Messrs. A. J. Millar and Son Limited

Issues in dispute:—

- (i) Revision of wages.
- (ii) Increased leave.
- (iii) Leave allowance.
- (iv) Establishment of Provident Fund.
- (v) Severance pay on redundancy.
- (vi) Date and duration of agreement.

1. The issues in dispute were referred to the Industrial Court for settlement in accordance with the provisions of the Trade Disputes Act, 1965.

The parties were heard in Nairobi on 25th October 1965.

GENERAL BACKGROUND

2. Relationship between the Kenya Distributive and Commercial Workers' Union (hereinafter referred to as the Claimants), and Messrs. A. J. Millar and Son Limited (hereinafter referred to as the Respondents), commenced as far back as May of 1962, with the Claimants' first proposals on terms and conditions of employment in respect of Clerks and Messengers. Since that time a number of issues have been successfully negotiated although there are no signed agreements of any kind in existence between them. The Respondents are a family Company formed in 1952 to take over the Insurance Agency carried out by the late A. J. Millar and they operate entirely on commission. A meeting held in July of 1965 to agree the issues in dispute was a failure and the Claimants referred the dispute to the Ministry of Labour and Social Services. The Ministry of Labour and Social Services through the Tripartite Committee, set down the issues in dispute as above and both parties agreed to refer these for settlement to the Industrial Court.

MAIN SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE CLAIMANTS

3. (i) The Claimants informed the Court that they had submitted new proposals on terms and conditions of employment to the Respondents in February of 1964. Certain meetings had taken place but no agreement had been reached. The adoption of the Claimants' Agreement with the South British Insurance Company had been considered, but this had been unacceptable to the Respondents. Another meeting was held on 14th October 1964, to consider the Respondents' counter-proposals, but the Claimants could not agree to the wages and other terms offered as they were too low and compared unfavourably with terms and conditions of service of other similar industries. The Court was asked to award new rates in accordance with the Claimants' proposals of February 1964, which were as follows:—

- (a) Subordinate Staff shall be paid a minimum wage of Sh. 250 per month;
- (b) (i) 33½ per cent to those employees drawing up to Sh. 500 per month;
- (ii) 20 per cent to those employees drawing over Sh. 501 to Sh. 1,000 per month;
- (iii) 15 per cent to those employees drawing over Sh. 1,001 per month.

It was the Claimants' contention that there was no difference between the Respondents and the South British Insurance Company whose terms and conditions were more favourable. Insurance was a specialized job and required intelligent workers who should be paid reasonable wages. The Claimants demanded an increase in wages now and Job Classification could be carried out later on.

(ii) The Court was asked to award 30 days' annual leave—2½ days per month—to all employees. Where an employee left before completing nine months' service he should be entitled to accrued leave at the rate of 2½ days per month. Leave should also be accumulative.

(iii) When an employee proceeded on annual leave the Claimants demanded that male employees should be entitled to a leave allowance of Sh. 600 and female employees Sh. 500.

(iv) The immediate establishment of a Provident Fund was demanded with equal contributions of 7½ per cent, with a qualifying period of one year. It was submitted that the Respondents' proposed Provident Fund was, in fact, a Pension Scheme and, in any case, was racial and was unacceptable to the Claimants. Also, some employees had 20 years' service and it was only right that some form of gratuity should be paid to them. The Court was asked to consider all previous service, and up to the introduction of the Government Social Security Scheme, and to award gratuity at the rate of 5 per cent of every month's salary, or alternatively, one month's salary for every completed year of service.

(v) On Severance Pay on Redundancy the Claimants put forward the following proposals:—

- (a) Employer to give 21 days' notice to the Union;
- (b) if the Union proves redundancy is not genuine, or the principle of last in first out is not being followed, or there is a dispute over severance pay and the matter is not settled within 21 days, the employee concerned will be suspended with pay;
- (c) if redundancy confirmed as genuine by the Union, employee shall get pay in lieu, or notice plus:
  - 1 to 5 years' service: 15 days' basic pay per year;
  - 6 to 20 years' service: 20 days' basic pay per year;
  - over 20 years' service: 30 days' basic pay per year.

On completion of one year's service, a part of any subsequent year in excess of five months will be counted as a completed year.

(vi) The Claimants submitted that the effective date of the new agreement should be as from 1st January 1965, and remain in force for a period of one year.

In addition to the above issues, the Claimants asked the Court to consider the following two items and to include them in its award:—

- (a) Recognition: The Respondents (hereinafter known as A. J. Millar and Son Ltd.) recognize the Claimants (hereinafter known as the Kenya Distributive and Commercial Workers Union) as the exclusive bargaining agent with respect to rates of pay and overtime, hours of work, method of wage payment, paid leave, leave allowance, duration of employment, retirement benefits, medical benefits, sick leave, principle of redundancy and other generally accepted terms and conditions of service of all employees of A. J. Millar and Son Ltd., exclusive of the supervisory staff.
- (b) Joint Negotiating Committee: The Employers and Union mutually recognize the desirability of an employees' representative (elected by employees), to ensure the adequate representation of the workers on Negotiating Committee and the provision of means whereby their claims or grievances can be speedily and impartially dealt with. In all cases representatives of the Union shall be free to express their views without fear that the individual relations between the employer/employee will be affected in any way by expression made in good faith while acting in a representative capacity.

