THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE NO. 41 OF 1981

Parties:

Railway and Harbours Union (K)

and

Kenya Railways

Issue in dispute

Refusal to pay duty allowance to J. W. Bukachi, telecommunications instructor, Railway Training School.

1. The Railways and Harbours Union (K) shall hereinafter be referred to as the Claimants and Kenya Railways shall hereinafter be referred to as the Respondents.

2. The parties were heard in Nairobi on the 18th October, 1981 and relied on their written and verbal submissions.

AWARD

3. The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 26th January, 1981, duly signed by the parties was received by the Court on 7th together with the statutory certificate signed by the Labour Commissioner.

This dispute concerns Mr. Bukachi who retired from the Respondents' service in 1978 after having worked for them for 37 years and five months during which time he had a clean record.

The Claimants have lodged this claim on his behalf for the payment of duty allowance to him from January 1968, up to June 1971, when he was a telecommunications instructor at the Railway Training School. He took over from a non-citizen in 1967 and was paid acting allowance for the period 15th December, 1967 to 14th March, 1968.

The Claimants have submitted that Mr. Bukachi from January 1968, was required to teach two classes, numbers 12 and 15, whereas there was supposed to be one instructor to each class. They argued that the Respondents' senior officers appreciated the extra duties which Mr. Bukachi was performing and revised the timetable with the result that he had to teach class 15 on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays with other instructors taking over on Tuesdays and Thursdays. The Claimants also pointed out that an additional instructor was appointed on 15th June, 1971, which clearly proved that Mr. Bukachi performed additional duties which would entitle him for the payment of duty allowance. They referred to a letter which the Director-General had written to them in which it was admitted that there was a noticeable increase in the volume of work which Mr. Bukachi had to cope with and this increase had necessitated the immediate rostering of other instructors to assist him. This letter was dated 24th January, 1973 and reads as follows:

"I refer to your letter RAU/7/1, Vol. 11/8, dated 8th March, 1972, and regret the delay in finalizing this investigation into Mr. Bukachi's claim for payment of duty allowance which reveals that when this Corporation commenced training Division IIB clerks/assistant station masters in telegraphy in January 1968, there was a noticeable increase in the volume of work which Mr. Bukachi had to cope with and this increase necessitated the immediate rostering of other instructors to assist him. There were no special duties involved at all and his claim for payment of duty allowance could therefore not be justified."

The Claimants strongly submitted that there was no doubt that Mr. Bukachi carried out special and additional duties and that he was therefore entitled to the payment of duty allowance as claimed.

The Respondents have strongly resisted this demand and referred to Staff Regulations E2 (a) which reads as follows:

"Duty allowance may at the discretion of the General Manager be granted to an employee in respect of the performance of special duties. Such allowance will not normally be payable when the employee is on leave, or sick, or in any other case where he is not actually performing the special duties."

They stressed that it was quite clear that duty allowance was to be paid at the discretion of the General Manager and that there could be no negotiation on this matter.

In any case they pointed out that the principle governing payment of duty allowance had been based on whether the additional duties performed have involved greater responsibilities and had been more onerous than those attached to the employee's substantive post and grade or if the duties performed have been of a special nature. They stated that there was only one established post of telecommunications instructor Grade RB II and its substantive holder was Mr. Bukachi. They said that there was no evidence that Mr. Bukachi had worked beyond normal working hours applicable to his post and if there was an increase in the volume of his work he was assisted by other instructors. They admitted that an additional instructor was posted to the training school but it was a post of an assistant telecommunications instructor which was established on 22nd July, 1970, which was a lower grade than Mr. Bukachi's substantive grade.

The Court has very carefully considered the various points which the Claimants have put forward on behalf of Mr. Bukachi and finds that the fact that he also taught class number 15 in addition to his own class does not mean that he was doing either special or more responsible duties. Admittedly he did more work than his normal routine but the Court has to decide if for this reason alone the Respondents' General Manager can be found to have exercised his discretion unreasonably in rejecting Mr. Bukachi's claim. The Court has to take into account that Mr. Bukachi performed these alleged onerous duties within the working hours for him because if he had worked beyond the normal working hours then he would have been entitled to overtime payment. The Court has also been referred to the fact that Mr. Bukachi got accelerated promotion to RB I thus skipping four RB II increments because of his good performance.

Notwithstanding the fact that this dispute originally started against the now defunct E.A. Railways and Harbours Corporation and is now about 11 years old the Court has carefully evaluated all the documentary evidence that was produced by the parties but can't be persuaded to find that the General Manager's refusal to pay duty allowance to Mr. Bukachi under the circumstances of this dispute amounts to an unreasonable exercise of discretion. The Court may add that there must be very strong and exceptional grounds for the Court to force an officer at whose sole discretion certain acts are to be done to order such an officer to exercise his discretion one way or the other. In the present case there are no such special reasons that can warrant the Court to interfere in the decision of the General Manager which was at his sole discretion. Apart from the fact that the Claimants have been very persistent all these years in pursuing this case the Court finds that there is no merit in their demand and their claim is accordingly rejected.

