THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE No. 7 of 1981

Parties:

Domestic & Hotel Workers' Union
and
Hotel Intercontinental

Issue in dispute:

Deduction of 5 per cent service charge.

- The Domestic & Hotel Workers' Union shall hereinafter be referred to as the Claimants and Hotel Intercontinental shall hereinafter be referred to as the Respondents.
- The parties were heard in Nairobi on 13th and 14 July, 1981 and in addition to relying on their written and verbal submissions called the following witnesses to give evidence on oath:

Claimants:

J. Mireti,
M. Macharia,
F. Baraza,
S. Murango,
Duncan Mugo.

Respondents:

E. Mwaluma,
E. Hoarau.

AWARD

3. The notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 1st October, 1980 duly signed by the parties was received by the Court on 17th February, 1981 together with the statutory certificate signed by the Labour Commissioner.

This dispute involves a claim of Sh. 566,652.10 which the Claimants have made against the Respondents in respect of monies due to the Respondents' employees being the balance of service charge for the years 1971 to 1977. The Claimants are also asking for 10 per cent interest being Sh. 56,665.21.

This claim is based on clause 18 of the relevant collective agreement governing the terms and conditions of employment of the Respondents' employees which reads :

"The employer will operate a service charge and the money collected through the service charge shall be distributed to all employees with the exception of managerial staff on terms to be advised by the Works Committee after consultation with the employees of the individual establishments. A deduction of 15 per cent will be retained by the employer in accordance with the ILO agreement for administrative purposes. The union may (at their own expense) appoint a qualified accountant/auditor to check the accounts maintained by the company for the service charge at a time suitable and agreed between such accountant/auditor and the management: Provided always that where the local Works Committee after consultation with the union expresses a preference to management that no service charge be introduced then a local arrangement within the organization would be satisfactory."

There is no dispute that the contents of this particular clause during the years material to this dispute have remained substantially the same.

On 4th March, 1971 at a joint meeting between the parties the subject of service charge scheme was discussed when the Claimants' representative stated that there had been some questions concerning the distribution of service charge in the past and would like to know the present situation. Another union representative, Mr. Mireti stated that the matter had been discussed with the management and there were no more questions. This meeting ended with the then Respondents' personnel manager, Mr. Konditi, who was also chairing the meeting, agreeing to make an appointment for Mr. Maina Macharia to see the chief accountant for an explanation of the hotel accounting system as it affected service charge scheme. Mr. Macharia was to be advised at a later date.

After this meeting Mr. Macharia referred to this matter in his letters to the Respondents' personnel manager on 5th May, 1971 and 9th February, 1972 asking for a breakdown of 1970 distributions. On 11th February, 1972 the Claimants were told that the Respondents would co-operate in every possible way to assist the Claimants in checking the accounts maintained for the service charge provided the Claimants appointed a qualified accountant/auditor and the Respondents are given a sufficient notice of the exercise. The matter then rested there for the next five years and the Claimants were not able to produce any evidence to show that they pursued this matter further. They stated that Mr. Macharia who was handling this matter was sick on and off during these years and their general secretary could not trust any other of their officials to handle this matter which needed an honest person to act on behalf of the workers. The Court will be commenting on this herein-after in the award.

The next stage in this dispute is that this matter was discussed at a meeting held on 15th December, 1977 between the management and the Works Committee. The following three paragraphs in the minutes of this meeting are important to this dispute:

"The retained (saved) 5 per cent which belongs to the workers will be distributed as part of Christmas bonus.

The General Manager answered all questions to full satisfaction of the Works Committee who expressed their agreement with paying Christmas Bonus again this year—one months gross salary which is taxable.

It was also decided as from 1st January, 1978 that the full service charge minus 15 per cent which is deducted according to the Union contract will be distributed to the workers in full."

After this the parties held several meetings in 1979 which were supposed to be exploratory meetings in regard to service charge issue. During these meetings the parties made offers and counter offers but the matter could not be settled with the result that the Claimants reported a trade dispute to the Minister for Labour on 4th October, 1979 on the issue of "deduction of 5 per cent service charge". On 22nd May, 1980 the Ministry's findings and recommendation were conveyed to the parties which were in favour of the Claimants and the Respondents were told that the Ministry's recommendation was that they should pay the service charge deductions with interest. The parties having failed to settle the dispute at that level signed the notification of Dispute Form "A" for the purpose of referring the dispute to the Industrial Court on 1st October, 1980 which form the Court received on 17th February, 1981 with the statutory certificate signed by the Labour Commissioner under section 9 (9) (e) of the Trade disputes Act.