MAIN SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE RESPONDENTS

4. (i) On behalf of the Respondents it was stated that all expenses, including commission to the agents, were paid from the commission allowed them by the companies they represented. Rates and charges were not fixed by the Respondents but were laid down by the companies represented. The Respondents' Agency must also compete with the branches of overseas companies operating in Kenya, but at a lesser rate of commission than that returned by those companies for their own branches. The difference was between 5 per cent and 10 per cent. This vital factor imposed on the Respondents a need to operate at the most economical level. It also established clearly that there could be no comparison between the Respondents and agents and branches of overseas based Insurance Companies. Despite these circumstances the Respondents had always endeavoured to maintain for their employees an equitable relationship of terms and conditions of service with those provided by other organizations engaged in the same business.

It was also vital to bear in mind that the Respondents were subject to the Law on undistributed profits, and therefore, the Respondents had no reserves, which was a major difference with the large organizations with branches in this country who had vast financial reserves.

The Respondents submitted that every effort had been made to conclude an agreement with the Claimants but that this had proved impossible because of the Claimants' stand.

Wage offers had been made by the Respondents at the joint meeting of the 14th October 1964, and these were placed before the Court and were as follows:—

"After careful consideration, the employers were not prepared to accede to the Union's request that the rates of pay agreed with the South British Insurance Company should apply to the present negotiations. It is felt that these scales are not sufficiently clear as to avoid confusion and dispute in the future in that they do not clearly state the types of employment to which each grade applies. In view of this the offer of the following scale is repeated:—

Consolidated minimum Sh. 400 per month by Sh. 35 per month to Sh. 517 per month, thereafter three grades.

Grade A.—Filing Clerks, Recording Clerks, Copy Typists Grade 3, Telephone Operators, by Sh. 20 to a maximum of Sh. 795;

Grade B.—Accounting Machine Operators, Account Clerks, Endorsement Clerks, General Clerks, Copy Typists Grade 2, by Sh. 35 to Sh. 890;

Grade C.—Senior Book-keepers, Senior Clerks (i.e. Clerks who carry out their own correspondence), Sh. 765 by Sh. 50 to Sh. 1,200.

Qualifying for entry to this grade to be the attainment of the Associated Chartered Insurance Institute qualification by examination. Similar Book-keeping examination. Agreement to be three years effective."

In addition to above the Respondents offered a special ceiling given below for those employees who would be above their Grade rates:—

Grade A.—Sh. 1,060.

Grade B.—Sh. 1,300.

Grade C.—Sh. 1,533.

It was submitted by the Respondents that the Court might well ask why it had taken so long to bring this issue to a head. The time element, it was submitted, stemmed largely from the absence of policy on the part of the Claimants. Since they had embarked on negotiations with Insurance Companies their only agreement of value was with the South British Insurance Company and that that agreement had been in gestation many months. That agreement established a wage structure entirely personal to the South British Insurance Company and was without any obvious relevance to conditions applying in the numerous other companies operating in Nairobi. It was rational, therefore, for the Respondents, in this case, to propose that if there was to be acceptance of the South British Insurance Company scales, then, at some stage, there existed a need to identify the employees who were to occupy the various levels within those grades. The record showed that this approach had been on each occasion rejected by the Claimants who wished to establish a wage structure which offered immediate benefits at the same time (in the long term) as it would enable employees merely through the effluxion of time, to attain wage levels to which they had no legitimate right. It was the view of the Respondents that the proposals tabled on 14th October (see above), were a reasonable answer to the Claimants' demands and that the Court was in a position to endorse equitably those proposals.

(ii) The Respondents submitted that their present practice was to grant 18 consecutive days' leave per annum. In negotiation, however, they had indicated their willingness to raise this to 21 consecutive days. It was considered that this was an equitable level which the Respondents felt could equally be endorsed by the Court.

(iii) It was incorrect that leave allowance should have been included in the issues in dispute, the Respondents submitted, as, at no time, had this issue been discussed. There had been no reference to the quantum and certainly there could be no statement that deadlock had been reached. Its inclusion was an arbitrary action which must exclude it from sympathetic consideration by the Court.

(iv) and (v) The issues (iv) and (v) the Respondents submitted could not be considered as separate items, as the provision for any moneys for the contingency of redundancy must depend entirely on the future laying down of funds in some form of Provident Fund. The Respondents accepted that this involved deviating from normal practice by employers of not accepting this particular item as a subject for negotiation, but that the finding of any scheme required that provision be made in this fashion. The Respondents submitted that it would be reasonable to accept the proposal advanced that a Provident Fund be established. It was pointed out that in the past the Respondents had offered a Provident Scheme to their employees but that, with few exceptions, this had been rejected in writing by them.

(vi) Great detail was given to the history of the negotiations between the parties as it was the Respondents' view that this vital background was very necessary to the Court when it came to assessing the extent to which back-dating was justified.

It was the Respondents' submission that the history of this dispute showed clearly that they had made a positive contribution and that the level of their offers and the reasons for them had at all times been equitable. Their rejection by the Claimants, it was submitted, had been on a speculative basis and it was difficult to establish why, in the absence of a coherent Union policy for negotiating with Insurance Companies, they had seen fit to reject what, in the light of recent wage agreements, may be deemed a favourable basis for establishing wage levels in the Respondents' Company. Bearing in mind the recent Board of Inquiry into a dispute in the Banks, the Respondents submitted that they were entitled to stress that there was very limited existence of academic qualifications among the current staff, but that despite this fact wage levels offered throughout the negotiations compared advantageously with comparative levels in Gailey and Roberts, Mitchell Cotts and Dalgety's, all of whom are direct competitors and who had D.A.T.A. scales. With the historical background, and in the light of the Respondents' offers on the fringe benefits, it was considered that there had been a realistic approach to joint negotiations and that there was no justification for back-dating.

