2. Position title.—NUCLEAR INSTRUMENTATION PHYSICIST.

Grade.—P-3.

Organizational unit.—Instrumentation unit, Physics, Chemistry and Instrumentation Laboratory, Agency's laboratories, Department of Research and Isotopes.

Reporting date.—As soon as possible.

Duty station.—Vienna/Seibersdorf.

Type of appointment.—Fixed-term.

Duration of appointment.—Three years.

Duties and responsibilities:

In general.—Under the supervision of the head of instrumentation unit to lead a small physics team at the Agency's laboratory at Seibersdorf in work related to maintenance, operation and improvement of electronic equipment for nuclear spectroscopy with special reference to the low-level counting systems, and to give training in these fields.

In particular:

- (a) To assist in the installation and to give advice on proper operation, modification and maintenance of equipment for nuclear spectroscopic measurement;
- (b) To evaluate the different types of nuclear measurement equipment, especially of various spectrometers, neutron moisture gauges and different radiation dosimeters, etc.;
- (c) To improve and optimize the performance of existing nuclear spectroscopic and computer-aided measurement equipment and to advise in the set-up of different low-level counting systems;
- (d) To assist and conduct training in nuclear measurement methods, nuclear instrumentations, programming and data processing;
- (e) To prepare job descriptions and briefing material for the sary for promoting applications of computers in nuclear research and for the implementation of nuclear techniques.

Qualifications:

Essential.—Advanced university degree (e.g. Ph. D., M.Sc. or equivalent) in nuclear physics, with at least six years' experience in nuclear instrumentation and in the use and maintenance of nuclear spectroscopy measurements.

Desirable.—Experience in nuclear electronics and computer application.

Languages.—Fluency in English, French, Russian or Spanish essential, German desirable.

The grade the successful candidate receives will be based on qualifications and experience, it will not be higher than that quoted.

Remuneration is quoted in annual amounts in US$ and is deemed to be exempt from national income tax.

4. Position title.—EXPERIMENTAL NUCLEAR PHYSICIST.

Grade.—P-4.

Organizational unit.—Nuclear data section, Division of Physical and Chemical Sciences, Department of Research and Isotopes.

Reporting date.—As soon as possible.

Duty station.—Vienna.

Type of appointment.—Fixed-term.

Duration of appointment.—Three years.

Duties and responsibilities:

In general.—To assist the head of the nuclear data section with the execution of the section's nuclear data applications programmes, with the assessment of the requirements and status of nuclear data used in nuclear science and technology, and with the transfer of nuclear data technology to developing countries.

In particular:

- (a) To keep abreast of the needs of nuclear data required in the assessment and evaluation of nuclear radiation damage and co-ordinate the development of an international data base in this field;
- (b) To conduct co-ordinated research programmes and administer research contracts/agreements for the measurement and evaluation of nuclear data required for specific applications;
- (c) To co-operate with other members of the nuclear data section in the production of specialized nuclear data files and handbooks in areas of nuclear data applications such as nuclear fusion, nuclear material safeguards, and nuclear geophysics;
- (d) To prepare and direct training courses in the processing and application of nuclear data;
- (e) To implement technical co-operation projects in developing countries in the application of nuclear analytical techniques.

Qualifications:

Essential.—University degree at the doctorate level in experimental nuclear physics. At least ten (10) years' professional experience in experimental neutron physics research and in the development and use of experimental nuclear facilities and techniques for nuclear data measurements and other applications.

Desirable.—Administrative or management experience.

Languages.—Fluency in English, French, Russian or Spanish essential.

6. Position title.—SPECIALIST IN THE CHEMICAL ANALYSIS OF THE MATERIALS OF THE NUCLEAR FUEL CYCLE.

Grade.—P-3.

Organizational unit.—Safeguards analytical laboratory, Agency's laboratories (Seibersdorf), Department of Research and Isotopes.

Reporting date.—As soon as possible.

Duty station.—Vienna/Seibersdorf.

Type of appointment.—Fixed-term.

Duration of appointment.—Three years.

Duties and responsibilities:

In general.—To assist the head of the chemical analysis unit of the safeguards analytical laboratory.

In particular:

- (a) To participate in the wet chemical analysis of U, Pu and Th inspection samples, and to organize the work of the U, Pu and Th laboratories;
- (b) To introduce the routine use of manual titration of 3mg-size plutonium samples according to the scaled-down procedure of McDonald and Savage;
- (c) To introduce in routine use an automate for the automatic titration of U and Pu in Pu-based inspection samples;
- (d) To advise the head of the chemical analysis on desirable analytical improvements.

Note.—The incumbent of the post will be considered to be a radiation worker A-6 and be subject to an appropriate programme of physical and special medical surveillance arranged by the Agency.

Qualifications:

Essential.—Advanced university degree or equivalent training in analytical chemistry. Six (6) years' experience in inorganic and instrumental analytical chemistry, of which at least three (3) years' experience in chemical separation and titration of plutonium and uranium for accountancy purposes. Experience with spectrophotometry of Pu-based material is of significant advantage.

I.A.E.A. VACANCIES—(Contd.)

Desirable.—Experience in automatization of titration for U and Pu.

Languages.—Fluency in English, French, Russian or Spanish essential. (Knowledge of French and German an advantage.)

The grade the successful candidate receives will be based on qualifications and experience, it will not be higher than that quoted.

Remuneration is quoted in annual amounts in US$ and is deemed to be exempt from national income tax.

7. Position title.—RADIATION PROTECTION OFFICER.

Grade.—P-5.

Organizational unit.—Radiation protection section, Division of Nuclear Safety, Department of Nuclear Energy and Safety.

Reporting date.—As soon as possible.

Duty station.—Vienna.

Type of appointment.—Fixed-term.

