THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE NO 21 OF 1975

Parties

Kenya Management Staff Association
and

British American Insurance Company Limited

Issue in dispute

Wrongful termination of Mr A J Sheikh

1 The Kenya Management Staff Association shall hereinafter be referred to as the Claimants and the British American Insurance Co Ltd shall hereinafter be referred to as the Respondents

2 The parties were heard in Nairobi on 3rd, 4th, 5th and 6th June, 1975, and relied on their written and verbal submissions. The parties called the following witnesses to give evidence on oath—

Claimants—Mr A J Sheikh

Respondents—Mr F S Busaid, Mr H A Sayed Mr V R Cozier

AWARD

3 The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 12th November, 1974, was received by the Court on 11th April, 1975, along with the statutory certificates signed by the Minister for Labour and the Labour Commissioner

Mr A J Sheikh joined the Respondents as a salesman in Mombasa District on 14th October, 1966. Over the years he rose to the position of the District Manager, Nairobi District, which position he occupied when his services were terminated by the Respondents on 22nd October, 1974.

The main reason stated in his letter of termination was that although he had been sufficiently made aware in the past and at that time through verbal conversation and company bulletins the ruling on lapse when two weeks in arrears had not been strictly complied with in his district. He was instructed to hand over his district keys and all other Respondents' property to Mr H A Sayed, the Area Manager, on receipt of the letter of termination. He was offered the following payment—

	Sh cts
Two weeks pay for every year of employment (8 years)	11,360 00
Two weeks vacation pay	1,420 00
Two weeks pay in lieu of notice	1,420 00
Conservation Bonus as at 28th October 1974 (including annual bonus)	6,635 60
	<hr/>
Refund of Bond, Pensions and Savings	20,835 60
	14,568 00
	Sh 35,403 60

Mr Sheikh had joined the Claimants in or about April, 1974, and the other members of the management had followed suit. The Court was told that they had done so in order to enable the Claimants to negotiate a collective agreement on their behalf with the Respondents.

During the hearing two documents were produced by the Respondents regarding Mr Sheikh's contract of employment with them. One of these documents is signed by Mr Sheikh and the Respondents' Vice-President, African Division, and is dated 24th March, 1973. The agreement is called "Manager's Compensation for Fiscal 1973" and in clause III (2) it is stated that the agreement is for the fiscal year 1973 only. The Court was told that Mr Sheikh refused to sign a similar agreement for the fiscal year 1974 or thereafter.

The other agreement is headed "Agent's Agreement" and is signed by Mr Sheikh only, it bears no date and is not signed by anyone on behalf of the Respondents.

Since Mr Sheikh was a member of the Claimants, they took up the matter on his behalf and the matter was investigated by an official of the Ministry of Labour, one Mr P N Ngure. Mr Ngure had this to say in his findings on the matter of lapsing business when two weeks in arrears—

"The whole matter leading to Mr Sheikh's dismissal appears to be this question of 'lapsing business when two weeks in arrears'. The policy contract stipulates very clearly that 'the policy lapses when four weeks in arrears'. It further states that 'nobody is authorized to alter this ruling except the President and the Secretary of the Company'. The General Manager cannot therefore alter the Company contract 'Lapsing business two weeks in arrears' was therefore a new thing not only to the complainant but also to policy holders, agents and staff managers as well. Before any innovation (idea perceived as new) is adopted and accepted, the leadership should sit down and discuss at length the pros and cons of the innovation. To avoid the hostile attitude of the policy holders on learning that their policies were to lapse within two weeks the Agents must inform the policy holders what was happening if the memorandum or remainder were no longer in use."

The Investigator further found that Mr Sheikh's services were unfairly terminated and it was recommended that he should be reinstated to his job.

