THE NATIONAL ENVIRONMENT MANAGEMENT AUTHORITY
ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT ASSESSMENT STUDY REPORT
FOR THE PROPOSED PETROLSERVICE STATION ON L.R No.
THIKA MUNICIPALITY BLOCK 8/181 ALONG THE GARISSA
HIGHWAY

INVITATION OF PUBLIC COMMENTS

PURSUANT to regulation 21 of the Environmental Management and Co-ordination (Impact Assessment and Audit) Regulations, 2003, the National Environment Management Authority (NEMA) has received an Environmental Impact Assessment Study Report for the above proposed project.

The Proponent (Vishal Shah Nemchand) is proposing to construct a petrol service station involving installation of four pumps (2 petrol, 1 diesel and 1 kerosene), 4 underground tanks (2 petrol with 20,000-litre capacity, 1 diesel with 10,000-litre capacity and 1 kerosene with 5,000-litre capacity), a car washing bay and a convenient store.

The following are the anticipated impacts and proposed mitigation measures:

Environmental Impact	Suggested Mitigation Measures
Soil disturbance leading to potential soil erosion	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Put in place soil protection measures such as vegetation planting, landscaping and installation of gabions. Backfilling of dug out areas.
Removal of vegetation	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Clear vegetation only where necessary Plant trees and carry out landscaping.
Soil and ground water contamination	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Leakage tests prior to project commissioning. Ensuring tanks are emptied before removal. Inspection and maintenance programme for the tanks (routine leak tests). Careful removal of underground tanks. Remediation of any contaminated soil.
Ground water pollution	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Construct channels (drains) for drainage of effluent. Construct an oil interceptor (oil-water separator) and channel effluent into it. Construct a bund (low wall) at the off loading area for containment of any accidental spillage. Ensure that wastewater from the oil interceptor is channeled into a conservancy tank. Carry out routine sampling and analysis of effluent from the station. Apply for effluent discharge license from NEMA. Proper disposal of wastes.
Solid waste generation	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Reuse and recycling of material where possible such as dug out soil for backfilling. Provision of solid waste receptacles. Proper disposal of all wastes in provided bins. Engagement of a licensed waste collector for waste collection.
Increased demand for water and electricity	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Provision of adequate water storage facilities for use at the site. Water and electricity conservation (saving measures). Installation of water and electricity meters and monthly readings. Provision of a standby generator. Maximizing on natural lighting. Rainwater harvesting and water re-use.
Fire risk	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Installation of firefighting equipment. Training station operators on fire fighting. Administrative controls including no smoking at all, no naked fires etc. Fire safety signage. Conducting fire safety audits.
Occupational Health and safety impacts	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Provision of suitable personal protective equipment.

- Creation of health and safety awareness.
- Provision of a first aid kit manned by a trained first aider.
- Formulation and implementation of a health and safety policy.
- Safety signage.
- Reporting and recording of any accidents occurring at site.
- Use of well maintained and suitable machines and equipment.
- Use of permits to work for hazardous operations & tasks.

The full report of the proposed project is available for inspection during working hours at:

(a) Director-General, NEMA, Popo Road, off Mombasa Road, P.O. Box 67839-00200, Nairobi.

(b) Principal Secretary, Ministry of Environment and Mineral Resources, NHIF Building, Community, P.O. Box 30521, Nairobi.

(c) County Director of Environment, Kiambu County.

The National Environment Management Authority invites members of the public to submit oral or written comments within thirty (30) days from the date of publication of this notice to the Director-General, NEMA, to assist the Authority in the decision making process of the plan.

THE COMMISSION FOR THE IMPLEMENTATION OF CONSTITUTION

QUARTERLY REPORT FOR THE PERIOD JULY TO SEPTEMBER 2012

Message from the Chairperson

It is my pleasure once more to present to you the Quarterly Report of the Commission for the Implementation of the Constitution (CIC) for the period July to September 2012. This period was unique as it coincided with the second anniversary of the promulgation of the Constitution and the submission of the CIC Annual Report for the period 2011/2012. Having received feedback on the format and content of our quarterly reports, this report, the seventh, in our series of quarterly reports, takes a slightly different structure. The report now focuses on the strategic outcomes arising from the day to day operations of CIC guided by our vision of a united, peaceful and prosperous Kenya in which all citizens including leaders respect the rule of law, uphold national values and live by the Constitution.

The journey of implementing the Constitution has been fruitful as key milestones were achieved, often under tight timelines, and sometimes in a less than hospitable environment. The Commission worked tirelessly alongside the Kenyan people to thwart attempts to derail the implementation process and ensured that challenges were addressed expeditiously to keep the implementation of the Constitution on course.

The Commission experienced a setback with the alteration of the Leadership and Integrity Bill. The Bill was watered down in Parliament, resulting in a law without adequate enforcement mechanisms. The events surrounding the passage of the Leadership and Integrity Act, 2012 are indeed a low moment for the Commission and the people of Kenya. Some reforms under the Constitution are still pending, including, setting up of key institutions and appointments to key offices. The Inspector General of Police, the two Deputy Inspectors, the National Land Commission and other Constitutional Commissions were yet to be set up by the close of the third quarter of the year.

In the course of discharging our mandate, the Commission continues to espouse the constitutional principles of the rule of law, constitutionalism and public participation. In this regard, we remained vigilant and decisive in our actions to avert breaches of the Constitution, including direct appeals to contravening parties, informing the public on imminent breaches and seeking judicial intervention where necessary. As we move forward, it is not lost on the Commission that the Constitution heralds fundamental change, and as such, is likely to face resistance from those opposed to such change. Notwithstanding the challenges faced in the implementation process, I can state that the constitution implementation agenda is firmly on course and we have realised key legislative targets.

In conclusion, I would like to emphasize that the rights and benefits in the Constitution place attendant responsibilities on each one of us. As we move forward, we should all strive to discharge our individual and collective responsibility of defending, protecting and upholding the Constitution with utmost vigilance and dedication.

CHARLES NYACHAE,
CHAIRPERSON

Executive Summary

This is the seventh quarterly report of the Commission for the Implementation of the Constitution since its establishment. It covers the period of July to September 2012.

The mandate, specific functions and objects of the Commission as stipulated in the Constitution and the Commission for the Implementation of the Constitution Act, (CIC Act), is to monitor, facilitate and oversee the development of legislation and administrative procedures required to implement the Constitution; to coordinate with the Attorney-General and the Kenya Law Reform Commission (KLRC) in preparing for tabling in Parliament the legislation required to implement the Constitution; and to report every three months to the Constitutional Implementation Oversight Committee on the progress and challenges faced in the implementation of the Constitution.

Other functions of the Commission are to work with other constitutional commissions to ensure that the letter and spirit of the Constitution is respected, the sovereignty of the people of Kenya protected, observance by all State organs of the democratic values and principles is observed and constitutionalism is promoted.

The Commission has defined six key result areas which guide its work on its mandate and provide the basis for accountability to other institutions and the people of Kenya. These result areas are:

- Result 1: A respected, well-functioning and independent Commission effectively delivering on its mandate.
- Result 2: Policies which are compliant with the letter and the spirit of the Constitution.
- Result 3: Laws which are compliant with the letter and the spirit of the Constitution.
- Result 4: Effective institutional frameworks and administrative procedures for the implementation of the Constitution.
- Result 5: Improved service delivery and quality of life of the People of Kenya in all 47 Counties.
- Result 6: Observance by all State organs of the national values and principles.

During the reporting period, the Commission worked on policies, legislation and regulations received from various Ministries as reported under the six key result areas. To deliver on its mandate, the Commission strengthened its Secretariat by recruiting additional technical staff and created two directorates for Programs and Management Services.

The Commission also encouraged generation of comprehensive policies to guide development of legislation. In this regard, the Commission initiated the process of developing a public participation framework and received the Kenya Health Policy and a policy framework on Education and Training from Ministries of Health and Education respectively.

On development of laws, the Commission received 20 Bills from various Ministries for review. Eight bills were reviewed and forwarded to the AG, including the three Family Law Bills, the Election Campaign Financing Bill, among others. At least six Bills were enacted into law. The Ratification of Treaties Bill went through the Third Reading in Parliament, while the Consumer Protection Bill, was introduced to Parliament as a private member's Bill. The Commission also received advance copies of the Office of the Attorney-General Bill, the Office of the Director of Public Prosecutions Bill, the Contempt of Court Bill and the Magistrates' Courts (Amendment) Bill. The Commission also audited the four devolution Acts to ensure they are not inconsistent with each other.

On establishing institutional frameworks and administrative procedures, the Commission received a number of regulations including those related to elections, public service commission, the guide for implementing human rights, and transition to devolved government, among others.

Towards ensuring public participation, the Commission organised diverse activities to facilitate engagement with stakeholders, issued public advisories on breaches of the Constitution and instituted litigation to enforce implementation of the Constitution. The Commission held meetings with ministries, civil society organizations, and used online and social media platforms for communication.

The Commission faced challenges including the curious urgency of the Executive to fast track and table Bills in parliament before the Commission had completed reviewing the Bills for consistency with the Constitution. The Leadership and Integrity Act, 2012, for example, did not reflect the input and recommendations given by the Commission and the public. In these circumstances, most of the draft Bills are under-researched and therefore incapable of facilitating effective implementation of the Constitution.

Other challenges include the inordinate focus on developing legislation at the expense of the requisite policies, administrative procedures and institutional frameworks that form an enabling environment. During the reporting period only two policies were received in CIC, against over 20 Bills.

To address some of these challenges, the Commission recommends increased public participation. In addition, Bills already reviewed by the Commission should not be amended unless completely necessary. Parliament should make an effort to enact the Bills identified as priority in the stipulated timeframes. This will allow prompt implementation of the prioritized legislation and especially with the upcoming general elections and the taking off of the county governments.

Introduction

This is the seventh quarterly report of the Commission for the Implementation of the Constitution (CIC) and it covers activities between July and September 2012. The report discusses the progress in and the state of implementation of the Constitution of Kenya, 2010. It highlights the achievements, challenges, impediments and lessons learned in this period and makes recommendations to address those challenges.

To facilitate its work, CIC has organized itself into eight thematic areas. These are Citizenship and Bill of Rights; Land and Environment; Public Service and Leadership; Representation of the People and the Legislature; the Executive and Security; the Judiciary and Constitutional Commissions; Devolved Government; and Public Finance. Each thematic area team, led by a Commissioner, monitors, oversees and facilitates the implementation of the Constitution and works with relevant agencies, public institutions, state and non-state actors, development partners and the people of Kenya on various implementation issues.

The report has seven sections. The first section summarizes the mandate and role of the Commission. The second presents an overview of the Commission's activities relating to review of policies, draft legislations and draft regulations. Section three focuses on other Commission activities, including stakeholder engagement during the reporting period. The section also summarizes reports from ministries and state corporations on the activities with regard to implementation of the constitution. Section four of the report highlights the challenges and lessons learnt, with recommendations on how to address the emerging challenges. Finally, the fifth section gives an overview of the major activities planned for the fourth quarter of 2012.

Mandate and Role of the Commission for the Implementation of the Constitution

The Commission is established under Paragraph 5(6) of the Sixth Schedule of the Constitution. The mandate and specific functions and objects of CIC are found in the Constitution and the Commission for the Implementation of the Constitution Act, 2010. These functions are:

1. To monitor, facilitate and oversee the development of legislation and administrative procedures required to implement the Constitution;
2. To coordinate with the Attorney-General and the Kenya Law Reform Commission (KLRC) in preparing for tabling in Parliament the legislation required to implement the Constitution;
3. To report every three months to the Constitutional Implementation Oversight Committee on:
 - a. progress in the implementation of the Constitution; and
 - b. any impediments in its implementation;
4. To work with each constitutional commission to ensure that the letter and spirit of the Constitution are respected; and
5. To exercise such other functions as are provided for by the Constitution or any other written law.

