THE ENVIRONMENTAL MANAGEMENT AND

(No. 8 of 1999)

IN THE NATIONAL ENVIRONMENT TRIBUNAL AT NAIROBI

TRIBUNAL APPEAL NO. NET/05/2005 OF 2005

A.T. KAMINCHIA—(Appellant)

VERSUS

NATIONAL ENVIRONMENT MANAGEMENT
AUTHORITY—(First Respondent)

M/S BELL WAYS GARDEN LIMITED—(Second Respondent)

RULING

1. By a Notice of Appeal dated 10th November 2005, the Appellant herein, being the proprietor of land parcel number L.R. 2/138 located along Kirichwa Kubwa river in Kileleshwa, Nairobi, appealed against NEMA's decision authorizing the Second Respondent to construct a perimeter wall along the bank of the river on land parcel number L.R. 209/8875, which is located adjacent to the Appellant's property on the opposite side of the river.

2. In the said Notice, the Appellant gave the following grounds of appeal:

- (a) That the perimeter wall constructed by the 2nd Respondent adjacent to his land along the river bank was going to obstruct the natural flow of the river and that during the rainy season when the river swells and overflows its banks, the stone wall would force the river to change its course and encroach onto his land and this was likely to cause permanent and irreparable damage.
- (b) The Appellant further averred that by letter dated 2nd September 2005, he requested NEMA, the 1st Respondent to investigate the 2nd Respondent's development of the said perimeter wall and in response, NEMA issued a Stop Order on 7th September 2005 instructing the 2nd Respondent not to interfere with the river bank and to allow a riparian wayleave of six meters measured from high water-mark, but the 2nd Respondent totally ignored NEMA's Stop Order and NEMA had been unable to enforce the Stop Order.
- (c) The Appellant also asserted that the 2nd Respondent had not complied with the six metre riparian wayleave provided for in the architectural drawings which they submitted to Nairobi City Council for approval.
- 3. On the basis of his averments, the Appellant requested the Tribunal, under Section 129 (3) of the Environmental Management and Co-ordination Act, hereinafter, EMCA, to confirm the Stop Order issued by NEMA and enforce it, and secondly award him costs of the appeal.

4. In response to the Appellant's allegations, the 2nd Respondent filed its Reply on 22nd December, 2005 admitting that they are the owners of plot No. L.R. 209/8875 and that they were in the process of developing it and that after constructing three courses of the disputed perimeter wall on the side facing the Appellant's land, they received a complaint from the Appellant's employee that they were constructing the wall too close to the River. At that point, the 2nd Respondent averred, they invited City Council of Nairobi area representative, a Mr. Wamugi, who advised them to stop developing the perimeter wall on the lower side of Blocks C and D on grounds that it would divert the course of the river, it was also on the river bed. Subsequently, they moved the wall to the position where it was at the time of the Appellant's complaint.

5. The 2nd Respondent further stated that two weeks after relocating the wall, they were visited by NEMA's area representatives, Ms. Immaculate Simiyu and Mr. Patrick Adiva who advised that they move the wall further inside (away from the river) after negotiating the first corner where the river makes a sharp bend and stop further construction in an area where they had already dug the wall foundation. The NEMA representatives also advised that further construction of the wall would resume once they inspected the new wall foundation trench and approved it. On this basis, the 2nd Respondent stopped construction of the disputed part of the perimeter wall and sought advice from the Provincial Director of Environment, NEMA, Mr. Orina. The 2nd Respondent stated that Mr. Orina visited their site and also advised that part of the area proposed for the perimeter wall be moved further inside, away from where the 2nd Respondent had dug the foundation and instructed that he should be notified once the 2nd Respondent dug the new trench to give his approval before construction of the wall resumed. The 2nd Respondent looked forward to an agreeable solution to the contention regarding the portion of the perimeter wall whose location was not acceptable to the Appellant.

6. The 1st Respondent stated in response that in accordance with Environmental Impact Assessment Regulations of 2003, the 2nd Respondent did submit an environmental impact Assessment Project Report on 1st April 2005 and subsequently, the 1st Respondent issued an Environmental Impact Assessment (E.I.A.) licence on 15th July, 2005. However, when the Appellant's complaint about the 2nd Respondent's development of the perimeter wall was received, the 1st Respondent issued a Stop Order dated 7th September 2005 requiring the 2nd Respondent to stop interfering with the bank of Kirichwa Kubwa River and to allow a six metre riparian wayleave measured from the high watermark. The 2nd Respondent was further directed that the development of any structure which did not meet the distance required by the 1st Respondent would be an offence with serious consequences. The 1st Respondent maintained that the Stop Order it issued was still in effect and any contrary action by the 2nd Respondent was a violation of the law. The 1st Respondent requested the Tribunal to uphold the Stop Order, direct the 2nd Respondent to maintain a six-metre riparian wayleave, measured from the high flood water mark and permit it to follow up enforcement of its order through relevant channels.

