September 1965 by being party to this agreement knowing fully well the benefits her Union had won for its members. If she had not done so, she would have lost her job in 1962. The Court is satisfied that Zaina Machemba was aware at all material times of what she was doing and although the awards of the Arbitration Tribunal and the Industrial Court are deemed to have set aside the agreement dated 14th September 1962, Zaina Machemba, knowing fully well her rights, did not take any action. She was content to leave the matters as they were.

In these circumstances the Court finds that both the Respondents and Zaina Machemba are responsible for this state of affairs and, therefore, has decided to award Zaina Machemba only half of her dues calculated on the basis of Arbitration Tribunal and the Industrial Court awards mentioned hereinabove.

The Court takes a very serious view of such back door arrangements and wishes to stress that such practice if it is to be found in the country, should cease immediately and wishes to record that the Federation of Kenya Employers concurs with this view.

GAZETTE NOTICE NO. 3646

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE NO. 57 OF 1966

Parties:—

Kenya Chemical Workers' Union
and
Twiga Chemical Industries Limited

Issues in dispute:—

- (1) Wages.
- (2) Job Gradients (Classifications).

1. The Kenya Chemical Workers' Union shall hereinafter be referred to as the Claimants and Twiga Chemical Industries Limited shall hereinafter be referred to as the Respondents.

2. The Parties were heard in Nairobi on the 12th day of September 1966, and relied on their written and verbal submissions.

GENERAL BACKGROUND

3. The Claimants submitted their demands to the Respondents on 3rd September 1965, covering 23 items which were intended to replace the existing agreement on wages and terms and conditions covering the Respondents' employees. This agreement was based on an Arbitration Award in 1964 and was with effect from 1st December 1963, and was to run for 12 months. The following rates, for the four grades agreed between the Parties, were awarded:—

- Grade 1.—Sh. 227 per month.
- Grade 2.—Sh. 260 per month.
- Grade 3.—Sh. 320 per month.
- Grade 4.—Sh. 400 per month.

The Parties reached agreement on 17 of the 23 items demanded by the Claimants through voluntary negotiations and a dispute was reported to the Ministry of Labour on 23rd March 1966, on the following six items:—

1. Wages and Job Gradients.
2. Annual Paid Leave.
3. Termination of Employment.
4. Gratuity Payment.
5. Leave Allowance.
6. Effective Date.

During conciliation, agreement was reached on five of the above items and disagreement was recorded on wages and job gradings. In early August, the Parties submitted the dispute to the Industrial Court on the two issues by signing the notification of dispute form. During the hearing the Parties by consent stated that, although agreement had been reached on the effective date of the agreement between the Parties, the Court should rule on the duration period.

MAIN SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE CLAIMANTS

4. (1) Wages.—The Claimants stated that they had demanded the following rates for the proposed five grades and a special grade:—

- Grade 5.—Sh. 350 per month exclusive of housing.
- Grade 4.—Sh. 500 per month exclusive of housing.
- Grade 3.—Sh. 600 per month exclusive of housing.
- Grade 2.—Sh. 750 per month exclusive of housing.
- Grade 1.—Sh. 950 per month exclusive of housing.

Special Grade.—Sh. 1,600 per month exclusive of housing. During conciliation the Claimants had brought their demands down to the following level:—

- Grade 1.—Sh. 275 per month.
- Grade 2.—Sh. 295 per month.
- Grade 3.—Sh. 370 per month.
- Grade 4.—Sh. 450 per month.

They submitted that, these proposals were reasonable as they had considerably reduced their original demands in the spirit of compromise. They stated that, the Respondents had offered the following rates for the five grades on condition that the agreement would be of 18 months' duration from the 1st of February 1966, but the Claimants could not accept this offer because of the long duration period:—

- Grade 1.—Sh. 260 per month.
- Grade 2.—Sh. 280 per month.
- Grade 3.—Sh. 355 per month.
- Grade 4.—Sh. 440 per month.
- Grade 5.—Sh. 520 per month.