This mandate is further amplified by Article 249 (1), which sets out that these functions are intended to protect the sovereignty of the people, secure observance by all State organs of democratic values and principles, and promote constitutionalism. The Commission is independent in the performance of its mandate and is not subject to the direction and control of any person or authority, other than the Constitution and relevant laws. This enjoins the Commission to remain accountable to the people of Kenya, to uphold the principle of public participation and to secure from all State organs, without fear or favour, the compliance with the values and principles of governance in the Constitution.

In its operations, the Commission is guided by the national values and principles of governance as stipulated in Article 10(2) (see box 1 below) and other articles of the Constitution. These provisions regulate all public policy decisions and are binding upon all State organs, State officers, public officers and all persons whenever any of them interprets or applies the Constitution or any law thereof.

National Values and Principles of Governance

- (a) Patriotism, national unity, sharing and devolution of power, the rule of law, democracy and participation of the people;
- (b) Human dignity, equity, social justice, inclusiveness, equality, human rights, non-discrimination and protection of the marginalized;
- (c) Good governance, integrity, transparency and accountability; and
- (d) Sustainable development.

The Commission plays a coordinating role in implementation of the Constitution and it is imperative that it has access to information on all initiatives, activities and actors involved in the implementation of the Constitution.

1.1 Implementation in the Context of the Commission's Mandate

The implementation of the Constitution with regard to the mandate of the Commission involves:

- (a) Facilitating the development of new laws, policies, administrative procedures and regulations required to implement the Constitution;
- (b) Reviewing existing laws, policies, administrative procedures, regulations and legislation required to implement the Constitution;
- (c) Ensuring that the institutional and legislative structures necessary to give effect to the Constitution, especially in relation to the devolved government, are in place;
- (d) Ensuring the participation by the people of Kenya in the review process. The Constitution protects the power of the people to determine how they wish to be governed at the national and county levels in accordance with the national values and principles set out in Articles 1, 10, 118 and 232;
- (e) Ensuring that where new laws are developed or existing ones are amended the new laws and the policies which informed development of the laws are to be forwarded to the AG, KLRC and the Commission for review;

- (f) Ensuring that the legislative process adheres to the provisions of Article 261 of the Constitution on consequential provisions;
- (g) Coordinating with the AG and KLRC in drafting Bills in coordination with originating institutions;
- (h) Coordinating with the AG and KLRC, the Parliamentary Constitution Implementation Oversight Committee (CIOC) and other parliamentary committees to ensure timely enactment of legislation.
- (i) Coordinating development of change-management strategies.
- (j) Monitoring effective implementation of the Constitution in devolved units of governance.

The Commission notes that the Constitution can only be fully implemented when all state and non-state actors involved in its implementation play their part complementarily. To facilitate that process, the Commission has adopted a cooperative and consultative approach and regularly engages with all partners in diverse forums.

1.2 Key Result Areas

In the execution of its mandate, CIC has adopted the results-based approach and defined key result areas highlighted in Box 2 below to guide its work and provide the basis for accountability to other institutions and the people of Kenya.

CIC Key Result Areas

Result 1: A respected, well-functioning and independent Commission effectively delivering on its mandate.

Result 2: Policies, which are compliant with the letter and the spirit of the Constitution.

Result 3: Laws, which are compliant with the letter and the spirit of the Constitution.

Result 4: Effective institutional frameworks and administrative procedures for the implementation of the Constitution.

1.3 Technical Arrangements

To achieve its constitutional mandate as stipulated in CIC Act and other constitutional provisions, the Commission has designed and adopted appropriate organizational structures and strategies. These include thematic area teams as well as monitoring, facilitating and overseeing the implementation of the Constitution.

The Commission has a Secretariat headed by a Chief Executive Officer. The Secretariat has two directorates, each headed by a director. They are:

- (a) Programmes Directorate.
- (b) Management Services Directorate.

The Commission has also organized itself into eight Thematic Areas drawn from the subject matter of the different chapters of the Constitution. These are:

1. Citizenship and Bill of Rights – this thematic area coordinates activities dealing with human rights and citizenship as found in Chapters Three and Four of the Constitution.
2. Land and Environment – this thematic area coordinates the implementation of Chapter Five on land and environment.
3. Public Service and Leadership – this thematic area coordinates the implementation of Chapter Six on leadership and integrity and Chapter Thirteen on public service.
4. Representation of the People and the Legislature – this thematic area deals with the implementation of Chapters Seven and Eight on representation of the people and the legislature.
5. Executive and Security – this thematic area coordinates the implementation of Chapters Nine and Fourteen on the Executive and on security.
6. The Judiciary and Constitutional Commissions – this thematic area coordinates the implementation of Chapter

Ten on the Judiciary and Chapter Fifteen constitutional commissions and independent offices.

7. Devolved Government – this thematic area coordinates the implementation of Chapter Eleven and the Sixth Schedule, paragraph 15(2)(d) on devolution.
8. Public Finance – this thematic area coordinates the implementation of Chapter Twelve which deals with public finance management.

Each Thematic Area team is convened by a Commissioner, working with one or more Commissioners as co-conveners. The teams spearhead engagement with relevant sectors and reports to the Commission.

2. Status Update on the Implementation of the Constitution

The Commission supported enactment of all laws which had to be in place by the second anniversary of promulgation of the Constitution, which is August 27 2012. Annex 1 contains a list of laws that have been enacted. This section highlights key outcomes including enactment of laws, development of policies and administrative procedures, operationalization of constitutional commissions, progress in implementation of devolved government and preparedness for the next general elections.

2.1 Development of Policies

The Commission continues to encourage implementing agencies to develop policies to guide development of laws, systems and structures to implement the Constitution. During the quarter, the Commission initiated the process of developing a public participation framework. It also received two policies: the Kenya Health Policy and a policy framework on education and training, which are discussed below.

(a) Development of a Framework on Public Participation

The principle of public participation is fundamental in the implementation of the Constitution and is encouraged as a national value, in management, protection and conservation of the environment, in the conduct of Parliament, in national and county assemblies, as an object of devolution, and as a principle of public finance.

Public participation relates to an open, accountable process through which individuals and groups within selected communities can exchange ideas and influence decision-making. It is a democratic process of engaging people, deciding, planning and playing an active part in development and operation of services that affect their lives.

In partnership with the Ministry of Justice, National Cohesion and Constitutional Affairs and civil society organizations, the Commission facilitated a three-day stakeholder conference in September 2012 on public participation. The co-convening civil society organisations included URAIA, Kenya Human Rights Commission, Katiba Institute and The Institute for Social Accountability. The forum brought together over 75 representatives from the three arms of Government, civil society organizations and academia as well as international speakers from South Africa and Brazil. The conference had the following objectives:

- (i) To create an environment that will enable concerned individuals, experts and organizations to meet and take stock of the state of public participation within the new constitutional order;
- (ii) To evaluate the extent of public participation in government and private sector programmes;
- (iii) To provide an opportunity for the public to give input in designing how they should participate in the formulation and implementation of programs that affect them; and
- (iv) To discuss and agree on the most suitable framework on public participation and a plan of action for developing the framework.

The key recommendation that arose from the conference was the need to put in place a policy framework that will guide effective implementation and monitoring the observance of the principle of public participation. The delegates noted that since the principle is provided for under the Constitution, there was no need for specific legislation since the policy would suffice to guide in development of sectoral legislation as well as development of legislation under county governments. The proposed policy should:

- (i) Provide standards for public participation by defining what constitutes public participation in different areas;
- (ii) Identify gaps in public participation under the various sectors;
- (iii) Provide a mechanism for monitoring the implementation of public participation by addressing the efficiency and quality of public participation.
- (iv) Provide guidance on issues of inclusivity, fairness, while mitigating against elite capture of citizen spaces; and
- (v) Enhance access to information by tapping local information and knowledge for effective public engagement.

The Commission will continue to work with the Ministry of Justice, National Cohesion and Constitutional Affairs and civil society organizations in developing a policy that will guide effective implementation of the principle of public participation.

(b) Kenya Health Policy, 2012 – 2030

The Ministry of Health submitted to the Commission the Kenya Health Policy 2012-2030. The Policy guides the improvement of health services in line with the country's long-term development agenda set out in Vision 2030, in the Constitution and in global commitments. The Policy, which focuses on six objectives, and seven orientations to attain the overall government's goals in health care takes into account the functional responsibilities between the two levels of government (county and national) with respective accountability, reporting and management lines. It is currently under review by the Commission.

(c) A Policy Framework for Education and Training

The Commission received from Ministry of Education a draft policy framework for education and training which aims to reform the education and training sectors in Kenya in line with the Constitution.

The Constitution makes education a right of every Kenyan, and in particular, guarantees every child a free and compulsory basic education. It further provides for access to affordable tertiary education, training and skills development. The policy, which is under review by the Commission, will provide a comprehensive framework to develop laws that guide education at both national and county levels.

2.2 Development of Legislation

During the reporting period, the Commission received twenty Bills from various Ministries for review. By the end of the quarter, twelve Bills had been reviewed and forwarded to Attorney General, of which seven were enacted. The remaining Bills will be processed during the last quarter of 2012.

(a) The Immigration Related Bills

Two immigration bills were submitted to CIC and are undergoing internal review. They include the National Registration and Identification Bill 2012, and the Refugee Bill 2012, which seek to give effect to Chapter Three of the Constitution.

The National Registration and The Identification Bill, 2012:

CIC facilitated a stakeholder forum in November 2011 to review the Identification and Registration of Persons Bill 2011, Births and Deaths Registration Bill 2011 and the Refugee Bill 2012, which are among the bills from the Ministry of State for Immigration and Registration of Persons. The bills aim at reforming the registration and immigration systems.

One of the key recommendations from the stakeholder forum convened to discuss these Bills was the need to consolidate the Identification and Registration of Persons Bill, 2011 and Births and Deaths Registration Bill, 2011. This would be the first step towards creating an integrated civil registration mechanism that will enhance access to service delivery for citizens, avoid duplicity in the registration process and assist the government to monitor citizen's compliance with their civic duties.

Subsequently, the Commission held a meeting with the Ministry of State for Immigration and Registration of Persons in March 2012 on the consolidation of the two bills, which were consolidated into the National Registration and Identification Bill, 2012. The consolidated bill was forwarded to CIC, which circulated it to relevant stakeholders for review. The bill will be finalized during the next quarter and forwarded to the Attorney General for publication.

The Refugee Bill 2012: the Commission is keen on ensuring that the Refugee Bill and the National Registration and Identification Bill 2012 are processed together. Because of that, the Refugee Bill was put on hold pending finalization of the National Registration and Identification Bill 2012. The two bills have since been forwarded to stakeholders for review.

(b) The Family Law Bills

One of the key achievements in the last quarter was the finalization of the review of the Family Law Bills, which aim to give effect to Article 45 of the constitution. There are three family related bills: The Marriage Bill, 2012, the Matrimonial Property Bill, 2012 and the Protection against Domestic Violence Bill, 2012. Following county stakeholder forums held in second quarter, the Commission organized final consultation in August 2012 with top leadership of faith-based organizations (Christians, Muslims, Hindu and Bahai) and traditional elders (from Kisii, Kuria, Ogiek, Pokot, Maasai and Turkana) with unique practices relating to marriage.

