- 2 Effective date and duration

1 The Kenya Motor Engineering and Allied Workers' Union shall hereinafter be referred to as the Claimants and J S Davis Co (K) Ltd shall hereinafter be referred to as the Respondents

2 The parties were heard in Nairobi on the 6th day of January, 1975, and relied on their written and verbal submissions

AWARD

3 The Notification of Dispute Form 'A' dated 7th September, 1974, was received by the Court on 9th October, along with the statutory certificate signed by the Labour Commissioner in accordance with section 9 (9) (e) of the Trade Disputes Act

The parties entered into a collective agreement on 30th November, 1973, which became effective from 1st September, 1973, and as to remain in force for a period of two years from that date

The Minister for Finance issued Guidelines to the Industrial Court relating to wages and salary levels and other terms and conditions of employment on 29th August, 1973. The Minister for Labour also ordered the registration of collective agreements under paragraph 11 (a) of the Trade Disputes Act

Accordingly the aforesaid collective agreement was registered by the Court on 14th March, 1974, with amendment to clause 1 of Part 2 of the agreement so that watchmen are required to work 70 hours spread over six days of the week. Before the agreement was registered the Court took into consideration a letter from the Minister for Labour dated 6th March, 1974, in which he informed the Court that he found no reason to object to its registration by the Court and further after the Court had satisfied itself that the agreement was in conformity with the Guidelines

On 20th March, 1974, the Minister for Finance issued Amendments to the Guidelines. The original Guidelines in para 10 suggest that the level of remuneration should not be reviewed more than once in every two years, and the Amendments to the Guidelines have enabled the Court to register voluntary revision of collective agreements after one year of the life of a two-year agreement if increases did not exceed the cost of living increase

On 4th April, 1974, the Claimants forwarded a wages demand to the Respondents asking that they be increased by 50 per cent with effect from 1st March, 1974, for a period of 12 months. They based their demand on the galloping inflation which has seriously eroded workers' earnings. The Respondents refused to enter into any discussions with the Claimants and maintained that the full impact of the cost of living increases was included in negotiations culminating in the aforesaid collective agreement.

On 12th August, 1974, the Minister for Labour accepted the report of a trade dispute by the Claimants on the issues in dispute and the conciliation proceedings having failed the parties are before the Court.

The Claimants strongly submitted that their 1972 demands had formed the basis of negotiations which had led to the aforesaid collective agreement. Therefore the exceptional rise in cost of living which had hit Kenya of late had not been taken into account. They referred to a directive issued by the Permanent Secretary, Ministry of Labour, asking the employers to negotiate wage clauses only in the current collective agreements in order to compensate workers for inflation.

The Claimants pointed out that in accordance with the said directive they had sent demands to all employers in their industry to revise wages and most of employers had complied with their demand notwithstanding that they had unexpired agreements.

The Respondents very strongly resisted the Claimants' demand on the ground that as the inflationary trends had clearly been established by the end of November, 1973, when the parties had signed the collective agreement there could be no doubt that the cost of living increases had been taken into account. Moreover, the Claimants' demand was contrary to the Guidelines issued to the Court and the subsequent Amendments. They also asked the Court not to allow the Claimants to violate the principle of the sanctity of the collective agreements which had been established and upheld by the Court in the past.

The Court has carefully considered all the submissions made by the parties before making its finding. The Court is satisfied from the background of this dispute that there is no reason why the collective agreement, which has been registered by the Court after satisfying itself that it was in conformity with the Guidelines, should be tampered with before the two-year period specified therein. The Amendment to the Guidelines is very clear and reads as follows —

"Guideline (x) suggests that the level of remuneration of any one section of workers should not be reviewed more often than once every twenty-four months. Whilst the Court should continue to adhere to the principle that remuneration clauses should be binding for at least two years, it should not object to arrangements, whereby the parties voluntarily agree to review the agreement after one year, provided that the revision conforms with Guideline (iv)."