There is no dispute on the fact that the Respondents deducted an additional 5 per cent from the service Charge. This was in addition to the 15 per cent as provided for in clause 18 of the collective agreement. They, however, maintained that this was as a result of an agreement between them and the Works Committee acting on behalf of all unionisable employees to enable the Respondents to pay it to all the employees by way of addition to bonuses paid by them with the intention that every employee with more than six months' service would thus receive an annual bonus of one month's salary. The Respondents gave details of the previous bonuses which they paid prior to this new arrangement.

The Respondents, however, were not able to produce any evidence written or otherwise which would prove that there was such an agreement between them and the workers. It was a very important decision and there seems to be no reason why it should not have been mentioned or recorded in any of the minutes of the Works Committee meetings with the management. After all it was a variation to clause 18 of the collective agreement and it should therefore have been spelt out quite clearly in another written agreement or clearly recorded in the minutes. In the absence of any satisfactory evidence on this point the Court must find that there was no such agreement. It appears that the Respondents decided to deduct this additional 5 per cent from the service charge and add it to the annual bonus which they decided to pay from the year 1971. The workers did not know anything about this but soon thereafter the workers queried the calculations regarding the service charge as they felt that they were not getting the amount which they expected. The Respondents' refusal to give the breakdown of the service charge calculations as demanded by Mr. Macharia is a pointer to the fact that the Respondents did not want their workers to know that additional 5 per cent was being deducted from the service charge. Otherwise there was no reason for them not to give all the details as demanded by the Claimants.

The Court must also record that the then personnel manager, Mr. Konditi, who is in the country was not called by the Respondents to come and give evidence on this crucial aspect of the dispute. The Respondents did concede that whereas they had found all other minutes of the Works Committee meetings they could not find the particular minute in which this alleged agreement was recorded.

The Court having made the above finding is really astonished to say the least that the Claimants for five years from 1972 to 1977 took no action on this matter. The Court finds the Claimants' explanation that it was only Mr. Macharia because of his honesty who could have handled this matter, to be most unsatisfactory and which cannot be accepted. The simple truth is that they chose to neglect the workers' grievance on this question of service charge most probably because of inefficiency in their organization. If the Claimants had acted promptly in this matter then the workers' grievances would have been resolved satisfactorily a long time ago and they would not have forfeited a substantial part of their claim as will become evident in the award hereinafter.

The Court finds that there is no dispute on the following figures and they can be assumed to have been agreed in this dispute:

"Year	Total service charge payable	5 per cent service charge claimed
1971	1,238,374.80	64,168.50
1972	1,458,862.25	72,442.75
1973	1,495,797.85	74,789.70
1974	1,474,740.70	72,610.90
1975	1,650,419.80	82,520.70
1976	1,862,619.00	93,130.75
1977	2,139,781.90	106,988.80
1978	3,221,301.85
Total	14,586,898.15	566,652.10"

Apart from the submission that this additional 5 per cent was deducted with the agreement of the Works Committee which has already been dealt with by the Court the Respondents have made two other submissions in respect of this claim. One is that at a meeting held on 15th December, 1977 when the workers were fully in the picture regarding the dispute on this additional 5 per cent deduction they went ahead and agreed that the retained 5 per cent which belonged to the workers will be distributed as part of the bonus. The Respondents have proved this point as this agreement appears in the written submission of the Claimants at appendix 5. This means that from the aforesaid claim a sum of Sh. 106,988.80 for the year 1977 has been received by the workers as part of the bonus. So they cannot therefore now come and say that they are again entitled to this amount.

The next and an extremely important submission which the Respondents have made is that a major part of the Claimants' claim is barred under the Limitation Act. They have submitted that the claim for the years 1972, 1973 and 1974 cannot be entertained under section 16 (4) of this Act. The Claimants put forward various alternatives in order to satisfy the Court that no part of their claim was barred under the Act. They put forward the proposition that the Respondents were trustees and were holding the money in trust for the workers and also referred to the special procedures before a trade dispute can come before the Industrial Court. They also posed the question as to the date from which the limitation period should start running. They submitted that 15th December, 1977 when the matter was first raised by the workers to be the most logical date for the purpose of the limitation period of six years. The Respondents on the other hand stated that the limitation period should run from the date dispute was registered by the Court i.e. 17th February, 1981 or at the most from the date parties signed the notification of Dispute Form "A" which is 1st October, 1980.