The proposals from the stakeholder consultations were incorporated into the bills. The Commission then held an internal plenary meeting in August 2012 followed by a retreat by the Ministry of Gender, Children and Social Development and the Office of the Attorney General in August 2012 where each clause in the three bills was reviewed to incorporate comments made by the Commission.

The Marriage Bill, 2012: The Marriage Bill 2012 will repeal seven prior Acts of parliament relating to various regimes of marriage, thus consolidating the different systems into one. This process of consolidation has raised several concerns among stakeholders:

- (i) Consolidation of marriage laws into one law is untenable: The harmonization of these laws and particularly the provision of general overarching principles relating to the different marriage systems created an impression among interested parties, especially religious groups, that doctrines and rules conflicting with their belief systems would be forced on them. It was clear, for example, that the concept of marriage varied from one regime to another among Civil, Christian, Customary Hindu and Islamic marriages. The various systems differ in the manner of celebration and dissolution. Whereas the 21 days notice of marriage is applicable and relevant to Civil and Christian marriages, it is not applicable to the customary and Islamic marriages. The Muslims clearly indicated that they would like their marriages to be governed by Islamic law and not to be subjected to a harmonized law that may subject them to practices that do not apply to Muslims. Further, they would not want to compromise on any of their practices as they subject themselves to a consolidated law. They emphasized that Article 24 of the Constitution saved the application of Islamic law in matters relating to the family. In an attempt to address this challenge, the Marriage Bill was divided into different sections providing for the celebration, registration and dissolution of each of the different systems of marriage. In addition, a general statement was added to cater for all other systems where individuals may feel that they are not adequately covered either under the Christian, civil, customary, Hindu or Islamic systems of marriage.
- (ii) Customary marriages are not adequately covered in the Bill: The description of customary marriages was not adequately provided in the Bill. Stakeholders raised concern on the evidence that would be used to certify conclusion of a customary marriage for registration purposes. Under the Bill, every marriage irrespective of the system under which it is concluded must be registered. As such, the Bill was revised to provide general guidance on the celebration of customary marriages to the Director of Marriages on their registration.
- (iii) Payment of Dowry: It was clear from the engagement with different religious groups and community elders that the concept of dowry is fundamental to the institution of marriage. They all opposed the idea of abolishing or making it optional. It was also noted that dowry payment is a legal obligation under Islamic law and most African customs noted that this is part of the central forms of evidence for a valid marriage.

In this regard payment of dowry was retained in the Bill with provisions prohibiting commercialization of dowry while also ensuring that any person who wants to exercise their right to found a family will do so without being hindered by the dowry related issues.

- (iv) Presumption of Marriage: There were different schools of thought on the presumption of marriage or the recognition of so-called 'come-we-stay' relationships. Muslims, Christians and traditional leaders opposed the idea of giving the status of marriage to such casual relationships.

Whereas most stakeholders agreed that many people live in these kinds of relationships, they nonetheless felt that the way forward should be to facilitate easy and accessible registration of marriages. It was argued that marriages create serious obligations and therefore the institution should be upheld and treated with respect it deserves. Thus, provisions relating to presumption of marriage were deleted from the Marriage bill.

The Matrimonial Property Bill 2012: The Matrimonial Property Bill did not have major concerns save for the need to ensure clarity in the division of matrimonial and other property in polygamous marriages. The Bill was revised to provide guidance on the rights of every wife over property acquired together with her husband as against the rights of other wives. The Bill also provides clarity on ownership and division of ancestral land and cultural homes.

The Protection against Domestic Violence Bill 2012: Discussion on this bill focused on the following:

- (1) Protection of Victims of Domestic Violence: One of the key proposals by stakeholders was that the previous title of the bill was misleading since the bill focuses on protection of victims of domestic violence and not for the general protection of the family. The title of the bill was revised from Family Protection Bill to Protection against Domestic Violence Bill, 2012.
- (2) Protection Fund: The bill provided for the establishment of a protection fund for victims of domestic violence. However, following stakeholder and deliberations by the Commission, the provisions for the proposed fund were deleted.

The Protection against Domestic Violence Bill, 2012, was revised to include suitable mechanisms and services that will be devolved to the county level. It further allows for each county to determine the most suitable temporary relief and protection mechanisms to ensure adequate protection of victims against stigmatization and other forms of discrimination, and to enhance accountability in protection mechanisms.

The Commission facilitated a roundtable meeting on the Bills with the Ministry of Gender, Children and Social Development; Office of the AG and KLRC in September 2012 after which they were forwarded to the Attorney General for final drafting and onward transmission to the Cabinet.

(c) The Ratification of Treaties Bill 2012

The Ratification of Treaties Bill, which is aimed at giving effect to Article 2 of the Constitution went through the Third Reading on 27th September 2012 and currently awaits presidential assent.

(d) The Freedom of Information Bill 2012 and the Data Protection Bill 2012

The Commission reviewed the Freedom of Information Bill, 2012 and the Data Protection Bill, 2012 with various proposals for incorporation alongside proposals by other stakeholders who reviewed them. They included the Ministry of State for Defence; National Intelligence Service; Open Society Initiative for East Africa (OSIEA), the Ministry of Information and Communication and the Media council of Kenya.

The key amendment to the Bills related to oversight mechanism. The Commission facilitated extensive consultations on the most effective mechanism to oversee and ensure effective realization of the right to privacy (Article 31) and the right of access to information (Article 35). It was determined that the Commission on Administrative Justice was the most suitable entity to facilitate implementation of these rights.

(e) The Consumer Protection Bill, 2011

The Consumer Protection Bill is designed to give effect to Article 46 of the Constitution and should therefore contain provisions that enhance protection mechanisms for consumers in all sectors. It affects every citizen and is about every sector. The Commission learned through the media that Parliament had discussed and moved on the Bill to the Second Reading. However, in its current form the Bill does not comprehensively cover protection across all sectors and is not properly cross-referenced and aligned to other pieces of legislation. The Commission is currently determining how best to proceed in ensuring that all relevant elements that should be in this Bill are covered even if the Bill goes through the enactment process as a private members bill.

(f) The Election Campaign Financing Bill, 2012

The Election Campaign Financing Bill, 2012 seeks to regulate the amount of money that may be spent by or on behalf of a candidate or party in respect of any election. It provides for the management, spending controls, regulation and transparent accountability of funds during an election and referendum campaigns, thus giving effect to Articles 88 and 91 of the Constitution.

The Commission reviewed the bill and thereafter sent it to AG in August 2012. By the end of the quarter, the Bill had not been published and worryingly, the next general elections were merely five months away.

(g) The Office of the Attorney-General Bill, 2012

The Commission is in receipt of an advance copy of the Office of the Attorney-General Bill, 2012. The Bill, which is expected to be finalized during the months of October to December, seeks to give effect to Article 156 of the Constitution and provides for the administration and discharge of functions of the Attorney-General.

(h) The Director of Public Prosecutions Bill, 2012

The Commission received an advance copy of the Office of the Director of Public Prosecutions Bill, 2012, which seeks to give effect to Article 157 of the Constitution and other relevant Articles. The Bill provides for the composition, administration, functions and powers of the Director of Public Prosecutions. The Office of the Director of Public Prosecutions must be independent and must be prioritize the public interest, the administration of justice and prevention of abuse of prosecutorial powers. Review of the bill will commence once the draft is completed.

(i) The Contempt of Court Bill, 2012 and the Magistrates' Court (Amendment) Bill, 2012

The Commission convened a technical meeting in September to collect views on technical and general issues arising from the draft Contempt of Court Bill, 2012. The stakeholders included representatives from the KLRC, the AG's Office, the Judiciary and the Law Society of Kenya's Committee on Law Reform and Constitutional Implementation.

The Commission also discussed with the AG and KLRC the need to enact fresh legislation and repeal the Magistrates' Courts Act (Chapter 10 of the Laws of Kenya) to bring it in line with the Constitution instead of amending the law through the Magistrates' Court (Amendment) Bill, 2012 merely to address matters relating to pecuniary jurisdiction of the courts. The Commission is in the process of preparing a draft Bill that will enact a new Magistrates' Court law and repeal the current Act as agreed in the meeting.

(j) The Leadership and Integrity Bill, 2012

Article 80 of the Constitution requires Parliament to:

1. Establish procedures and mechanisms for the effective administration of leadership and integrity (Chapter Six);
2. Prescribe the penalties, in addition to the penalties referred to in Article 75 that may be imposed for contravention of this Chapter;
3. Provide for the application of this Chapter, with the necessary modifications, to public officers; and
4. Make any other provision necessary for ensuring the promotion of the principles of leadership and integrity mentioned in this Chapter, and its enforcement.

The legislation must be enacted within two years from the date of promulgation of the Constitution. The Leadership and Integrity Bill, 2012 was received by the Commission towards the end of the second quarter and was reviewed during this quarter. The Bill also recognized the responsibility of the Ethics and Anti-Corruption Commission as the primary institution for ensuring compliance with and enforcement of the provisions on leadership and integrity.

In line with the principle of public participation, the Commission involved the public in the review of Leadership and Integrity Bill through the website and a stakeholder's review forum in July 2012 with representatives from different institutions in the 47 counties. Recommendations were received and incorporated. During the same month, the Commission held a roundtable meeting with the Ethics and Anti-Corruption Commission, the Ministry of Justice, National Cohesion and Constitutional Affairs, the Public Service Commission and the Ministry of State for Public Service to review the Bill. The reviewed draft was forwarded to the office of the AG for publication. The Bill was debated and enacted in Parliament and it received presidential assent on 27th August 2012.

However, the final version of the Act was not the version that the Commission had reviewed with various stakeholders before forwarding to the AG's office. The Act omitted some of the key provisions required to implement Chapter Six of the Constitution. (Annex 1B contains the Commission's advisory opinion on this matter).

(k) The Public Service Commission Act, 2012

The Public Service Commission Act, 2012 seeks to establish the Public Service Commission in line with Article 233 of the Constitution. It also spells out the functions of the Public Service Commission as contemplated in Article 234 of the Constitution.

The Commission finalized the review of the Bill and forwarded it to the office of the Attorney General in January 2012. However, it was not until 24th July 2012 that the Bill was enacted and assented to by the president. The delay in enactment consequently led to the delay in the release of the draft regulations required under Section 31 of the Public Service Commission Act, 2012.

(l) The Petitions to Parliament (Procedure) Act, 2012

The Petitions to Parliament (Procedure) Act, 2012 seeks to give effect to Article 119 of the Constitution which gives every person the right to petition Parliament to consider any matter within its authority, including enacting, amending or repealing any legislation. CIC received the Petitions to Parliament (Procedure) Bill in July 2012, and held a consultative meeting with various stakeholders in the same month. The Commission subsequently reviewed the Bill and released it to the AG for publication. The Bill was enacted and received Presidential assent on 27th August 2012.

(m) The Assumption of Office of President Act, 2012

The National Assembly enacted the Assumption of Office of President Act, 2012 on 23rd August 2012 following review and consultative forums by the Commission. The Act gives effect to Article 141 of the Constitution, which obligates Parliament to enact legislation to provide for the procedure and ceremony for the swearing in of the President-elect. The Act makes provisions for the requisite arrangements for assumption of office by the President-elect including the establishment of the Assumption of the Office of President Committee and providing for the procedure for assumption of the office by the President-elect.

The Act states that the swearing in of the President-elect shall be conducted in a public ceremony, which shall be held in the capital city. The Committee is legally obligated to publish, by notice in the Gazette, the date and place for the conduct of the swearing-in ceremony. The Act further provides for the swearing in of the Deputy President-elect.