Duration of appointment.—Three years.

Duties and responsibilities:

In general.—As a member of the radiation protection section, to advise and assist the director of the division in the promotion of a basic understanding of the Agency's new policy and recommendations on radiation protection especially in developing member states.

In particular:

- (a) To elaborate technical contents and formulate syllabi for training course programmes on radiation protection;
- (b) To develop and prepare educational and training material on radiation protection;
- (c) To lecture at training courses on radiation protection;
- (d) To technically evaluate training course performance;
- (e) To participate in radiation protection advisory missions;
- (f) To perform technical evaluations for fellowships and scientific visits related to radiation protection;
- (g) To provide technical advise on radiation protection training and act as liaison officer for the radiation protection section on questions related to this subject.

Qualifications:

Essential.—Ph.D. or equivalent in a field of science or engineering appropriate to the duties of the post. At least fifteen (15) years' experience in the radiation protection area and extensive expertise in manpower development. Practical knowledge of the basic safety standards for radiation protection essential.

Languages.—Due to diversity of the courses in the radiation protection training programme, fluency in at least two of the following Agency's official languages is essential; English, French, Russian or Spanish.

The grade the successful candidate receives will be based on qualifications and experience, it will not be higher than that quoted.

Remuneration is quoted in annual amounts in US$ and is deemed to be exempt from national income tax.

Rate.—Single, net base salary, US$36,282, plus US$25,182, post adjustment; dependency, US$39,290, net base salary, plus US$27,270, post adjustment. Post adjustment is variable and subject to change without notice.

8. Position title.—NUCLEAR/CHEMICAL/ENVIRONMENTAL ENGINEER.

Grade.—P-4.

Organizational unit.—Waste management section, Division of Nuclear Fuel Cycle, Department of Nuclear Energy and Safety.

Reporting date.—As soon as possible.

Duty station.—Vienna.

Type of appointment.—Fixed-term.

Duration of appointment.—Three years.

Duties and responsibilities:

In general.—To advise and assist the director of the division on matters related to radioactive waste management and the environmental aspects of nuclear energy and its fuel cycle resulting from peaceful nuclear programmes.

In particular:

- (a) To advise on the radiological assessment of releases of radionuclides to biospheric and geospheric environments and to assist in the development of model techniques for that purpose and in the acquisition of appropriate data;
- (b) To assist in providing advice to member states upon their request on the safety assessment of radioactive waste disposal facilities and on any other matters relevant to his/her field of work, and technical assistance, as required, for specific projects, training courses and study tours;
- (c) To assist in arranging scientific and technical meetings including co-ordinated research programmes in appropriate areas and to serve as scientific secretary or project officer, respectively;
- (d) To keep abreast of current knowledge in the field of radioactive waste management and its environmental aspects;
- (e) To collaborate with other divisions of the Agency, and on assignment with other international organizations, on matters related to environmental protection.

Qualifications:

Essential.—Ph.D. or equivalent advanced degree in a field of science or engineering related to the duties of the post. At least ten (10) years' experience in environmental studies related to radioactivity including direct experience in several of the subjects mentioned above, and working knowledge of the others. Experience in the developments and application of computerized models for radiological and safety assessments as described above.

Languages.—Fluency in English, French, Russian or Spanish essential.

The grade the successful candidate receives will be based on qualifications and experience, it will not be higher than that quoted.

Remuneration is quoted in annual amounts in US$ and is deemed to be exempt from national income tax.

GAZETTE NOTICE No. 4259

VACANCY OFFERED BY UNEP

NEATLY typed applications together with curriculum vitae should be sent to the Permanent Secretary/Director of Personnel Management, P.O. Box 30050, Nairobi, through the applicant's respective heads of department, so as to reach him on or before 28th October, 1987.

Post.—FACILITY MANAGER, Global Resource Information Database (G.R.I.D.) Control.

Level.—P.4.

Vacancy No.—NA-87-03.

Duty station.—Nairobi.

Entry on duty.—15th December, 1987.

The Global Environment Monitoring System (GEMS) is the monitoring component of EARTHWATCH. It provides the knowledge and evaluation of relevant environmental issues necessary for effective environmental management. GRID, is a newly-established resource data management system within GEMS.

Functions.—Under the supervision of the Director of the GEMS, PAC and GRID co-ordinator, the incumbent will serve as the System Manager and co-ordinator of data analysis and training at the GRID control computer installation in Nairobi. He/she will be part of a multi-disciplinary team to manage a global environment database, and will oversee or personally undertake, as appropriate, the following:

(1) System management, including:

- (a) Planning for the allocation of work, time and space on the various GRID system configurations, including specialized peripheral hardware such as digitizing tables, plotters, image recorder, image analysis system;
- (b) Planning and scheduling of machine operations in order to meet the different requirements of the various GRID project components;
- (c) Liaising and, as required, negotiating with systems support and service organization.

(2) System applications, including:

- (a) Planning and supervising all input/output operations of the computer systems in order to integrate environmental resource data sets at a variety of scales;
- (b) Overseeing Geographic Information Systems (GIS) modelling and analysis activities for projects at a variety of scales (global, continental and national);

(c) Overseeing design and preparation of computer programmes to reformat external data sets, to modify input/output operations as required and to produce scientific reports, maps and tables required as outputs in the GRID projects.

(3) Systems demos and training, including:

- (a) Explanation of system applications to visiting policy makers and scientists;
- (b) Visiting national project sites to assess GIS requirements and local capabilities;
- (c) Designing and contributing to application training courses and modelling/analysis activities for visiting scientists who have been sent to GRID-Control to analyze national resource data sets;

(4) Any other duties, including providing information about the GRID system hardware, software, operations and application to outside inquiries.