The Claimants submitted that, a wage increase was completely unavoidable for the following reasons:—

- (1) The workers had been expecting a higher standard of living as they had been exploited during colonial times through getting starvation wages.
- (2) With the achievement of political independence, the workers desired to enjoy better terms and conditions of life. The African workers had been denied reasonable wages because of the discriminatory practices during colonial times.
- (3) The cost of living had gone up considerably in the country during the last few years and the price of commodities had nearly doubled since 1964. It was, therefore, illogical for employers to expect their workers to meet their basic human requirements on wages which were awarded towards the end of 1963.
- (4) The Claimants were committed to encourage their members to work hard and to improve the productivity of the industry in which they were working, but increased production should go hand in hand with increased wages and the workers should have the means of satisfying their reasonable wants.

The Claimants gave details of various items which they considered were essential for a worker and which cost a sum of Sh. 354/95 for a single person and Sh. 744/90 for two people. The Claimants argued that, the wages which should be paid to workers should be high enough for a worker to be able to get sufficient food, decent clothing, reasonable housing facilities and to make provision for security during old age or when the worker lost his job. The Claimants stated that, school fees and taxes had gone up tremendously whereas the wages had remained at the old level.

The Claimants strongly submitted that, the Respondents belonged to an international group of companies and, therefore, there was no question of their not being in a position to meet their demands. The Claimants asked the Court not to be guided by the Government policy, but to decide the case on the arguments put before the Court during the hearing.

(2) Job Gradings (Classifications).—The Claimants stated that they had submitted the following job classification:—

- Grade 5: Unskilled Workers—removing products from the plant to the warehouse, and stacking them in respective stocks.
- Grade 4: Process Workers—re-packing and re-filling products in the containers, Office Messengers, Askaris/Watchmen and Greasers.
- Grade 3: Machine Operators—operating (packing and securing products) machine, greasing machines and resetting machines.
- Grade 2: Leading Hands, Stencil Cutters—cutting stencils and stencilling on the product containers, leading hands in the liquids, power and ware section and other new sections established.
- Grade 1: Chief-Leading Hands and Drivers, Dispatching Clerks, Typists, Laboratory Assistants, Artisans, Repairing Machines.

Special Grade: Charge Hands, Senior Clerks, Store-keepers, Senior Typist, Laboratory Technicians—testing analysis of products and making up solutions in the laboratory, skilled artisans with trade test certificates or equivalent qualification.

The Claimants drew the Court's attention to the fact that, the Respondents had agreed to have five grades although they had no employees at present who could be fitted into Grade 5. The Claimants asked the Court either to approve the aforesaid five grades or to recommend to the Parties to enlist the services of an expert to carry out a proper job classification.

(3) Effective Date and Duration of Agreement.—The Claimants stated that, the Parties had agreed during conciliation that, the effective date of the new wages and other items agreed should be 1st February 1966, and submitted that because in the past their agreements had always been of one year's duration, the Court should, therefore, award the duration period at 12 months. The Claimants pointed out that, the delay in negotiations had been due to the wage standstill under the Tripartite Agreement and, therefore, they could not be blamed for the present situation.

MAIN SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE RESPONDENTS

5. (1) Wages.—The Respondents submitted that, they employed about 140 employees in the production of agricultural products such as insecticides, weed-killers, cattle dips and mineral licks. They also produced automotive paints and were in the process of improving manufacturing facilities to include decorative paints. The Respondents submitted that, agricultural chemicals could be imported into Kenya free of duty, thus there was no protection to local manufacturers who were required to remain competitive against the equivalent imported product, therefore, any material increase in local cost could have harmful effect on the Respondents' position in the country. Additionally, increased costs would react to the detriment of the agricultural community who were the principal customers for some of the Respondents' main products. In so far as decorative paint was concerned, there was an already established higher competitive paid market and unless costs were kept within reasonable limits, it was unlikely that the new manufacturing facilities could go ahead. The Respondents drew the Court's attention to the various firms with whom they were competing and stated that, keeping in mind all these factors, they had approached joint negotiations and it was to their credit that only two items appeared before the Court. The Respondents stated that, they had made the following offers during conciliation:—

- Grade 1.—Sh. 250 per month.
- Grade 2.—Sh. 285 per month.
- Grade 3.—Sh. 350 per month.
- Grade 4.—Sh. 435 per month.

