GAZETTE NOTICE No. 224

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE NO. 36 OF 1970

Parties:—

Kenya Engineering Workers' Union
and
Small Engineering Group

Issue in dispute:—

Two weeks' severance pay under redundancy clause.

1. The Kenya Engineering Workers' Union shall hereinafter be referred to as the Claimants and the Small Engineering Group shall hereinafter be referred to as the Respondents.

2. The parties were heard in Mombasa on the 30th day of December 1970, and relied on their written and verbal submissions.

AWARD

3. The Respondents in this dispute are the following companies:—

1. National Engineering Works.
2. Universal Engineering Company.
3. O.K. Engineering Works.
4. Coast Engineering Works.
5. Pitrola Welding Works.
6. Station Engineering Works.
7. Asodia Steel Fabricators.
8. Mombasa Welding Works.
9. Blacksmith Lalji.
10. D. V. Vadgama.
11. Jail Engineering Works.
12. Marino Engineering Works..
13. Mombasa Tinsmith.

The Court was informed that Pitrola Welding Works and D. V. Vadgama had ceased their business activities.

The dispute has arisen as a result of negotiations which were conducted between the parties when they were revising the agreement covering wages and terms and conditions of employment of the Respondents' employees, which expired on 31st March 1969.

The Claimants forwarded their demands to the Respondents on 9th May 1969, and during the meetings which took place agreement was reached on all items including wages. The Respondents agreed to grant every employee a flat wage increase of Sh. 25 p.m. with effect from 1st June 1970.

Since the parties had resorted to conciliation through the Ministry of Labour, the parties requested the conciliator to prepare a draft agreement incorporating all the items which they had agreed. The conciliator prepared an agreement and called the parties to a meeting on 10th September 1970, but the Respondents objected to clause 14 covering redundancy on the ground that they had at no time agreed on any payments of severance pay on redundancy. Since the parties could not agree on this item they signed the Notification of Dispute Form "A" referring this matter to the Industrial Court for adjudication.

The Claimants stated that this group of employers exploited the workers as they were accustomed to getting cheap labour by declaring their permanent employees redundant and then employing them as casual labourers. They submitted to the Court a list showing the number of permanent and casual employees working for the various members of the Respondents' group. The Respondents, however, challenged these figures pointing out that the number of casual employees working for them ranged from one to 10 and that also occasionally depending on the amount of work, as against the Claimants' figures of four to 15 throughout the year.

The Claimants submitted that the only way to safeguard the long years of service of a worker was to require the Respondents to pay two weeks' wages for every completed year of service by way of severance pay on redundancy because these employers made exorbitant profits by declaring their workers redundant thereby minimizing their labour expenses. They asked the Court to make an award as put forward by them whereby they had asked for various provisions under the headings of Definition, Alternative Employment, Consultation, Selection of Redundant Employees, Re-engagement and Entitlement of Redundant Employees. On the last item the Claimants demanded two weeks' severance pay for every completed year of service.

The Respondents submitted that they had agreed to a Sh. 25 wage increase p.m. on the clear understanding that they would not be required to entail any further financial burden. They strenuously denied that they exploited their workers and complained that after they had trained their workers for several years these workers were in the habit of just leaving the employment without any cause or reason. Contrary to what the Claimants had stated, the Respondents were anxious to retain these workers in their employment as they had spent a considerable amount of money and time on training them. The Respondents pointed out that they were not big companies and that they relied mainly on minor repair work and at times making items like grills, etc. They protested strongly at the Claimants' demands which they said kept on increasing every year and which they were finding very difficult to meet. They asked the Court to take into account that they did not have a definite income and they had to work very hard to make both ends meet. Finally they submitted that during conciliation the Claimants had agreed that the redundancy clause should be deleted and that when the agreement was to be signed the Claimants backed out and insisted that the redundancy clause should be included in the agreement.

The Court notes that the conciliator had drafted the redundancy clause in the agreement which he had prepared at the request of the parties and after a careful consideration of all the submissions made by the parties, the Court awards the following redundancy clause:—

For the purpose of this agreement, redundancy shall mean loss of employment through no fault of an employee subject to following the principle of last in first out. Both parties agree to consult one another for the purpose of meeting and discussing the intended redundancy.

It is further agreed that the redundancy employees shall get one week's pay each for every completed year of service prior to leaving the company and that the redundant employees shall be given the first preference for re-engagement by the companies should some vacancies arise.