The Claimants' written submission unfortunately contains nothing more than a letter of 4th March, 1975, written by the Permanent Secretary, Ministry of Labour, containing the parties' submissions in brief and the Investigator's findings and recommendations. Numerous other documents, however, were put forward by Mr Sheikh during his evidence. The Court has in the past made comments in a dispute involving the Claimants that since they represented the management staff the least that was expected of them was to prepare a comprehensive and a well reasoned submission but in the present case the Claimants' submission fell far short of that.

The Respondents have set forth all the facts supported by documentary evidence very fairly. In fact they have gone as far as to highlight Mr Sheikh's good points as well during his eight years' service with them.

The main allegations against Mr Sheikh were that although he was a good salesman the business that he secured for the Respondents lapsed very soon with the result that although at first sight it appeared that Mr Sheikh's performance in selling policies was outstanding, the business in due course did not live up to expectations and most of it proved to be unproductive. There were also allegations against him for his rude and provocative nature but most serious allegation, however, was that he had failed to lapse policies when two weeks in arrears. The Respondents maintained that this had resulted in Mr Sheikh concealing lapses while making ghost entries to earn commission.

The Respondents also produced evidence to show that he had defaulted on the following matters—

- (a) he had not been ruling life registers as required,
- (b) he had not implemented re-writes of debits at all which the Respondents claimed was a most important function for the balancing of their in force business,
- (c) many collection book pages had been removed by unscrupulous agents whom Mr Sheikh harboured and allowed to earn commission at the Respondents' expense.

The Claimants on behalf of Mr Sheikh and through his evidence maintained that there was absolutely no reason for the Respondents to terminate Mr Sheikh's services and that Mr Sheikh resisted carrying out instructions given by Mr V R Cozier who is the Respondents' General Manager of East African Division comprising Kenya, Uganda and Mauritius, requiring the policies to lapse when two weeks in arrears which was contrary to the conditions laid down in the policy that the policy would lapse when four weeks in arrears. Mr Sheikh maintained that he could not deceive the policy holders and do an act which would be contrary to the policy contract.

Mr Sheikh further stated that in his view the reason why his services had been terminated was because of the initiative that he had taken in joining the Claimants which move did not please Mr Cozier. Mr Sheikh claimed that he was one of the best employees of the Respondents and had an unrivalled record with them and produced various letters of commendations from his superiors during his service with them.

The Court has before it massive documentary evidence mainly produced by the Respondents and to some extent by Mr Sheikh himself in order to support the various allegations and counter allegations. The Court does not intend to delve into all the details contained therein and will restrict itself to the important issues which have a direct bearing on the termination of Mr Sheikh's services.

The Court is satisfied, despite the incidents alleged by the Respondents, that Mr Sheikh continued to perform more than satisfactorily in his duties until such time that he became the Respondents' District Manager for Nairobi. The fact of his promotion by itself proves that up to that point the Respondents were happy with Mr Sheikh's services. The Court does not entirely subscribe to the Respondents' submission that whenever they thought of terminating Mr Sheikh's services he would come out with something which would make them change their mind. The simple fact is that Mr Sheikh was a good salesman and brought much business to the Respondents.

After a careful scrutiny of all the evidence the Court, however, has come to the conclusion that although Mr Sheikh was good almost to the point of being brilliant in selling insurance policies he also had certain weaknesses which were mainly in the office and administrative work.

The main bone of contention in this dispute is lapsing of policies when two weeks in arrears. Here the Court has carefully gone into this question and has come to the conclusion that the interpretation placed by Mr Sheikh and by Mr Ngure, no doubt on the persuasion of Mr Sheikh and the Claimants, is totally misconceived. The Court is very surprised that all these gentlemen have held out to be so naive as not to understand what lapsing of policies after two weeks meant and was designed to cater for what circumstances.