But the Claimants had refused to move from their position and had not put forward during negotiations or conciliation any justification for their demands. The Respondents had participated in genuine joint negotiations and had made wage offers bearing in mind their competitive position in the market, relative wages paid in comparative industries and the Government's statistics setting out details of moves in the cost of living. The Respondents pointed out that, their offers which amounted to Sh. 23 for Grade 1 and Sh. 35 to Grade 4 represented a 7 per cent increase whereas the Middle Income cost of living index had gone up by 6 points only since 1964.

The Respondents argued that, in any wages review the following yardstick should be used:—

- (i) The Government's policy on the whole wage structure should be carefully considered and taken into account.
- (ii) Comparative awards should be duly taken into consideration.
- (iii) Government's cost of living figures should be studied.
- (iv) Employers' competitive position should be taken into account.

It was only when these four factors had been considered that the Court could think about the last item which was the Claimants' struggle for the raising of the standard of living of their members.

The Respondents drew the Court's attention to the Revised Development Plan wherein it was mentioned that, the wages of the urban workers must be pegged so that a suitable climate could be established for creating and encouraging new industries.

(2) Job Gradings (Classifications).—The Respondents stated that, the present job titles under the various grades were as follows:—

- Grade 1.—Warehouse worker; labourers; sweepers and employees not elsewhere specified and employed on the lowest type of labour.
- Grade 2.—Askaris; watchmen; office messengers; process workers and greasers.
- Grade 3.—Stencil cutters; junior laboratory assistants; junior clerks and leading hands in the liquids, powders and warehouse sections.
- Grade 4.—Laboratory assistants; drivers; clerks, artisans; assistants and chief leading hands in the liquids, powders and warehouse section.

They submitted that, these grades had remained operative without friction since September 1961 and the Claimants' dispute under this heading was not that there was any impropriety in the gradings, but their desire was to expand the grades for the purpose of securing material wage enhancement for employees graded under the present structure. The Claimants' proposal was to convert the present four grades into five by the introduction between grades 2 and 3 of a new grade covering machine operators. This high sounding title was completely bogus and referred to a category of employees who were correctly classed at present as machine fitters and who carried out a repetitive job which required no special skill and which could be assimilated by a new entrant within a matter of hours. The Respondents asked the Court to reject the Claimants' demand for a change in the present structure.

(3) Effective Date and Duration of Agreement.—The Respondents agreed that the effective date was to be 1st February 1966, but strongly urged for the duration date to be longer than one year. They argued that, if the Court were to award the duration date of 12 months then the Parties would be back again negotiating on these very items within a matter of five months. In these circumstances the Court's work would be wasted. The Respondents requested the Court to make its award valid for at least two years so that the Parties may realize the necessity of finalizing their demands as speedily as possible.

AWARD

6. The Court, after having carefully considered the various submissions made by the Parties, makes the following award:—

(1) Wages

Grade 1.—Sh. 260 per month consolidated.

Grade 2.—Sh. 290 per month consolidated.

Grade 3.—Sh. 360 per month consolidated.

Grade 4.—Sh. 445 per month consolidated.

(2) Job Gradings (Classifications).—The Court is not satisfied that a case was made out for the revision of the existing grades and, therefore, makes a nil award.

(3) Effective Date and Duration of Agreement.—The effective date having been agreed between the Parties as 1st February 1966, the Court awards that the agreement between the Parties and the present Court award shall come to an end after 18 months from 1st February 1966.

Given in Nairobi this 27th day of September 1966.