Qualifications.—Master's degree in computer science or equivalent. At least ten (10) years' experience in computer operations and/or applications and project management. Work experience in United Nations an asset. Demonstrated ability to analyze resource data using image processing and Geographic Information System (GIS) software. Experience in training new users of remote sensing technology and applications of image processing/GIS software highly desirable. Demonstrated familiarity and experience in applications of GRID hardware and software systems is highly desirable. The systems, in order of importance for the applicant, are:

- (i) Perkin-Elmer 3220 mini-computer system with Comtal image processing sub-system together with the Earth Resources Laboratory Analysis Software (ELAS) for image processing and GIS analysis;
- (ii) Prime 2250 mini-computer system with Tektronix graphics peripherals together with the ARC/INFO Geographic Information System (GIS) data processing software;
- (iii) IBM PC/AT microcomputer with image analysis enhancements together with the Earth Resources Data Analysis Systems (ERDAS) image processing and GIS software, desirable.

Experience in scientific project design, management and execution, and knowledge of various remote sensing systems, would be helpful. Fluency in English is essential, and ability to communicate in French and/or Spanish an asset.

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE NO. 6 OF 1987

Parties:

Kenya Union of Sugar Plantation Workers and
Associated Sugar Company Limited

Issues in dispute:

Discipline,
Shift allowance,
Wages.

THE Kenya Union of Sugar Plantation Workers shall herein-after be referred to as the claimants and the Associated Sugar Company Limited shall hereinafter be referred to as the respondents.

2. The parties were heard in Nairobi on 26th June, 1987, and 31st July, 1987, and relied on their written and verbal submissions.

AWARD

3. The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 30th April, 1986, signed by the parties was received by the court on 13th January, 1987, together with the statutory certificate signed by the Labour Commissioner.

The respondents are registered as a limited liability company primarily engaged in the growing of sugar-cane and manufacturing of white sugar. The respondents have a factory which processes about 1,000 tons of white sugar per day. The respondents receive 60 per cent of sugar-cane from the out-growers and the rest 40 per cent of cane from their nucleus estates.

The respondents have four nursery schools, a primary school, a mixed secondary school and a fairly large hospital run by them under the supervision of the Government medical officer in charge of Coast Province. Currently the respondents employ a total labour force of 2,900 workers majority of whom are unionizable.

The claimants told the court that the present dispute arose as a result of the parties' efforts to revise their last collective agreement (registered as No. 147/83) which was effective from May 1983 up to end of April 1985, and the new (revised) agreement would therefore be effective from May 1985 up to April 1987. The claimants continued to tell the court that any implementation of the court award will therefore be back-dated and any payments if any will be in form of arrears, and a fresh collective agreement was due. The claimants further told the court that most workers covered by this dispute are their members working for the respondents at Ramisi, Kwale District in Coast Province. The parties held their first two meetings on 15th and 16th August, 1985, but disagreed on 18 issues and it was not until they reported a formal trade dispute to the Minister for Labour and a conciliator appointed that the next negotiating meeting was held. The conciliation meeting took place on 10th April, 1986, and many of the outstanding issues were resolved except the three issues now before the court.

The claimants accused the respondents for their negative response towards their proposals and their demands. The claimants admitted that the respondents are one of the largest employers at the coast, and are expected to create more employment opportunities and pay the workers well as part of incentive to motivate workers towards higher production levels. The claimants however told the court that the respondents were the worst employers in that they paid the lowest wages in the Republic. The claimants further told the court that because of scientific research and modern sugar technology the respondents were in a better position to increase the yield of sugar-cane hence generate enough money to meet their financial obligations as well as to be in a better position to compensate the workers adequately.

The claimants complained bitterly in court that the rise in cost of living has continuously eroded the purchasing power of the workers and therefore the workers deserved a reasonable increase in their wages. The claimants also alleged that because of low wages of the workers, their children suffered malnutrition and other diseases associated with poor living as the workers can hardly afford to buy better food. The claimants also blamed the respondents in court for the shortage of labour due to the fact that would-be labourers shy away because of low wages. The claimants further blamed the respondents for constant unrest at the coast caused by the failure of the respondents to implement General Wages Order and the Agricultural Industry Wages Order whenever amended. The claimants also told the court that the sugar-cane at the coast matures early at 14 months because of good climatic conditions whereas sugar-cane grown in western part of Kenya takes 18 to 24 months and therefore the respondents were capable of generating more money despite lower cane quality at Ramisi as compared with the Nyanza/Western sugar-cane.

The respondents, however, told the court that they were not in a position to meet the claimants' demands because of incurring losses over the past several years. They pleaded to the court that they have experienced colossal losses and if it were not for long-term and short-term loans together with overdraft facility and the subsidy by the Government to the tune of Sh. 518 per ton of sugar then their business would have collapsed long time ago and that about 2,900 workers would have lost their jobs.

The respondents also told the court that the production of sugar-cane at the coast has been going down year after year due to the harsh climatic conditions and erratic rainfall and constant shortage of labour (cane-cutters). The respondents require 26 per cent more of sugar-cane to produce one ton of sugar in comparison with sugar-cane grown in the western part of Kenya. The respondents explained further that the soil at the coast is porous, sandy, poor with less nitrogen and unless large quantities of fertilizer is applied would be uneconomical to grow sugar-cane. The respondents pointed out to the court that because of lack of finance for capital development, they have not been able to up-date their machinery nor carry out necessary repairs and maintenance of obsolete machines. As a result, their factory operations are constrained when compared to other sugar companies.

The respondents requested the court to note all the benefits given to the workers such as annual leave days increased from 21 days to 23 days; the leave travel allowance increased from Sh. 60 to Sh. 110; and free housing to majority of the workers or housing allowance which has increased from Sh. 40 to Sh. 55.