The question of Duration of the Agreement was one of considerable importance. The Respondents urged that the Court would adopt a long-term view and accept that stability in industrial relations was more likely to be achieved by agreements in excess of 12 months than by short-term agreements and their attendant annual bargaining and the preparations and emotions involved.

AWARD

5. The Court, having given careful consideration to the evidence and submissions of the parties, awards as follows:—

(i) Revision of Wages

I All members of Subordinate Staff shall get an increase of Sh. 25 per month.

II (1) Employees other than Subordinate Staff earning Sh. 400 or less and who have completed one year's service shall get an increase of Sh. 35 per month.

(2) Employees earning Sh. 401 and not more than Sh. 795 and who have completed one year's service shall get an increase of Sh. 40 per month.

(3) Employees earning Sh. 796 and not more than Sh. 890 and who have completed one year's service shall get an increase of Sh. 50 per month.

(4) Employees earning more than Sh. 890 and who have completed one year's service shall get an increase of Sh. 60 per month.

III The Court hopes that before the next wage revision the Parties shall have completed Job Classification.

(ii) Increased Leave

All employees shall be entitled to twenty-one (21) consecutive days paid leave per year.

(iii) Leave Allowance

The following local leave allowance shall be payable:—

(1) All members of the Subordinate Staff shall get a sum of Sh. 75 by way of leave allowance once a year when proceeding on leave.

(2) Other employees in receipt of salaries of not more than Sh. 890 shall get a sum of Sh. 120 by way of leave allowance once a year when proceeding on leave.

All other employees in receipt of salaries of more than Sh. 890 shall get a sum of Sh. 150 by way of leave allowance when proceeding on leave.

(iv) Establishment of Provident Fund

Nil award.

It was evident from the Claimants' submission that what they wanted was some form of gratuity which was not an issue in dispute before the Court.

(v) Severance Pay on Redundancy

There was a great amount of confusion on this issue which the Parties unfortunately could not clear. However, the Court feels that one half of one month's salary for each completed year of service should be paid to an employee when he is declared redundant, and so awards. The principles as laid down in the Industrial Relations Charter shall apply when staff is declared redundant.

(vi) Date and Duration of Agreement

The new Agreement shall take effect as from the 1st September 1965, and shall remain in force for a period of twelve (12) months.

Given in Nairobi this 24th day of November 1965.

GAZETTE NOTICE No. 4381

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE No. 34 OF 1965

Parties:

The Kenya Distributive and Commercial Workers' Union
and
Jaygee Products Limited

Issues in Dispute:

(i) Wages (including Casual Labour).

(ii) Housing Allowance.

(iii) Annual Leave.

(iv) Leave Allowance.

(v) Medical Expenses.

(vi) Saturday when it is a holiday.

(vii) Probation Period.

(viii) Acting Allowance.

(ix) Duration and Implementation of Agreement.

1. The issues in dispute were referred to the Industrial Court for settlement in accordance with the provisions of the Trade Disputes Act, 1965.

The parties were heard in Nairobi on 1st and 29th October 1965.

GENERAL BACKGROUND

2. Messrs Jaygee Products Limited (hereinafter referred to as the Respondents), have recognized and negotiated with the Kenya Distributive and Commercial Workers' Union (hereinafter referred to as the Claimants) since late 1957. The Respondents manufacture a wide range of products—(1) Coffee and Spices; (2) Brushes—(a) Household and Industrial (b) Painting; (3) Insecticides—Agricultural and Household and (4) Polishes—Shoe and Floor. The factory is situated at Ruaraka and gives employment to about 140 men and women. New terms and conditions of employment proposals were first submitted by the Claimants on 29th March 1965. No agreement was reached at subsequent joint meetings on the above nine issues, and both parties signed Form "A" on the 24th August 1965, referring them to the Industrial Court for settlement.

MAIN SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE CLAIMANTS

3. (i) The Claimants demanded a substantial increase in wages for all employees. They claimed that the firm of Messrs Reckitt and Colman paid higher wages. The Respondents made good profits and some of these should be passed on to the workers. Most of the employees were of K.P.E. level and were valuable to the Respondents. The Respondents' offer of Sh. 20 all round was rejected as totally inadequate. Foremen, it was claimed, should get higher rates of pay than the workers whom they supervised. Travelling from Nairobi to work and back was also another expense for which the employee should be compensated. The Claimants' wage demands are shown under 4 (i).

For Casual Labourers the Claimants demanded Sh. 10 per day.

(ii) For employees entitled to housing under the provisions of the Employment Act the Claimants asked the Court to award an allowance of Sh. 120 or the actual rent which the employee was obliged to pay.

(iii) On annual leave the Claimants demanded five weeks' paid annual leave for those employees who had completed one year's service and up to five years' service, and for all employees who had completed more than five years' service, six weeks' paid annual leave.

(iv) A leave allowance equivalent to one month's wages was demanded for all employees.

(v) All employees should be entitled to two months' sick leave on full pay and a further two months' sick leave on half pay, the Claimants submitted. In addition the Respondents were asked to pay all expenses of their employees who were attending private hospitals, for those injured accidentally outside working premises, and for the extraction of teeth. Where an employee was unfit to travel to the dispensary or hospital, free transport should be provided.

