OBITUARY.

It was with great regret that the news was received on the 6th instant announcing the death of the eldest daughter of our late lamented Queen. Her Imperial Majesty Dowager Queen Empress Frederick of Germany, which took place at her residence at Cronberg, on the 5th instant.

The health of the late Empress Frederick has been failing for some considerable time past and her life ebbed peacefully away surrounded by her sorrowing son Emperor William II and other members of the Royal Family.

The Empress Frederick was born November 21st, 1840 and married January 25th, 1858 the then Crown Prince of Prussia afterwards Emperor of Germany.

The life of the late Empress was one full of troubles which with her pure character and explicit trust in her Creator were borne with the utmost fortitude.

The death of the late Empress Frederick has excited deep and general sympathy, and the minds of Nations are carried back to the time of the death of her husband when she was left with the responsibility thrown upon her of training up the present Sovereign of Germany, Emperor William II and other illustrious members of her family.

By her decease two great nations are again within a few months mourning a common loss, thereby further strengthening the ties of friendship between them.

It is with extreme regret that we have to announce the death of Mr. E. Bradbridge, Treasurer of the East Africa Protectorate.

Mr. Bradbridge died from apoplexy on Friday the 2nd instant, at Djibouti, "en route" for Europe to spend his four months furlough.

Mr. Bradbridge joined the London Staff of the I. B. E. A. Co. on 1st March 1899, previous to which time he spent some years in Ceylon; in 1894 he was selected for special service at Mombasa; in 1895 he was transferred to the E. A. P. Service as Treasurer, which post he held up to the time of his death.

Mr. Bradbridge's kindness of heart and keen sympathy have won the affection of all who knew him; his death will be felt as a loss by all and especially by his brother officers who worked with him in the pioneering days of this country.

The sad news was quite unexpected and caused profound grief throughout the Protectorate.

Mr. Bradbridge is survived by his widow, three daughters and one son, to whom in their great bereavement the heartfelt sympathy of all East Africans is extended.

We regret to announce that by the last mail the news was received here of the death of Captain Gordon I.S.C. The deceased officer served in the Ogaden Punitive Force in command of the Aden Camel Corps, and the work done by him and his men was very highly spoken of by Colonel Ternan and by all who came in contact with it. Captain Gordon was invalided out of the force and reached Mombasa in March "en route" for Aden thence he was sent direct to England, but he was never really better and eventually, after two operations, died in London on July 12th.