7. The Tribunal visited the site on 27th February, 2006 to be acquainted with the property in question. Subsequently, the parties measured the distances and reached agreement to demolish parts of the wall in question that were not in compliance with applicable laws to satisfy the Appellant. However, the Tribunal considered that there were broader environmental issues beyond the Appellant's interest and allowed the appeal to proceed.

8. After the Tribunal's visit, the Appellant and his lawyer, Mr. Momanyi, Ms. Immaculate Simiyu representing the 1st Respondent and both Mr. Samuel Ndirangu, Mr. S.S. Devgun representing the 2nd Respondent and Mr. David Nyika, a surveyor and environmental audit expert, visited the site and took measurements of the distance between the perimeter wall and the river. After the visit, they submitted, by agreement, to the Tribunal Minutes of 6th March 2005 taken on site together with a sketch map showing measurements of the distance between the wall in question and the River, taken at various points along the river. It was agreed that a section of the wall marked "A" to "F" on the sketch map be demolished and a new wall be constructed along a line agreed by the parties.

9. The matter was subsequently heard on six occasions between February 27 and April 26, 2006. At the hearing, the Appellant was represented by Mr. Mohnayi of Mithega & Company Advocates; the 1st Respondent by Ms. Anne Angwenyi and the 2nd Respondent by Mr. Muoki of Muoki & Company Advocates. A total of nine witnesses testified, including the Appellant himself; Ms. Immaculate Simiyu and Benjamin Langwen for the 1st Respondent; Mr. Samuel Gaitungu, Samuel Ndirangu, Benson Kathenge and Danish Vadgama for the 2nd Respondent and both Mr. John Barreh from Nairobi City Council and George Arwa from the Ministry of Lands, Survey Department as amicus curiae.

10. In his evidence, the Appellant stated that he was the owner of land parcel Number L.R. 2/138 which lies along Kiricha Kubwa River and adjacent to the 2nd Respondent's land reference Number 209/8875 on the opposite side of the River. His contention was that the 2nd Respondent had constructed a portion of a perimeter wall on the Respondent's said property too close to the river and in violation of applicable laws and that he, the Appellant, stood to suffer because the wall was likely to obstruct the flow of the River, especially during the rainy season and this would cause erosion and flooding of his property and he would suffer irreparable damage.

11. Further, the Appellant submitted photographs marked Annex ATK 6 (a) - 6 (j) taken after heavy rains, showing that after it had rained heavily the day before he took the photographs, portions of the 2nd Respondent's wall that had been constructed close to the river diverted water and caused flooding and erosion of his land. He maintained that the 2nd Respondent failed to observe a six metre riparian reserve as required by the Physical Planning Act and Nairobi City Council's Building Code.

12. The 1st Respondent called Ms. Immaculate Simiyu, District Environment Officer, Westlands and Mr. Benjamin Langwen, Deputy Director, Compliance and Enforcement. The witnesses testified that upon receipt of an Environmental Impact Assessment Project Report from the 1st Respondent, an E.I.A. licence was issued on 15th July, 2005. Subsequently and upon receipt of complaint from the 2nd Respondent, NEMA issued a Stop Order in recognition that failure to leave a six-metre riparian wayleave would have drastic negative consequences on the Appellant's land. Ms. Immaculate Simiyu, the District Environment Officer also visited the site on various occasions, held discussions with the 2nd Respondent's agents on site, took measurements and having found that sections of the perimeter wall in question went beyond the riparian wayleave, advised the 2nd Respondent that a six-metre riparian wayleave must be maintained and asked them to stop construction of sections of the wall that went beyond the riparian wayleave and to stop interfering with the river. The witnesses maintained that in disregard of the 1st Respondent's Stop Order, the 2nd Respondent proceeded to construct the wall very close to the river bank, with some sections being as close as one metre from the edge of the river.

13. For the 1st Respondent, Mr. Gaitungu, the E.I.A. Expert stated in evidence that he is the one who prepared the E.I.A. Project Report and that in the Report, he recommended a six-metre riparian wayleave, which had also been provided for in the approved development plans. However, he did not indicate the point from where the riparian wayleave would be measured. He admitted that upon visiting the 2nd Respondent's site subsequent to his report, he noted that some sections of the perimeter wall did not adhere to his recommendations.

