Issues in dispute

- (i) Minimum wages to be raised to Sh 250 per month
- (ii) Conversion to Flemming Recommendations in respect of Group "B"
- (iii) Alleged victimization
- (iv) Operation of the Industrial Relations Machinery in the E A R & H
- (v) Africanization in the E A R & H

1 These issues having been declared to the Court on 8th March 1965, the parties were heard in Nairobi on 9th, 10th, 12th, 13th, 14th and 15th April, on 5th, 6th, 7th, 10th, 11th, 12th, 13th, 14th, 15th, 17th, 19th, 22nd, 25th, 27th, 28th, 29th and 31st May, on 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 5th, 7th, 8th, 9th, 10th and 11th June 1965 Seven witnesses were called in support of the Claimant's case and 12 witnesses were heard in support of the Respondent's defence In addition the parties relied on their written and verbal submissions

At the invitation of the President of the Court the parties were invited to nominate Assessors and they chose Mr S N Ngoloma on behalf of the Respondent and Mr E LaFlamme of the International Transport Workers Federation on behalf of the Claimant party These nominations were made in conformity with rule 5 in Legal Notice No 226 dated 3rd July 1964

2 On 15th April the Respondent submitted that the issue (v) above was not proper to the dispute and in support drew attention to the Articles of Constitution of the East African Common Services Organization, to the Executive Authority of the Organization, to the creation of the Ministerial Communications Committee, and to the Public Service Commission Act, No 6 of 1962

The Court considered the submission and on 5th May gave its ruling to the effect that issue (v) be struck out from the dispute and that the hearing should proceed on the other four issues

3 On 9th June 1965, the Trade Disputes Act, No 15 of 1965, having come into force on the previous day the parties' attention was drawn to this Act and they were offered the alternative of withdrawing the dispute from the Court or resubmitting themselves under the new Act and accepting the reconstituted Court as competent to hear and settle their dispute Both sides accepted the conditions of Act No 15 and agreed to abide by the award of the Court given under this Act and in respect of section 30 of the Act

GENERAL BACKGROUND

4 The East African Common Services Organization was created as a result of discussions held in London in June 1961, when representatives of the Governments of Tanzania, Kenya and Uganda affirmed their desire to have common services provided by a single organization

Article 5 of the agreement states, inter alia that the contracting Governments will confer upon the East African Common Services Authority such legal capacity as will enable it to perform its function under the Constitution of the Organization

Article 8 of Part II of the Functions of the Organization—Executive Arrangements—establishes five Ministerial Committees, for the purposes of this dispute it is sufficient to name only the Communications Committee Article 9 of the same Part lays down that the Minister responsible for Communications from each Territory shall be a member of the Committee

Article 10 of the same Part—Functions of Ministerial Committees—state in paragraph 1

"The Authority may assign responsibility to a Ministerial Committee for—

(a) the administration of any services administered by the Organization, and later, in paragraph 2 it is stated

"Where responsibility is assigned to a Ministerial Committee under this Article with respect to a service or matter, the Committee shall formulate and direct the execution of policy with respect to that service or matter

Notwithstanding all the above there is provision in Article 13 of the same Part for the General Manager of the East African Railways and Harbours to record his objection to a decision of the Ministerial Communications Committee and unless this objection is withdrawn the question at issue shall be referred to the Authority

Proceeding to Part III of the agreement the Central Legislative Assembly is formed and the special powers granted to it are detailed in ensuing Parts In Article 35 of Part IV, the appropriate Ministerial Committee is charged with the responsibility of causing to be prepared estimates of revenue and expenditure on account of each self-contained service

In Article 40 in Part V dealing with the staffing of the Organization it is laid down that there shall be a Public Service Commission for each of the self-contained services and in Article 43 of the same Part each Public Service Commission shall be responsible for the appointment and discipline of staff in that self-contained service It is pertinent to quote paragraphs 1 and 3 of this Article