The respondents also explained that they give a benefit of every Sunday as a bonus for every worker who works continuously for six days which amounts to about 16.6 per cent of the basic monthly pay as an incentive to the workers in order to increase their production and also to discourage them from deserting duty.

During the final submissions the parties had the following to say briefly on the three issues in dispute:

Discipline :

The current clause reads in part as follows—

"provided further that where the misconduct by the employee requires investigation, then the employee may be suspended from duty with half pay for a period not exceeding one month (30 days) whilst an inquiry is being carried out."

The claimants would like to change this clause to fourteen (14) days with full pay.

The respondents would like this period on "half-pay" be improved to 21 days.

Shift allowance :

The claimants demanded that such an allowance be introduced for the workers who work on night shifts, that is between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m., and their demand is 30 cents per hour worked between those hours. The claimants further told the court that the workers affected by this issue are two hundred and forty (240). The claimants asserted further that if the workers were paid night-shift allowance they would be motivated to work better and also compensate them for night work inconveniences.

The respondents however asked the court to reject this demand because of the fact that the workers on shift work are provided with meals and transport so that they are not inconvenienced in any way. The respondents stated that they would be forced to withdraw these facilities since they spent Sh. 19,235 monthly to provide meals alone for the shift-workers.

Wages (General Wage Increase) :

The claimants demanded 22 per cent wage increase for the first year of the agreement and a further 22 per cent wage increase for the second year. The claimants also indicated in court that the wage increases granted as an interim measure in May 1987 be set off against any wage increases which may be concluded by the parties for 1987/88 agreement. The claimants added that the interim wage increase agreed by the parties themselves in May 1987 was 11 per cent.

The respondents told the court they were prepared to offer a wage increase of 6 per cent with effect from 1st May, 1985, and another 7 per cent with effect from 1st May, 1986, and that the increases be set off against the agreed interim increase percentage which they gave in May 1987.

The court has carefully considered the parties written and verbal submissions on the issues. The court has in addition carefully looked into the comprehensive report prepared by the Division of Manpower Planning and Development (DMPD) which revealed among other things that the respondents' firm at the coast has had financial problems over a long period of time since 1978. The court noted the fact as revealed by the same report that the respondents have had to continuously borrow money for their sugar production and other operations from various creditors since 1978 and to date they have not paid back the principle sums so borrowed plus the interests accrued and now the same creditors are reluctant to extend further financial facilities to them.

The court also noted the fact that had it not been for the Government assistance in form of credit and subsidy and the importance the Government attaches to the operations of the respondents so as to sustain the jobs of 2,900 workers, then the respondents would have collapsed a long time ago or been placed in the hands of receivers. The court also agrees with the respondents' argument that the yield of the sugar-cane at the coast, where the respondents are located, is lower in comparison with the sugar-cane grown in the western part of Kenya. However, because of the rise in the cost of living the workers are also entitled to some increase in their wages.

The court has decided to award as follows over the three issues in dispute:

Discipline

The court accepts the respondents offer to reduce 30 days to 21 days with half pay and rejects the claimants' demands of 14 days with full pay. This is the period required for suspension of an employee who might have committed an offence and to facilitate an investigation thereof.

Shift allowance

The court rejects the claimants' demand on this issue and upholds the status quo, that is the respondents to continue to provide meals etc.

Wages

The court awards a wage increase of 9 per cent for the first year and 9 per cent for the second year to all unionizable employees effective from 1st May, 1985 to 30th April, 1987.

In view of the 11 per cent wage increase which has already been awarded to the workers with effect from 1st May, 1987 on their wages as at 30th April, 1987, as a result of the parties own agreement the court directs that this 11 per cent increase should also apply to the wages as increased by the court as stated above. The parties will take into account this 11 per cent wage increase granted to the workers when the collective agreement for the next two year period is negotiated, that is from 1st May, 1987 to 30th April, 1989.

The respondents will be at liberty to apply to the court for payment of arrears in installments if they are not able to pay them all at once.

Given in Nairobi on 25th August, 1987.

3. The Minister for Labour referred this dispute to the court in accordance with section 8 of the Trade Disputes Act, on 10th March, 1987, together with the statutory certificates signed by himself and the Labour Commissioner.

The respondents are a firm of garment manufacturers and operate from their factory at Thika in the Central Province. They employ a labour force of about 300 workers. The respondents have a recognition agreement with the claimants and also a collective agreement covering terms and conditions of employment of their employees. The claimants are represented at the shopfloor of the respondents undertaking by six shopstewards who are answerable to the claimants branch secretary at Thika.

This dispute arose from a strike as the respondents would like it to be understood or from a lock-out as the claimants would like it believed, by 128 workers of the respondents. The trouble started on 28th January, 1987 when the chief shopsteward called a meeting of all workers which he and other shopstewards addressed.

It is alleged that the shopstewards used disrespectful words to the personnel manager and the directors which resulted in issuing of warning letters to the three shopstewards. It is further alleged that the shopstewards refused to accept the warnings, an act which left the respondents with no alternative but to dismiss them. The three shopstewards refused to accept the dismissal letters after which it is claimed, they mobilized other workers to strike in protest of their dismissals. The matter was reported to the Ministry of Labour but after several conciliation meetings attended by top officials of the Ministry, the parties deadlocked on the issue of the three shopstewards, as the claimants wanted all the 128 striking workers to be reinstated with pay for the days they were out of work, and the respondents wanted to reinstate 125 workers excluding the shopstewards and refused to pay for the days all the workers were out of work. Because of these distant stands by the parties, the Minister for Labour referred this hotly contested dispute to the court in accordance with section 8 of the Trade Disputes Act.