The Respondents have made it quite clear that they are not agreeable to their collective agreement being opened before it is due to expire. In view of this the Court cannot assist the Claimants in any way before the current agreement expires.

The Court would like to emphasize that there is a mandatory provision requiring the Court to be bound by any Guidelines or other directives relating to wage and salary levels and other terms and conditions of employment that may be issued from time to time to the Court by the Minister for Finance. The Court is duty bound to make its awards within the framework of the Guidelines and in any case in the present dispute there are no extenuating circumstances which might persuade the Court to exercise some sort of leniency towards the Claimants' demands. It is rather unfortunate that the Claimants when they concluded the aforesaid collective agreement with the Respondents on 30th November, 1973, did not revise their demands by taking into account further increases in the cost of living that had taken place from the time they had forwarded their original demands in 1972.

The Employment Promotion Division analysis reveals that the wage increases granted by the current agreement roughly correspond to the price increases which occurred during the life of the previous agreement. The Court has no doubt that when the parties embark on revising their current collective agreement which is due to expire at the end of August this year, the Claimants will take great care to ensure that the workers are fully compensated within the economics and financial viability of the Respondents' undertaking for the loss of value of money which the workers have suffered during the period under review.

After taking all the facts into account the Court finds that the Respondents' unionizable employees are not suffering any undue hardship and they should wait until the end of August this year when new collective agreement will be negotiated by the Claimants on their behalf. The Court therefore rejects the Claimants' demand.

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

APPEAL No 1 OF 1974

Parties —

Kenya Union of Commercial Food & Allied Workers

(Appellant)

Minister for Labour (Respondent)

Kangaita Tea Factory Ltd (Interested party)

Kenya Plantation & Agricultural Workers' Union

(Another interested party)

RULING

This is an application for leave to appeal directed to the Industrial Court against the Minister for Labour's refusal to accept a trade dispute reported by the Appellant union. The application has been made under section 23 of the Trade Disputes Act.

The parties were heard on 15th January, 1975.

The principal ground of appeal is that the Kangaita Tea Factory Ltd (hereinafter referred to as the Company), is a tea manufacturing and processing company and that this Company does not own any tea estate. Further the Company factory has been erected in a tea growing area in order to serve the surrounding estates which belong to the individual small-scale farmers.

The Appellants also state that the rules and constitution of their union covers the employees in the food processing and manufacturing industries and as the Company is engaged in such activities they were entitled to be recognized by it.

The Appellants informed the Court that in April, 1972, they had recruited more than 75 per cent of the Company's employees into their membership and the employees had signed the check-off forms which had been submitted to the Company in accordance with section 37 (1) of the Trade Disputes Act. Moreover, in July, 1972, those of the Company employees who were members of the Kenya Plantation & Agricultural Workers' Union (hereinafter referred to as the Plantation Union) had also resigned from that union and joined the Appellants.

For the foregoing reasons the Appellants asked the Court to grant them leave to appeal against the Minister's refusal to accept the report of a trade dispute made by them on this matter against the Company.

The Court arranged in addition to the Minister's representative that the other interested parties in this application, i.e. the Company and the Plantation Union, be served copies of the Appellants' application and were also asked to be present during the hearing.

The Company informed the Court that they had a valid recognition agreement with the Plantation Union dated 16th August, 1967. Further they were party to a collective agreement covering wages and terms and conditions of employment in respect of their employees with the Plantation Union.

The Plantation Union confirmed these facts.

The Minister's representative submitted that no right of appeal lay under the facts and circumstances disclosed by the Appellants in that the Appellants did not have a recognition agreement or a collective agreement with the Company and the Minister had in fact rejected the report of a trade dispute under section 5 (1) (b) of the Act. The Court was accordingly requested to reject the application for leave to appeal.

The Court notes that the Trade Dispute Act 1965 did not allow any party to appeal on any matters except those in respect of which provisions were enacted in Part IV of that Act under the heading of "Adherence to Agreements and Awards". The unions and the employers were given the right to appeal to the Industrial Court from orders given by the Minister for Labour under this part. There were no other appeals allowed.