(n) The National Security Related Acts

During the reporting period, three bills related to national security were enacted into law. These are: The Kenya Defence Forces Bill, the National Intelligence Service Bill and the National Police Service Bill.

- (1) The Kenya Defence Forces Act, 2012: The Commission held a meeting with the Ministry of State for Defence and the Kenya Defence Forces on the implementation of Chapter Fourteen of the Constitution. In particular, the implementation of Articles 239(6), 240 and 241 of the Constitution and the review of the Kenya Defence Forces Bill, 2012, now an act of Parliament awaiting publication. The Commission is now reviewing administrative procedures and subsidiary legislation to operationalize the Kenya Defence Forces Act, to ensure that the requisite administrative procedures conform to the letter and spirit of the Constitution and the Kenya Defence Forces Act, 2012.

The participation of serving and retired members of the Kenya Defence Forces was significant in enriching the Bill. The public, civil society amongst others contributed both online and in various forums held by the Commission to discuss the Bill.

- (2) The National Intelligence Service Act, 2012: The National Intelligence Service Bill, 2012 was enacted and is now awaiting publication. The bill was jointly reviewed by the Commission, the National Intelligence Service, the Attorney-General and KLRC and the Ministry of State for Provincial Administration and Internal Security. The Commission is now working closely with the National Intelligence Service and the Ministry of State for Provincial Administration and Internal Security in the formulation of the requisite administrative measures, policies and regulations to operationalize the National Intelligence Service Act, 2012. In particular, the Commission is keenly following the formulation and implementation of the necessary regulations for vetting persons seeking elective and appointive positions ahead of the forthcoming general elections.
- (3) The National Police Service Act, 2012: The Commission notes that despite the enactment of the National Police Service Act and National Police Service Commission Act, the two Acts are yet to be operationalized. The inordinate delays by the executive and National Assembly to appoint the Inspector-General and establishment of the National Police Service Commission is a significant drawback in the realization of requisite reforms in the police sector as envisioned in the Constitution and the two Acts. The Commission has sought the intervention of the Executive and National Assembly to get the process moving.

(o) The Audit of Devolution Acts

Due to tight timelines required to develop the devolution Acts, development of the five acts was done separately. Further, with a limited timeframe to review the Bills, the Commission focused on the constitutionality of the Acts. An audit of the Acts is aimed at ensuring that they are coherent and consistent with each other. The Commission is thus currently auditing the following devolution Acts.

- (a) The County Governments Act, 2012
- (b) The Intergovernmental Relations Act, 2012
- (c) The Urban Areas and Cities Act, 2011
- (d) Transition to Devolved Government Act, 2012
- (e) The Public Finance Management Act, 2012

2.3 Development of Administrative Procedures and Regulations

Regulations enable the actual carrying out of the mandate of an institution or organization. For state actors, such regulations must be in line with the laws governing the operations of the institution and in line with the Constitution. Further, regulations must be easy to understand and apply and should not be complex. They must not be used to undermine the provisions of legislation or the Constitution.

In the reporting period, the Commission received and reviewed regulations on elections and public service commission. The Commission also started review of regulations on devolution and the guide to the implementation of human rights. These reviews will continue to the next quarter.

(a) The Election Regulations, 2012

The Elections Regulations outline operations for voter registration, voter education, nomination of candidates for election, campaigns, voting at polling stations, transmission of results of polls, counting of votes and declaration of results. The Constitution Implementation Commission received four sets of Election Regulations in August 2012, namely:

- (a) the Elections (Registration of Voters) Regulations;
- (b) the Elections (Voter Education) Regulations;
- (c) the Elections (General) Regulations;
- (d) the Elections (Kenyans living abroad registration and voting) Regulations.

The Commission reviewed and released the regulations in the same month. It is noteworthy that the Commission recommended that the regulations on Kenyans living abroad should only be developed based on a policy which defines and operationalizes the constitutional requirement that the registration and voting be progressive. Section 109(3) of the Elections Act 2011 requires Parliament to approve the regulations at least six months before an election, which should have been by 4th September 2012 for the March 2013 elections. However, Parliament amended the Elections Act to extend the last day for approval of the regulations to four months preceding a general election, thus making the 4th day of November 2012 the latest date by which Parliament should have approved all the regulations.

(b) on Transition to Devolved Government

The Commission is currently reviewing the following regulations developed for transition to devolved government;

- (a) the County Government Regulations, 2012;
- (b) the Transition to Devolved Government Regulations, 2012
- (c) the Intergovernmental Relations Regulations, 2012
- (d) the Urban Areas and Cities Regulations, 2012

(c) Existing By-laws

By-laws are powerful legislative measures, which if not effectively used, can undermine the letter and spirit of the Constitution. The current by-laws by local authorities may not be in line with the legislation currently being enacted on matters relating to devolution. In particular, the by-laws may not help in activities of cities, municipalities and towns created by the Cities and Urban Areas Act, 2011. CIC is therefore reviewing by-laws, to ensure that they are in line with the Constitution, policy and legal framework, and provide a system for devolved government to operate. These by-laws are numerous. Those identified for review will be reported in the next quarter.

(d) Public Service Commission Regulations, 2012

During this quarter, the Commission formally received the Public Service Commission Regulations for review. The regulations shall apply to public bodies and all persons holding and acting in public offices except those specified in Article 234(3) of the Constitution.

(e) A Guide for the Implementation of Human Rights

The Commission is currently developing a manual that will guide the integration and implementation of constitutional values and principles of human rights and freedoms in all sectors. The first draft of this Guide has been consolidated and shared with key implementing ministries for feedback. A graphic designer, an editor and an editorial team comprising of experts in matters relating to human rights have been engaged for quality control of the manual. The second draft will be subjected to a technical forum for review and approval before adoption and implementation.

2.4 Establishment and Operationalization of New Constitutional Commissions and Independent Offices

Chapter 15 of the Constitution establishes ten commissions (Table 1 below). The Human Rights and Equality Commission was restructured into 3 commissions, namely: the National Gender and Equality Commission, the National Commission on Administrative Justice and the Kenya National Commission on Human Rights. The National Land Commission Act was enacted in May 2012 and potential commissioners were interviewed but the commission yet to be made operational.

	Commission	Status
1	The Kenya National Human Rights and Equality Commission	✓
2	The National Land Commission	X
3	The Independent Electoral and Boundaries Commission	✓
4	The Parliamentary Service Commission	✓
5	The Judicial Service Commission	✓
6	The Commission on Revenue Allocation	✓
7	The Public Service Commission	X
8	The Salaries and Remuneration Commission	✓
9	The Teachers Service Commission	X
10	The National Police Service Commission	X
11	Ethics and Anti-Corruption Commission	✓
12	National Gender and Equality Commission	✓
13	National Commission on Administrative Justice	✓

The Public Service Commission and the Teachers Service Commission, though operational have not yet been reconstituted to comply with the Constitution. The process is ongoing. The Ethics and Anti-Corruption Commission was established but the Court annulled the appointment of the Chairperson. The process of appointment of the Chairperson has not been concluded.

Despite the enactment of the National Police Service and the National Police Service Commission Acts, the two Acts are yet to be operationalized. The delay in appointing Inspector-General and the establishment of the National Police Service Commission is a major drawback on reforms in the police sector as envisioned in the Constitution and in the legislation. This is even more acute as the country prepares for the next general elections.

The offices of the Auditor-General and the Controller of Budget are independent offices according to Article 248 of the Constitution. Both offices were appointed in accordance with the Independent Offices (Appointment) Act, 2011, and are functional. The Controller of Budget Bill is in development.

The Judicial Service Commission appointed a Committee of five members to oversee the establishment of an International Crimes Division in the High Court of Kenya as contemplated by section 8(2) of the Kenyan International Crimes Act of 2008. The Committee completed the task and presented its report to the Judicial Service Commission on 30th October 2012. The Commission resolved to engage the stakeholders in the administration of justice sector and receive comments on the document before the implementation of its recommendations. In that regard, the Constitutional Implementation Commission has been requested through the NCAJ to review the report and submit its comments.

2.5 Transition to Devolved Government

Section 15(d) of the Sixth Schedule to the Constitution mandates the Commission to effectively monitor the implementation of the system of devolved government. The Commission interprets effective devolution to include the following six pillars:

- (1) The process of functional assignment.
- (2) Capacity building of devolved government, especially the county governments.
- (3) Financing operations of county governments.
- (4) Service delivery.
- (5) Public participation.
- (6) Intergovernmental relations and conflict resolution.

Pursuant to this, the Commission is developing a monitoring framework for use in monitoring, facilitating, overseeing and reporting on critical aspects of the implementation of devolution including transition to the system of devolved government as envisaged in the Constitution and the Transition to Devolved Government Act, 2012. The framework is scheduled to be ready in the next quarter.

The Commission has held several meetings with the Transition Authority to set the agenda for the transition activities and getting the Transition Authority's plan of action in motion under Phase One of its mandate. The Commission and the Authority have agreed to fast track civic education on devolution, and complete Phase One activities by December 2012 which will in avoiding political interference during the heightened campaigns.

3. Promoting Constitutionalism and Protecting Sovereignty of the People of Kenya

3.1 Stakeholder Engagements

The Commission is mandated to work with each constitutional commission to ensure that the letter and spirit of the Constitution is respected. In addition, Article 249(1) of the Constitution requires all constitutional commissions to carry out their functions with the object of protecting the sovereignty of the people of Kenya, ensuring observance of democratic values and principles of governance and promoting constitutionalism.

The Commission strives to ensure that the objects set out in Article 249 are met. Activities to ensure this include: engagement with stakeholders, issuance of public advisories on apparent breaches of the Constitution and litigation to enforce implementation of the Constitution.

This section highlights some of the stakeholder engagements undertaken during the reporting period, including meetings with ministries, civil society organizations, online and social media engagement with stakeholders, and judicial interventions.

(a) Roadmap for the Implementation of Socio-Economic Rights

As the Commission awaits a meeting with the President on the establishment of an inter-ministerial team to set the guidelines and standards for effective realization of socio-economic rights guaranteed in the Constitution, the Commission continues to engage with implementing organs on progressive realization of socio-economic rights. The Commission is scheduled to work with the Office of the Prime Minister to facilitate a conference that will provide an opportunity for stakeholders to deliberate on the principle of progressive realization and an understanding of their role in the implementation process.

(b) Engagement with the Ministry of State for Public Service

During the quarter, the Commission held consultative meetings with the Ministry of State for Public Service on the values and principles of public service. Although the Fifth Schedule to the Constitution has provided a timeline of four years for the development of legislation relating to the values and principles of public service, it was agreed that, with the formation of county governments, it would be prudent to have the development of the legislation fast-tracked to ensure that these values and principles are also entrenched in public service at both levels of government.

The Commission also engaged with the Ministry of State for Public Service in the development of the Public Service Management Bill. A taskforce was formed by the Ministry to research further and establish whether there would be need for a Public Service Management Bill given that there are different pieces of legislation and subsidiary legislation that touch on different aspects of the public service. These include the Public Officers Ethics Act, 2003, the draft Public Service Commission regulations and the Leadership and Integrity Act, 2012. The Commission will continue to work with the Ministry and the taskforce to ensure that all public officers including those who are not under the Public Service Commission are subjected to universal norms and standards which cut across the public service.