"1 Subject to the provisions of this Constitution, the Public Service Commission having jurisdiction over a service shall, on behalf of the Organization, make appointments to offices in that service, and exercise powers of disciplinary control and dismissal over persons holding or acting in offices in that service

3 A Public Service Commission may, with the approval of the Authority, and subject to such conditions as it may think fit, delegate any of its functions under this Article to any of its members or to any officer of the Organization "

In the First Schedule to the agreement, item 1 details the East African Railways and Harbours Administration to be a service to be administered by the Organization In the Second Schedule to the agreement, item 11 details staff of the Organization, including Public Service Commissions, as matters with respect to which Acts of the Organization may be enacted

This agreement, in effect, makes the Organization responsible for the East African Railways and Harbours Administration, but superimposes a Ministerial Communications Committee with executive powers to formulate and direct the policy of the Administration This Committee could be compared to a Board of Directors in a Commercial enterprise and indeed this has become the function of the Committee The staffing and administration of discipline is vested in an independent body, the East African Railways and Harbours Public Service Commission

This Commission was given statutory effect by Act No 6 of 1962, which was assented to by the delegates of the three East African Territories on 25th and 26th June 1962 The Act makes provision for the constitution and function of the Civil Service Commissions and in section 13 provides for the power to appoint a person to hold or act in the office of General Manager of the East African Railways and Harbours Administration The Act then goes on in section 14 to enable the Commission to delegate its powers to any public officer and may by such direction empower the officer to whom such delegation is made to authorize another public officer to exercise any power so delegated

The effect of this section 14, is, so far as this dispute is concerned, to empower the General Manager of the East African Railways and Harbours Administration to pass on his disciplinary powers to a head of department but yet to retain the right of over-all control and be the final arbiter in any matter of discipline In regulation 36 of the Public Service Commission Regulations power is delegated to an authorized officer and to the General Manager in respect of appointments and dismissals up to £600 per annum However without prejudice to the above powers, the punishments to be inflicted upon officers are laid down in regulation 57

The issues in this dispute must be dealt with individually and in isolation, the one from the other, as in the adducement of evidence it has become patently clear that the introduction of side issues has fogged the main points and has tended to make it difficult to adjudicate upon each issue on its merits

5 (i) Minimum wages to be raised to Sh 250 per month—The East African Railways and Harbours Act, Part II, Provision of Coordinated Transport System by means of the Administration, lays down in clause 5

"5 It shall be the duty of the General Manager to secure—

(a) the fullest development, consistent with economy of the Administration,

(b) that the Administration is operated efficiently, economically, and with due regard to safety, and

(c) that, subject to the provisions of section 21, the Administration is conducted on a non-profit earning basis and that any surplus of revenue over expenditure shall be applied towards the reduction of transport costs to the public,"

The Administration is responsible to the Authority and ultimately to the Central Legislative Assembly for the efficient planning of the entire railway network, for the adequate financial provision of moneys to ensure the smooth running of the system and for making sure that all officers are aware of the general plans for future development It was with this in view that the General Manager issued Special Notice No 65 in February 1960. He quotes section 21 of the Act which lays down

"The Administration shall be administered on business principles and, so far as is not inconsistent therewith or with the principles of prudent finance, cheap transport shall be provided by the Administration to assist agricultural, mining and industrial development in the Territories"

In this special notice it is stated that Management, in recent discussion with the three African Unions, indicated its willingness to raise the minimum wage further

Then in paragraph 25 of the same special notice it is stated —

'The Railways Management is particularly concerned with the staff on the lowest rates of pay after taking steps to maintain the long-term financial health of the undertaking—to devote available resources to raising the minimum wage. It is proposed, in the immediate future, to give this precedence over all general claims for higher wages and salaries or higher allowances. The present aim is to raise the minimum wage for established staff until it reaches the top of C5 scale at the rate of Sh 106/50 per month plus housing. In accordance with this policy a review of the financial position will be made at regular intervals. Upward adjustments will be made as the financial position allows.'