The claimants submitted that the meeting of the workers on 28th January, 1987 was in line with I.L.O. conventions and no permission was needed from the management as the meeting was held in the respondents premises. Regarding the addresses by the shopstewards which the respondents termed as disrespectful, the claimants stated that they were in line with I.L.O. convention and could not be used by the management to victimize the shopstewards.

Outlining the events which led to the confrontation, the claimants told the court that on 16th January, 1987, the Thika branch secretary of the claimants union, had called a joint meeting of the executive committee members and the shopstewards from all the factories covered by the claimants union and discussed among other things:

- (a) How to improve production in the firms who had recognized the claimants' union.
- (b) Drive to recruit new members into the union.
- (c) How to improve discipline among workers in this year of discipline.

At the closure of this meeting, shopstewards were asked to address workers in their respective firms particularly on the above three important points.

On 28th January, 1987, the shopstewards called a meeting of all the respondents employees at 6 p.m. which was after working hours. The meeting was held within the factory premises and among the audience was Mr. Mabinda, the personnel officer. The following day 29th January, 1987 the Chief Shopsteward, Joseph Wekesa, and his two assistants Titus Ndivo and Benjamin Ombuya were issued with warning letters similarly worded, accusing them of having used disrespectful words to other workers and the supervisory staff. The claimants stated that as there was not merit in the issuance of the warnings, the shopstewards refused to accept them. On 2nd February, 1987, the three shopstewards were issued with letters of summary dismissals. The claimants stated that these wrongful dismissals of the shopstewards enraged the workers who walked out in protest.

They demanded withdrawal of the letters and reinstatement of their representatives but their demands landed on deaf ears of the respondents, so the confrontation continued. The claimants told the court that the Ministry of Labour tried to settle the dispute at Thika level but no agreement was reached. The Provincial Labour Officer, Central Province also tried to settle the dispute but due to the respondents stand to dismiss the shopstewards, there was no compromise reached. The matter was then referred to the Ministry headquarters. On 16th and 17th February, 1987, the parties held meetings under the chairmanship of the Permanent Secretary and attended by the Labour Commissioner and the Chief Industrial Relations Officer. Due to the respondents' stand to dismiss the shopstewards and refusal to pay workers for the days they were out, a deadlock was recorded, the claimants stated.

The claimants accused the respondents of having locked out the workers at the early stage and dismissed them before negotiations started, and replaced them with new workers contrary to the Ministry's advice. The claimants prayed the court to reinstate all the workers including the shopstewards and order the respondents to pay them salaries for the period they have been out of work.

Giving evidence in court, the Chief Shopsteward, Joseph Wekesa, stated that on 28th January, 1987, he held a meeting with workers at the shopfloor. Mr. Wekesa said that the purpose of this meeting was to recruit new members into the union; to ask workers to be more disciplined as this was the year of discipline and to increase production. Mr. Wekesa stated that he did not ask for permission to hold the meeting as it took place after working hours and moreover the personnel officer, Mr. Mabinda, was present. Mr. Wekesa stated that after the meeting, security check was carried out by the security personnel as usual. Mr. Wekesa went ahead and told the court that on 29th January, 1987, he, Titus Ndivo and Benjamin Ombuya were called by the personnel officer who asked them to sign warning letters before reading them. Mr. Wekesa said that when they insisted to be allowed to read them first Mr. Mabinda allowed them to read. After reading they found the allegations contained in the warning letters were untrue so they refused to sign them. Mr. Wekesa said that the three shopstewards were not given a chance to defend themselves. Mr. Wekesa denied that he told the workers to rally behind him like Yuken Company workers, in order to teach the respondents a lesson.

Mr. Wekesa stated that on 9th February, 1987, the secretary-general of their union, Mr. Ogendo, told all the workers to go back to work but the management locked them out. Mr. Wekesa stated that he and the other shopstewards were called in the managing director's office and were told to collect dismissal letters from the secretary. Mr. Wekesa denied that at the meeting of 28th January, 1987, he had used abusive language or disrespectful words to members of the management. Mr. Wekesa told the court that during Christmas period the management gave all workers T-shirts including the shopstewards. The supervisors were given radios. Mr. Wekesa stated that he was not unhappy when the shopstewards did not get radios. Mr. Wekesa denied having incited other workers to strike.

The other five witnesses namely Titus Ndivo, Benjamin Ombuya, Jane Mugo, Margaret Owino and Joseph Njoroge gave evidence more or less similar to that of their Chief Shopsteward, Joseph Wekesa.

The respondents argued their case by stating that on 28th January, 1987, he, Titus Ndivo and Benjamin Ombuya were for security check before leaving the factory, the Chief Shopsteward, Joseph Wekesa, got on a table and told the workers to remain for a while as there was a meeting.

The first speaker was Benjamin Ombuya followed by Titus Ndivo then the chief shopsteward. The first two speakers dwelt on unity by the workers for the purpose of fighting ill-treatment of workers by the management. The respondents told the court that when the Chief Shopsteward, Joseph Wekesa, addressed the workers he told them amongst other things that if all the workers were united and rallied behind him then they would do like the Yuken workers did. He told them that the management could not sack him because he knew a lot of people in high places. Mr. Wekesa said that Mr. Mabinda, the personnel officer, who was present at the meeting, was a spy of the management and goes around the factory with a tape recorder, recording workers conversations to be used against them later. He accused the six workers of being management stooges who were given radios as Christmas presents. He finally appealed to the workers to rally behind him so that they can take action.

The respondents further stated that following Mr. Wekesa's address the workers ignored security inspection, contrary to their security measures. There was also an interference with the preparation of next day's work which normally is done on the shopfloor where the meeting took place. The respondents told the court that after the meeting, the security officer and Mr. Mabinda reported the matter to the directors, who after discussions decided to issue letters of warnings to the three shopstewards.

