GAZETTE NOTICE No 3066

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE No 22 OF 1969

Parties —

Kenya Union of Commercial Food and Allied Workers and

Kenya Co-operative Creameries Ltd

Issue in dispute —

That Messrs Peter Maura and Fredrick Mungahu be reinstated by the Kenya Co-operative Creameries Ltd in accordance with the recommendation of the Ministry of Labour

1 The Kenya Union of Commercial Food and Allied Workers shall hereinafter be referred to as the Claimants and the Kenya Co-operative Creameries Ltd shall hereinafter be referred to as the Respondents

2 The parties were heard in Nairobi on the 19th and 20th day of August 1969, and relied on their written and verbal submissions

AWARD

The parties referred this dispute to the Industrial Court and requested the Court to rule on the terms of reference as they themselves could not agree on the issue in dispute. The Respondents maintained that the terms of reference should be “whether the termination of employment of Fredrick Mungahu and Peter Maura amounted to wrongful dismissal” while the Claimants insisted that the issue in dispute was “that Messrs Peter Maura and Fredrick Mungahu be reinstated by the Kenya Co-operative Creameries Ltd in accordance with the recommendation of the Minister for Labour”. The President of the Court, after hearing the arguments from the parties ruled the issue to be as framed by the Claimants.

The history of this dispute dates back to early 1965 the details of which are given in the general background hereinabove. The unconstitutional strike which took place at the Respondents' Naivasha factory on 8th February 1965, resulted in the dismissal of Mr Mungahu, as the Respondents alleged that he abandoned his employment because when the strike was settled in the evening of 8th February he did not report for duty for the night shift as required and was absent the following night again. The Claimants strongly challenged this during the hearing and stated that the strike did not end on 8th February but was settled the next day. Therefore Mr Mungahu being the shopsteward could not be expected to report for duty. Moreover he had gone to Nairobi to consult the Claimants' national officials on this strike. The following night when he reported for duty he found another man working in his place and he was served with a notice of instant dismissal.

The aforesaid dismissal of Mr Mungahu was a subject matter of investigation by a Labour Officer stationed at Naivasha, Mr Kemei, who was appointed an investigator by the Permanent Secretary with the authority of the Minister for Labour in accordance with section 7 of the Trade Disputes Act 1964, on 5th March 1965. He fully investigated the matter and made the following recommendations and comments —

“It is seen and felt that the union was aware of the dispute from the start and when the strike took place they took no notice of it and ignored completely the request of the management to settle the dispute peacefully and as a result one of their members who appeared to have been responsible and had knowledge of the strike lost his job through his own fault or the union's carelessness.

It must be emphasized that industrial peace should be maintained by both sides which in this case was done by one side and not the other who is now blaming the other party for its own fault and irresponsibilities. I conclude that the management acted in good faith and tried hard to bring about peace among the workers concerned although legally it was not their duty but did not get technical support from the union leaders.

The management therefore rightly discharged Mr F Mungahu under section 49 (1) of subsection 3 (a) (e) (Cap 226—Employment Act) which I am satisfied did not amount to victimization.”

The Claimants conceded during the hearing of this dispute that they by deciding not to take any further action on this matter in 1965 accepted the findings of the investigator but subsequently in 1968 when another of their shopsteward's services were terminated in March 1968, they realized that the Respondents were determined to get rid of all their shopstewards at their Naivasha creameries. During the dispute that developed after the termination of Mr Maura's services in March 1968, one of the terms of reference before the committee of investigation appointed by the Minister for Labour was to inquire into the Claimants' allegations that the management had and was victimizing the union members at Eldoret and Naivasha. On this committee there were two representatives one each from the Federation of Kenya Employers and Central Organization of Trade Unions (K) who assisted an independent chairman, Dr Otieno.

The Claimants during the proceedings of this committee of investigation revived the dispute of Mr Mungahu some three years after his services had been terminated and an investigator had made his findings, and which were not challenged by the Claimants at that time. The committee of investigation made certain findings regarding Mr Mungahu's dismissal and recommended his reinstatement. The Ministry of Labour in turn formulated its recommendations based on these findings.

