THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE No. 10 OF 1981

Parties:

Kenya Building, Construction, Civil Engineering and Allied Trades Workers' Union and
T.M. Construction Ltd.

Issue in dispute:

Dismissal of Kasyoki Mbuiga.

1. The Kenya Building, Construction, Civil Engineering and Allied Trades Workers' Union shall hereinafter be referred to as the Claimants and T.M. Construction Ltd. shall hereinafter be referred to as the Respondents.

2. The dispute was originally fixed for hearing on 28th and 29th April, 1981, but due to the parties' convenience it could not be heard on those dates. Then it was fixed for 15th and 16th July but again due to parties own arrangement it could not be heard. Eventually it was heard on 1st, 2nd and 3rd February this year. In addition to relying on their written and verbal submissions the parties called the following witnesses to give evidence on oath:

Claimants.—K. Mbuiga.

Respondents:

D. Dheesh.

D. Hamisi.

AWARD

3. The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 17th September, 1980, duly signed by the parties was received by the Court on 23rd February, 1981, together with the statutory certificates signed by the Minister for Labour and the Labour Commissioner.

Mr. Mbuiga started working for the Respondents in 1958 and rose to the position of a storekeeper which position he held until 4th February, 1980. On this date he had reported back for work having been absent from 15th January, 1980. Apparently he was summarily dismissed for having been absent from duty without permission.

The Claimants took up the matter on his behalf and the dispute was reported to the Minister for Labour and after investigations were carried out by the Ministry of Labour the Permanent Secretary released the report to the parties on 4th July, 1980, in the following terms:

"Investigations confirmed that Mr. Mbuiga had served the company for 28 years without any written warnings to his record.

It was also found out that Mr. Mwai whom Mr. Mbuiga claimed to have got permission to go on leave from, left the company after having stolen company's money before

Mr. Mbuiga returned from leave. Therefore there was no support in favour of Mr. Mbuiga's claim.

In the light of the above the management's submission that Mr. Mbuiga's performance was most unsatisfactory does not carry much weight.

In the absence of Mr. Mwai's evidence and in view of the fact that there was no written warning to Mr. Mbuiga, the benefit of doubt must go to him especially when he had served the company for 28 years. I find the dismissal wrongful.

In view of the facts contained herein and in consideration to the number of years, Mr. Mbuiga had served the company I recommend that his services be terminated normally, be paid all his terminal benefits in accordance with the parties' agreement and in addition be paid 8 months' wages as compensation."

The Respondents having rejected the findings and recommendation the matter is now before the Court.

From the outset the Court must comment on the fact that the Respondents were not able to produce any records in respect of Kasyoki's employment with them particularly regarding his unauthorized absences from work and his annual leave over all these years of employment which he had with them. The Respondents submitted that Kasyoki used to be absent without permission and would come back after a few days and on giving some sort of explanation re some relative's sickness he would ask these days to be set off against his annual leave. The Respondents added that they used to accept his explanations and stated that in fact there was no time when Kasyoki actually went on leave all these years. This sort of situation, to say the least, is absurd. The Respondents are a fairly large undertaking and are operating nearly 1,000 lorries and plants in their work but were not able to produce any employment records in respect of this employee.

The Respondents' witnesses stated that leave application forms had to be filled which were in the first place received by Mr. Hamisi who then forwarded them to Mr. Dheesh who was the plant manager. It was Mr. Dheesh's responsibility to approve leave which he did after considering the load of work and the employees that were available at any given time. Although throughout these proceedings the Respondents had suggested that Kasyoki had not obtained leave through the proper procedure their advocate, half way through the proceedings, informed the Court that the Respondents did not intend to raise the question of Kasyoki not having filled leave forms. This obviously he did for very good reason because there are in fact no leave forms which were ever filled by Kasyoki before proceeding on leave.

It is not in dispute that in November 1979, Kasyoki had gone on compassionate leave as his child had died and he came back on 26th November and continued working until 24th December. Kasyoki claims that he always used to go on leave on 24th December and as usual he applied again to go on leave for the balance of days that were still due to him but he was refused and told to wait until 15th January, 1980. He claimed that on 15th January one David Mwai, a wages clerk through whom the workers used to communicate with the management told him that his leave had been approved and he having received his advance proceeded on leave.

The Respondents' witnesses emphasized that Mwai was only a licensing clerk and had nothing to do with accepting or communicating with employees on questions of leave, etc. They explained that during Kasyoki's absence Mwai had disappeared with over Sh. 30,000. belonging to the Respondents.

The Court finds that as far as Kasyoki was concerned the whole procedure re his leave had over the years been extremely lax and there was nothing definite about it. It is obvious that the Respondents had all along encouraged Kasyoki in his behaviour to be absent when he felt like it or had a need for and then set it off against his leave. The Court is inclined to accept what Kasyoki said that he always used to go on leave on 24th December every year for the days remaining and although in 1979 he had gone on compassionate leave in November he again expected to go for the balance of his leave on 24th December but was told that he could not go due to pressure of work and should wait till January. It appears that either on 14th or 15th January he proceeded on leave without the Respondents' knowledge and took it for granted that he would be met with the same treatment as in the past. This time, again when he came back on 4th February he was asked to give an explanation and he simply said that he was on leave. The Respondents had earlier pleaded that he had given no explanation, that he was even rude but the Court is satisfied that Kasyoki was not rude and he did not abuse anyone and the only explanation he gave was that he was on leave.