On 29th January, 1987, the personnel officer called Mr. Wekesa to his office to serve him with the warning letter. Mr. Wekesa refused to accept the letter and rushed to the director's office. He told the director that he could do nothing to him as he was an African who is here to stay while the director was an Indian who will be thrown up in the sky. Mr. Wekesa said he personally knew officers in the Special Branch, the Administration and the Labour Ministry. Mr. Wekesa went out and after a short while returned to the director's office accompanied by Messrs. Ombuya and Ndivo. At that time the personnel officer had entered the director's office with the warning letters. Mr. Wekesa took the letters and went out saying he was going to show them to the workers who would decide on what course of action to take. After about 15 minutes, Mr. Wekesa and his two friends returned to the office with the warning letters and threw them on the table saying that they were not accepting them. The management wrote to Thika branch secretary of the claimants requesting him to come to witness the issuance of the warnings but he failed to avail himself. The respondents stated that on 2nd February, 1987, the three were issued with dismissal letters which they refused saying that the management had no powers to dismiss shopstewards. That afternoon, only 77 workers resumed work. The rest stayed out. The management gave them a notice to resume work at 2.30 p.m. failing which disciplinary action would be taken against them but they did not respond.

The respondents told the court that on 3rd February, 1987, the Provincial Labour Officer went to the scene accompanied by the claimants branch secretary and chairman and had a meeting with the management. The claimants demanded that all workers including the shopstewards be allowed to resume work before any further discussions could take place. The management agreed to allow other workers to resume work but not the shopstewards. There was no return to work formula reached that day. There were other meetings on 5th and 6th February, 1987 but the dispute was not settled. On 9th February, 1987, the Provincial Labour Officer went to the management and delivered a letter instructing the management to reinstate all the workers, and accusing them of having intimidated the general work force. The matter was taken over by Ministry headquarters but due to parties distant stands no agreement was reached.

After failing to reach agreement for two weeks, the respondents recruited new workers to replace the striking lot as they could not be out of operation indefinitely, the respondents said. The respondents explained that their offer to reinstate the 125 workers (excluding the shopstewards) was cancelled on 25th March, 1987. The respondents stated that the shopstewards behaviour, threats and insults were outside trade unionism and cannot be allowed to continue. The respondents prayed the court to uphold their action.

Giving evidence in court, Tamaseno Ndombi stated that he was employed as a security man by the respondents. His work was to inspect workers when leaving the factory. He said that on 28th January, 1987, at about 6 p.m. when the workers had started queuing for inspection, Mr. Wekesa got on a table and said there was a meeting. Mr. Wekesa got down and Benjamin Ombuya got on the table and addressed the workers. Mr. Ombuya said that there were six people amongst them who are undermining the workers especially the tailoring department. Those are the people who got radios when others were given T-shirts only. He went on and said that in the packaging department there was a man who when you spoke to a married woman in that department, reported on the husband; Mr. Ombuya said "We must unite and do like Yuken". He asked the workers whether they agreed with him and they said "yes". He then said that they wanted the six removed else they all go.

Mr. Ndivo got on the table, and told the audience that he was in the tailoring section where there is trouble. He said that tailors were moved from one machine to another without cause and tailors were given warnings for minor things like "time wasting". Again he said that after finishing their tasks, they are given repair work and when one asks for an explanation, he is given a warning and not given a chance to defend himself. Mr. Ndivo wondered why supervisors got no warnings. Mr. Ndivo appealed to the workers to unite like Yuken and let those who got radios do the production.

Mr. Ndombi told the court that after Mr. Ndivo's address, the Chief Shopsteward, Joseph Wekesa, got on the table and asked the workers, "Will you follow me", they all said "Yes". He asked again "How many are following me?" and they all raised hands shouting "yes, yes". Mr. Wekesa told the workers that there are six men who produce nothing for the company and yet they were given radios when the production people got T-shirts only. Mr. Wekesa said that the Personnel Officer, Mr. Mabinda, had a tape recorder which was taught how to operate by a C.I.D. officer, for recording workers conversation in order to use them against them later. Mr. Ndombi told the court that Mr. Wekesa told the workers that "I have no faith in Mr. Mabinda, he is a spy and he is free to tape record what I am saying, I know important and high ranking people so they can do nothing to me." Mr. Wekesa went on and told the workers that Yuken workers were out for two months and they are now back to work. From now on Mr. Wekesa said, "workers will not be moved from one machine to another. Workers will go to another department without asking for permission. Workers will work according to time and not task work because the six who got radios do no production. They are now hoping to get television sets next year because of our production." Mr. Wekesa told his listeners that they should be ready for whatever will come and wait and see what the six will produce. Answering a question from a woman worker, Mr. Wekesa said from that day there will be no inspection by the security men.

Mr. Ndombi told the court that after about 30 minutes, Mr. Wekesa closed the meeting and the workers went away uninspected. Mr. Ndombi then reported what had happened to the management. Mr. Ndombi stated that early in January there was a talk about a strike after workers returned from Christmas holidays and after learning that six supervisors got radios for increased production. Mr. Ndombi stated that none of the three speakers told the workers to increase production or be disciplined.