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE No. 46 OF 1981

Parties:
Kenya Management Staff Association
and
Economic Housing Group Ltd.

Issue in dispute:

Dismissal of Julius E. Mwasimba.

1. The Kenya Management Staff Association shall hereinafter be referred to as the Claimants and Economic Housing Group Ltd. shall hereinafter be referred to as the Respondents.

2. The parties were heard in Nairobi on 22nd and 28th October, 1981, and in addition to relying on their written and verbal submissions called the following witnesses to give evidence on oath:

Claimants.—J. E. Mwasimba.

Respondents.—C. L. Bengough.

AWARD

3. The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 4th February, 1980, duly signed by the parties was received by the Court on 17th July, 1981, together with the statutory certificates signed by the Minister for Labour and the Labour Commissioner.

Mr. Mwasimba was employed by the Respondents on 1st June, 1976 and by 1st January, 1979, he was earning Sh. 1,700 p.m. The Respondents claim that he deserted his employment between 26th, 27th February and 12th March 1979, when he refused to report at their Naivasha factory on return from leave as he had been transferred to that place. This is the central issue in dispute as there is no letter of dismissal which was addressed to him by the Respondents. The letter of 12th March, 1979, reads:

"We refer to our letter 31st January, 1979, instructing you to report to our factory in Nyandarua District for duty at the termination of your leave on 26th February, 1979, and to the fact that you refused to carry out the instruction and have in fact absented yourself from duty on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, 27th and 28th and 1st March and are still absent today, Monday, 12th March, 1979. Under these circumstances we have no alternative but to regard you as having deserted."

The Court is satisfied on the evidence before it that on 27th February, 1979, Mr. Mwasimba reported to the Claimants re his alleged transfer and/or termination and a Claimants' representative spoke to the Respondents' C. L. Bengough. The Claimants alleged that Mr. Bengough refused to meet them which Mr. Bengough denied but the fact remains that on the same date the Claimants reported a trade dispute to the Minister for Labour on the issue of Mr. Mwasimba's dismissal. The Ministry carried out an investigation and found that the Respondents had frustrated and humiliated Mr. Mwasimba by downgrading him to the level of an office messenger and this was a clever device to either make him tender him own resignation or desert his employment. The Ministry recommended that he should be paid one month's pay in lieu of notice and four months' salary as compensation for loss of employment.

The Respondents rejected the finding and recommendation and the matter is now before the Court.

Mr. Mwasimba started his employment with the Respondents as an assistant to both the furniture and housing managers as his duties included in addition to general assistant, sales and marketing and administration. In his letter of employment dated 11th May, 1976, it was stated that he would be provided with a house at the factory. On 1st March, 1978, his terms and duties were reviewed and he was given a detailed job description of sales assistant and administrative assistant. Notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Bengough told the Court that they were a small enterprise at the time and worked as a team the Court finds that Mr. Mwasimba's duties were fairly onerous and responsible. The Court is satisfied on the documentary evidence that was produced during the hearing that Mr. Mwasimba rendered good service to the Respondents and received periodic salary increases although when he was transferred to Nairobi from Naivasha on 1st November, 1977, the Respondents did not provide him with a house or pay him house allowance in lieu thereof. He was, however, given a wage increase of Sh. 300 with effect from 1st January, 1978, but in the letter conveying this to Mr. Mwasimba there is no mention that his salary was consolidated.

Mr. Mwasimba while based at Nairobi was to proceed on leave from 1st February to 14th February, 1979, for 24 days. He filled an application form and on that form in the column of remarks it is stated as follows:

"To be paid 24 days' leave pay and Sh. 360 train allowance for himself and his wife from Nairobi-Kaimosi and return."

Mr. Mwasimba stated that after his arrival from leave he reported for duty on 26th February and started working. After sometime Mr. Bengough came and told him to pack the work he was doing at the headquarters and go to Naivasha. He claimed that he was told to go to Naivasha at his own expense and that Mr. Bengough ordered him out from the office.

Mr. Bengough stated that on 31st January, 1979, he wrote a letter to Mr. Mwasimba confirming that on his return from leave on 26th February, 1979, he should report to Mr. Njau at the factory where he was being reposted and would be housed and that his duties would remain as already established. There is no evidence at all that this letter was received by Mr. Mwasimba other than a handwritten note by Mr. Bengough in the following works:

"I hereby certify that this letter was handed by me personally to Mr. Mwasimba on 31st January, 1979, prior to his departure for leave."