(c) Engagement with the Ministry of Education:

The Commission held a meeting with Parliamentary Departmental Committee on Education and Technology in August 2012 to discuss the roadmap and timelines of key education reforms in Kenya. The meeting was attended by members of the Departmental Committee, the Minister for Education, the Minister for Higher Education, Science and Technology, Office of the Attorney General, the Constitutional Implementation Oversight Committee and the Kenya Law Reform Commission, among others. The meeting deliberated on the prioritization of key legislation within the education sector, namely: the Kenya National Examination Council (Amendment) Bill, the Education Bill, the Universities Bill, the Science and Technology and Innovation Bill, the Technical and Vocational Education Training Bill, the Kenya Qualification Framework Bill and the Kenya Institute of Curriculum Development Bill.

A follow up meeting between Ministers agreed to prioritize the review of Bills, which are not outlined in the Fifth Schedule. Consequently, a meeting held between the Constitutional Implementation Oversight Committee, the CIC and the AG's office agreed on the finalized schedule of the prioritized Bills.

Following these meetings, the Commission has developed a framework for engagement with the Ministry of Education, to assist in the review of the Education and Training Policy and the various Bills in order to fast-track reforms within the Education Sector.

(d) Engagement with the Chief Justice:

The Judiciary, under Article 105 of the Constitution and Section 75 of the Elections Act, 2012 is mandated to hear and determine any question on the validity of an elected person or when a parliamentary, county or assembly seat becomes vacant. In addition, Article 140 of the Constitution requires the Supreme Court to determine disputes that may arise from a presidential election within 14 days of the announcement of the election result. In anticipation of possible disputes that may arise from nominations and elections, the Commission met with the Chief Justice in July 2012 to discuss the following issues:

1. The mechanisms in place for dispute resolution before the scheduled March 2013 elections;
2. The preparations made by the Judiciary to ensure that any questions of membership to Parliament or County Assemblies are heard and determined within six months of the date of lodging a petition; and
3. Any capacity gaps within the judiciary to handle disputes relating to nominations and general elections.

The Chief Justice reported having appointed a working committee to establish mechanisms to ensure timely determination of disputes, which may arise from the March 2013 general elections. He further emphasized the need for judges to have necessary expertise to handle and determine immediately electoral disputes after the elections. The same committee has worked on draft Supreme Court rules for presidential elections, which will be reviewed by the Supreme Court Technical Committee on rules.

In addition to the recommendations by the working committee, the following activities are currently being carried out to prepare for elections:

- (i) undertaking a rigorous training of judges on electoral dispute resolution;
- (ii) sharing of experiences from other jurisdictions to enhance the Judiciary's understanding of timely resolution to election disputes;
- (iii) fast tracking of existing cases to decrease the back log of cases within the Judiciary;
- (iv) working towards creating a High Court station in each county and recruiting new High Court judges to speed up the dispute resolution process after the next general elections;
- (v) working towards recruiting more High Court judges to hear and determine electoral disputes

Because of inadequate capacity, the Chief Justice expressed a time concern over the provisions of Article 140 of the Constitution which requires the Supreme Court to hear and determine any cases relating to disputes over presidential elections within 14 days of filing of a petition which may be too short a timeframe to conclude a case of such magnitude. However, the Chief Justice gave an assurance that the Judiciary would innovatively work on a mechanism to ensure that all disputes were resolved within the required timelines to uphold the Constitution. In addition, he expressed concern that the ongoing process of vetting of judges and magistrates may result to less number of High Court judges to determine electoral disputes.

(e) Vetting of Judges and Magistrates Vetting Board:

The President assented to the Statute Law (Miscellaneous Amendments) Act, 2012 on 6th July 2012 despite the controversy surrounding some of the amendments in the law, including the amendment to Section 23(2) of the Vetting of Judges and Magistrates Act, 2011.

Section 23(2) of the Vetting of Judges and Magistrates Act, 2011 now reads as follows:

The Board shall be divided into three panels for purposes of vetting, and the three panels shall vet the judges simultaneously while the Judicial Service Commission shall vet the Magistrates.

The effect of this amendment was to extend the functions of the Vetting Board to the Judicial Service Commission (JSC).

On the day the President assented to the Statute Law (Miscellaneous Amendments) Act, the Chief Justice convened a stakeholders' meeting at the Supreme Court Building to consider whether or not JSC should take part in the vetting of magistrates. The stakeholders agreed that vetting of magistrates by JSC would erode public confidence in the vetting process and in the judicial reforms as a whole. It was agreed that a technical team comprising representatives of the Vetting Board, CAJ, CIC, and MOJNCA would propose an amendment to the Act to revert the vetting of magistrates to the Vetting Board. The Vetting of Judges and Magistrates (Amendment) Bill, 2012 was published on 28th September 2012.

(f) Engagement with National Council on the Administration of Justice:

The Commission attended a special meeting of the National Council on the Administration of Justice (NCAJ) in August 2012. The purpose of the meeting was to fast track the review and enactment of the following bills: the Contempt of Court Bill, 2012, the Office of the Director of Public Prosecutions Bill, 2012, the Transfer of Prisoners Bill, 2012 and the Coroners Bill, 2012.

In addition, the Commission has been working with various institutions in the justice sector including the Judiciary, the Office of the Attorney General, the Office of the DPP, MOJNCA, the Kenya Prison Service, the Law Society of Kenya, FIDA-Kenya, the CRADLE, the Ministry of Labour, the Ministry of Environment, the Ministry of Gender, Children and Social Development, Legal Resources Foundation, Office of the President, National Community Service Orders, KEPSA and the Witness Protection Agency to develop policies and administrative procedures for the operation of the National Council on the Administration of Justice. This includes the NCAJ Policy, Strategic Plan, Annual Work plan and Guidelines for Court User Committees.

(g) Engagement with the Transition Authority:

The Commission held a consultative meeting with the Transition Authority in July, 2012, to set the agenda for the transition activities and getting the Transition Authority's plan of action under Phase One of its mandate. The Commission and the Authority agreed to fast track civic education on devolution, with the Transition Authority developing an in-depth curriculum to guide civic education and the Commission monitoring its content and methodology to ensure that it's in line with the principles and spirit of devolution. It was agreed that transition activities under Phase One will be completed by December 2012, to avoid political interference during the heightened campaigns between December 2012 and March 2013.

(h) Engagement with SACCO Regulatory Authority (SASRA)

The SACCO Regulatory Authority sought a meeting with the Commission in August 2012 to discuss issues pertaining to constitutional provisions on devolution and the authorities' role in the transition process. In particular, SASRA sought to clarify some provisions in the Constitution relating to devolution and discuss how best they can actualize their position of a regulator with national recognition under the new dispensation. The meeting resolved that the process of amending the SACCO Act should be in accordance with devolution as stipulated in the Constitution and be guided specifically by the 4th Schedule that provides for the distribution of functions to both national and county governments.

(i) Meeting with the Law Society of Kenya

The Law Society of Kenya Committee on Law Reform paid a courtesy call to the Commission in August 2012. The purpose of the meeting was to enable the two organizations to share experiences and their roles in implementation of the Constitution and need for a structured engagement. The meeting noted the need for LSK to take a more active role in the process. The meeting made the following observations and recommendations –

- (a) LSK, having been part of the reform process, should continue to be part and parcel of the implementation process;
- (b) The Commission should participate in LSK activities especially in sensitizing the LSK members on the Constitution and recent legislation;
- (c) There are many policies, bills and administrative procedures under development which should act as a platform for the Commission and LSK to work together.
- (d) The LSK has expertise in key legal issues that no other non-state actors have and should set the pace in reviewing existing legislation and managing the transition to devolution; and
- (e) LSK should look for mechanisms to ensure that lawyers from across the country are involved in the implementation of the Constitution.

(j) Meeting with Civil Society

In September, the Commission organized a meeting with civil society organizations, including CREAM, KPTJ, International Commission of Jurists, Law Society of Kenya, Katiba Institute and Transparency International to review the status of public interest litigation on the implementation of the Constitution, and more specifically, to determine how judicial intervention can be used in the best interest of the people of Kenya. An exponential increase in cases related to implementation of the Constitution was noted. It was agreed that different state and non-state actors keen on monitoring the implementation process should develop a criteria for determining situations that need judicial intervention in the interest of the public. The meeting established a working committee to delve deeper into issues affecting public interest litigation and propose working modalities for the different actors.

(k) Meeting with FIDA-Kenya

FIDA-Kenya paid a courtesy call to the Commission to discuss progress on the implementation of the Constitution and various issues connected therewith. FIDA-Kenya wanted to know from the Commission the status of enactment of the Family Law Bills, and implementation of affirmative action on gender parity in elective posts. The Team commended the Commission for the good work done so far in discharging its mandate. They noted that the Constitution recognizes the rights of women as contained in the CEDAW and other international treaties and emphasized the importance of realisation of the rights. The meeting made the following observations:

- (i) The women's movement needs to develop a strategy for addressing Parliament's position on gender parity to ensure amendment of the Constitution to provide for nomination should the elections fail to deliver the requisite minimum representation of women;
- (ii) All stakeholders should explore means of determining whether there is need for affirmative action law or an equality law to address the different specializations and previously marginalized communities;
- (iii) FIDA-Kenya was requested to put in place a mechanism for reviewing all the Bills whether to ensure that women's issues are integrated and mainstreamed into all laws

- including laws on mining, leadership and integrity and land laws; and
- (iv) There is need for concerted effort to ensure the Leadership and Integrity Act is revised to include mechanisms for implementing the provisions in Chapter Six of the Constitution.

(l) Engaging with Stakeholders Online and Social Media

The Commission maintains an active website (www.cickenya.org) to engage with the public on the implementation of the Constitution. The website is used to update the public on the Commission's activities, provide access to the Constitution, draft Bills, enacted legislation and other documents. It is also a forum for the public to submit their comments on bills, which are subsequently examined by the Commission and incorporated as views from the public and stakeholders.

Social Media has been a great tool in connecting the Commission with Kenyans, especially the youth. Through its Facebook page and Twitter account (@cickenya), the Commission responds to queries from members of the public, and interacts with the media in a bid to build publicity on the implementation process. Below is a sample of posts on the Commission Facebook and Twitter pages.

Email to CIC
Dear sir,

Following the recent developments in Parliament, raging discussions are going around on the way the legislature is mutilating our constitution. This is to appeal for your urgent action based on your mandate of ensuring that any bill or amendment is in line with the letter and spirit of the Constitution to assure Kenyans/Wanjiku that the recent amendments on the elections and political parties acts are getting the resistance through legal actions as they deserve. Find on the trail mail some of the boiling discussions going on. As CIC, you can save this country from going the Syrian/Egyptian/Libian way. We want our constitution to be followed to the letter. The trail mail is just the iceberg of discussions going around the country.

Please save our beautiful country.

(m) Preparation and Dissemination of Annual Report:

The Commission prepared the Annual Report for the period 2011/2012 to communicate major achievements for the reporting period, the challenges, impediments faced and proposals to move the implementation process forward. The report was submitted to the head of state and parliament. There are plans to print copies of the report and distribute in different parts of the country to keep the people of Kenya abreast of progress and other issues on the implementation of the Constitution.

3.2 Consultative Workshops

(a) Workshops with Local Authority Chief Officers

A seamless transition to devolved government is critical for the successful implementation of the devolved system of government. The Commission is committed to ensuring that implementation of devolution including transition activities are done in such a way that service delivery to the people is not disrupted. The Commission regards local authorities as key stakeholders in the transition process and therefore arranged consultative meetings with local authority chief officers across the country to sensitize the staff on the provisions of the Constitution and the relevant Acts dealing with devolution. The Commission invited the Transition Authority and the Commission for Revenue Allocation to the consultative process to jointly develop a shared understanding of the concept of transition to devolved government.