Before making a ruling on this extremely important point the Court would like to dispose of the Claimants' submission that section 16 (4) of the Trade Disputes Act is applicable only on the interpretation applications of the Court awards. The Court upholds the Respondents' submission that section 16 (4) is very clear and mandatory. This section reads:

"16 (4) an award shall not contain any provision which is inconsistent with the provisions of any written law relating to the terms or conditions of or affecting employment or labour, and any award containing any such inconsistent provision shall have effect as if such inconsistent provision had not been included therein."

This means that the Industrial Court has to take in consideration the various provisions of the Limitation Act.

The Court has now to decide from which date the period of limitation starts running in respect of trade disputes under the Trade Disputes Act. Section 4 (1) of the Limitation Act provides as follows:

"The following actions may not be brought after the end of six years from the date on which the cause of action accrued—

- (a) actions founded on contract;
- (b) actions to enforce a recognizance;
- (c) actions to enforce an award;
- (d) actions to recover a sum recoverable by virtue of a written law, other than a penalty or forfeiture or sum by way of penalty or forfeiture;
- (e) actions, including actions claiming equitable relief, for which no other period of limitation is provided by this Act or by any other written law."

The Court notes that certain actions which includes the Claimants' demand may not be brought after the end of six years from the date on which the cause of action accrued. Unlike the ordinary civil courts parties cannot file a dispute in the Industrial Court, and the Industrial Court is not allowed to accept and register any dispute, unless and until all the pre-Industrial Court procedures have been exhausted. So much so that the Trade Disputes Act requires that the Labour Commissioner should certify that all available machinery (including statutory machinery) for the voluntary settlement of disputes prior to reference to the Court has been exhausted. In view of this clear-cut statutory provisions it would be most unfair to find that the limitation period should run from the date the Court accepted and registered a trade dispute or indeed when the parties signed the notification of Dispute Form "A". It is common knowledge and the Court can take judicial notice of it that considerable delay take place between the time a trade dispute is reported to the Minister and the time the parties sign the notification Dispute Form "A" after all the efforts of the Ministry of Labour through conciliation and investigation have failed to resolve the dispute. The Court has carefully considered this matter and keeping in view the very special provisions of the Trade Disputes Act that the proper time when parties to the trade disputes can be considered to have brought an action should be the date when the trade dispute is officially reported to the Minister for Labour. To rule otherwise would be to expose the workers to a denial of justice through no fault of their own.

The Court having come to this conclusion therefore rules that for the purposes of the Limitation Act the material date in this dispute is 4th October, 1979 and any claim beyond six years from that date would be barred by this Act and the Court would not be able to make any award thereon. This means that the Claimants' demand in respect of the years 1971 and 1972 is time barred under the Limitation Act for which the Claimants are directly responsible for having slept over this matter for five years between 1972 and 1977. It is indeed a very sorry state of affairs. The claim for 1977 with the parties' own agreement as has been mentioned hereinabove in the award is also not tenable and that would leave a valid claim for the years 1973, 1974, 1975 and 1976 as follows:

	Sh.
1973 ..	74,789.70
1974 ..	72,610.90
1975 ..	82,520.70
1976 ..	93,130.75
Total	323,052.05

The Court has no doubt that the Respondents' employees are entitled to the aforesaid amount being the extra 5 per cent which the Respondents deducted during those years from the workers' entitlement in respect of service charge and the Court accordingly awards that the Respondents should pay this amount to all those employees who are entitled to it.

The Court would now like to deal with the Respondents' plea that the bad debts if any should be deducted from the aforesaid claims. The Court has considered this matter carefully and finds that clause 18 of the collective agreement is very clear as it states "the money collected through the service charge". The Court has no doubt that the words mean the money actually collected by the Respondents. The Court wonders what the position would have been if the Respondents had paid out the service charge promptly as and when it was due to their employees on a month to month basis. In view of this and keeping all the circumstances of this dispute in mind the Court awards that the Respondents should pay the aforesaid amount of Sh. 323,052.05 without any deductions to all their employees including those who have since left their employment. The Court further rules that the workers are entitled to be paid interest at the rate of 8 per cent p.a. on the amounts due to them on yearly basis from the time they became payable until the full amount is liquidated and the Court so awards.

Finally the Court directs that the Respondents should pay this amount to their employees still in employment in three instalments, the first instalment to commence at the end of September, 1981. Those workers who have left the Respondents' employment should be paid their shares in a lump sum.

The Court feels that it is appropriate to clarify that the payment of bonus by the Respondents to their employees at the end of the year is an entirely separate and distinct matter from the workers' entitlement to service charge.

Given in Nairobi on the 4th September, 1981.

Judge.