The findings of an investigator or a committee of investigation are not binding on the parties. Therefore the Respondents were within their rights in rejecting the reinstatement of a worker whose services had been terminated by them some three years earlier. The Court has very carefully gone into this matter and has come to the conclusion that Mr Kemei's findings which were based on inquiries conducted by him only two months after the incident in 1965 should bear credence. The Court cannot rule out the possibility of witness's memories being impaired some three and a half years after the incident took place. Moreover, the Claimants accepted the findings of Mr Kemei at that time and only took the opportunity of a very wide term of reference before the committee of investigation to revive this old matter which had been finally settled. There is absolutely no evidence to show that the Claimants were intending to keep this matter alive or wanted to challenge Mr Kemei's findings until the dispute which developed after March 1968 on Mr Maura's dismissal. The Court feels that it would be creating a very undesirable precedent if it were to recommend the reinstatement of a worker four years after his services had been terminated.

The Court has made it very clear in its previous decisions that it has no power to order reinstatement of a dismissed worker but has at the same time ruled that the Court has every right to satisfy itself that the order terminating the service of a worker is not passed merely to camouflage an order of dismissal for misconduct. If it is found by the Court that the termination is in fact founded on misconduct, negligence or inefficiency then the Court must find out if the facts support the allegation made against the worker. In cases of dismissal for misconduct, negligence or inefficiency, the Court will not, however, easily set aside the management's decision. It will interfere only—

- (1) when there is a want of good faith,
- (2) when there is victimization or unfair labour practice,
- (3) when the management has been guilty of a basic error or violation of principles of natural justice, and
- (4) when on the materials the finding is completely baseless or perverse.

The Court can find no evidence to warrant an interference by it in this matter.

The Court is not satisfied either on the Claimants' allegations that Mr Mungahu was not paid his terminal benefits in full. Their allegations on this point were vague and inconclusive whereas the Respondents produced documentary evidence to show that Mr Mungahu's full terminal benefits were paid to him. In these circumstances the Court must reject the demand made by the Claimants for the reinstatement of Mr Mungahu.

The facts leading to Mr Peter Maura's termination of service are that in 1967 in October and December he had received two warnings which on the Claimants' intervention were subject of an investigation by a labour officer. On 27th March 1968 Mr Maura received a letter signed by the general manager, who in fact went to Naivasha to deliver it personally, advising him that his services were being terminated with effect from the same day. He was also told that he would be paid one month's wages in lieu of notice and also any other moneys due to him.

On 30th March 1968 the Claimants threatened a countrywide strike unless the letter terminating Mr Maura's services was withdrawn pending the results of an investigator's report and recommendations. As stated earlier in the award it was this dispute that led to the appointment of a committee of investigation. This committee of investigation found that he had been dismissed after three breaches and warnings in accordance with the recognition agreement. The charges against him and for which the warnings were given were that—

- (1) He had failed to report arrival of special boxes for which he had been instructed by the management to be on the lookout.
- (2) Carelessness or improper performance of his duties in that he could not account for missing bags in the store. 86 bags were found missing when a surprise check was made.
- (3) He falsely accused the factory manager of collusion with the manager of Manera Farm to credit the farm with more milk than he had actually supplied.

The committee found allegations (1) and (3) proved but failed to find satisfactory evidence to prove allegations of carelessness or improper performance of duty against Mr Maura. In arriving at this conclusion the committee took into consideration the fact that the police failed to establish any irregularity or theft against Mr Maura. The store check was made in the absence of Mr Maura which was unfair to the employee and exposed management to unwarranted allegations. Mr L. Abwao, the headman in whose house the bags were found, produced contradictory evidence. During the hearing in the Court it was stated that this headman told the police that the bags in question had been given to him by a member of the management and had not been sold to him by Mr Maura.

The Court has taken due note of the serious criticism which the Respondents have levelled against this committee of investigation but is unable to accept that enough evidence was produced to doubt the integrity of this committee or to show that the findings were perverse. During the hearing the Respondents strongly submitted that irrespective of the two warnings given to Mr Maura he was dismissed solely on the ground of having written a very defamatory letter to the factory manager the gist of which briefly is that he accused the factory manager of collusion with the manager of Manera Farm to credit the farm with more milk than he had actually supplied. The copies of this letter had been sent by him to the Claimants' General Secretary and the Respondents' Industrial Relations Officer.