In one of the provisions and conditions to the specimen policy produced during the hearing it is laid down as follows—

'POLICY WHEN VOID'—If any of the statements or warrants in the application for this Policy and upon which this Policy is granted, be untrue or if said Policy shall be in any way assigned excepting to the Company, or if any erasure or alteration shall be made in said Policy except by endorsement signed by the President or Secretary, or if the plan number on the insert schedule does not agree with the policy form number, or if any premium on this Policy shall be in arrears four weeks, this Policy shall thereupon become void except as herein provided. Any weekly premium life or endowment policy or policies previously issued by this Company on this life may be in force concurrently herewith unless the aggregate amount in force on a premium paying basis exceeds one thousand pounds sterling or its equivalent in the currency upon which this policy is issued, in which event the excess insurance shall be void and all premiums paid for such excess shall be refunded to the Insured."

It is obvious that a policy cannot be declared void except in the circumstances as stated in the above clause.

What the Respondents were concerned at and what they wanted to avoid was to pay out commission on business which was not there. For this purpose and purely as an internal arrangement instructions had been given by Mr Cozier that policies, when two weeks in arrears should lapse, and not that policies should be declared void and therefore deprive the policy holders of all benefits in the event of a mishap. The idea behind this is quite easily understandable and that was that the head office of the Respondents had to be informed by the districts that on a certain policy the premiums were in arrears. They were required to do this after a two weeks' arrears so that the Respondents would not continue paying out commission to the agents for the business which just was not there. The Court is quite satisfied that these instructions did not in any way affect the policy holders or their contractual rights thereunder. This was purely an internal arrangement which had certain benefits for the Respondents and also the agents themselves in that the agents would not be paid commission which they had not earned and which later on they would have to refund by way of deductions from duly earned commission thereby leading to considerable frustration and lowering of morale.

The Court is satisfied from the documentary evidence produced and from the evidence from the various witnesses that Mr Sheikh knew and understood the instructions regarding the lapsing of policies after two weeks and further that these instructions did not affect, and were not intended to alter, the contracts which the Respondents had with the various policy holders and notwithstanding the cyclostyled forms headed 'Area Manager's Report on Visits to District Offices' where it is stated 'lapsing of business that is four weeks in arrears in that week' the Court finds it proved that these forms were old forms and that everybody concerned knew too well that business had to lapse when two weeks in arrears.

The Court accepts the evidence of the Area Manager, Mr H S Sayed, on this particular point and the other points as well. The Court also accepts the evidence of Mr F S Busaid who took over the functions of Mr Sheikh on the latter's termination. Both these witnesses impressed the Court and in the absence of any ulterior motive the Court finds no reason to disbelieve them.

Ample documentary evidence was produced and which was not challenged by the Claimants that lapses in business as required were not notified to the head office with the result that the head office was not aware of the actual state of affairs at any given time. This resulted in the agents and Mr Sheikh earning commissions which were not due, no doubt such commissions were recovered or can be recovered by the Respondents in due course but the fact remains that these employees benefited and got these commissions when they were not entitled to them.

Mr Sheikh, as a District Manager must accept his responsibility in this regard as it was part of his functions to ensure that his superior officer's instructions were being carried out not only by himself but all the staff working under him.

The Court finds it very interesting, and there seems to be a good reason for it, that the staff working under Mr Sheikh have written petitions supporting him, because they were all benefiting from the unearned commissions by not lapsing business when two weeks in arrears.

On a previous occasion some 29 employees, mainly Africans, working under Mr Sheikh addressed a complaint to the General Manager on 20th March, 1974, and some eight days later they retracted their complaint. This incident shows that Mr Sheikh did exercise a considerable influence and had the ability to sway the employees working under him towards his own view point. The Court has no doubt that he exercised this influence which resulted in considerable industrial unrest in the Respondents undertaking when his services were terminated and which resulted in an agreement dated 11th December, 1974, between Mr Cozier and the five staff managers of Nairobi District as follows—

"It is agreed that if Mr Sheikh is reinstated by the Industrial Court of Kenya his job as Manager of the Nairobi District will be offered to him without victimization."