14. The 2nd Respondent also called Mr. Samuel Ndirangu, its Site Manager, who testified that he was in charge of overseeing the development. He denied having received a Stop Order from the 1st Respondent and stated that in deciding where the perimeter wall would be located, measurements were taken from the centre line of the river by a contractor and not a qualified surveyor. Mr. Ndirangu confirmed to the Tribunal that he was an accountant and not a qualified surveyor.

15. The 2nd Respondent also called Mr. Benson Kathenge, who presented himself as a land surveyor working with Geomatics Survey. He testified that upon request by the 2nd Respondent, he visited the site in question and took a topographical map of plot Number 209/8875 to present the relation between Kiricha Kubwa River and the perimeter wall. However, the sketch he submitted was not certified as required by the Survey Act and therefore, the Tribunal discounted it.

16. The last witness for the 2nd Respondent, Mr. Danish Vadgama, initially presented himself as an architect but in evidence, admitted that he was a draftsman who worked with Rambaldo Associates and that he was the one who prepared the 2nd Respondent's development plans. He stated that in his work as a draftsman, he has always provided for six-metre riparian wayleaves from the centre of the river and a perimeter wall and that his plans have always been approved. He admitted that his advice on a six-metre riparian wayleave is not based on any legislation but that that is how he has always done things. Further, he admitted that he had never heard of an environmental impact assessment report and did not participate in the development of the one submitted to NEMA on behalf of the 2nd Respondent. The evidence he tendered added no value to the testimony already adduced for the 2nd Respondent as it did not clarify the matter concerning the point from which the riparian wayleave should be or was measured.

17. The dispute in the Appeal narrows down to where one begins to measure the six-metre riparian wayleave – middle of the river, or high water mark? All the parties agreed on a six-metre riparian wayleave but there was no agreement on where the six metres should be measured from. This necessitated evidence of two expert public officers; one, Mr. John Barreh, Acting assistant director, Nairobi City Council and Mr. George Arwa from the Ministry of Lands, Survey of Kenya Department.

18. Mr. George Arwa testified that the 2nd Respondent requested the Director of Survey on 10th April, 2006 for a topographical map indicating: the width of Kiricha Kubwa River, the distance from the centre of the river to the boundary wall in question, the distance from the boundary wall to the edge of the river and any other information that may assist the Tribunal in determining the matter. Upon receipt of the request, Mr. Arwa visited the 2nd Respondent's site and took various measurements which he used to prepare a topographical map marked "GD4" and a report marked "DG4A" both of which were submitted to the Tribunal. The map indicates that in many sections, the 2nd Respondent did not observe the 6 metre riparian wayleave as indicated in the 1st Respondent's E.I.A. Project Report.

19. Mr. Arwa also testified that the Survey of Kenya indicates the boundary of the plot in question to be the centre of the river for purposes of ownership. However, this did not mean that one could develop a plot in disregard of development laws. He stated that the centre line is just the boundary and that for practical purposes, measurement of the riparian wayleave should begin from the high water mark and not the center line of the river.

20. Further, Mr. Arwa testified that the map marked BGL3 produced by a Mr. Obel for the 2nd Respondent was merely a sketch drawing and did not provide sufficient topographical information, including geo-references and grid values, all of which were necessary in developing a topographical map.

21. Mr. Arwa's evidence was supported by the evidence adduced by Mr. John Barreh that the 2nd Respondent's boundary wall violates approval of a six-metre riparian wayleave and that for practical purposes, the riparian wayleave should be measured from the high water mark.

22. Mr. Barreh testified that under the physical planning regulations, the riparian wayleave requirement is a minimum of 3 metres and that the length of the wayleave varies, depending on the width of a river and in all cases, must be a minimum of 3 metres. He stated that it is not practical to measure the riparian wayleave from the centre of a river because the centre line is relevant only for purposes of determining a property boundary.

23. Mr. Barreh also testified that he visited the 2nd Respondent's site and took measurements of the distance between the riparian wall and the edge of the river at various points and found that in many places, the wall extended beyond 6 metres, from the high water mark. He stated that the Nairobi City Council approved the 2nd Respondent's development plan which indicated that the six-metre riparian wayleave would be measured from the center line of Kirichwa Kubwa River, but this must have been an oversight on the part of the approving officer because approvals of development plans are granted on the basis that for practical purposes, the riparian wayleave is measured from the high water mark. He stated that any errors or oversights on the part of the Council can be corrected any time before completion of development.

24. Mr. Barreh stated that once a six-metre riparian wayleave has been approved, a developer can no longer rely on the 3 metre minimum distance. In the case of the 2nd Respondent's development in question, he observed that because of the close proximity of the wall to the river, when it rained, water went up the wall by between 1-2 feet as shown by discolouration on the wall and the debris. He further stated that with water rising to such high levels, if the perimeter wall is allowed to stay where it is, in time, it would negatively affect property lying adjacent to the river on the opposite side through river erosion and flooding.