The consultative meetings took place in eight regions and two counties as follows:

- (a) Kisumu County: 2nd August, 2012
- (b) Kakamega County: 3rd August, 2012
- (c) South Rift-Nakuru County: 30th -31st of August 2012.
- (d) North Rift-Eldoret County: 30th-31st August, 2012

- (e) Nyanza Region-Kisumu County: 30th-31st August, 2012
- (f) Central: Nyeri and Nairobi combined: 30th August, 2012
- (g) Eastern: Machakos: 3rd and 4th September, 2012.
- (h) Western: Bungoma: 3rd and 4th September, 2012.
- (i) Coast: Mombasa: 10th- 11th September, 2012.
- (j) North Eastern: Garissa: 17th and 18th September, 2012

(b) Media Training Workshops

Media training workshops on the role of media in reporting on devolution, including activities relating to transition to devolved government were undertaken in Mombasa, Kisumu, Nakuru and Eldoret. The workshops were organized because of the centrality of communication to the successful implementation of the constitution, in general and devolution in particular. This arises from the fact that the full implementation of the Constitution and devolved system of government involves multiplicity of actors whose effective participation requires that they be well informed about the Constitution and devolution.

(c) Joint workshop with the Commission on Revenue Allocation and the Transition Authority:

Effective collaboration by key stakeholders is critical in the journey to full implementation of the transition to devolved government. To that end, the Commission organised a consultative meeting in August 2012 with the Transition Authority and the Commission for Revenue Allocation. The purpose of the meeting was to create a platform for collaboration on the implementation of the transition in line with the Transition to Devolved Government Act, 2012.

(d) Induction Workshop for the Transition Authority:

The Commission attended an induction workshop for the Transition Authority in Mombasa from 20th -24th August 2012. The workshop was to induct the Authority on its statutory responsibilities of ensuring a smooth transition to devolution and by largely setting mechanisms of achieving its goals under Phase One of its mandate by December 2012.

(e) Non-State Actors Stakeholders forum

The Public Finance Management Act is one of the statutes that has experienced very low levels of public awareness, hence the need to structure a partnership with non-State actors to create awareness on the Act. The Commission organized a post enactment consultative forum on the Public Finance Management Act with the objective of identifying;

- (i) the opportunities available in the Act for citizen engagement in the public finance management processes and how they can be actualized;
- (ii) the opportunities available for non state actors in facilitating effective implementation of the public finance management law;
- (iii) some of the implementation challenges that may arise and;
- (iv) possible methods of disseminating key information on the Act to the citizenry so that they can exploit the opportunities availed by the Act and the constitution.
- (v)

Such forums give Kenyans opportunities to interact with the Constitution and the laws that have been formulated to give effect to the various provisions of the constitution.

(f) Public Participation Framework Workshop

The Commission in partnership with the Ministry of Justice, National Cohesion and Constitutional Affairs, Civil society organizations, including URAIA, Kenya Human Rights Commission, Katiba Institute and The Institute for Social Accountability, facilitated a three-day stakeholder conference in September, bringing together over 75 representatives from the three arms of government, civil society organizations, academia and international speakers from South Africa and Brazil. The objectives of the conference were (see also section 3.1 the resolutions from the workshop):

- (a) To create an environment that will enable across section of concerned individuals, experts and organizations to meet and take stock of the state of public participation within the new constitutional order;

- (b) To evaluate the extent of public participation in government and private sector programs;
- (c) To provide an opportunity for the public to give input in the designing of how they should participate in the formulation and implementation of programs that affect them; and
- (d) To discuss and agree on the most suitable framework on public participation and a plan of action for developing the framework.

(g) Meeting with Implementing Agencies

During the period under review, CIC also met with the following state (implementing) agencies:

- (a) Kenya Intellectual Property Institute;
- (b) Central Bank of Kenya;
- (c) Kenya Investment Authority;
- (d) Export Promotion Council, and
- (e) Industrial and Commercial Development.

The purpose of the meetings was to gauge the implementing agencies operational activities and their compliance with the Constitution. From these meetings, it was clear that all state agencies should have to recalibrate their administrative and operational processes to conform to the standards set in the Constitution.

(h) Engagements with Ministries on the Effective Implementation of the Constitution

Each of the eight CIC thematic areas works with allocated ministries and state corporations to ensure effective implementation of the Constitution. The thematic areas have held periodic consultative meetings with these ministries and received constitution implementation progress reports.

3.3 Public Advisories

During the reporting period, the Commission issued public advisory opinions on constitutional issues on four Acts to provide clarity and guide the implementation process. These were, the Elections Act, 2011, the Political Parties Act, 2011, the Leadership and Integrity Bill, 2012 and the Mining Bill, 2012. The full content of the advisory opinions are contained in Annex 1.

3.4 Judicial Intervention

In its endeavour to promote constitutionalism, the Commission has sought judicial intervention from time to time for various declarations and for the interpretation of constitutional provisions. Annex 2 details cases the Commission has filed or participated in and their status.

3.5 Support by Development Partners

The Commission acknowledges and appreciates the support of various development partners, especially, the IDLO, UNDP, OHCHR and Swedish, Japan and The Netherlands Embassies, among others, in the implementation process.

3.6 Summary of Reports from Ministries and State Corporations

Ministries submit quarterly reports on the implementation of the constitution to the Commission. During the quarter, the Commission received progress reports from 11 government ministries and 12 state corporations highlighting progress of the implementation of the Constitution. The ministries include the Ministry of Health (Medical Services and Public Health and Sanitation), the Ministry of East African Community, the Ministry of Gender, Children and Social Development, the Ministry of Livestock Development, the Ministry of Trade, the Ministry of Forestry and Wildlife, the Ministry of State for Development of Northern Kenya and Arid Lands, the Ministry of Defence, the Ministry of Lands, the Ministry of Social Programmes, and the Ministry of Tourism. The state agencies include Kenya Post Office Savings Bank, the Kenya Police Service, Office of the Controller of Budget, Youth Enterprise Fund Board, Capital Market Authority, the Kenya National Examination Council, the Multimedia University, the National Museum of Kenya, Geothermal Development Company, and the University of Nairobi.

The reports highlight progress made on areas deemed critical to the implementation of the Constitution. They include having overall sectoral policies, administrative instruments, laws institutions are responsible for, and subsidiary legislation. Other areas include efforts made to familiarize the staff with the Constitution and integration of the Constitution into performance contracts. The reporting requires the institutions to isolate sector specific provisions in the Constitution and provide progress on the audit of policies, development of laws and administrative procedures. Further, the implementation of the Constitution requires a number of institutional changes. The reporting therefore seeks to establish those institutions that have developed change management strategies.

All the institutions that reported between July and September 2012, indicated the policies, laws and regulations that have been identified for review and those already reviewed for consistency with the Constitution; those to be developed by end of December 2012, by 2013 and in the long term, including ratified international treaties to be integrated into institutional instruments. The institutions also highlighted measures taken for devolution during the two faces of transition: before and after the March 2013 general elections.

Annex 4 gives a summary of status for each institution on their internal measures to align to the Constitution. A follow-up will be made in the next quarter on institutions that have not submitted reports.

4. Challenges, Impediments and Recommendations

4.1 Challenges and Impediments

(a) Deliberate disregard for CIC mandate:

One of the key challenges faced by the Commission was the unusual rush by the Executive to fast-track and publish Bills for tabling before parliament before the Commission's review process on each Bill was completed, even though the parent Ministries and related institutions were kept abreast on the status of review. These include the Freedom of Information Bill, 2012, the Data Protection Bill 2012 and the Family Law Bills. The Commission found that it had to intervene to prevent publication of these bills before finalization of the review process.

(b) The Leadership and Integrity Act, 2012

Chapter Six of the Constitution is clear on the standard of leadership that is integral for the country. Disturbingly, the final version of the Leadership and Integrity Act, 2012 did not reflect the input and recommendations given by the Commission and the people of Kenya. Following various consultations with different institutions and organizations the CIC reviewed bill was amended by Parliament, altering or removing critical sections designed to implement the Constitution.

(c) Content of Draft Bills

Most of the draft Bills are under-researched and substantially weak in terms of the relevant provisions to facilitate the implementation of the Constitution.

4.2 Suggested Solutions and Recommendations

To address these challenges, the Commission makes the following recommendations:

Public participation:

The Commission recommends that the Executive should work with the Commission and stakeholders to ensure effective public engagement in the development of legislation compliant with the letter and spirit of the Constitution.

Desisting from amendment of legislation that has been reviewed by CIC:

Once a bill has been reviewed by the Commission, which means that it includes views from the public and relevant stakeholders and is consistent with the Constitution, it is inadvisable to make fundamental amendments to the Bill before enactment. If some clauses in a bill that has been reviewed and finalised are to be changed, the due process of public participation should be followed.

Agreed timelines for priority Bills:

For bills identified as priority, Parliament should make an effort to have them enacted in the stipulated timeframes. This will allow prompt implementation of the prioritized legislation and especially with the upcoming general elections and subsequent devolution to county governments.

5. Focus for the Next Quarter

The Commission has prioritized in the last quarter of the year the development and review of policies, legislation, administrative procedures and regulations, preparing for March 2013 elections, transition to devolved government, and consultative forums.

Development of Policies

- (a) Review and finalization of the first draft of the implementation guide on the bill of rights and constitutional principles in the public service
 - (b) Engage the Ministry of Justice, National Cohesion and Constitutional Affairs on the development of a policy to give effect to the principle of Public Participation.
 - (c) Review the National Health Policy.
 - (d) Review the policy framework for education and training to align education and training sectors in Kenya.
 - (e) Review the National Security Policy formulated by the National Security Council.
 - (f) Review the military and defence policies formulated by the Ministry of State for Defence and the Kenya Defence Forces.
 - (g) Review the National Intelligence policy formulated by the National Intelligence Service.
 - (h) Review the national policing policy developed by the Ministry of State for Provincial Administration and Internal Security and the Inspector-General of the National Police Service.
- Review the national prosecutions policy formulated by the Office of the Director of Public Prosecutions.

Development of Legislation

- (a) Finalization of Freedom of Information Bill, 2012 and the Data Protection Bill, 2012.
- (b) Finalization of National Registration and Identification Bill, 2012 and Refugee Bill 2012.
- (c) Engage with the relevant institutions including the Ministry of State for Public Service on the development, if need be of the Public Service Management Bill.
- (d) Review the following Bills—
 - (i) The National Coroner's Bill;
 - (ii) The Private Securities Regulations Bill;
 - (iii) The Office of the Director of Public Prosecutions Bill
 - (iv) The Office of the Attorney-General Bill;
 - (v) The Contempt of Court Bill; and
 - (vi) The Magistrates' Courts Bill.

Development of Administrative Procedures and Regulations

- (a) Engage Ministry of State for Public Service and the taskforce formed by the Ministry in the development of Values and Principles of Public Service Commission in overseeing the legislation of values and principles as contemplated in the Constitution (Article...)
- (b) Engage with the Public Service Commission to review the Code of Regulations for the Public Service.
- (c) Review administrative measures required to implement the Constitution and operationalize the following legislation:
 - (i) the National Police Service Act, 2011;
 - (ii) the National Police Service Commission Act, 2011;
 - (iii) the Kenya Defence Forces Act (once enacted);
 - (iv) the National Intelligence Service Act (upon enactment);
 - (v) the Independent Policing Oversight Authority Act, 2011;
 - (vi) the Power of Mercy Act, 2011
 - (vii) the Assumption of Office of the President Act, (upon enactment); and
 - (viii) the National Security Council Act (upon enactment).