(vi) It was the Claimants' submission that where a Gazetted Public Holiday fell on a Saturday all employees should be entitled to another day in lieu as employees were not normally required to work on Saturday.

(vii) The current probationary period of two calendar months was stated to be too long and the Court was asked to award a probationary period of one month only.

(viii) The Claimants demanded that acting allowance should be paid to an employee after he had completed seven days' service in a higher post.

(ix) Although joint negotiations on new terms and conditions of employment did not begin until May 1965 their letter of proposals was sent on 29th March. The implementation date of the Court's award, the Claimants submitted, should therefore be as from the 1st April 1965, and for a period of not more than 12 months.

MAIN SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE RESPONDENTS

4. (i) The Respondents submitted that they had been placed in a difficult position by the change of approach to the question of wage negotiations. When they had made their offer at the joint meeting of 20th May, it was a threefold offer and had involved a proposed increase of Sh. 20 per employee on the rates pertaining at that time in addition to an enhancement on the overtime provision and the leave allowance. This Sh. 20 was, in the Respondents' view, an equitable distribution of the amount which could be afforded, by way of wage increases, at that time. By making such an offer they had shown their hand and were now confronted with the need to reconcile that offer to the totally new wage structure.

The Claimants' views in negotiation of what would be the appropriate wage for the newly established grades could be seen from the Claimants' three separate demands where the diminution had been in several cases as much as 30 per cent. The Respondents submitted that these figures could not be considered in isolation as they revealed in the light of the Claimants' original demands that in fact any figure would do so long as it gave them adequate room for manoeuvre.

Whilst job classification could be normally accepted as a rational approach to wage fixing, in this particular instance the variation in the Claimants' demands demonstrated that it was purely a bargaining gambit by them to improve on the Sh. 20 per employee, which they were now aware the Respondents were prepared to spend.

The following table shows the current wage rates, the Claimants' last demands and the rates put forward for the new wage structure by the Respondents.

The female rate to be in the same proportion as the existing Agreement i.e. 75 per cent of stated wage.

The figures recorded by certain grades was to show the number of employees who would be considered to be within that grade. The introduction of the new wage structure would mean that some employees would receive no benefit, but that many other would receive a substantial increase.

It was submitted that the Claimants must accept this as a logical outcome of the demand for job grading. The Respondents asked the Court when looking at their proposed figures to bear in mind that they were only the basic wage and were coupled with an above-average housing allowance.

It was also pointed out that it was the Claimants who had introduced the question of casual labour, but it was the view of the Respondent that at the same time as the Court established a basic minimum monthly wage that it also established the minimum rate for casual employees. It was the practice in Kenya that the daily rate was arrived at by taking a 1/26th portion of the monthly rate. The Respondents urged the Court to adopt the attitude that practice itself established a daily rate from whatever the Court laid down as the monthly rate, and that there was no need for the Court to make specific provision for casual labour as such.

(ii) The Respondents submitted that they had made no counter offer to the Claimants' demand of Sh. 120 housing allowance as the position was that they already paid Sh. 45 which was in advance of the bulk of industry generally, particularly bearing in mind the geographical position of the Respondents' premises.

(iii) Bargaining had not been possible on the Claimants' demand on Annual Leave the Respondents submitted. The Claimants had advanced no reason as to why the amounts they demanded had any relevance to the negotiations. The highest levels in Kenya today, the Respondents stated, were granted by B.A.T. (Kenya) Limited, the Brewery and Bottling Association, the Oil Industry and the Docks, but none of those approached the level demanded by the Claimants. It was submitted that the Claimants could not demonstrate that the Respondents' provision of three weeks' Annual Leave after the completion of twelve months' service was not fair in the context of comparative competitive industry.

(iv) A Leave Allowance of Sh. 60 was currently being paid, but the Respondents had offered Sh. 75 on 20th May 1965. This particular offer went hand-in-hand with their offer in respect of wages and the Court was asked to bear this fact in mind when it examined the two questions. The sum of Sh. 15 which was the proposed increase was part of the sum which the Respondents were in a position to disburse in improving the conditions of employment of their employees. The question of a leave allowance could not, therefore, be considered without bearing in mind its relationship with the wage offer. The Respondents submitted that their offer of Sh. 75 Leave Allowance was considerably higher than the average paid in this type of industry.

(v) The Respondents submitted that their present Agreement made provisions for a period of 21 days' sick leave on full pay and a further 21 days' sick leave on half pay. They stated that they were well aware that some companies provided 30 days on full pay and a further 30 days on half pay, but did not feel that there was any necessity to make an offer unless hardship was established. They were ready to consider any information which suggested that the current provision was inequitable, but such information had not been forthcoming, therefore no obligation passed to them.

The Respondents accepted the lawful responsibilities to employees in respect of hospitalization. The question of payment for an employee who has been "injured accidentally outside" they rejected out of hand. An employer's obligations were very clear in respect of his employees whilst at work but it would be totally unrealistic if they were extended to cover the multiplicity of injuries and sickness which could come about as a result of "accidental" happenings outside employment.

"Teeth removal" they also considered to be part of a responsibility which could not pass to an employer, therefore, they had made no offer.

(vi) The intention of the Public Holidays Act was very clear, the Respondents submitted, and it read inter alia, "the days specified in Part I of the Schedule to this Act shall in every year be kept as Public Holidays by all Public Offices and all Banks." In other words the intention was that by law on a day deemed to be a Public Holiday employees should not work and should be paid although they were not present at work, which was precisely the result of the Respondents' five day week, when it coincided with such a holiday.