Given in Nairobi this 25th day of January 1970.

GAZETTE NOTICE No. 225

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE No. 37 OF 1970

Parties:—

Domestic and Hotel Workers' Union andH.H. the Aga Khan Hospital and
Pandya Memorial Clinic of Mombasa

Issue in dispute:—

Respondents.—Whether or to what extent the Respondents are obliged to grant retrospective wage increases.Claimants.—Failure by the Respondents to implement concluded agreement fully.

1. The Domestic and Hotel Workers' Union shall hereinafter be referred to as the Claimants and H.H. the Aga Khan Hospital and Pandya Memorial Clinic shall hereinafter be referred to as the Respondents.

2. The parties were heard in Mombasa on the 28th day of December 1970 and relied on their written and verbal submissions.

AWARD

3. The facts leading up to this dispute are that the agreement between the parties laying down the terms and conditions of employment of the Respondents' employees, signed on 3rd April 1967, effective from 1st September 1966, for a period of 18 months, expired on 28th February 1968.

The Claimants having forwarded their demands for revising it, Joint Negotiating Committee (J.N.C.) meetings were held on 29th March, 24th April, 10th June and 28th June 1968. There was a substantial measure of agreements at these stages of negotiation.

There is clear evidence from the minutes as recorded, that agreement was reached on part of the issue of wages at the meeting held on 25th April 1968. The relevant minute being 28/68/1—Wages:—

(a) It was agreed that the consolidated minimum wages shall be as follows—
(i) Female employees Sh. 170 p.m.
(ii) Male employees Sh. 205 p.m."

On 25th June 1968, full agreement was reached on the issue of wages. It was also recorded on that date that the "Duration of Agreement and Effective Date" are to be negotiated. On 28th June 1968, the parties agreed as follows on these items:—

"There was a long discussion regarding the desirability of having a three-year agreement with increases after 18 months, but as agreement could not be reached on the amount of such increases, it was agreed finally that a duration period of 18 months only from 1st April 1968, should be observed."

Despite agreement having been reached on all the items except one of "Service Gratuity", no agreement was signed by the parties. Negotiations on "Service Gratuity" broke down on 25th July 1968.

The parties then embarked on resolving this issue alone which ended up in the Industrial Court vide Cause No. 7/69. The Court announced its award on 25th April 1969, and ruled that since the parties had themselves decided and agreed in the 1963 agreement that any question of interpretation of any clauses of their agreement would be referred to the Senior Labour Officer, Coast Province, whose decision in the matter would be final, they should refer the matter to him. The Court made it clear that the Senior Labour Officer, Coast Province, should look into the matter personally and give his ruling.

The Respondents informed the Court during the hearing that they wasted no time in setting the machinery in motion with a view to getting the Senior Labour Officer's ruling but unfortunately he did not give his ruling until 22nd May 1970. The Respondents stated that much to their amazement, the ruling was against them and was contrary to the previous written views of certain officials of the Ministry of Labour at Mombasa. They had protested at the ruling but nothing came out of it.

It is to be observed that in the meantime no action had been taken to formalize and implement the agreement on the other items like wages on which the parties had agreed. There is no doubt that at least since 1963 the parties have always followed up their agreed decisions in J.N.C. meetings with a formal agreement. There is, however, no formal agreement this time as the issue of "Service Gratuity" could not be finalized until late May 1970. In fact the duration period of 18 months from 1st April 1968, is long past now.

There is no evidence whatsoever to suggest that the Claimants at any time asked the Respondents to implement at least those items on which agreement had been reached. They took no action until such time as the Respondents unilaterally decided to implement with effect from 1st April 1970, the wage increases which had been negotiated in June 1968. It was then that the Claimants woke up and asked for the items that had been agreed to be implemented with effect from 1st April 1968.

The Respondents very strongly submitted that the following position is established by the evidence:—

1. That the Respondents have no obligation to revise terms and conditions of employment for the period 1st April 1968 to 30th September 1969, in the absence of an agreement changing the terms applicable as at 31st August 1968.

2. That any negotiation which did take place applicable to the relevant period was based on a false premise and therefore any commitments are null and void."

The Respondents elaborated their second position by submitting that had they known that they would have to bear additional burden on the item of "Service Gratuity" they would not have agreed to the aforesaid wage increases. They maintained that they had agreed to the wage increases on the clear understanding that they would have to face no further additional burden by way of gratuity. In any case, they maintained that whatever was agreed during J.N.C. was not to be effective until a proper formal agreement was executed.