The other witness was Ouko Daudi Mabinda, the personnel officer of the respondents, who told the court that he was present at the 28th January, 1987, meeting of the workers. Mr. Mabinda corroborated Mr. Ndombi's evidence fully and added that after the meeting he reported to the director the outcome of the meeting. Mr. Mabinda told the court that on the following day, 29th January, 1987, the management, including himself, decided to issue the three shopstewards with letters of warnings as their speeches were malicious. Mr. Mabinda stated that he waited until 4 p.m. when he called Mr. Wekesa and gave him his warning letter. Mr. Wekesa left the letter and went to the director's office. Mr. Wekesa came back to Mr. Mabinda and asked for the letter. Mr. Mabinda stated that he followed Mr. Wekesa into the director's office carrying the letters. At the office Mr. Wekesa shouted "Give me money, I am tired with this company" repeatedly. Mr. Mabinda placed the letters on the director's table. Mr. Wekesa grabbed the letters and walked out saying "I am going to show them to my people". Later Mr. Wekesa returned to the office, this time followed by the other two shopstewards. Mr. Wekesa told the director that he, the director, was proud because he was a millionaire. Mr. Wekesa told the director that, "I am an African and I will remain here. You Indian will be blown in the air." The director asked the three shopstewards to sign the warnings but they refused and went away. Mr. Mabinda stated that 30th January, he wrote a letter to the branch secretary of the union requesting him to come to their offices but, although the letter was delivered by hand, he never showed up. Mr. Mabinda stated that on 2nd February, 1987, the management decided to dismiss the three shopstewards. Dismissal letters were written and the three were called and given the letters. He told them they were dismissal letters. Mr. Wekesa told the others not to accept them, and they went away but did not leave the factory until lunch time when they went out with other workers. At 2 p.m. only 30 out 69 workers from the tailoring department came. On checking other departments he found that 116 workers did not return that afternoon. Mr. Mabinda stated that at the meeting of 28th January, 1987, none of the speakers spoke on increasing production and to improve discipline. Mr. Mabinda said he was of the opinion that the shopstewards were angered by failure to get radios like the supervisors.

Another witness, Niles Shah, stated that he was a director of the respondents' undertaking at Thika. He told the court that on 28th January, 1987, at about 6.30 p.m. Mr. Ndombi reported to him that there was a meeting by the workers at 6 p.m. and that there was no inspection carried out due to orders given by the shopstewards. Mr. Ndombi reported that the shopstewards had condemned those who got radios as Christmas presents. Mr. Ndombi also reported that supervisor Mr. Mbugua was accused of being an askari for watching the married women because he reports whatever happens at the work place to their husbands. In addition, Mr. Ndombi reported that Mr. Mabinda was called a spy and that he, Mr. Mabinda, carries a tape recorder for recording workers conversations. Mr. Shah stated that before Mr. Ndombi finished his reporting Mr. Mabinda walked in the office. Mr. Mabinda narrated the same story as Mr. Ndombi. The following morning, 29th January, 1987, the management decided to issue the three shopstewards who spoke at the meeting with warnings. The warnings were drafted and given to Mr. Mabinda who was to issue them in the normal way at 4 p.m. Few minutes after 4 p.m. the Chief Shopsteward, Mr. Wekesa, came in his office (director's) shouting that he wanted his money as he was tired with the company. At that time Mr. Murithi, a supervisor, was also in the office but no one replied to Mr. Wekesa who then left the office saying that was not the end of the matter. Mr. Wekesa said that he knew a lot of people in high places and that the director being an Indian will be thrown out when he, Mr. Wekesa, will remain here. Mr. Shah stated that after a few minutes Mr. Wekesa entered the office again but followed by Mr. Mabinda who had the warning letters in his hands. Mr. Wekesa grabbed the warning letters and walked out saying he was going to show them to the workers. Mr. Shah then called another director, Bipin Shah, to come and help sort out the matter. Before any of them could explain what was happening to Bipin Shah, Mr. Wekesa came again. Bipin Shah asked Mr. Wekesa what was the matter. Mr. Wekesa said that he wanted his money because he was tired with the company. The other two shopstewards Messrs. Ndivo and Ombuya came in also. Bipin Shah told Mr. Wekesa to wait until the end of the month. Mr. Wekesa told Bipin Shah he was proud because he was a millionaire. On being asked whether they would accept the warnings, they all refused and went out.

Nilesh Shah told the court that on the morning of 30th January, 1987, they wrote a letter to Thika branch secretary of the claimants and requested him to come to the factory but, although the letters were delivered by hand, he refused to come.

On 2nd February, 1987, the management decided to dismiss the three shopstewards. Dismissal letters were written but they refused to accept them saying that the management had no powers to dismiss shopstewards. Nilesh Shah stated that after their refusal to accept the letters, the management sent copies of the dismissal letters to the claimants' branch at Thika. The three shopstewards did not leave the premises until lunch time when they went out with other workers. At 2 p.m. most of the workers on duty did not report back to work. The management put notices on the gate asking the employees to resume work but none returned. At about 6 p.m. the Provincial Labour Officer who was at Thika settling another dispute over another strike, telephoned and asked the management to wait for him but he never showed up.

Nilesh Shah told the court that from 5th February, 1987, meetings were held at their premises and Labour Office, Thika but without reaching a return-to-work formula. The claimants' stand was that all workers including the shopstewards be returned to work and be paid for the days they were out when the management wanted other workers excluding the three shopstewards return to work but without pay for the days they were out.

On 9th February, 1987, the provincial labour officer went to the factory and instructed the management to allow all workers back without conditions. In fact he wrote a letter to this effect. Nilesh Shah stated that the management had agreed for the workers to resume work but without the three shopstewards. The management who had communicated the problem to F.K.E. decided to go to Nairobi and see the Labour Commissioner. The Labour Commissioner arranged for meetings upto 19th February, 1987, but no return to work formula was reached. On 5th March, 1987, the management withdrew their offer by a letter to the Minister and embarked on recruiting new workers.

Nilesh Shah stated that the company gave the workers T-shirts before closing for Christmas holidays. Prior to this, the Chief Shopsteward, Joseph Wekesa, wrote a letter on 17th December, 1986, congratulating the management for what they had done for the workers and asked the management to consider giving the shopstewards a present for what they had done for the company that year. Nilesh Shah told the court that the management did not consider to give the shopstewards a special gift from other workers as that would have been corruption. Nilesh Shah denied that they locked out the workers, instead he said they went on an unlawful strike.