According to the committee of investigation this man has been alleged to have been dismissed after three breaches of warnings in accordance with recognition agreement but before the committee of investigation and during the present hearing the Respondents did not relate his dismissal to any previous warnings that were being investigated by the labour officer. There is no doubt that there was serious trouble between Mr Maura and the management, particularly the factory manager, as Mr Maura had been subjected to police investigations when 86 bags were found missing from under his charge and it was also alleged that he was not able to explain a shortage in the stock of milk for which he was responsible.

Keeping all these points in view and weighing all the probabilities the Court has come to the conclusion that the letter dated 13th March 1968 which Mr Maura wrote to the factory manager was written to protect his own interest as he had not unnaturally become extremely suspicious of the management's motives. Had it not been for these surrounding circumstances the Court feels that the contents of this letter which he wrote to the factory manager, if false, would have exposed this man to summary dismissal. As it is, the Respondents made no mention of this serious misconduct in the letter terminating his services and proceeded to pay him a month's wage in lieu of notice along with all his terminal benefits. This is all very peculiar. Probably the Respondents wanted to be nice while terminating his services. In any case they were at liberty to pay what they thought were his dues as an employer is within his rights when in any doubt to pay all the legitimate dues of a worker and terminate his services in accordance with the current contract. The Court, however, is not quite satisfied that that was the motive which prompted the Respondents to terminate the services of Mr Maura in the manner they did. The whole episode raises a great doubt as to the real reason why his services were terminated. Unfortunately 17 months have elapsed since his services were terminated and the Court does not consider it wise to recommend his reinstatement at this stage. It would be reasonable, however, to deem this man to have been under suspension on half pay during the period of all these inquiries and Court proceedings. The Court therefore recommends that he be paid half salary plus house allowance if applicable from 27th April 1968 to the end of September 1969.

It so happens that both the persons involved in this dispute were shopstewards representing a union at the work place. The Court would like to state that while a shopsteward enjoys a unique position vis-a-vis the management/union relationship he is by no means a sacrosanct person. He is expected, like any other worker, to be subject to strict discipline and to attain the required work standard and to be of good behaviour while on duty. He cannot expect any preferential, special or favoured treatment from the management. In fact a good shopsteward should satisfy his employer in all respects as far as his work performance and behaviour go but at the same time he should ensure that the workers have the full benefit and protection of the union whom he represents. It is so very easy for an irresponsible shopsteward to throw the whole industry into industrial strife. On the other hand a shopsteward can be instrumental in ensuring smooth industrial relations in an undertaking without in any way compromising his position as a shopsteward or derogating his union duties.

THE TRADE MARKS ACT
(Cap 506)

NOTICE is hereby given that any person who has grounds of opposition to the registration of any of the trade marks advertised herein according to the classes may, within 60 days from the date of this Gazette, lodge notice of opposition on Form T M No 6 (in duplicate) together with a fee of Sh 50

Notice is also hereby given that official objection will be taken under rule 21 (3) to all applications in which the specification claims all the goods included in any class unless the Registrar is satisfied that the claim is justified by the use of the mark which the applicant has made, or intends to make if and when it is registered Where an applicant considers that a claim in respect of all the goods included in a class can be justified it will save unnecessary delay in examining applications if a claim is filed simultaneously with the application accompanied in appropriate cases by supporting documents

The period for lodging notice of opposition may be extended by the Registrar as he thinks fit and upon such terms as he may direct Any request for such extension should be made by the Registrar so as to reach him before the expiry of the period allowed

Formal opposition should not be lodged until after reasonable notice has been given by letter to the applicant for registration so as to afford him any opportunity of withdrawing his application before the expense of preparing the notice of opposition is incurred Failure to give such notice will be taken into account in considering any application by an opponent for an order for costs if the opposition is uncontested by the applicant

Where it is stated in the advertisement of the applicant that the mark, upon its registration, is to be limited to certain colours, the colours are, as far as possible, indicated in the accompanying representations of the mark in the usual heraldic manner

Representations of the marks advertised herein can be seen at the Trade Marks Registry, State Law Offices, Nairobi