Preparedness for 2013 General Elections

- (a) Hold regional forums, including one final in Nairobi to highlight the type of leadership we expect as a country, and as envisioned in the Constitution.
- (b) Working with the Registrar of Political Parties and Independent Electoral and Boundaries Commission to monitor the application of the rules and regulations governing political parties and those relating to nomination of candidates, voter registration and voting.
- (c) Meetings with women in marginalized regions to discuss inclusion of women and utilization of the gender quarter stipulated in the constitution.

Towards Transition to Devolved Government.

- (a) Work with Transition Authority and other key stakeholders to ensure timely completion of phase one of transition activities.
- (b) Finalize a monitoring framework for transition to devolved government.
- (c) Carry out media training in Nyeri, Isolo, Garissa, Machakos, Malindi and Voi.
- (d) Carry out county visit sensitization of the public, ministries, state agencies, public corporation and local authorities on matters relating to transition activities and devolution generally.
- (e) Partner with non state actors to roll out a comprehensive plan of action on public awareness creation of opportunities and the importance of participation in the PFM processes to monitor expenditure of public finances.
- (f) Produce manuals, ICT material and radio broadcasts for sensitizing members of the public at the national and county levels of government for both NSA's and government officials.

Consultative Forums

- (a) Hold a consultative forum on Access to Justice;
- (b) Hold a consultative forum on the draft Contempt of Court Bill, 2012 and the Magistrates' Courts Bill, 2012.
- (c) Hold a consultative forum on Traditional Dispute Resolution Strategies.

Annex 2: Public Advisories issued by CIC

1. The Mining Bill, 2012

The Constitution is the supreme law of the land and is binding on all state organs, state officers and public officers when they exercise their authority. Constitution has clearly set out a procedure that should be followed for preparation of legislation such as the Mining Bill, 2012, that are required for purposes of giving effect and implementing the Constitution. Therefore, the Commission wishes to bring to the attention of the people of Kenya the Constitutional provisions and principles that should be anchored in the Mining Bill and the laid down procedures to be followed.

Background of the Mining Bill

CIC is yet to receive the official copy of the Mining Bill, 2012 from the Office of the Attorney-General for review in accordance with Article 261(1) and (4) and section 5 (6) of the Sixth Schedule to the Constitution. Nonetheless, the Commission has in its possession an advance copy of the Bill from the Ministry of Environment and Mineral Resources, which is accessible for comments on CIC website www.cickenya.org

Owing to the significance of land, minerals and natural resources to the people of Kenya and more so, under the devolved system of governance, the Commission has scheduled a number of consultative meetings involving representatives of all the 47 Counties, civil society, relevant local and international organization, business community, relevant private and public sector institutions, community leaders and groups, amongst others. The purposes of the meetings and this advisory is to convey to the people of Kenya the Constitutional dictates on matters relating to land, mineral and natural resources, salient issues in the Mining Bill, international best practices, and to raise Constitutional, legal and practicality challenges in the Bill.

The Mining Bill and the Constitution

Article 72 of the Constitution obligates Parliament to enact legislation to give full effect of Part 2 of Chapter Five to the Constitution, which provides for matters of environment and natural resources. The Mining Bill, 2012 is one of the laws required to give full effect to the aforementioned provisions of the Constitution. Article 60 of the Constitution states that land in Kenya shall be held, used and managed in a manner that is equitable, efficient, productive and sustainable. Under Article 62(1)(f) of the Constitution all minerals and mineral oils as defined by law, are categorized as public land. Additionally, according to Article 62(3) of the Constitution, all minerals and mineral oils vest in and shall be held by the national government in trust for the people of Kenya and shall be administered on their behalf by the National Land Commission.

Key Issues in the Mining Bill

Principle of compensation

The Bill does not adequately address the principle of compensation for disturbance of owners or lawful occupiers of land subject to a mineral right. It is important that the issue of compensation is adequately addressed by the Bill as required by Article 60(1)(b) of the Constitution. Legal regimes of most countries where mineral activities take place do recognize the principle of compensation in respect of land access. When the landowner's rights are taken for the purposes of mineral development, the owner or lawful occupier must be compensated for any loss or damages that may be caused by the holder of the mineral right. The owner or lawful occupier of the land may be an individual or a community as provided for under article 63 of COK, 2010.

CIC is of the opinion that the Bill must state in clear terms, the mechanisms which mineral right holders would have to follow if it becomes necessary that a community or certain persons have to be resettled to make way for mining operations.

These mechanisms should include:

- (i) Persons or communities would have to decide freely whether they would like to be resettled;
- (ii) The Minister/Cabinet Secretary responsible for mines/the county government shall ensure that communities or persons that agree to be resettled are settled on suitable alternate land without necessarily losing their permanently;
- (iii) Due consideration for the economic wellbeing, social and cultural values of the community or persons to be resettled; and (iv) Due consideration shall be given to the relevant town planning laws.

Additionally, the Bill must make it clear that the above conditions have to be met or satisfied before the mineral right holder can enter the land which the right relates to undertake any mineral operations.

Role of the National Land Commission established under Article 67(1) of the Constitution

CIC notes the role of the National Land Commission in administering all public land as stipulated in Articles 62(3) and 67(2)(a). Regrettably, the Bill makes no reference to the role of National Land Commission. The Bill should set out clearly the relationship between the competent authority and the Commission. This must accord to the provisions of the Constitution and the National Land Commission Act, 2012

Overlap/Duplication of Roles/Functions

The Bill envisages the creation of a semi-independent body to be known as the Kenya Geology, Minerals and Mining Authority (KGMMA). It is worth noting that Articles 62(1)(f), 62(3) and 67(2)(d) of the Constitution of Kenya raise some constitutional issues concerning the conduct of research involving the use of natural resources and the administration of public lands that contain natural resources (in this case minerals). There is a likely overlap of functions when these Articles of the constitution are compared with the functions of the KGMMA as outlined in clause 17(2)(d) of the Bill.

The Bill requires further review to ensure that it does not violate the Constitution. As drafted, the Bill is in violation of the Constitution.

Ratification of Mining Licences

Article 71(1)(a) of the Constitution of Kenya requires that any agreement, right or concession for the exploitation of any natural resource (in this case minerals) of Kenya must be ratified by Parliament of Kenya. Consequently, all mining licences and mineral agreements that have been granted (existing licences/contract/leases/permits/agreements in so far as they are for exploitation only) or may be issued in future must be so ratified.

The CIC is of the view that reconnaissance and prospecting licences as well as prospecting permits are for exploration and not exploitation of minerals. Such exploration licences or permits need not go to Parliament for ratification. However, in the case of all mining licences, the CIC thinks that there must be a provision in the mining Bill to re-emphasize this constitutional provision.

Transparency, accountability and good governance

To safeguard the interest of people of Kenya, it is important that the Bill emphasizes on the principle of transparency and accountability as part of the national values and principles as laid out in Article 10(2) which must include the mandatory publication of all large scale licences granted for the exploitation of any mineral and all development agreements. The Ministry of Environment and Mineral Resources, National Land Commission and the competent authority must publish this crucial information for the people of Kenya's information and scrutiny.

Sustainable and Productive Management of Land Resources (Article 60(1)(c))

The Mining Bill, 2012 has no provision to deal with value addition. Over the years, a number of mineral-rich countries particularly those in Africa have called for beneficiation or the addition of value to the minerals that are exploited. This is to maximize the contribution of the industry to the local economy especially where the deposits of some minerals are very large and the exploitation could last for decades. Typical examples include the cutting and polishing of diamonds in Botswana and Angola and attempts by Ghana and Guinea to ensure that their large reserves of Bauxite are smelted and refined in the country. The bill is silent on this critical issue.

Dispute Resolution

The Bill does not adequately address matter of dispute resolution, which is a key facet for consideration in the Mining realm to avert economic losses and to attract investors and competitiveness. This lacuna causes legal and constitutional challenges. Articles 60(1) and 159(2)(c) recognize the need to embrace alternative dispute resolution. This matter ought to be clarified in the Bill so that the same does not pose an economic danger to the Nation.

The CIC is of the opinion that for Kenya to be able to compete globally and attract investment, the possibility of allowing international arbitration (which has become an international practice) for disputes between the holders (foreign investors/companies) of mineral rights and the government as a way of enhancing security of tenure cannot be over-emphasized.

Constitutional Procedure for Preparation of Bills for Tabling Before Parliament

It is imperative that laid down procedure is followed to the letter by all relevant state and public officers. Non-compliance with the procedure shall have the effect of denying the people of Kenya, in whom sovereign power vests, their right to participate in their governance and their right to information. The lack of transparency in a hurried and secretive process violates the Constitution and creates an enabling environment for impunity to thrive through the disregard of the rule of law. Those state and public officers who blatantly show contempt for the Constitution must be held accountable under chapter six of the Constitution with regard to their remaining in office.

Other Issues:

CIC also note other issues that must be adhered to before the Mining Bill may be published, tabled in Parliament or enacted by Parliament. These include—

- (a) the necessity to ensure adequate public participation
- (b) the need to factor in the law on community land where most of these minerals and mineral oils will be found and how to resolve disputes or manage conflicts that may arise out of the discovery of minerals and other natural resources
- (c) clarifying the role of the National Land Commission which is constitutionally mandated to manage and administer mineral and mineral oils
- (d) addressing the issue of how the mineral will be shared for the benefit of the people of Kenya: cost benefit sharing
- (e) transparency in the management and administration of minerals

The purpose of this advertisement is to afford the people of the Kenya an opportunity to participate in the law making process as required under the Constitution. We seek public views, comments, suggestions and proposals on the Bill and how best the aforementioned issues, and other Constitutional principles and provisions may be addressed. Members of the Public are invited to submit their memorandum either in hard copy or by email within a period of one month. (By 19th October, 2012).

The Bill may be accessed from our website: <http://cickenya.org>. Written memorandum may be delivered, posted or emailed to the address herein below.

2. The Leadership and Integrity Bill, 2012

Pursuant to section 5(6) of the Sixth Schedule to the Constitution, Section 4 of the Commission for the Implementation of the Constitution Act, 2010 and in the spirit of upholding the principle of public participation under Article 10 of the Constitution, the Commission for the Implementation of the Constitution (CIC) hereby seeks public views on the Leadership and Integrity Bill.

On 19th June, 2012, the Commission for the Implementation of the Constitution received the Leadership and Integrity Bill from the office of the Attorney General. The Commission notes the significance and necessity of enacting the Leadership and Integrity Bill within the stipulated timeframe of 26th August, 2012 to ensure the implementation process is firmly on track.

Chapter Six of the Constitution and Background of the Bill

Chapter Six of the Constitution of Kenya 2010 focuses on Leadership and Integrity. This Chapter dictates the Responsibilities of Leadership (Article 73(1) and expects State Officers to be responsible and guided by principles of leadership and integrity as contemplated in Article 73(2). State Officers shall take and subscribe the oath or affirmation of office (Article 74). The Chapter further elaborates on the conduct of State Officers (Article 75), financial probity (76), restriction on activities (Article 77) and citizenship and leadership (Article 78). It is on the basis of this Chapter that the Ethics and Anti-Corruption Commission is established (Article 79) for purposes of ensuring compliance with, and enforcement of the provisions of Chapter Six. The Leadership and Integrity Bill, 2012 gives effect to Article 80 which states that Parliament shall enact legislation—

- (a) establishing procedures and mechanisms for the effective administration of this Chapter;
- (b) prescribing the penalties, in addition to the penalties referred to in Article 75, that may be imposed for a contravention of this Chapter;
- (c) providing for the application of this Chapter, with the necessary modifications, to public officers; and
- (d) making any other provision necessary for ensuring the promotion of the principles of leadership and integrity mentioned in this Chapter, and the enforcement of this Chapter.