The Claimants on the other hand explained the lack of action on their part by saying that as far as they were concerned the money in respect of the wage increase negotiated by them was as good as money lying in the bank in the workers' accounts. They said that it was a common practice in the country that once an item was agreed in the negotiating committee meetings that was the end of it, and the parties were committed to fulfilling obligations under it.

The Court finds that there would be some merit in this submission had it not been for the fact that the parties have in the past always reduced their obligations agreed during J.N.C. meetings to a formal document prior to their implementation. This is further reinforced by the fact that the Claimants took no action whatsoever for the payment of the negotiated wage increase to the workers for nearly 21 months—from June 1968 to March 1970.

The Court notes that there was due, under the negotiated wage increase, a sum of nearly £5,500 to the workers for a period of 18 months from April 1968. The Court cannot understand the reason why the Claimants did not pursue this matter and left it in complete abeyance while the problem of "Service Gratuity" was being sorted out. The Court can come only to one conclusion and that is that the Claimants were fully aware that the items agreed could not be implemented until such time as they were incorporated in an agreement duly executed by both the parties. At the same time the Court is not prepared to accept the Respondents' submission that their offer and subsequent agreement on wage increases was part of a package deal. The Respondents negotiated a wage increase on its own merits. The question of the interpretation of "Service Gratuity" clause was an entirely different matter. It is just too bad for the Respondents that the Senior Labour Officer, Coast Province, has given a ruling against them—at least against one of them—as the Pandya Memorial Clinic have all along accepted the Claimants' interpretation of this clause.

The Court finds that a wage increase along with the other terms and conditions of employment was negotiated and agreed by the parties as far back as June 1968. Further that an agreement incorporating these wage increases and conditions could not be executed because there was a deadlock on the issue "Service Gratuity" which has been fully explained hereinbefore. The Claimants took no action to enforce the implementation of these items until sometime in April or May 1970, when the Respondents unilaterally implemented the wage increase they had negotiated in June 1968.

In view of the foregoing circumstances the Court is surprised that the parties could not agree on the wage increase and forwarded their respective versions. It is agreed on a wage increase, for its implementation remains that to award such an amount greatly offend the principles of equity. In this event, the Court will not allow workers of the Respondents unilaterally implemented the wage increase they had negotiated with the Respondents.

The Court has come to the conclusion that the wage increase have been negotiated and agreed by the parties and implemented with effect from 1st July 1968, should remain in force for a period of two years.

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT
CAUSE NO. 36 OF 1970

Parties:

Kenya Engineering Workers' Union
and
Small Engineering Group

Issue in dispute:—

Two weeks' severance pay under redundancy clause.

1. The Kenya Engineering Workers' Union shall hereinafter be referred to as the Claimants and the Small Engineering Group shall hereinafter be referred to as the Respondents.

2. The parties were heard in Mombasa on the 30th day of December 1970, and relied on their written and verbal submissions.

AWARD

3. The Respondents in this dispute are the following companies:—

1. National Engineering Works.

2. Universal Engineering Company.

3. O.K. Engineering Works.

4. Coast Engineering Works.

5. Pitrola Welding Works.

6. Station Engineering Works.

7. Asodia Steel Fabricators.

8. Mombasa Welding Works.

9. Blacksmith Lalji.

10. D. V. Vadgama.

11. Jail Engineering Works.

12. Marino Engineering Works.

13. Mombasa Tinsmith.

The Court was informed that Pitrola Welding Works and D. V. Vadgama had ceased their business activities.

The dispute has arisen as a result of negotiations which were conducted between the parties when they were revising the agreement covering wages and terms and conditions of employment of the Respondents' employees, which expired on 31st March 1969.

The Claimants forwarded their demands to the Respondents on 9th May 1969, and during the meetings which took place agreement was reached on all items including wages. The Respondents agreed to grant every employee a flat wage increase of Sh. 25 p.m. with effect from 1st June 1970.

Since the parties had resorted to conciliation through the Ministry of Labour, the parties requested the conciliator to prepare a draft agreement incorporating all the items which they had agreed. The conciliator prepared an agreement and called the parties to a meeting on 10th September 1970, but the Respondents objected to clause 14 covering redundancy on the ground that they had at no time agreed on any payments of severance pay on redundancy. Since the parties could not agree on this item they signed the Notification of Dispute Form "A" referring this matter to the Industrial Court for adjudication.

