GAZETTE NOTICE No. 2712

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE No. 26 OF 1966

Parties:—

Tailors and Textiles Workers' Union and

Muranga Garment Manufacturing Limited

Issues in dispute:—

- (1) Redundancy.
- (2) Duration of Agreement.
- (3) Sh. 10 Increment.
- (4) Recognition Agreement.

1. The Tailors and Textiles Workers' Union shall hereinafter be referred to as the Claimants and Muranga Garment Manufacturing Limited shall hereinafter be referred to as the Respondents.

2. The Parties were heard in Nairobi on the 7th day of July 1966, and relied on their written and verbal submissions. The Respondents called one witness in support of their case.

GENERAL BACKGROUND

3. The Respondents started their business in April 1965 and in March this year, when the Government withdrew the rebate granted on textile materials, they declared 11 employees redundant. The Respondents granted two of these employees one week's severance pay in addition to their other dues, the other nine employees were not granted any severance pay.

The Claimants who enjoy recognition from the Nairobi Master Tailors Association and the Mass Production Group—Clothing and Shirt Industry, had been pressing the Respondents to recognize them either by the Respondents joining one of these two Groups or by entering into a separate agreement with them. The Respondents had resisted entering into a formal agreement with the Claimants and had declined to join either of the said two Groups, although unofficially the Respondents had carried out consultations and negotiations with the Claimants regarding wages and terms and conditions of service of their employees.

On 1st April this year the Regulation of Wages (Tailoring, Garment Making and Associated Trades) Order 1966 came into effect. The Claimants, who had secured from the Mass Production Group an increase of Sh. 10 per month for all those workers who were already in receipt of the revised rates for the various jobs or more, demanded from the Respondents, a similar increase of Sh. 10. The Claimants also demanded severance pay in respect of the nine employees who had been declared redundant by the Respondents; further they wanted the Respondents to enter into a recognition agreement with them to be followed by an agreement governing terms and conditions of service of their employees, with effect from 1st January 1966, for 12 months. The Respondents did not agree to any of these demands and the Parties referred the matter to the Ministry of Labour where they were advised to take the matter to the Industrial Court. The Parties signed the notification of dispute form on 2nd April 1966, in accordance with the Trade Disputes Act 1965.

MAIN SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE CLAIMANTS

4. The Claimants submitted that the Respondents employed approximately 65 workers, out of which 50 were Union members who were paying their dues through a check-off system. In spite of this the Respondents were refusing to recognize them. When in June 1965, the Claimants gave a Director of the Respondents a model of recognition agreement, they were assured that the Respondents would recognize them. Yet for some unknown reason the Respondents were delaying the signing of a recognition agreement with the Claimants. The Claimants pointed out that the Respondents had unofficially recognized them and they could not see any reason why the position could not be regularized.

The Claimants stated that the business of the Respondents was identical to the business of the members of the Mass Production Group—Clothing and Shirt Industry and there was no reason why the Respondents could not pay Sh. 10 increase, as quoted hereinabove in the general background. The Claimants pointed out that the Respondents were competing with some members of the Mass Production Group and were one of the very few firms who were out of the aforesaid Groups.

The Claimants argued that by having paid two of the 11 employees severance pay the Respondents had set a precedent and were committed to pay severance pay to the other nine employees also. They drew the Court's attention to the fact that if the Wages Council Regulation Order had been delayed for a month or so, the Respondents would have paid severance pay to all 11 employees.

The Claimants submitted that as their agreement with the Mass Production Group had been signed on 18th January 1966, and had come into effect from 1st February 1966, for a period of 12 months, the Respondents should also be placed on the same footing.

In these circumstances the Claimants requested the Court (a) to order the Respondents to recognize them, (b) to award those employees who were on or above the rates specified in the Wages Council Regulation Order mentioned hereinabove a monthly increase of Sh. 10, (c) that this increase should be with effect from 1st February 1966, and (d) the remaining nine employees who had been declared redundant should be awarded severance pay at the rate of one week's wages.

MAIN SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE RESPONDENTS

5. The Respondents stated that the Claimants had based their claims on an agreement, which the Claimants had entered into with the Mass Production Group—Clothing and Shirt Industry, of which Group, the Respondents were not members. This Mass Production Group consisted of 11 major employers who had been in business for many years whereas the Respondents had just completed one year in business. The Respondents stated that during this first year they had suffered a considerable loss and had discharged 11 employees early this year, when the Government withdrew the rebate concession on textile materials. The Respondents submitted that the Wages Council Regulation Order which came into effect on 1st April 1966, laid down very generous rates of wages and terms and conditions of service. The Respondents submitted that the Mass Production Group agreement could not be enforced against them as they were not a party to that agreement. The Respondents further submitted that although recognition of a Union was a matter for the individual employer to decide, they were prepared to recognize the Claimants which, in fact, they had already done unofficially. The Respondents, however, stated that this would be subject to an entirely separate recognition agreement being drawn between the Parties hereto; although they conceded, that the Mass Production Group agreement could be used as a precedent.

The Respondents submitted that the Claimants were trying to get through the back door what they failed to obtain through the front door and, in fact, this was an attempt to impose upon the Respondents minimum conditions of service which the Ministry of Labour had declined to impose. The Respondents stated that when they had paid severance pay to two employees they had been informed by the Claimants' General Secretary that provision relating to severance pay would be included in the Wages Council Regulation Order which was to be published very shortly; it was on this statement that the two employees had been given severance pay. The Respondents had, however, after studying the Wages Council Regulation Order, when it was published, declined to pay severance pay to the other nine employees as they were not entitled to it. The Respondents had discharged only those employees who were completely inefficient in their work and had, therefore, not contravened the Industrial Relations Charter. The Respondents also argued that the Sh. 10 increase which the Claimants had won from the Mass Production Group was in the nature of a reward for long service and as they had been in operation for just one year there was no justification to impose this increase on them. The Respondents called one of their Directors to give evidence and to substantiate their statement that they had suffered a loss and could not afford to grant their employees Sh. 10 increase or the severance pay as demanded by the Claimants. The Respondents submitted, that they had not been approached at any stage for anything less than Sh. 10 increase and the Claimants had left no room for bargaining. The Respondents strongly denied that by having paid to two of their employees severance pay they were committed to make similar payment to the other nine employees. The Respondents, therefore, requested the Court to reject the Claimants' demands.

AWARD

6. The Court has very carefully considered the submissions made by the Parties before making its decision.

(1) Redundancy.—The Court awards the nine employees, who were declared redundant by the Respondents, one week's pay in respect of severance pay.

(2) Duration of Agreement.—As there is no agreement in existence between the Parties the Court cannot make an award under this issue as requested by the Claimants, but rules that the Court's award in this dispute should be with effect from 1st April 1966, and remain in force for a period of 12 months from that date.

(3) Sh. 10 Increment.—The Court awards that with effect from 1st April 1966, all those workers in receipt of wages specified in the Wages Council Regulation Order for Tailoring, Garment Making and Associated Trades, Legal Notice No. 108, or more shall get an increase of Sh. 5 per month.

(4) Recognition Agreement.—As unofficial recognition already exists between the Parties the Court rules that a formal agreement should be drawn up within a month of the date of this award.

Given in Nairobi this 20th day of July 1966.

President.