In July 1960, Sir Gilbert Flemming was appointed as Chairman of a Commission to inquire into terms and conditions of employment in the Civil Service. This Commission submitted its report on 24th December 1960, but its findings and recommendations were not released until sometime in 1961. This Commission stated in its Report in Chapter XII, we lacked both the time and experience of the efficient running of a railway system and then in the appendices the Commission says 'We recommend the Administration should examine whether groups above C' are at a disadvantage by having the short scales, and Group C should come up to their counterparts in the subordinate service of other Administrations'. These were nothing more than recommendations and as such were considered by the Administration and rejected.

However, the Administration, in consideration of the policy outlined in Special Notice No 65 of February 1960, increased the minimum wage in September 1961, and again in January 1962. In August 1962, at the instigation of the Ministerial Communications Committee the Harres Commission was appointed and amongst its terms of reference the Commission was invited to examine and recommend amongst other things, on —

- (ii) The staff structure that is necessary and appropriate in the various departments of the Administration bearing in mind the need to limit recruitment ultimately to local sources, and the terms and conditions of service in the Territorial Governments
- (iv) The most suitable salary structure for locally recruited personnel in terms of what the East African economy can afford

The Report was submitted to the Authority on 26th February 1963, and was released on 25th May 1963. In the meantime the Administration had moved the minimum wage from Sh 127 in January 1962, to Sh 134/50 in December 1962. The Ministerial Communications Committee as the executive authority realized that the Harres Commission had been faced with an unenviable task and had done its best to formulate proposals which might measure up to the East African economy in the foreseeable future. The Commission's recommendations were accepted and implemented, but with a standstill for one year.

The Claimant was at no time consulted on this matter. The Authority must have been influenced by paragraph 431 (c) of the Report which states that "the increases which we have proposed for Group 'C' and the lower ranges of Group 'B' and the decreases which we have proposed for the higher Group 'B', Group 'A' and the superscales will affect savings, but it will be many years before the full effect of this will become apparent."

In the immediate future these savings will be small, and the need to achieve economies to meet the increases which we have recommended for the lower paid staff is therefore urgent."

The transitory stage of Kenya and the need for the Railway to consolidate its position when it was searching for capital to improve rolling stock are put forward as being reasons to hold up negotiations on wages specially when Harres in paragraph 431 (a) says

"We feel we have no alternative but to adhere to the present minimum of Sh 110. But we feel that such a low salary is most undesirable."

In these circumstances it has not been unnatural for the Union to feel that a majority of its members had been left out first of all by Flemming and then by Harres.

On 17th July 1964, the Respondent Administration received a demand from the Claimant Union to re-open discussions on the minimum wage of Sh 250. It appears from the minutes of the Central Joint Council that no unnecessary delay took place, a special meeting was convened and the Chairman drew attention to his discretion to convene such a meeting and he had done so for the sole purpose of discussing a salary structure and scales. These discussions were very lengthy as they are recorded as taking place on 11th, 12th and 28th August and from 7th to 12th September 1964, and the proceedings are covered in 31 pages of minutes. In so far as Group "C" employees are concerned the following statement is recorded on the 28th page of the minutes —

"After discussions with respect to Group C staff, Council agreed that after management has submitted all the papers by the staff side as well as Management's own submission to the Ministerial Communications Committee, and after consideration by the Ministers, the decisions of the latter will be conveyed to the Executive Officer. The Executive Officer will undertake to make these decisions known to the Chairman of the Central Joint Council who will then arrange to convene a meeting of the CJC within seven days."