The Claimants stated that this group of employers exploited the workers as they were accustomed to getting cheap labour by declaring their permanent employees redundant and then employing them as casual labourers. They submitted to the Court a list showing the number of permanent and casual employees working for the various members of the Respondents' group. The Respondents, however, challenged these figures pointing out that the number of casual employees working for them ranged from one to 10 and that also occasionally depending on the amount of work, as against the Claimants' figures of four to 15 throughout the year.

The Claimants submitted that the only way to safeguard the long years of service of a worker was to require the Respondents to pay two weeks' wages for every completed year of service by way of severance pay on redundancy because these employers made exorbitant profits by declaring their workers redundant thereby minimizing their labour expenses. They asked the Court to make an award as put forward by them whereby they had asked for various provisions under the headings of Definition, Alternative Employment, Consultation, Selection of Redundant Employees, Re-engagement and Entitlement of Redundant Employees. On the last item the Claimants demanded two weeks' severance pay for every completed year of service.

The Respondents submitted that they had agreed to a Sh. 25 wage increase p.m. on the clear understanding that they would not be required to entail any further financial burden. They strenuously denied that they exploited their workers and complained that after they had trained their workers for several years these workers were in the habit of just leaving the employment without any cause or reason. Contrary to what the Claimants had stated, the Respondents were anxious to retain these workers in their employment as they had spent a considerable amount of money and time on training them. The Respondents pointed out that they were not big companies and that they relied mainly on minor repair work and at times making items like grills, etc. They protested strongly at the Claimants' demands which they said kept on increasing every year and which they were finding very difficult to meet. They asked the Court to take into account that they did not have a definite income and they had to work very hard to make both ends meet. Finally they submitted that during conciliation the Claimants had agreed that the redundancy clause should be deleted and that when the agreement was to be signed the Claimants backed out and insisted that the redundancy clause should be included in the agreement.

The Court notes that the conciliator had drafted the redundancy clause in the agreement which he had prepared at the request of the parties and after a careful consideration of all the submissions made by the parties, the Court awards the following redundancy clause:—

For the purpose of this agreement, redundancy shall mean loss of employment through no fault of an employee subject to following the principle of last in first out. Both parties agree to consult one another for the purpose of meeting and discussing the intended redundancy.

It is further agreed that the redundancy employees shall get one week's pay each for every completed year of service prior to leaving the company and that the redundant employees shall be given the first preference for re-engagement by the companies should some vacancies arise.

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE NO. 37 OF 1970

Parties:—

Domestic and Hotel Workers' Union
and
H.H. the Aga Khan Hospital and
Pandya Memorial Clinic of Mombasa

Issue in dispute:—

Respondents.—Whether or to what extent the Respondents are obliged to grant retrospective wage increases.

Claimants.—Failure by the Respondents to implement concluded agreement fully.

1. The Domestic and Hotel Workers' Union shall hereinafter be referred to as the Claimants and H.H. the Aga Khan Hospital and Pandya Memorial Clinic shall hereinafter be referred to as the Respondents.

2. The parties were heard in Mombasa on the 28th day of December 1970 and relied on their written and verbal submissions.

AWARD

3. The facts leading up to this dispute are that the agreement between the parties laying down the terms and conditions of employment of the Respondents' employees, signed on 3rd April 1967, effective from 1st September 1966, for a period of 18 months, expired on 28th February 1968.

The Claimants having forwarded their demands for revising it, Joint Negotiating Committee (J.N.C.) meetings were held on 29th March, 24th April, 10th June and 28th June 1968. There was a substantial measure of agreements at these stages of negotiation.

There is clear evidence from the minutes as recorded, that agreement was reached on part of the issue of wages at the meeting held on 25th April 1968. The relevant minute being 28/68/1—Wages:—

(a) It was agreed that the consolidated minimum wages shall be as follows—
(i) Female employees Sh. 170 p.m.
(ii) Male employees Sh. 205 p.m."

On 25th June 1968, full agreement was reached on the issue of wages. It was also recorded on that date that the "Duration of Agreement and Effective Date" are to be negotiated. On 28th June 1968, the parties agreed as follows on these items:—

"There was a long discussion regarding the desirability of having a three-year agreement with increases after 18 months, but as agreement could not be reached on the amount of such increases, it was agreed finally that a duration period of 18 months only from 1st April 1968, should be observed."