Mr. Mwasimba vigorously denied having ever received this letter. The fact, however, remains that even if this letter was given to him it was only a day before he was due to go on leave. This of course is not the best way of organizing transfers of employees which necessitate uprooting them from one station to another. The Court has carefully considered the evidence on the question of Mr. Mwasimba's transfer and finds on balance of probability based on the fact that the management have made no mention of transfer in the remarks column when his application for leave was approved and on the grave doubts the Court has on whether the letter of 31st January, 1979, was delivered to him, that Mr. Mwasimba was not aware that he had been transferred to the factory prior to going on leave. The Court would expect that the signature of the person to whom the letter is addressed is obtained as proof of having received it or is handed to the person concerned in the presence of witnesses. The Respondents did not call any person to support the evidence of Mr. Bengough on this particular point.

The Court therefore finds that Mr. Mwasimba reported for work on 27th February and he was told to go to the factory. Here again the Court finds that the Respondents should have made proper arrangements for him to be transported to Naivasha but they just ordered him out and told him that he should find his own way to the factory and that if he did not do so then their relationship would end.

The Court has very carefully considered this whole dispute and finds that the Respondents did not act normally on Mr. Mwasimba's transfer to their factory and the way he was told to go on transfer was obviously meant to embarrass him. Mr. Mwasimba reported for duty on 27th February and because the employers failed to give him proper instructions on transfer backing up with payment of expenses to enable him to go there the Court finds that Mr. Mwasimba did not desert employment. There is clear evidence that that very day he reported to his trade union, i.e. the Claimants on his predicament. The Court having found that he did not desert is left with no alternative but to find that the Respondents did not allow him to resume duty when he came back from leave and are therefore deemed to have dismissed him.

The Court finds that Mr. Mwasimba has suffered a wrongful dismissal. The Claimants had demanded that he should be paid Sh. 23,026.40 made up as follows:

	Sh.
"1 month's salary in lieu of notice	1,700.00
4 months' pay compensation for wrongful termination	6,800.00
16 months' house allowance November 1977 February 1979	6,400.00
16 months' transport allowance November 1977 to February 1979	2,400.00
4 days pay in February 1979	226.40
Subsistence expenses for February 1979	400.00
3. months' salary in lieu of notice	5,100.00
	<hr/> 23,026.40"

This they later modified and after the hearing demand his reinstatement!

The Court is not inclined to award Mr. Mwasimba reinstatement and as is obvious from the Claimants' aforesaid demand they are asking for four months' salary in lieu of notice which again the Court finds unreasonable. The Court awards that the Respondents should pay Mr. Mwasimba seven months' salary by way of compensation; this compensation includes any salary in lieu of notice for his termination. This would amount to Sh. 11,900. In addition to this the Court finds that Mr. Mwasimba is also entitled to be paid house allowance for 16 months when he lived in Nairobi on transfer and the Court awards that this should be at the rate of Sh. 255 p.m. making in all a sum of Sh. 4,080. The Court rejects the Claimants' all other demands. Mr. Mwasimba is entitled to a sum of Sh. 15,980 under this Court award which the Respondents should pay him forthwith.

Given in Nairobi on the 7th December, 1981.

GAZETTE NOTICE No. 3826

THE TRADE MARKS ACT

(Cap. 506)

NOTICE is given that any person who has grounds of opposition to the registration of any of the trade marks advertised herein according to the classes may, within 60 days from the date of this Gazette, lodge notice of opposition on Form T.M. No. 6 (in duplicate) together with a fee of Sh. 50.

Notice is also given that official objection will be taken under rule 21 (3) to all applications in which the specification claims all the goods included in any class unless the Registrar is satisfied that the claim is justified by the use of the mark which the applicant has made, or intends to make if and when it is registered. Where an applicant considers that a claim in respect of all the goods included in a class can be justified it will save unnecessary delay in examining applications if a claim is filed simultaneously with the application, accompanied in appropriate cases by supporting documents.

The period for lodging notice of opposition may be extended by the Registrar as he thinks fit and upon such terms as he may direct. Any request for such extension should be made to the Registrar so as to reach him before the expiry of the period allowed.

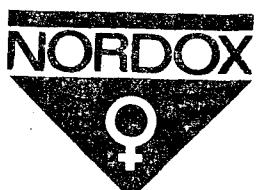

Formal opposition should not be lodged until after reasonable notice has been given by letter to the applicant for registration so as to afford him any opportunity of withdrawing his application before the expense of preparing the notice of opposition is incurred. Failure to give such notice will be taken into account in considering any application by an opponent for an order for costs if the opposition is uncontested by the applicant.

Where it is stated in the advertisement of the applicant that the mark, upon its registration, is to be limited to certain colours, the colours are, as far as possible, indicated in the accompanying representations of the mark in the usual heraldic manner.

Representations of the marks advertised herein can be seen at the Trade Marks Registry, State Law Office, Nairobi.