The Act also provided a useful guide in a further section, in that it made provision for an occasion when a Public Holiday fell on a Sunday and established "the first succeeding day shall be deemed to be the holiday." The Claimants' demand in the circumstances was unique and illogical and could only be construed as either a desire for a further enhancement of the leisure periods or an opportunity to gain more overtime.

It must be made clear, it was stated, that the worker with a five day week was no worse off than other workers on a six day week by losing an occasional Gazetted Holiday. Normally five day week workers make up their lost time by working an extra hour on each normal working day and they, therefore, received a nine hour holiday on Gazetted Public Holidays, while ordinary six day week workers only received an eight hour holiday on Gazetted Public Holidays. The Respondents' employees were already at an advantage and it would be ludicrous to accept that when a Public Holiday fell on a Saturday, which to them was already a holiday, they must receive some other day in lieu. Were the Court to make such a provision in face of the five day working week then the same principle could be applied in respect of absence on sick leave, compassionate leave, maternity leave, etc., which would be a departure, not contemplated in any other part of the world.

(vii) It was the Respondents' submission that their particular business required that the probationary period should be two months, particularly in view of the diversification involved under the one roof. Practice over the years had shown this to be an intelligent and workable period and the Claimants' demand for a reduction by 50 per cent had not been supported with any appropriate argument.

(viii) Acting Allowance did not form part of the Claimants' original demands, the Respondents pointed out, but came up during the course of their joint meeting on 23rd August 1965. The Respondents stated that they accepted the principle of an acting allowance, particularly in view of the recently established job gradings. What was in dispute was the period during which the employee must serve before it could be realistically accepted that he had absorbed sufficient expertise in the higher level to justify the emoluments for that higher level. The Respondents' view was that 15 days were necessary and they requested the Court to endorse their proposal. Their proposal was an average figure they stated. At the lower levels of the wage structure it was accepted that a comparatively short period of time would be adequate, but the same could not be said at the higher levels when a greater degree of professional skill or executive competence was demanded. The Court had on two previous occasions ruled on the same question—in Cause No. 17 of 1964 the Court held that 15 days was adequate and in Cause No. 10 of 1964 the Court held that current practice by the employer of requiring the employee to "act" for a period of 18 days was equitable.

The Respondents submitted that although this particular provision was established in Wages Council Orders and negotiated agreements it was their view that there must be a limit to the encroachment on an employer's right to run his business. The Claimants' interest was very simple, and at the earliest opportunity the employee should derive the maximum financial benefit possible from his employer. In urging their particular side of this argument they forgot that the employer's burden was twofold. Firstly, he must pay the higher level of wages which equity would demand he should, but secondly, he must bear the cost of the acting employee's shortcomings. An employer committed to pay the higher wage at too early a point was involved with loss of production and damage or loss of materials. On this basis the Respondents asked the Court to accept that the employer's stake in this provision was of greater importance than that of the Claimants and that any unrealistic award must have a deleterious effect on the employer's willingness to offer employees a chance to set foot on the first rung of the ladder.

(ix) The Respondents submitted that the position in so far as the signed Agreement was concerned, was quite straightforward. The last clause of the Agreement dated the 10th April, in the last sentence read "In accordance with the National Agreement on Employment the existing Agreement on wages dated 26th January 1963, stands extended up to 31st March 1965, etc." The subsequent extension of two months which had been recognized by the Court would bring this date up to the 31st May 1965. The issue was, however, to what extent the Respondents were committed to the offer made on the 20th May 1965. That the offer had been made was freely accepted and so was the fact that it had been withdrawn at a meeting with the Claimants on the 28th July 1965. The point being that the Claimants had accepted that there was tactically more advantage in changing the basis for wage negotiations, particularly in view of the fact that they were in possession of what may now be termed the Respondents' "minimum" offer. The Claimants had, however, rejected the Respondents' offer and had expressed a preference for establishing a wage structure. This they had done without imposing any conditions and it was considered that the Court would not be acting equitably if it saw fit to read equivocation into the withdrawal. The Claimants, it was submitted, were at that time, at liberty to bargain with the Respondents on the basis that the offer of the 20th May was an interim figure which might (or might not) be improved by the grading exercise. The Claimants had made no such overtures, they had merely confined themselves to a rejection of the Respondents' threefold offer and had demanded that grading go ahead.

This unequivocal rejection of the Respondents' offer tied, as it was, to a dating of 1st June 1965, confronted the Court with the need to examine as a new issue the status of the wage structure which was signed on 5th August 1965. The Respondents submitted that they must urge that the Claimants as a purely tactical move rejected the offer of the 20th May, counting on improving their bargaining position by insisting on the carrying out of a grading exercise. The measure of their co-operation on this exercise, it was stated, lent weight to that view. The dispute on wages before the Court, therefore, rested with demands submitted by the Claimants after the completion of the wage structure. These were new demands and, in most cases, were still substantially in excess of the figures which they had put forward on 29th March 1965. There was no continuity between the Claimants' demands of 29th March 1965, and the figures which they had advanced in respect of the new structure. That this situation came about through the Claimants' initiative should inhibit the Court from taking any step to relate the negotiations in May with the negotiations which commenced after the wage structure had been negotiated.

In view of the above it was the Respondents' respectful submission that the agreement should be implemented as from the 1st of the month following the publication of the Court's award and that it should at least be for a normal period of twelve months.