Summary of the Leadership and Integrity Bill, 2012

I. General Outline of the Leadership and Integrity

It has 9 parts, 86 clauses and 5 schedules. It has the following Parts:-
1. Preliminary 2. General Leadership and Integrity Code 3. Specific Leadership and Integrity Codes, 4. Enforcement of The Leadership and Integrity Code 5. Declarations of Income, Assets and Liabilities, 6. Offences and Penalties 7. Kenya Leadership Forum 8. General 9. Transitional arrangement 10. 5 Schedules (responsible commissions, designated state officers, registrable interests, appropriate authorities, declarations)

II. Objective of the Bill

This Bill seeks to

- (a) establish and give effect to mechanisms for the effective administration of Chapter Six of the Constitution promote ethics, integrity and servant leadership among State officers.
- (b) make provision for leadership and integrity standards applicable to State officers.
- (c) give effect to provisions of the Public Officer Ethics Act, 2003

III. Enactment of Leadership and Integrity Codes by responsible commissions

The Bill directs responsible commissions e.g. Parliamentary Service Commission (for MPs), the Judicial Service Commission (for Judges and Magistrates) and the Ethics and Anti-corruption Commission (for Cabinet) to enact and enforcement of specific leadership and integrity Codes for specific categories of State Offices under their responsibility. The leadership and integrity Codes, in line with Chapter 6 of the Constitution, contains aspirational and mandatory standards to be practiced by these State Officers. Specifically the Code demands that State Officers observe the rule of law up, principles on transparency and accountability, professionalism, financial integrity, avoid conflicts of interest and be impartial and political neutrality etc.

IV. Other important provisions

The Bill also proposes

1. various enforcement and penalty mechanisms following breaches of the Constitution, this proposed Bill or specific leadership codes such as investigation, removal from office, censure, surcharge, civil action, criminal prosecution, demotion, etc.;
2. an open, transparent and accountable declarations system and in particular declarations wealth, declaration of conflict of interest, declaration of gifts received, of wealth register, declaration of foreign bank accounts etc;
3. to establish an unincorporated multi-sectoral consultative forum, to be known as the Kenya Leadership and Integrity Forum. The Forum is meant to—
 - (a) develop, facilitate, monitor, review and evaluate the implementation of a national integrity plan
 - (b) plan, prioritize, mainstream and implement activities that build and enhance public-private partnership in leadership, integrity and good governance
 - (c) hold national and regional consultative forums for the implementation of integrity and governance programmes and initiatives
 - (d) share information and best practices on sectoral leadership and integrity issues.

The purpose of this advertisement is to afford the people of the Kenya an opportunity to participate in the law making process as required under the Constitution. We seek public views, comments, suggestions and proposals on how best to attain the objects of Chapter Six and other relevant Articles of the Constitution. This is to ensure the realization of the values and principles enshrined in the Constitution. Other than general comments on the Leadership and Integrity Bill, 2012, we are seeking view on the following pertinent issues;

1. What better preventative measures can be adopted to promote ethics and integrity in public service?
2. Article 77(1) of the Constitution states that “A full-time State Officer shall not participate in any other gainful employment”

- (a) How should “participate in any other gainful employment” be defined? (b) Does this mean for example that if a State Officer is currently engaged in farming outside of his/her working hours and there is no conflict of interest that he/she should cease these farming activities by virtue of being a State Officer?
3. Should a State officer who has faced disciplinary action under this proposed law have his/her name publicized in the gazette and at least one newspaper with national circulation?
4. Part IV of the Leadership and Integrity Bill proposes to establish a Kenya leadership and Integrity Forum which is a citizens’ forum pursuant to Article 80(d) of the Constitution to foster the promotion of leadership and integrity principles through multi-sectoral consultations, implementation, and peer-review among public, private, civil society, professional and religious and other sectors.
 - (a) Should this forum be established by way of legislation either in this proposed Leadership and Integrity Bill or in other legislation?
 - (b) Should the Ethics and Anti-Corruption Commission serve as the Forum’s secretariat?
5. What should be done with assets and monies recovered from State Officers which is undeclared or ill-gotten?
 - (a) Should a certain percentage be retained by the Ethics and Anti-Corruption Commission?
 - (b) Should the proceeds be deposited in the consolidated fund or equalization fund? And why?
 - (c) How else can the assets and monies recovered be treated?

Members of the Public are invited to submit their memorandum either in hard copy or by email By Friday, 20th May, 2012).

The Bills may be accessed from our website: <http://cickenya.org>.
Written memorandum may be delivered, posted or emailed to the address herein below.

3. The Elections Act, 2011; and the Political Parties Act, 2011

1. Mandate of the Commission (CIC)

CIC makes this statement in line with its constitutional mandate as defined in section 5(6) of the sixth schedule to the Constitution of Kenya, 2010. Under this section, CIC’s mandate is to monitor, facilitate and oversee the development of legislation and administrative procedures required to implement the Constitution of Kenya, 2010. The ultimate goal is to protect the sovereignty of the people, secure the observance by all state organs of democratic values and principles; and to promote constitutionalism.

2. The Process of Implementation:

In carrying out its mandate CIC seeks to ensure that State Agencies and indeed the people of Kenya adhere to the requirements of the Constitution of Kenya 2010. It is in this context that CIC seeks to address matters relating to the current attempt by Parliament to introduce far-reaching amendments to the Elections Act, 2011 and the Political Parties Act, 2011, which go to the root of the Constitution and violate various provisions and spirit of the 2010 Constitution.

Of particular concern to CIC is the proposed amendment by Parliament of the two statutes mentioned above in contravention of the established process for the preparation of any legislation intended to implement the Constitution. Article 261(4) requires all legislation intended to implement the Constitution to be prepared by the Attorney General in consultation with CIC before presentation to Parliament for Enactment. Article 10(2) prescribes the national values and principles of democracy and public participation in such a process.

3. The Statute Law (Miscellaneous Amendments) Bills, 2012

Statute Law (Miscellaneous Amendments) Bills are essentially intended to consolidate various minor amendments from different Statutes. These relate to the elimination of anomalies, repeal of any obsolete and unnecessary enactments and for general simplification. It is NOT the primary means by which substantive amendments to the law should be effected, particularly amendments that go to the root of the Constitution or otherwise impact on the process of implementation. The Commission's considered view with regard to substantive amendments to existing statute laws is that proposals for such amendment and resultant amendment Bills should ordinarily result from proposals made by the Executive after following due process as set out in the Constitution.

It is light of this view that CIC expresses concern regarding the legislative process presently applied by the National Assembly to amend various Acts of Parliament that have been enacted since the promulgation of the Constitution of Kenya, 2010 through the Statute Law (Miscellaneous amendments) Bill 2012. The Commission (CIC) has reviewed the Bill and the proposed amendments thereto that have been proposed by Members of Parliament and finds this trend deeply disturbing.

In the case of proposed substantive amendments that impact on the implementation of the Constitution and significantly alter the provisions of any existing Act, such proposals to amend should follow the full mandatory legislative process as outlined in Article 261 of the Constitution. This Article requires the Attorney General to consult with CIC in the preparation of any Bill intended for implementation of the Constitution before its tabling in Parliament. The purpose of CIC's involvement in the preparation of any such Bill is to ensure that its content is in line with the letter and spirit of the Constitution. In addition, the Constitution requires thorough and meaningful consultative process that satisfies the imperatives of public participation required by Article 10 in relation to all legislation and subsequent amendments that impact on the implementation of the Constitution.

The Commission is greatly alarmed by the numerous proposals by the National Assembly to use the Statute Law (Miscellaneous Amendments) Bill to amend crucial provisions of the Elections and Political Parties Acts. Worryingly some of the proposed amendments are clearly not intended for the purpose of reforming the law. Evidently, they are designed to secure the personal interest of currently serving Members of Parliament. This is in direct contravention of Article 116 of the Constitution as a few of the following examples demonstrate.

CIC is particularly concerned by the proposal:

- (a) to introduce additional remuneration to Members of Parliament and other Parliamentary officials through the Bill in violation of Article 116(3) (which prohibits legislation designed to confer benefits to sitting members of Parliament) which is an affront to the role of the now operational Salaries and Remuneration Commission and conflicts with Articles 73 and 75 (prohibition of State Officers acting with conflict of interest);

- (b) to waive the educational requirements for serving and previous elected officials in contravention of Articles 27 (on non-discrimination), 116(3) and 10 (which prescribes democratic ideals violated in this process);
- (c) to allow candidates seeking elective office to stand for one or more elective offices, which conflicts with Article 201 (prudent use of public funds, which multiple candidature would misuse through consequent wasteful by-elections).
- (d) to allow presidential candidates and their running mates to be included in party lists which are intended to give opportunity to apply the principle of affirmative action contemplated by Article 90 of the Constitution in relation to representation of women, the youth, persons with disabilities and marginalized groups and communities. Such an amendment would defeat the intent of Article 90 if such candidates are allowed to take positions reserved for disadvantaged groups and;
- (e) other proposed amendments seek to legalize party hopping by current members of Parliament despite clear prohibitions on the same by Article 103 and Section 40 of the previous Constitution under which the MPs were elected.

4. The Need for Urgent Intervention:

The process being applied by Parliament to make these substantive amendments violates the constitutional process and the letter and spirit of the Constitution. Accordingly, if Parliament proceeds to pass the amendments as proposed, CIC will be duty bound to seek court intervention on grounds of unconstitutionality, unless His Excellency the President intervenes by declining to assent to such Bills.

In the meantime, CIC has requested the Speaker of the National Assembly to reject any attempt by members to use the Statute Law (Miscellaneous Amendment) Bills to amend the law through a unconstitutional process or to allow the passage of unconstitutional amendments.

We also call on all parliamentarians of good will to exercise their constitutional mandate in such a way as to unreservedly support the established constitutional process and guard against any attempt to water down legislation required to implement the Constitution. More than ever before, we must all remain vigilant and guard against any attempt to subvert the due process and the Constitution.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS TO THE KENYA GAZETTE

THE following notes are for the guidance of persons submitting "copy" for inclusion in the Kenya Gazette, Supplement, etc.:

- (1) The Kenya Gazette contains Notices of a general nature which do not affect legislation. They are, therefore, submitted to the Government Printer directly.
- (2) Legislative Supplement contains Rules and Regulations which are issued by the Central Government. Because of this, they must be submitted to the Government Printer through the office of the Attorney-General.
- (3) Bill Supplement contains Bills which are for introduction in the National Assembly.
- (4) Act Supplement contains Acts passed by the National Assembly.

All "copy" submitted for publication should be prepared on one side of an A4 sheet no matter how small the Notice is, each page being numbered and should be typewritten with double spacing. Copy should be clear, legible and contain no alterations.

Particular attention should be paid to the following points:

- (i) Signature must be supported by rubber-stamping or typing the name of the signatory in capital letters.
- (ii) must be correct and filled in where necessary.
- (iii) Care should be taken to ensure that all headings to Notices and references to legislation are up to date and conform with the Revised Edition of the Laws of Kenya.

EXTRACT FROM THE CODE OF REGULATIONS, SECTION D—

Kenya Gazette

"D 34. (1) Communications for the Kenya Gazette should reach the Government Printer not later than 9 a.m. on Friday of the week before publication is desired. The Government Printer will not publish communications received after that hour until the next subsequent issue of the Gazette.

(2) Ministries will be required to pay for the Kenya Gazette and to meet the cost of advertising in it.

It is emphasized that these notes are for guidance only, but it is requested that persons submitting copy for publication first satisfy themselves that such copy is complete in every respect.