25. From the evidence tendered by all parties, it was common ground that a 6 (six) metre riparian wayleave ought to be maintained. Indeed, planning permission for the development was granted on this basis. The issue in dispute related to the point from which to measure the six metres. The Respondent maintained that the six metre riparian wayleave is to be measured from the centre line of the river while the Appellant maintained that it ought to be measured from the high water mark.

26. In support of its contention that the six metre riparian wayleave is to be measured from the center line of the river, the Respondent pointed out that the boundary of the land extended to the centre line of the river. The Respondent produced before the Tribunal Title Deed Grant Number I.R. 31633 L.R No. 209/8875 with Deed Plan No. 03338 dated 11th October 1977 annexed, which states clearly that the "boundary is centerline of the river." The 2nd Respondent further adduced evidence which seemed to suggest that the practice within the building industry in Kenya was to measure the six metre riparian wayleave from the center line of the river.

27. The 1st Respondent for his part maintained that to measure the six metre riparian reserve from the center line of the river would not be practicable. Depending on the width of the river, the six metre riparian reserve might end up still lying within the river bed, particularly during heavy floods when the river overflowed its banks. The Appellants adduced evidence which showed that the Kirichwa Kubwa was prone to swell in size during floods, when its width would expand beyond 12 metres.

28. The Tribunal has considered the various contentions. It is correct to say that, in law, the boundary of a riparian owner's land is measured from the centre line of the river. But that is for purposes of ascertaining the extent of the riparian owner's landownership. The Tribunal notes that there is no dispute in the Appeal about ownership of the 2nd Respondent's property in question. What is at issue is, first, use to which one could make of a six metre riparian wayleave. The legal position is that the fact that the riparian owner owns the land up to the centre line of the river does not, in and of itself, give him the right to utilize the portion of his land that falls within the river. Statute has intervened to restrict the extent to which riparian owner can utilize that part of his land that constitutes the river bed. The provision of a riparian reserve in various statutes, among them the Agriculture Act, Chapter 318, as well as in local authority by-laws, is a clear example of this restriction.

29. The second contentious issue is the point from which it should be measured – middle of the river, edge of a river or high water mark? All the parties agreed to a six-metre riparian wayleave but there was no agreement on where the six metres should be measured from. Therefore, as stated above, the matter goes beyond the interest of the parties. In determining the point from which to measure the six metre riparian reserve, account must be taken of the objective sought to be achieved by defining the riparian reserve: it is to protect the river environment and two, what the environmental impact of use of a river bank would be. Consequently, where a six metre riparian reserve measured from the centre line of the river would place the riparian reserve within the river bed, even if only during wet seasons, the riparian landowner is not at liberty to make use of the land immediately falling outside the six metre riparian wayleave measured from the centre line of the river but still lying within the river bed, without taking into consideration the relevant laws that protect the riverine environment.

30. In this respect it is noteworthy that section 42 (1) of the Environmental Management and Co-ordination Act, 1999, states that no person is permitted to (a) erect, place, alter, extend structure in or under the river or interfere with a river; (b) excavate, drill, tunnel, or disturb the river; and (f) direct or block any river from its natural and normal course" without an E.I.A. licence. Further, section 94 (1) of the Water Act, 2002, states that "no person shall, without authority under the Act, willfully obstruct, interfere with, divert, or abstract water from any watercourse or any water resource or negligently allow any such obstruction, interference, diversion or abstraction.

31. The Tribunal has perused the E.I.A. licence that was granted in this case, and is satisfied that it did not contemplate interference with the watercourse. Paragraph 3.1.4 (Hydrology) of the 2nd Respondent's Environmental Impact Assessment Project Report upon which the E.I.A. licence was based states that "The river is not expected to be interfered with in any way. A six metre riparian wayleave has been availed." In the Tribunal's view, that wayleave must be placed at a point where any structures next to it do not interfere with the river in any way. From the pictures and other evidence adduced, it was clear that the disputed perimeter wall was already interfering with the normal flow of the river. In any case, such interference, without a permit issued by the Water Resources Management Authority under the Water Act, 2002, would be a breach of the provisions of the Water Act, 2002.

32. On the basis of the matters specified above, the Tribunal unanimously rules that:

- (a) The 2nd Respondent should observe the 1st Respondent's E.I.A. licence requirement of a six-metre riparian reserve, measured from the high water mark.
- (b) The perimeter wall in question should be demolished and if rebuilt, should meet the six-metre riparian wayleave required, measured from the high water mark.
- (c) Each party shall bear their own costs.

33. The Tribunal draws attention of the parties to section 130 of EMCA.