AWARD

5. The Court, having given careful consideration to the evidence and submissions of the parties, awards as follows:—

(i) Wages (including Casual Labour).—The basic minimum wage in the new grades shall be as follows:—

	Sh.
Factory Artisan .. .. .	335
Watchmen .. .. .	195
Drivers .. .. .	215
Clerical Grade I .. .. .	350
Clerical Grade II .. .. .	250
Clerical Grade III .. .. .	200
Viewer/Checker Grade I .. .. .	170
Tallyman (Timber) .. .. .	250
Coffee Roaster .. .. .	310
Boilerman .. .. .	160
Polish Maker .. .. .	220
Assistant Mechanic .. .. .	230
Sweepers .. .. .	160
Foremen Grade I .. .. .	440
Foremen Grade II .. .. .	360
Foremen Grade III .. .. .	275
Wood-working Machinist .. .. .	280
Machine Operators and Manual Workers
Grade I .. .. .	215
Grade II .. .. .	190
Grade III .. .. .	180
General Duties Grade I .. .. .	160
General Duties Grade II .. .. .	150

Female Employees.—The basic rate of pay paid to female employees shall be the same as that paid to male employees.

Casual Labourers.—All casual labourers shall be paid for each day worked at the rate of one-twenty-second of both the basic minimum wage and the housing allowance.

(ii) Housing Allowance.—Nil award.

(iii) Annual Leave.—An employee shall be entitled after the completion of twelve months' service to Annual Leave for a period covering twenty-one (21) consecutive days, with full pay.

(iv) Leave Allowance.—When an employee proceeds on his annual leave (once a year) he shall get a sum of Sh. 75 by way of leave allowance.

(v) Medical Expenses.—An employee shall be entitled to sick leave with full pay up to a maximum of 30 days and a further 30 days' sick leave up to a maximum of 30 days with half pay, in each period of 12 months continuous service, subject to the usual safeguards.

(vi) Saturday when it is a Holiday.—Nil award.

In making a nil award under this head the Court points out that once the employees and the employers agree on the principle of a five day week then the question of payment of any kind for a Saturday if it happens to be a holiday cannot arise. A worker with a five day week is not worse off than other workers on a six day week by losing an occasional Gazetted Holiday. Normally five day week workers make up their lost time by working an extra hour on each normal working day and he, therefore, receives a nine hour holiday on Gazetted Public Holidays while ordinary six day week workers only receive an eight hour holiday in Gazetted Public Holidays. They are already at an advantage and it would not be fair to accept that when a Public Holiday falls on a Saturday, which to them is already a holiday, they must receive some other day in lieu.

(vii) Probation Period.—Nil award.

(viii) Acting Allowance.—Nil award.

(ix) Duration and Implementation of Agreement.—The new Agreement shall take effect as from the 1st September 1965, and shall remain in force for a period of 12 months.

Given in Nairobi this 24th day of November 1965.

GAZETTE NOTICE No. 4382

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE No. 44 OF 1965

Parties:

The Kenya Chemical Workers' Union
and
Messrs. R. H. Devani

Issues in Dispute:

- (i) Wages.
- (ii) Effective Date.
- (iii) Working Hours.
- (iv) Severance Pay.

1. The issues in dispute were referred to the Industrial Court for settlement in accordance with the provisions of the Trade Dispute Act, 1965.

The parties were heard in Nairobi on the 28th October 1965.

GENERAL BACKGROUND

2. Messrs R. H. Devani (hereinafter referred to as the Respondents) are a small cosmetic manufacturing concern in Nairobi. The whole plant employs less than fifteen persons. The first and still valid Agreement on terms and conditions of employment between the Respondent and the Kenya Chemical Workers' Union (hereinafter referred to as the Claimants), was signed on the 22nd January 1963, but was effective as from the 1st November 1962. New demands were submitted by the Claimants on the 25th October 1963. Only the above five issues remained in dispute and both parties agreed to submit them to the Industrial Court for settlement.

MAIN SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE CLAIMANTS

3. (i) The Claimants submitted that the present wages paid to the workers were not enough to provide for the least of their needs. They demanded that all employees should be graded and receive basic minimum rates of pay inclusive of housing allowance as follows:—

	Per month (consolidated)
Grade (iv) Labourers, Sweepers and employees not elsewhere classified .. ..	Sh. 310
Grade (iii) Office Messengers, Askaris/Watchmen and semi-skilled Labourers ..	Sh. 360
Grade (ii) Assistant General Clerks, Machine Operators, Drivers .. ..	Sh. 550
Grade (i) General Clerks, Salesmen and Assistant Storekeepers .. ..	Sh. 755
Grade (Special) Accounts Clerks, Supervisors and Senior Laboratory Assistants ..	Sh. 1,060

The Claimants also demanded that employees whose wages were already above those in their respective grades should receive the same increase which should be the difference between the new basic minimum scale and the old minimum scale in their respective grades.

Figures were placed before the Court to show the cost of providing a worker with the basic necessities of life; this amounted to Sh. 225/60 in the case of a single person and double this amount for a married couple.

It was stated that there were five other companies manufacturing the same kind of products and that their workers were drawing a basic minimum wage of not less than Sh. 200.

They had been prepared during negotiations to accept Sh. 210 or even Sh. 205 but the Respondents had not been willing to offer either of these amounts.

(ii) The Court was asked to make its award effective as from 25th November 1963, as the workers had waited too long for improved terms and conditions of employment.

