THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE No. 109 of 1988

Parties:

Tailors and Textiles Workers' Union
and
Bini Emporium

Issue in dispute:

Refusal to pay part of the arrears of wages and house allowance.

THE Tailors and Textiles Workers' Union shall hereinafter be referred to as the claimants and the Bini Emporium shall hereinafter be referred to as the respondents.

2. The parties were heard in Nairobi on 5th October, 1989, and relied on their written and verbal submissions.

AWARD

3. The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 30th June, 1988, and duly signed by the parties, was received by the court on 19th December, 1988, together with the statutory certificate signed by the Labour Commissioner.

This dispute was initially fixed for hearing on 23rd June, 1989, but the parties requested the court to give them more time in order that they might explore the possibility of a settlement.

In the circumstances, the court, therefore, stood over the matter for mention on 12th July, 1989. On this date the parties informed the court that they were unable to reach a settlement, and the matter was then fixed for hearing on 14th August, 1989.

However, the hearing did not proceed on the aforementioned date as the parties pleaded with the court to await the outcome of fresh negotiations which were in progress with a view to resolving the dispute. The matter was then fixed for hearing on 12th September, 1989; but on this date, the respondents told the court that their advocate called them in the morning to say that he would be unable to attend court for hearing due to some mechanical problem in his vehicle on the way. They applied for adjournment to enable their advocate attend court and represent them. The court allowed the application and fixed the matter for hearing on 14th September, 1989, with an order that no application for further adjournment would be entertained.

When the matter came up for hearing on the aforementioned date, the advocate for the respondents raised a preliminary objection on grounds that the dispute was premature and/or improperly before the court. The preliminary objection was duly heard, and the court delivered its ruling in favour of the claimants on 20th September, 1989; and the matter was therefore fixed for hearing and the parties eventually heard as aforesaid.

During the main hearing of the dispute, the respondents acted on their own, possibly due to some misunderstanding with their advocate who withdrew from the dispute.

The claimants' demand was for payment by the respondents of arrears of wages and house allowance for a period of one year with effect from 1st August, 1986 to 31st July, 1987, the respondents resisted the demand by arguing that the employees were not entitled to arrears of wages and house allowance for the said period because, at the material time, they were not members of the claimants' union. In any case, the respondents stated, the grievants received better wages and other terms and conditions of employment than what was provided for under the statutory minimum.

The parties met at their own level in order to resolve the issue but they were unable to reach an amicable settlement. The matter was eventually reported to the Minister for Labour as a trade dispute after a strike at the respondents' firm and a conciliator was appointed to assist the parties reach an acceptable settlement on the matter. However, there was no conciliation report from the Ministry, and the matter was accordingly referred to the court for consideration.

After the conclusion of the full hearing and before the court delivered its award, the parties informed the court that they have amicably settled the matter; and at their request and by consent, the court awards that the following grievants be paid the amounts indicated against their names, representing severance pay, one month's pay in lieu of notice, leave pay and pay for the days worked:

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE NO. 36 OF 1989

Parties:

Tailors and Textiles Workers' Union

and

Fashionable Stores

Issue in dispute:

"Refusal by the employer to implement the Collective Bargaining Agreement Mass Production Manufacturers Agreement".

THE Tailors and Textiles Workers' Union shall hereinafter be referred to as the claimants and the Fashionable Stores shall hereinafter be referred to as the respondents.

2. The parties were heard in Nairobi on 4th October, 1989, and relied on their written and verbal submissions.

AWARD

3. The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 26th January, 1989, and duly signed by the parties was received by the court on 9th May, 1989, together with the statutory certificate signed by the Labour Commissioner.

The respondents have alleged that they are a retail shop, dealing in made-to-measure garments, and that they do not manufacture garments en masse without special orders from clients.

The claimants have stated that the relevant collective agreement upon which their claim rested was signed by their union and the Garment Manufacturers Mass Production Group of F.K.E. on 21st October, 1987, and was registered by the court on 26th November, 1987 as R.C.A. No. 309 of 1987. The said agreement covered the period 1st August, 1986, to 31st July, 1988. They stated further that the members of the group implemented the said collective agreement, except the respondents who failed or refused to pay arrears accrued and the new rates to the employees, and in consequence the employees went on strike on 1st December, 1987. However, a "return-to-work" formula was reached as follows:

"All the employees have agreed to resume their duty immediately with an understanding that the claim of increment should be forwarded to the branch office by the shop steward and thereafter the branch office to take necessary steps".