Although no record of the Ministerial Communications Committee discussions was offered it is evident that they considered the claims of the Union but only shortly before the ninth meeting of the Central Joint Council held in Kampala on 19th and 20th October and in Nairobi on 28th October 1964 (Minute 36/64 deals with the matters covered by the eighth (Special) meeting of the Council)

In Kampala Management decided to make a bulk offer of £4 million and to invite the staff side to discuss how this could be broken down into the fairest distribution bearing in mind that Group 'B' and above would get nothing out of this and the maximum benefit would go to the lower levels of Group "C". The minutes reflect that both sides tried in the initial stages to reach a compromise but to single out Group "C" for preferential treatment when all categories of employee were members of the Union was, in the opinion of the Union, unacceptable. On Wednesday 28th October 1964, Mr Ottenyo is quoted on page 20 as saying in connexion with Group 'B' —

"Mr Ottenyo suggested that there was a need for a further adjournment during which Management might again consult with the Ministers, this was an important issue and there was no hurry."

It appears that the staff side was having second thoughts about Group 'B', the original intention was to convert Group "B" back from Harres to Flemming, but the staff side in the meeting of 28th October wanted a small rise for the lower levels of Group 'B' as this would make it easier for the Claimant Union to accept the offer for Group "C". Relations between the parties deteriorated during that day, the staff side raised the question of Management having bypassed the Industrial Relations Machinery by going to the Ministerial Communications Committee. The final phase of negotiations started when Management brought up the threat of strike action which had been published to be effective on 5th November 1964, the staff side walked out of the Council and it was adjourned indefinitely.

The threat of strike action was averted by an agreement signed on 4th November 1964 between the General Manager and representatives of the Union from Tanzania, Kenya and Uganda. Group C employees had their minimum wage raised to Sh 175, exclusive of housing, and Group "B" employees would be referred to a Board of Inquiry under the Chairmanship of a person acceptable to both sides and each side would nominate a member.

Thus was established the Board of Inquiry under the Chairmanship of Mr S N Waruhu. This Board submitted its report to the Chairman, East African Common Services Authority on 13th January 1965.

(ii) Conversion to Flemming Recommendations in respect of Group B — The Report of this aforesaid Board of Inquiry deals exhaustively with this issue

"to look into the Group "B" salary scales with particular reference to the Union's claims that there should be a reversion to the Flemming scales" and the Report is submitted as Annexure 'C' to the Respondent's memorandum on this issue

The Harres Commission has been referred to hereinabove and its terms of reference are sufficiently clear to justify its eventual report. This Board made four main recommendations but prefaced these by saying

"The Board feels that a rationalization of the East African economy which eliminates the huge differentials in salary levels between workers at the top and bottom of the salary scales is a necessary exercise and applauds the motives of the Harres Commission in attempting it within the E A R & H. At the same time the effects of the recommendations of the Harres Report were bound to create discontent among railway employees who resent what they consider to be discrimination against them. In addition salary reductions instituted by Harres were minimal and made little progress toward actual elimination of the differentials referred to."

The Board then went on to its four main recommendations which are reproduced below —

First Recommendation

We recommend that consideration be given on an East African basis to the need for reducing the gap in income levels between the lowest and the highest paid workers and that a suitable body be established to examine this problem and to make recommendations

Second Recommendation

The Board feels that much of the pressure behind the present Union claim is due to resentment over differences in the basic salaries of employees performing the same or similar work. The Board recommends that, in any future revision of the salary structure an attempt be made to establish a common basic salary for all employees

Third Recommendation

We recommend that the status of the Industrial Relations Machinery of the E A R & H be reconsidered in the light of the manner in which the Report of the Harres Commission was implemented. As this machinery was freely negotiated by the parties the Board is concerned that it should not lightly be set aside. We would urge the East African Common Services Authority to consider most carefully the effect upon this machinery of any arbitrary decision to make changes in terms and conditions of service of railway employees

Fourth Recommendation

The Board recommends no change in the present Group 'B' salaries

We are satisfied that these rates of pay constitute satisfactory remuneration for the jobs performed in this group and we cannot recommend any upward adjustment as this would nullify what we consider to be the minor step taken by Harres towards reducing the gap between the lowest and highest paid employees

The root cause of discontent amongst local officers is not dissatisfaction with present salaries as such but a feeling that they are being discriminated against. This feeling arises from the presence of other officers who receive higher basic salaries. The discontent also arises from the loss of expectation which ensues on promotion to the Harres scales. If our recommendation No 2 above is accepted a solution will be found to the problem of what the staff consider to be discrimination. Loss of expectation does not in our view warrant the granting of salary increases. We are also mindful of the fact that any increase in Group 'B' salaries at this juncture would have undesirable repercussions on other groups not covered by our term of reference.