Despite agreement having been reached on all the items except one of "Service Gratuity", no agreement was signed by the parties. Negotiations on "Service Gratuity" broke down on 25th July 1968.

The parties then embarked on resolving this issue alone which ended up in the Industrial Court vide Cause No. 7/69. The Court announced its award on 25th April 1969, and ruled that since the parties had themselves decided and agreed in the 1963 agreement that any question of interpretation of any clauses of their agreement would be referred to the Senior Labour Officer, Coast Province, whose decision in the matter would be final, they should refer the matter to him. The Court made it clear that the Senior Labour Officer, Coast Province, should look into the matter personally and give his ruling.

The Respondents informed the Court during the hearing that they wasted no time in setting the machinery in motion with a view to getting the Senior Labour Officer's ruling but unfortunately he did not give his ruling until 22nd May 1970. The Respondents stated that much to their amazement, the ruling was against them and was contrary to the previous written views of certain officials of the Ministry of Labour at Mombasa. They had protested at the ruling but nothing came out of it.

The Respondents elaborated their second position by submitting that had they known that they would have to bear additional burden on the item of "Service Gratuity" they would not have agreed to the aforesaid wage increases. This is further reinforced by the fact that the Claimants took no action whatsoever for the payment of the negotiated wage increase to the workers for nearly 21 months—from June 1968 to March 1970.

The Court notes that there was due, under the negotiated wage increase, a sum of nearly £5,500 to the workers for a period of 18 months from April 1968. The Claimants took no action to enforce the implementation of these items until sometime in April or May 1970, when the Respondents unilaterally implemented the wage increases which they had negotiated in June 1968.

In view of the foregoing circumstances the Court is not surprised that the parties could not agree on the issue in dispute and forwarded their respective versions. It is all very well for the Claimants to come and ask, some 21 months after they had agreed on a wage increase, for its implementation but the fact remains that to award such an excessive backdating would greatly offend the principles of natural justice. On the other hand, the Court will not allow legal technicalities to deprive the workers of a wage increase which, to make matters worse for the Respondents, they (the Respondents) themselves have negotiated with the Claimants.

The Court has very carefully considered all the aspects of this dispute and finds that the parties, by their own conduct, have thrown wide open the whole issue of the implementation of the items they had agreed during negotiations in 1968 and their duration. In these circumstances the Court has to determine from which date they should be implemented and for how long.

The Court has come to the conclusion that the items which have been negotiated and agreed by the parties should be implemented with effect from 1st July 1969, and that they should remain in force for a period of two years from that date.

GAZETTE NOTICE No. 236

THE TRADE MARKS ACT
(Cap. 506)

NOTICE is hereby given that any person who has grounds of opposition to the registration of any of the trade marks advertised herein according to the class may, within 60 days from the date of this Gazette, lodge notice of opposition in Form T.M. No. 6 (in duplicate) together with a fee of Sh. 50.

Notice is also hereby given that official objection will be taken under rule 21 (3) to all applications in which the specification claims all the goods included in any class unless the Registrar is satisfied that the claim is justified by the use of the mark which the applicant has made, or intends to make if and when it is registered. Where an applicant considers that a claim in respect of all the goods included in a class can be justified it will save unnecessary delay in examining applications if a claim is filed simultaneously with the application, accompanied in appropriate cases by supporting documents.

The period for lodging notice of opposition may be extended by the Registrar as he thinks fit and upon such terms as he may direct. Any request for such extension should be made to the Registrar so as to reach him before the expiry of the period allowed.

Formal opposition should not be lodged until after reasonable notice has been given by letter to the applicant for registration so as to afford him any opportunity of withdrawing his application before the expense of preparing the notice of opposition is incurred. Failure to give such notice will be taken into account in considering any application by an opponent for an order for costs if the opposition is uncontested by the applicant.

Where it is stated in the advertisement of the applicant that the mark, upon its registration, is to be limited to certain colours, the colours are, as far as possible, indicated in the accompanying representations of the mark in the usual heraldic manner.

Representations of the marks advertised herein can be seen at the Trade Marks Registry, State Law Office, Nairobi.

Applications for registration in Part A of the Register are shown with the official number unaccompanied by any letter. Applications for Part B are distinguished by the letter B prefixed to the official number.