By virtue of section 3 of the Trade Disputes (Amendment) Act, 1971, the principal Act has been amended by the addition of paragraph (aa) to subsection (1) of section 5 and by the addition of a new subsection (3). These two subsections read as follows—

(aa) refuse to accept the report of the trade dispute where the Minister is of the opinion that any matter in dispute is barred from negotiation under the terms of a recognition agreement or collective agreement in force between any of the parties to the dispute,

(3) An appeal against a refusal by the Minister to accept the report of a trade dispute under paragraph (aa) of subsection (1) of this section shall lie to the Industrial Court at the instance of any party to that dispute, and section 23 of this Act shall apply to any such appeal as if the Minister's refusal were an order made by the Minister under Part IV of this Act.

The facts leading to the report of the dispute to the Minister for Labour by the Appellants on 10th July, 1974, are not disputed.

The Minister having received the report of the dispute under section 4 (1) of the Trade Disputes Act set the machinery in motion for consulting the Tripartite Committee as required under section 5 (1) of the Act. Having consulted the Tripartite Committee the Minister informed the Appellants' General Secretary on 19th August, 1974, that the reported trade dispute was not accepted as the Company already recognized the Plantation Union with whom it also had a collective agreement on terms and conditions of service.

The Court has now to decide whether the amendments to section 5 as stated hereinabove grant the Appellants the right to appeal against the Minister's order under the aforesaid circumstances. After careful consideration of the parties' submissions and the wording of section 5 subsection (1) (aa) and section 5 subsection (3) the Court has no hesitation in coming to the conclusion that a party can appeal to the Court against the Minister's refusal to accept the report of a trade dispute only when the parties have a valid recognition agreement or collective agreement in force between them.

The present dispute between the Appellants and the Company is clearly a demarcation dispute as the Company already recognizes the Plantation Union with whom they have also a collective agreement in respect of their employees. The Appellants are now trying to take over from the Plantation Union on the ground that the Company is engaged in the processing and manufacture of tea and does not own or run a tea estate.

The Court finds that the Minister's action in refusing to accept the report of the trade dispute in the aforesaid circumstances was proper and within the statutory provisions.

The Court having satisfied itself that the Appellants have not put forward any substantive grounds whereby they should be granted leave to appeal against the Minister's Order, their application is rejected.

THE TRADE MARKS ACT

(Cap 506)

NOTICE is hereby given that any person who has grounds of opposition to the registration of any of the trade marks advertised herein according to the classes may, within 60 days from the date of this Gazette, lodge notice of opposition on Form TM No 6 (in duplicate) together with a fee of Sh 50

Notice is also hereby given that official objection will be taken under rule 21 (3) to all applications in which the specification claims all the goods included in any class unless the Registrar is satisfied that the claim is justified by the use of the mark which the applicant has made, or intends to make if and when it is registered. Where an applicant considers that a claim in respect of all the goods included in a class can be justified it will save unnecessary delay in examining applications if a claim is filed simultaneously with the application, accompanied in appropriate cases by supporting documents.

The period for lodging notice of opposition may be extended by the Registrar as he thinks fit and upon such terms as he may direct. Any request for such extension should be made to the Registrar so as to reach him before the expiry of the period allowed.

Formal opposition should not be lodged until after reasonable notice has been given by letter to the applicant for registration so as to afford him any opportunity of withdrawing his application before the expense of preparing the notice of opposition is incurred. Failure to give such notice will be taken into account in considering any application by an opponent for an order for costs if the opposition is uncontested by the applicant.

Where it is stated in the advertisement of the applicant that the mark upon its registration is to be limited to certain colours the colours are, as far as possible indicated in the accompanying representations of the mark in the usual heraldic manner.

Representations of the marks advertised herein can be seen at the Trade Marks Registry, State Law Office Nairobi.

Applications for registration in Part A of the Register are shown with the official number unaccompanied by any letter. Applications for Part B are distinguished by the letter B prefixed to the official number.