"It is further agreed that if Mr Sheikh is not reinstated by the Industrial Court of Kenya the British American Insurance Company Ltd through its General Manager may appoint whomsoever in his opinion is capable of being the Manager of the Nairobi District and the total co-operation of us as signed below, is guaranteed."

The main reason why the Respondents decided to terminate Mr Sheikh's services related to his failure to implement instructions regarding lapsing of business when two weeks in arrears. On 22nd October the Area Manager, Mr H A Sayed, wrote a letter to Mr S E Adderley, the Superintendent of Agencies, pointing out the following—

"In view of my recent findings on Nairobi District to the effect that business in excess of two weeks in arrears for lapse, which is contrary to the Company's ruling (Mr Cozier's circulars dated 19th February, 1973; 11th June, 1973; 5th September, 1973 and 9th January, 1974) I cannot see Mr Sheikh, Manager for this District, escaping this responsibility."

"Mr Sheikh had been warned in the past through a letter by our previous Area Manager on following Company rulings on lapses, a copy of which is enclosed herewith for your perusal."

"His District had excessive lapses in our fiscal year 1973 which had business in excess of two weeks in arrears and again on my investigations for the w/o 10774, I discovered that the same process of holding business in excess of two weeks in arrears is repeated in spite of assurances from Mr Sheikh that this was not so."

On the same day Mr Sheikh's services were terminated and he was literally unceremoniously bundled out of his office and the Court feels that Mr Sheikh was justified in his complaints in this direction.

There is one other point which cropped up during Mr Sheikh's evidence on which the Court would like to comment. This is Mr Sheikh's idea that most probably the reason why his services had been terminated is the fact that he had taken the initiative at the managerial level to join the Claimants. This particular point has been very carefully scrutinized by the Court because of its gravity and relevance to the industrial relations system in Kenya and the workers' right of freedom of association. The Court finds that this is an after thought on the part of the Claimants in order to enlist the Court's sympathies. Had it not been so, this very serious matter would have figured very prominently in this dispute right from the time investigations were carried out by the Ministry of Labour officials ending up with the Claimants' submission in these proceedings. The Court therefore does not attach any importance to this allegation.

After a careful consideration of all the submissions and the evidence given by the various witnesses the Court has come to the conclusion that in this case no facts have emerged which warrant or require the Court's interference in the management's decision to terminate the services of such a senior employee.

as a district manager. The Court having made this finding, however, is not satisfied at the manner in which Mr Sheikh's services were in fact terminated. It is noted that Mr Sheikh's services were not terminated summarily.

As stated earlier in the award there seems to be no proper contract of employment between Mr Sheikh and the Respondents and keeping in view Mr Sheikh's eight years' service with the Respondents, the very senior position he occupied in the Respondents' undertaking and the practice of termination of employment currently in force in Kenya and the precedents which have been created by the Industrial Court and also taking into account the statutory provisions in the Regulation of Wages (General) Order, the Court has come to the conclusion that the Respondents should have given Mr Sheikh three months' notice or pay in lieu thereof for terminating his services.

The Court accordingly awards that in addition to the sum of Sh 35,403/60 which the Respondents have offered to pay Mr Sheikh the details of which appear hereinabove, he should be paid a further ten weeks' pay (two weeks' pay is already included in the amount offered) to bring it up to the notice period of three months. The Court further directs that Mr Sheikh should be paid another sum of Sh 1,500 representing the commission which he would have earned on an average for three months as Mr Cozier stated that his monthly commission varied every month and at times he earned even Sh 900 p.m. The Court would not have made this additional award of commission had it not been for the fact that in the Respondents' undertaking the employee's remuneration is worked out in a manner which also takes into account the approximate amount of commission which an employee was likely to earn in the course of his duties.

The Court accordingly awards that the Respondents should pay Mr Sheikh a sum of Sh 44,003/60 which includes the amount of Sh 35,403/60 which they had offered to pay Mr Sheikh when terminating his services.