The last respondents witness was Robert Muriithi who also works for the respondents. Mr. Muriithi repeated exactly what Mr. Mabinda and Nilesh Shah had told the court regarding the incidents in Nilesh Shah's office on the 29th January, 1987, between the shopstewards and the management.

This case has been bitterly contested by both the parties right from the time when about 128 of the respondents' employees went on strike when the respondents' three shopstewards were dismissed, first at the level of the Ministry of Labour when serious efforts were made to resolve the strike which unfortunately all failed and now the hearing of the dispute before the court.

The court has carefully considered the parties' submissions and the evidence given by the various witnesses and finds it proved that the meeting which was organized at the spur of the moment by the Chief Shopsteward, Mr. Wekesa, between 5.30 p.m. and 6 p.m. on 28th January, 1987, at the factory shop floor was not for the purpose of improving discipline at the work place or for improving production at the respondents' undertaking but was in fact prompted by bitterness because the respondents had not given the shopstewards anything better than T-shirts which they had given to all the other workers by way of bonus. At this meeting reference was made to six supervisors who had received radios and that was the prime cause of this most unfortunate dispute as the shopstewards expected some better reward.

The court notes that the strike was staged (the claimants call it lockout) contrary to the provisions of the Trade Disputes Act relating to withdrawal of labour and the parties' own recognition agreement. The Minister for Labour, however, did not declare this strike or lockout illegal which resulted in an impasse with the parties adopting rigid and inflexible positions which are reflected below:

"Management—

- (a) 125 return to work and end the strike.
- (b) No pay for days not worked.
- (c) 3 to remain dismissed and the laid down procedures to be followed if the union wishes to challenge the dismissals.

Union—

- (a) Victimization of shopstewards by the management on account of their union activities with a view to intimidate unionizable employees of the company.
- (b) Lockout of 128 employees of the company with effect from 9th February, 1987.
- (c) Reinstatement of and full payment of wages to 128 employees with effect from 9th February for the whole period they have remained out.
- (d) Any employees taken on while this dispute is being heard by the court shall be discontinued when reinstatement takes effect unless retained in addition."

The court has decided that the best way to tackle this very sensitive dispute is to revert the parties back to the stage when they were trying to settle the strike. The court has decided that the 125 workers excluding the three shopstewards should return to work with effect from 1st October, 1987, and that they should not be paid for the days not worked but their services will continue without a break and the court so awards.

As far as the three shopstewards are concerned the court appreciates that at workers' meeting polite words are not always said about the employers but in this case the court is satisfied that the utterances of the three shopstewards particularly Mr. Wekesa supported by the other two did go beyond normal and legitimate trade union activities. Not only that, but their conduct after the meeting when the management attempted to serve them with warning letters is unacceptable as they knew very well that after receiving the warning letters they could have channelled them through the normal machinery without disrupting work. The court has decided that the three shopstewards namely Mr. Wekesa, Mr. Ombuya and Mr. Ndivo should suffer a normal termination with effect from 2nd February, 1987, and the court so awards. The claimants' allegation that the respondents were in the habit of dismissing shopstewards was completely demolished by the evidence provided by the respondents on this point.

The court was told that the respondents have filled most of the vacancies caused by the strike of these 128 employees but knowing fully well the claimants' position as stated in paragraph 4 above the respondents have done so at their own risk although the court appreciates that they had to keep the production process going. The court feels that they should not have converted the new workers to monthly terms and should have carried on with them on casual basis as even at present they have 30 casuals. The court has given this aspect of the dispute very anxious thought and has decided to accept the claimants' request that the services of employees taken on by the respondents during the strike should be discontinued. The court accordingly directs that the respondents will be at liberty to give the employees they had taken on in place of the ones on strike appropriate notices and terminate their services if they so desire. It is for this reason that the court has awarded the reinstatement of the 125 employees with effect from 1st October, 1987.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS TO THE KENYA GAZETTE

THE following notes are for the guidance of persons submitting "copy" for inclusion in the Kenya Gazette, Supplement, etc.:

- (1) The Kenya Gazette contains notices of a general nature which do not affect legislation. They are, therefore, submitted to the Government Printer directly.
- (2) Legislative Supplement contains Rules and Regulations which are issued by the Central Government. Because of this they must be submitted to the Government Printer through the office of the Attorney-General.
- (3) Bill Supplement contains Bills which are for introduction in the National Assembly.
- (4) Act Supplement contains Acts passed by the National Assembly.

All "copy" submitted for publication should be prepared on one side of an A4 sheet no matter how small the notice or Act, each page being numbered, and should be typewritten with double spacing. Copy should be clear, legible and contain a minimum of alterations.

Particular attention should be paid to the following points:

- (i) Signature must be clarified by means of rubber-stamping or typing the name of the signer in capital letters.
- (ii) Dates must be correct and filled in where necessary.
- (iii) Care should be taken to ensure that all headings to notices and references to legislation are up to date and conform with the Revised Edition of the Laws of Kenya.

EXTRACT FROM THE CODE OF REGULATIONS, SECTION D—

Kenya Gazette

"D 41. (1) Communications for the Kenya Gazette should reach the Government Printer not later than 9 a.m., on Friday of the week before publication is desired. The Government Printer will not publish communications received after that hour until the next subsequent issue of the Gazette.

(2) It will facilitate work at the Press if Permanent Secretaries will forward Gazette notices to the Government Printer when ready."

It is emphasized that these notes are for guidance only, but it is requested that persons submitting copy for publication first satisfy themselves that such copy is complete in every respect.