Unfortunately the Board was not unanimous and a minority recommendation was submitted which in effect extracted the Flemming figures and superimposed them on the Harres scales

On 20th February 165 the General Manager wrote to the executives of the employee Unions and Associations informing them that the Ministerial Communications Committee acting on behalf of the Authority, had considered the Report of the Board and decided as follows —

First Recommendation — Accepted

Second Recommendation — Management of the E A R & H to give further consideration to the problem referred to therein

Fourth Recommendation — Accepted

Minority Recommendation — Not accepted

In the meantime, however the General Secretary of the Claimant had written to the General Manager on 15th February 1965 giving strike notice to be effective on 4th March 1965 and forwarding a copy of resolutions passed at a meeting which had been held the day before. These resolutions, in so far as they affect this dispute, are —

"1 That the Board of Inquiry's findings into Group 'B' salary scales be published immediately. And that the Union shall not repeat shall not accept anything short of Flemming salary scales

2 That a minimum wage be increased to Sh 250 per month with a view to correcting present anomalies

3 That, the arbitrary transfer of Union officials by Railway Management be stopped immediately"

Support for these resolutions is stated by the General Secretary to have been given at a mass meeting of the Union at Makongeni on 8th February 1965 whereat the Union gave Management one week in which to accede to the resolutions. The General Manager wrote to the Union on 12th February and advised that the decision on the recommendations of the Board of Inquiry would be conveyed as soon as possible (this was done on 20th February 1965) that in respect of Group N C salaries these were increased in November last and no case can be accepted for further revision at the present time that in respect of the arbitrary transfer of Union officials, the Union had held discussion with representatives of Management who had notified the decision to proceed with the transfers

This letter virtually closed the door on any chances of discussion. The situation was further aggravated by the Union's intention to pursue vigorously its demand and later by the General Manager's reply, refusing to meet the General Secretary

(iii) Alleged victimization — Mention is made hereinabove of the strike threatened for 5th November 1964, having been averted by the signing of a peace formula on 4th November between the General Manager and the Union. Strike action was not however averted at Mombasa and Kisumu. The circumstances leading up to these strikes are briefly —

- (a) On 3rd November the General Secretary of the Union held a mass meeting at the club house on the Makupa field and does not dispute that he instructed the members to start the strike on 5th November and to listen to no rumours and to return to work only when he told them
- (b) On the evening of 4th November the National Treasurer of the Claimant Union telephoned Mombasa and spoke to a branch official and told him that the strike was 'off' as an agreement had been signed with the Management
- (c) That official decided on his own initiative to do nothing that evening but to wait until the next morning when the employees would be assembling at the Makupa field
- (d) In the meantime, Management had also notified its representatives in Mombasa that agreement had been reached and that the Union had agreed to call off the strike. This news was spread around by Management's officers and efforts were made to contact Union branch officials to persuade them to call off the strike in Mombasa

On the following morning the strike started and whatever action was taken by the branch officers it is indisputable that the workers themselves would not go back to work and demanded that they see the instrument of settlement and that the General Secretary must bring the agreement so that they see for themselves. The instructions given by the General Secretary had had good effect and the efforts made by the representatives of Management had been treated in the manner to be expected as rumours and propaganda. Violence did take place and members of Management staff were roughly handled to the extent of physical assault which required hospital treatment whilst others were intimidated by the threat of force. Messrs Lole and Kima, officials of the Union, who by instruction from the Executive Committee, were charged with the duty of organizing a strike in Mombasa and the area covered by the Mombasa Branch, were subsequently faced with a situation which they had no power to control. It is pure conjecture to opine whether they instigated or connived at the strike taking place, but the historical background is quite clear that they had no control over the hysterical section of the crowd which foregathered at Makupa field on the morning of 5th November

