GAZETTE NOTICE NO. 2765

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE NO. 26 OF 1993

Parties:

Kenya Game Hunting and Safaris Workers' Union
and Kimbla Kenya Limited

Issue in Dispute:

"Wrongful termination of Joseph Mweu."

J. M. Ndolo, General Secretary, for the claimants.

J. A. Mugo (Mrs.), executive officer, F.K.E., for the respondents.

AWARD

BY a Notification of Dispute, Form "A", under section 14 (7) of the Trade Disputes Act, Cap. 234, Laws of Kenya (hereinafter referred to as the Act) the parties moved this court on 6th October, 1992, for the adjudication and determination of this dispute. The Notification of Dispute, together with the statutory certificates from the Labour Commissioner and the Minister for Labour pursuant to section 14 (9) (e) and (f) of the Act, were received by the court on 15th March, 1993. The claimants (hereinafter called "the union"), submitted their memorandum on 27th April, 1993, to which the respondents (hereinafter called "the management"), filed their reply statement thereto on 27th May, 1993, and the dispute was heard on 6th June, 26th July, 28th September and 13th October, 1993.

During the hearing, Joseph Mweu (C.W.I.) (hereinafter called "the grievant") was examined on behalf of the union and Lisbeth Farrell (Ms.) (R.W.I.), the managing director, was examined on behalf of the management.

The grievant was employed by the management, who are a limited liability company operating camping safaris for tourists, as a contract baggage vehicle driver on a "per safari" basis from January, 1989, until the end of the season, i.e. in March 1989. On 1st July, 1989, he was engaged on permanent terms of employment at a consolidated monthly salary of KSh. 1,750, and at the time of his dismissal on 28th December, 1990, he was earning a consolidated wage of KSh. 1,850 per month.

The grounds of the grievant's dismissal were that he had falsified the imprest returns for a tour he made in August 1990, when he claimed that he had spent a total of KSh. 1,210, in purchasing 11 sacks of charcoal for a group of 16 tourists who were on a visit to Maasai Mara for 10 days camping.

On enquiry, especially from the cook who accompanied the grievant on the safari, it was established that the grievant had bought the charcoal for a lesser amount and that only 2 sacks of charcoal were available for use in the Mara camp, out of which 1½ sacks were used. He was questioned over the matter, but his explanation was unsatisfactory. The grievant, however, admitted that he had falsely inflated the imprest returns. The matter was referred to the union who insisted that the same be reported to the police for investigations, with a view to verifying the price of charcoal at Naivasha and Narok (Appendices 3, 4 and 5 of the management's submission). The police report thereof, Appendix 6, showed that the price of charcoal between Narok and Mai Mahiu would cost KSh. 50 without a sack and KSh. 60 with the sack. In Narok town, the price was between KSh. 70 and KSh. 80 with the sack.

The parties were unable to settle the matter at their own level, and as usual a formal trade dispute was reported to the Minister for Labour, who appointed Liner Koech (Miss) as the investigation officer. On the basis of the investigation report, which was released to the parties on 8th September, 1992, the Minister recommended "that the management's decision be upheld". The union rejected the recommendation. Hence this dispute for adjudication and determination.

To a very large extent, the submissions of the union are completely irrelevant and have no bearing to the issue at hand. In short, however, the union submitted that the grievant was dismissed by the management on false allegations and forged statement of the cook, with the corrupt assistance of the police.

In his evidence to the court, the grievant (C.W.I.) explained his itinerary and imprest expenditure during the month of August, 1990. He said he could not remember how much money he took, but it was more than KSh. 10,000, and he bought 11 sacks of charcoal for the entire 11 days' safari. The grievant, however, denied that he misappropriated the imprest entrusted to him. When he was shown, during cross-examination, his falsified original imprest return under consideration, by the learned counsel for the management, Mugo (Mrs.), the grievant admitted its authenticity.

The union prayed the court to award to the grievant all his benefits for the period he has been out of employment and compensation for wrongful dismissal.

The management submitted that this was a clear case of misappropriation which constituted gross misconduct. In the circumstances, they urged the court to take into consideration the fact that their employees, especially the drivers on safaris, have over the years misappropriated company funds, resulting in colossal losses to them.

Ms. Lisbeth Farrell (R.W.I.), the managing director, who gave evidence on behalf of the management, explained the procedure of filling the imprest returns, and also took the court through various imprest sheets or returns for comparison and in some of which the grievant had inflated the prices of certain items, for example, charcoal, fuel, water, etc., while on safari (Exhs. R.I to VI of the management's submission). She told the court that the grievant was given KSh. 17,000 imprest during that occasion under consideration, but he dishonestly spent a large sum of money on charcoal and yet the group of tourists was small. The amount spent on drinking water was also excessive.

The management, therefore, prayed the court to find that the summary dismissal of the grievant was justified and reject the union's demand as totally misconceived.

The grievant was dismissed for falsification of imprest returns and fraud, causing loss on the management and gain to himself. His explanation was considered and found unsatisfactory.

Cheating, fraud and falsification of records or accounts are serious misconducts on the part of employees in employment relations, and this can be brought about by dishonestly forging or altering the documents. If an employee falsifies the records or accounts with an intention to defraud, cheat or mislead his employer, he can be dismissed either for cheating or for falsification of records or accounts. In the case of falsification of records or accounts, it is not only sufficient to show that the entries were wrong, but it should also be shown that the employee wilfully made wrong entries to defraud the employer, and past similar instances are helpful to show that the entries were not made innocently.

I have carefully examined the various past imprest sheets or returns and other documents on record and find that the grievant had, with impunity committed similar offences previously. I had also the privilege or occasion to observe the demeanour of the grievant when he gave his evidence but I was not impressed by him. During cross-examination of Lisbeth Farrell by Mr. Ndolo, no single question was put to her about the falsified imprest sheets or returns on record, and in the circumstances I have no reason to doubt the veracity of her evidence. In my view, therefore, the dismissal of the grievant from service was justified and legal and cannot be interfered with. Accordingly, I reject the claimants' demands as baseless.

I have consulted the opinion of the members in giving my above decision, and they are in complete agreement.

Dated and delivered at Nairobi on the 17th August, 1994.

C. P. CHEMMUTTUT,
Judge.

A. K. KERICH,
G. M. OMOLO,
Members.