The parties met at their own level to resolve the issue but no settlement was reached, and the matter was therefore reported to the Minister for Labour as a trade dispute. However, there is no evidence on record that a conciliator was appointed; and the Minister has now referred the matter to the court for consideration.

After careful consideration of the parties' submissions and perusal of the documentary evidence in support thereof, the court notes that the collective agreement upon which the claimants have based their demand covered the period 1st August, 1986, to 31st July, 1988. The court notes further that the respondents had withdrawn from the membership of the Garment Manufacturers Mass Production Group of F.K.E. on 15th August, 1978 and from the Kenya Federation of Employers (F.K.E.) on 30th April, 1986.

The claimants now want the court to compel the respondents, who were non-participants in the collective agreement, to apply in effect and by custom or practice, the terms and conditions of the said collective agreement into the employees' contracts of employment.

On the other hand, the respondents relied on the doctrine of privity of contract. They stated that after resigning and withdrawing their membership from the Garment Manufacturers Group of F.K.E. and the Federation, they did not subsequently acquire any rights nor incurred any liabilities or obligations under a collective agreement to which they were not a party. Moreover, they contended, they were observing, in relations to their employees, terms and conditions which were not less favourable than the recognized and negotiated ones between the group and the claimants.

The law of contract says that a bargain is a contract provided that there is apparent in the agreement an intention to be legally bound. Many useful deals between employers and trade unions are always made on the nod which might be difficult to concede on paper; but it is important that the existence and method of operation of a collective agreement should be clearly understood by all concerned and this is best achieved by reducing it to writing.

A contract of employment is not compulsorily subject to collective terms and conditions, and collective agreements do not have an automatic effect upon a contract of employment. The best way to ensure that they do have an effect is to see that the contract of employment clearly incorporates the collective terms and conditions either expressly or by necessary implication.

But, wherever there is the slightest conflict between contract of employment and the collective agreement, the law says that the individual contract of employment prevails over the collective agreement.

It is not clear how far the knowledge of an employee will regulate the implication of terms and conditions into his contract. But it is plain that after terms and conditions of a collective agreement have been acted on by an employee for a period, it is much easier to imply them, by custom or practice, into the employee's contract of employment. However, not every usage or customary practice of long standing will become a contractual term. It must be intended to become one.

Having made the above observations, the court finds that the aforementioned collective agreement, in so far as it was binding at all, only concerned the members of the group and the claimants who negotiated and entered into it. The claimants cannot, therefore, enforce the observance of its terms and conditions against the respondents because the latter were not a party to it; and hence no rights or obligations were created between the parties for incorporation into the employees' contract of employment.

In the circumstances the court cannot see any legal peg on which to hand an award in favour of the claimants and their demand is accordingly rejected.

Dated the 25th January, 1990.

Judge.

GAZETTE NOTICE NO. 487

THE TRADE MARKS ACT

(Cap. 506)

NOTICE is given that any person who has grounds of opposition to the registration of any of the trade marks advertised herein according to the classes may, within sixty (60) days from the date of this Gazette, lodge notice of opposition on form TM. No. 6 (in duplicate) together with a fee of Sh. 120.

Notice is also given that official objection will be taken under rule 21 (3) to all applications in which the specification claims all the goods included in any class unless the registrar is satisfied that the claim is justified by the use of the mark which the applicant has made, or intends to make if and when it is registered. Where an applicant considers that a claim in respect of all the goods included in a class can be justified it will save unnecessary delay in examining applications if a claim is filed simultaneously with the application, accompanied in appropriate cases by supporting documents.

The period for lodging notice of opposition may be extended by the registrar as he thinks fit and upon such terms as he may direct. Any request for such extension should be made to the registrar so as to reach him before the expiry of the period allowed.

Formal opposition should not be lodged until after reasonable notice has been given by letter to the applicant for registration so as to afford him an opportunity of withdrawing his application before the expense of preparing the notice of opposition is incurred. Failure to give such notice will be taken into account in considering any application by an opponent for an order for costs if the opposition is uncontested by the applicant.

Where it is stated in the advertisement of the applicant that the mark, upon its registration, is to be limited to certain colours, the colours are, as far as possible, indicated in the accompanying representations of the mark in the usual heraldic manner.

Representations of the marks advertised herein can be seen at the Trade Marks Registry, State Law Office, Nairobi.

Applications for registration in part A of the register are shown with the official number unaccompanied by any letter. Applications for part B are distinguished by the letter B prefixed to the official number.