(iii) A working week of 42 hours was demanded for all employees exclusive of the meal break hours, provided that where an employee who was required to work in excess of such hours should be paid for such excess hours at the appropriate overtime rates.

(iv) Overtime rates asked for were as follows:—

(a) For hours worked between Monday and Saturday in excess of normal hours—time and half;

(b) For hours worked on Sundays and Gazetted Public Holidays—double time.

(v) On severance pay the Claimants demanded:—

(a) On completion of one year and up to five years' service, an employee should be paid half of his month's pay for each completed year of service;

(b) On completion of over five years, but less than 10 years' service, an employee should be paid one month's pay for each completed year of service; and

(c) On completion of 10 years' service and over, but less than 15 years, an employee should be paid one and one-half month's pay for each completed year of service.

All payments to be made at the employee's basic rate of pay in the final month of such service and to be paid on termination of service for whatever reason the employee left.

MAIN SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE RESPONDENTS

4. On behalf of the Respondents it was submitted that the width of the gap between the two parties on the Terms of Reference was so small that the Court might well consider that the parties to the dispute had been petty in their inability to close the gap, and conclude the agreement. The Respondents held that the first two lines of the second paragraph in the Court's Award in Cause No. 18 of 1964 were relevant to the circumstances and justified the attitude which they had adopted. These two lines were:—

"The Court is normally the final arbiter when two parties have bargained to a point beyond which they do not feel they can move."

In their case they considered that voluntarily a point had been reached beyond which, for economic reasons, they could not go. The economic reasons were simple and were tied to the fact that their immediate competitors did not recognize the Claimants and were not subject to negotiated terms and conditions of service. The Claimants could not be held responsible for the competitive ability of a company, but in view of costs being so closely related to the expenses of labour, employers, whose employees were not organized, had an unfair advantage.

The Terms of Reference involved five items and in each case the width of the gap between the two parties was extremely small, but it was their view that the final concession should have been made by the Claimants in view of the harmful effect the ascending wage spiral (in addition to liberal fringe benefits) must have on the Respondents' ability to operate a profitable business to the benefit of the Respondents, the employees and the tax collector.

(i) During the course of negotiations on 6th March, 1965, the Claimants, it was stated, proposed that the minimum rate of wages be Sh. 205 for a period of twelve months from 1st January 1965. This, it was stated, was in reply to the last offer made by the Respondents which involved increasing the wage to Sh. 195. The meeting on 6th March 1965, was adjourned with an agreement that they would submit in writing to the Claimants their views on the Claimants' last demand. On 9th March the Respondents wrote to the Claimants and stated their inability to reach Sh. 205 proposed by the Claimants, but expressed a preparedness to pay Sh. 200 with effect from 1st January 1965. This offer on wages was accompanied by an offer in respect of severance pay on the basis of ten days' pay for each completed year of service. These two offers, it was submitted, were a package deal and reflected the need by the Respondents to operate within economic limits dictated by current trading circumstances.

The Respondents submitted that it must be clear to the Court that both these offers involved capital outlay for which no provision had been made. By examining the issue of wages in isolation there was merely a gap of Sh. 5 to be bridged, but it must be remembered that on the 9th March they had made an offer on two items which were mutually complementary.

All work was carried out by unskilled workers and when there was a lot of business, casual labour was employed.

(ii) The Respondents submitted that there were in existence recorded proposals involving the Claimants' demand on 6th March for Sh. 205 per month with effect from 1st January 1965, and their own written reply of 9th March accepting that date (tied to a minimum wage of Sh. 200 per month). The Court, it was stated, could accept that as the parties themselves had conceded common ground then it was unnecessary for the Court to upset the position. However, the Court was entitled to go a little further into the question and consider whether there was any profit in making an award back-dated to 1st January 1965, bearing in mind the date of the hearing of this dispute. Clearly it would be unprofitable and industrial relations would not benefit from an award of short duration. Logically, it was submitted, the Court could weigh whether or not there would be merit in applying the money which would be due to the employees in respect of a back-dating to a forward award.

(iii) The Respondents stated that they currently worked a 43½ hour week and that the Claimants on 6th March had stated that they were willing to accept a reduction to 43 hours. The Respondents had been inflexible on this point since negotiations had commenced and had adopted the view that their hours of work were more advantageous than those engaged by the bulk of employers in industry today and, therefore, there was no justification for any further reduction. They also pointed out that a short working week materially enhanced the value of the wage. The Court was requested to follow its established pattern and award no variation in working hours.

(iv) Overtime, the Respondents submitted, was a simple issue in that currently they paid time and a quarter for hours worked between Monday and Friday and the Claimants wished to change this to time and half. Once again, they pointed out, there may be justification in stating that a prolonged argument over time and a quarter as opposed to time and a half was pettifogging, but this was not an item which could be viewed in isolation. The accumulative effect of the five issues in dispute if the awards were unfavourable was to further reduce the ability of the Respondents to compete in business.

(v) The Respondents considered that the Claimants' demands on severance pay was exaggerated and once again pointed out that they must relate the next cost of such a benefit in the light of the Claimants' demands in other directions. They were on record as having offered ten days' pay and this offer had not been retracted. However, it was submitted, that cognizance should be taken of the fact that ten days pay after each completed year of service had been offered on 9th March hand-in-hand with the proposals that the minimum wage be Sh. 200.

AWARD

5. The Court, having given careful consideration to the evidence and submissions of the parties, awards as follows:—

(i) Wages and (ii) Effective Date.—All employees shall be paid a consolidated wage of Sh. 210 per month with effect from the 1st October 1965, for a period of one year.