The Court has very carefully considered this dispute and the evidence that was led in support of the parties' respective submissions and finds the circumstances relating to Kasyoki's annual leave taking for over 20 years to be most unusual. He was not served with any letter of warning and the Court feels that if the Respondents had decided that from a certain date Kasyoki should not expect to be treated so leniently as in the past then they should have clearly spelled it out to him in writing setting out exactly what would be required of him before he could proceed on annual leave. This they failed to do and although they have said that they had been generous with this employee in the past the fact remains that Kasyoki had been encouraged by them in this behaviour. So Kasyoki must get the benefit of doubt. Considering all the circumstances of his absence from duty from 14th or 15th January, 1980 to 4th February with the Respondents maintaining that he had been absent without permission and Kasyoki claiming that he was on leave the Court finds that the Respondents' action in summarily terminating his services was extremely harsh as at the most what he deserved was an official warning letter. The Court must add that towards the end of the proceedings there was beginning to be a great doubt whether Kasyoki had been served with any letter of termination but in view of the pleadings the Court accepts that the Respondents had summarily terminated his services.

In view of the rather unusual circumstances of this case the Court finds that the Respondents' reliance on clause 23 dealing with absence from duty in the parties' collective agreement is rather misplaced.

After a careful consideration of all the submissions and evidence the Court finds that Kasyoki has suffered a wrongful dismissal.

The Court awards that the Respondents should pay Kasyoki Mbuiga nine months' salary by way of compensation for the wrongful dismissal that he has suffered and rules that this compensation includes his pay for notice. In addition to this the Respondents should also pay Mr. Mbuiga the retirement benefits due to him under clause 17 of the collective agreement.

Given in Nairobi on the 16th February, 1982.

Kenya Timber and Furniture Workers' Union
and

Furniture Manufacturers Group of F.K.E.

Interpretation Application—Ruling

The Court announced its award in the above dispute on 23rd December, 1981 and awarded monthly wage increase for the various groups. The Court awarded the following rates in respect of groups 3 (b), 4 and 5:

	Previous minimum	Monthly wage increase 1st year	Resulting wage 1st year
3(b)	Sh. 659 to 739 statutory rate	Sh. 73	Sh. 812
4	708 to 811	81	892
5	889 to 966	96	1,062

The Respondents have applied for interpretation of the Court award in respect of the above three job groups and have pointed out that the Court's intention was a 10 per cent wage increase for each group and according to their interpretation the wage increases for these groups should be as follows:

Group	Previous Minimum	Monthly increase 1st	Resulting wage w.e.f. 1-5-80	Statutory rate 1-6-80	Resulting wage w.e.f. 1-6-80
	Sh.	Sh.	Sh.	Sh.	Sh.
3(b)	659	65	724	739	739
4	708	70	778	811	811
5	889	88	977	966	977

The Respondents further pointed out that the figures as they appeared in the Court award would come to 23 per cent wage increase for group 3 (b), 26 per cent for group 4 and 19 per cent for group 5. They maintained that this was not the intention of the Court and asked the Court to endorse their interpretation.

The Claimants in answer pointed out that the Respondents had proposed the following statutory rates for these groups for the first year—

	Sh.
Group 3 (b)	739
4	811

and when the Court gave its award it gave a 10 per cent wage increase based on the above statutory rates and the Court had clearly underlined this point on page 5 of its award by substituting the previous minimum with statutory rates.

The Claimants argued that it could not have been the Court's intention to leave these employees at their statutory rate for two years without any wage increase from either May or June, 1980. They stated that if the Respondents' interpretation was to be accepted the workers in these groups would get wage increase for one month only, i.e. May, 1980, after which they would be paid the statutory rate only. Finally they submitted that the Respondents were trying to vary the Court award which is very clear.

The Court was very much aware of this point which the Respondents have raised now in the interpretation application when the Court formulated its award. The Court went to great length in pointing out that it had taken into consideration Guideline 5 which states that it will be for the Court to decide what the basic minimum would be from time to time in each occupation. The Court was aware that employees in these three groups would be getting a wage increase in excess of 10 per cent and it was for this reason that the Court decided to rely on Guideline 5 when making its award.

The Court has carefully considered the submissions made by the Respondents and finds that as the award is very clear it cannot allow them to persuade the Court to change it. The Court accordingly rejects their interpretation.

Dated the 10th February, 1982.

Judge.

GAZETTE NOTICE No. 407

THE TRADE MARKS ACT (Cap. 506)

NOTICE is given that any person who has grounds of opposition to the registration of any of the trade marks advertised herein according to the classes may, within 60 days from the date of this Gazette, lodge notice of opposition on Form T.M. No. 6 (in duplicate) together with a fee of Sh. 50.

Notice is also given that official objection will be taken under rule 21 (3) to all applications in which the specification claims all the goods included in any class unless the Registrar is satisfied that the claim is justified by the use of the mark which the applicant has made, or intends to make if and when it is registered. Where an applicant considers that a claim in respect of all the goods included in a class can be justified it will save unnecessary delay in examining applications if a claim is filed simultaneously with the application, accompanied in appropriate cases by supporting documents.

The period for lodging notice of opposition may be extended by the Registrar as he thinks fit and upon such terms as he may direct. Any request for such extension should be made to the Registrar so as to reach him before the expiry of the period allowed.

Formal opposition should not be lodged until after reasonable notice has been given by letter to the applicant for registration so as to afford him any opportunity of withdrawing his application before the expense of preparing the notice of opposition is incurred. Failure to give such notice will be taken into account in considering any application by an opponent for an order for costs if the opposition is uncontested by the applicant.

Where it is stated in the advertisement of the applicant that the mark, upon its registration, is to be limited to certain colours, the colours are, as far as possible, indicated in the accompanying representations of the mark in the usual heraldic manner.

Representations of the marks advertised herein can be seen at the Trade Marks Registry, State Law Office, Nairobi.

Applications for registration in Part A of the Register are shown with the official number unaccompanied by any letter. Application for Part B are distinguished by the letter B prefixed to the official number.