In fact, it is admitted that Messrs Lole and Kima (albeit) a national official left Mombasa at around 8 a.m. to go in search of the General Secretary who alone had the power to return the employees to their duty. Various accounts of their journey from Mombasa to Voi are offered as evidence, but suffice it to say that they reached Voi and did not contact the General Secretary who they had been informed was at Voi. They returned to Mombasa and nothing is known of their subsequent actions until the General Secretary was flown to Mombasa and they met him at the airport

After the employees had returned to work Management engaged itself in an investigation into the background of the strike and a report was submitted by the Principal Industrial Relations Officer, this report was never offered to the Court but its existence was not rebutted. The various members of Management staff who had been assaulted physically or who had been intimidated compiled a report dated 11th November 1964, and became signatories to that report. Whether or not they read what they signed is not clear but this report was received by the General Manager and the general purport of this letter was such that the whole structure of Management's support of authority had been so severely undermined by the action of strikers that unless Management took action the senior African officers would not be able to command the respect of their subordinates

The Management also called upon the Union to explain the actions of branch officials in Mombasa. The Union explained that whilst it deplored the assault upon innocent persons there was no evidence to show that they had instigated the violence and the Constitution of the Union gave no room for the disciplining of officials, it went on to say that the Constitution was being amended to provide for this. It appears from the views expressed by the Union that it was realized that this strike in Mombasa had got out of control and that the turn the events took was never intended

In Kisumu the organization of the strike had been entrusted by the Executive Committee to branch officials. On 4th November the Branch Chairman issued a letter to the Asian Union and the European Staff Association warning them against attempts to break the strike and coercing them to support the Railway African Union. Whether or not the branch officials had greater control is not offered as evidence, but the ability of these officials to return the strikers to work met with the same resistance as in Mombasa and it must be remembered that the General Secretary had not visited Kisumu to address the members as he had done in Mombasa on 3rd November

Relatively, the strike in Kisumu was of minor significance to that in Mombasa because of the absence of physical violence upon members of Management but the resistance of the workers to go back to work on the signing of an agreement of settlement of the strike must not be overlooked in the general picture of the ending of the strike

Staff Regulations section G, deals with discipline G 2 (a) was issued to be effective from 1st December 1964, and in the penultimate paragraph states "whether he is an official of a Union or is acting in that capacity". The Union states that this amendment to Staff Regulations was introduced by Management without consultation to cater for circumstances which would enable it to take disciplinary action against employees whether or not they were officials of the Union and whether or not they were acting in good faith on Union business. The Union alleges further that this amendment was introduced to enable it to deal with Union officials whom the Union was reluctant to discipline under its own regulations.

These opinions, their interpretation and their general aspect as accepted by the Court are dealt with later in the award

(iv) Operation of the Industrial Relations Machinery in the E A R & H—On 30th April 1960 an agreement was reached to end a strike which had occurred in Tanzania, one of the points of the settlement was

'Both parties agree to an independent inquiry into the state of industrial relations in the East African Railways and Harbours Administration with particular reference to the nature and suitability of the machinery needed for sound industrial relations. The inquiry will be carried out by a Commissioner appointed by the Secretary of State. The Commissioner will submit his report and recommendations within six months of the return to work.'

In August of 1960 the Colonial Secretary appointed Mr H A Whitson as the Commissioner and in late October or early November he presented his report which contained 44 recommendations. It is of particular significance that he recommended that the Central Joint Council should be set up with powers of decision as distinct from the Joint Staff Advisory Council which existed at that time and was purely advisory to Management.