(iii) Working Hours.—Nil award.

(iv) Overtime.—Overtime rates shall be as follows:—

(a) For hours worked on Monday to Friday in excess of normal hours—time and a half;

(b) Other arrangements to stay as before.

(v) Severance Pay.—An employee on retirement shall be entitled to severance pay (gratuity) at the rate of 10 days' pay for each completed year of continuous service.

KENYA POST OFFICE SAVINGS BANK ACCOUNTS FOR THE YEAR 1964

REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE ACCOUNT
INVESTMENTS ADJUSTMENT ACCOUNT
RESERVE ACCOUNT
BALANCE SHEET
ACCOUNT OF DEPOSITS AND WITHDRAWALS

1. I have examined the accounts listed above in accordance with section 13 of the Post Office Savings Bank Act. I have obtained all the information and explanations that I have required, and I certify, as the result of my audit, that in my opinion these accounts are correct, subject to the following observations.

REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE ACCOUNT

2. Interest Credited to Depositors—£124,000.—This has been estimated from total monthly balances standing to the credit of depositors in the Main Ledger for 1964.

3. Rent of Offices.—This includes expenditure of £2,376-2-33 being rent for the six months ended 31st December 1964 for office accommodation which was vacated by the Savings Bank Headquarters on 30th June 1964. The Headquarters moved to more suitable accommodation during the year, at a substantially lower rental. Although the move was anticipated in the previous year, the landlord of the old accommodation was not prepared to make any concession to the Savings Bank by way of accepting a monthly tenancy.

4. Losses of Savings Bank Moneys—£3,558-9-84.—This amount comprises 343 items and includes:—

(i) Overpayments to the public, in 214 cases amounting to £289-5-37.

(ii) Two cases of burglary resulting in the loss of £678-19-40.

(iii) One case of loss of cash remittance through violation of the mail £7-10-0.

(iv) Numerous cases of forgery and fraudulent alteration of Savings Bank Pass Books by organized gangs and by individuals resulting in the loss of £1,767-2-41.

(v) Losses amounting to £815-12-66 resulting from 28 cases of misappropriation, forgery and fraudulent manipulation of Savings Bank accounts by Post Office employees.

BALANCE SHEET

5. Balance Due to Depositors—£5,104,669-13-15.—The comparison of the total amount standing to the credit of individual depositors' accounts with the relevant account in the Main Ledger as at 31st December 1964 is being undertaken but is not yet completed.

6. The known difference by which depositors' accounts exceed the Main Ledger account as at 31st December 1963, after allowing for errors brought to light in 1964, is £10,613-9-62. This is an increase of £3,419-9-62 over the differences at the end of the previous year.

7. During 1964 a large number of errors in ledger card postings and interest calculations came to light as the result of comparing ledger cards with Pass Books sent in by depositors. Approximately 15 per cent of ledger cards were checked with Pass Books and errors were found in 1·87 per cent of the accounts checked. This indicates that the remaining 85 per cent of ledger cards which were not checked with Pass Books, may contain a similar percentage of errors in postings and interest calculations.

8. In addition, 295 deposits amounting to £1,295-2-79 and 72 withdrawals amounting to £217-3-00 have not been posted to ledger cards because incorrect details were recorded on relevant transaction slips at Post Offices, as shown below.

9. Cash and Investments Held by the Crown Agents.—Advance copies of statements of cash and investments held by the Crown Agents on behalf of the Savings Bank at the 31st December 1964 have been seen, but the original statements certified by the Comptroller and Auditor-General of Great Britain have not yet been received.

KENYA POST OFFICE SAVINGS BANK

During 1964, 34,527 new accounts were opened and 12,475 closed, a net increase over 1963 of 22,052 and the total number of depositors in the Bank is now 472,609. However, the average active holding fell from £15.35 in 1963 to £12.80 in 1964.

As was anticipated, following the cessation of the Voluntary Deduction from Pay Scheme in 1963, the number of transactions declined and in 1964, 969,483 transactions were processed as against £1,133,964 in 1963. Deposits totalled £2,568,169 which was £581,434 below the previous year. Withdrawals amounted to £3,343,571 producing a deficiency of £775,402. To meet excess withdrawals investments to the value of £609,227 were sold. The continued realization of investments is reflected in the Revenue and Expenditure Account, and this coupled with a depreciation in the value of investments held and loss on sales of investments, accounts for the increase of £116,390, in the Reserve Account Deficiency.

As at 31st December 1964, the total amount standing to the credit of depositors was £5,104,670. This includes interest estimated at £124,000. The reduced volume of business referred to above has led to a substantial reduction in operating costs and for 1964 such costs were £20,000 lower than in 1961. This is reflected in the Revenue and Expenditure Account which shows that in spite of a decrease of £25,275 in interest on investments, compared with 1963, the excess of expenditure over revenue has increased by £4,341 only.

The only substantial increase in expenditure was £5,372 for Extra Duty Pay. This was mainly due to the large intake of replacement staff (50 per cent) with a consequent drop in output, which necessitated extensive extra duty. Additionally a considerable amount of preparatory work in connexion with the change-over to computer working was also undertaken by overtime. However, this excess was offset by a reduction of £4,663 in personal emoluments and other items.

Much of the detailed preparation for conversion to computer working was completed during the year and the change-over is now taking place.

In July 1964, the Savings Bank Headquarters was moved to more convenient premises and this will result in further economies.