The Commissioner accepted that his report would involve both Management and the Unions in a lot of work if they were to establish proper machinery that would work for the betterment of industrial relations. However, it was not until 21st March 1962, that a Memorandum of Agreement was signed by the General Manager and officials of all the Unions catering for the Railway European Staff Association Kenya, the Railway European Staff Association Tanganyika, the Railway Asian Union Kenya, the Railway Asian Union, Tanganyika, the Railway Asian Union Uganda, the Railway African Union, Kenya, the Tanganyika Railway African Union, the Railway African Union, Uganda. As annexures to the agreement appear

- (a) the constitution for the Central Joint Council
- (b) procedure for dealing with individual grievances not being matters of discipline
- (c) disputes procedure,
- (d) the constitution and rules for a Staff Tribunal
- (e) the constitution of a Local Staff Committee

A great deal of work has been invested in setting up the Central Joint Council and it is an expensive body to maintain with a salaried Chairman and the immense amount of clerical work involved in preparing for meetings and then getting out the minutes of the meetings.

The functions of the Council are laid down in paragraph 2 of the Constitution and are—

- (a) The establishment and constitution of Territorial Councils
- (b) The determination of a model constitution for Local Staff Committees
- (c) The negotiation of a procedure for dealing with disputes
- (d) The negotiation of a disciplinary procedure and any other representations
- (e) The negotiation of wages and salaries and other terms and conditions of employment for all staff
- (f) To consider matters referred to it by the Territorial Councils
- (g) Prior consultation on all matters of common interest including Union/Management relationships

It is also laid down that the Council shall meet at least twice a year but normally three times in the months of February, June and October. Special meetings shall be arranged at the discretion of the Chairman and upon the application of Management or any one of the Unions or Associations represented on the Council.

Under item (d) above in the functions of the Council there is a note of proviso and so that it may be understood why this item was not pursued the note is quoted in full (Note)—At the time this procedure was under discussion it was understood that a Bill was being prepared to establish a Railways and Harbours Service Commission which would contain regulations governing discipline. Although these regulations were unknown, the meeting considering disciplinary procedure were of the opinion that such procedure could be agreed on the understanding that it would be subject to the over-riding provisions of the Regulations when they came into force.)

and indeed the Public Service Commission's Act No 6 of 1962 and in the Second Schedule "Regulations for the Public Service Commission the Posts and Telecommunications Service Commission and the Railways and Harbours Service Commission deals with all matters of appointment, promotions, discharge and general discipline. These Regulations do not cover the detailed Code necessary for the day-to-day administration of employees of the Respondent Administration and under the enabling clause of the Act and by the delegation of powers to the General Manager under the Agreement Staff Regulations may be made by the General Manager. The General Manager may vary these Regulations in his discretion but in so varying them, as in formulating them he shall have regard to

- (a) The desirability of retaining existing regulations unless the need to amend them is clear
- (b) Any statutory obligations and in particular the provisions of the East African Railways and Harbours Act and the Public Service Commission Act, 1962
- (c) Any directives or opinions issuing from the East African Common Services Authority or the Ministerial Communications Committee or any advisory body that may be set up with responsibilities for East African Railways and Harbours
- (d) Any agreements entered into between Management and representatives of the staff
- (e) The desirability of having terms and conditions of service for staff related as closely as is practicable to those in force in other sections of the East African Common Services Organization

6 (i) Negotiations on the issue of raising the minimum wage to Sh 250 failed when the General Manager wrote to the Union on 12th February 1965, saying that he could see no justification in further revision after the 20 per cent rise in November 1964

(ii) The matter of conversion to Flemming recommendations was ruled out on the publication of the report of the Board of Inquiry under Mr S N Waruhui

(iii) Alleged victimization was denied by the Respondent Administration who claimed that the transfer of Union officials was an administrative matter in which Management used its right to move staff at will

(iv) The operation of the Industrial Relations Machinery in the E A R & H is claimed by the Union to be outdated, unworkable and not designed to meet the needs of modern industrial relations practice in the new Kenya

On 5th March 1965, a strike took place in the Railway Administration Kenya and lasted for three days until 8th March. Conditions consequent of the return to work were the reference of the issues in dispute to the Industrial Court

MAIN SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE CLAIMANT

(i) The Union states in its main submission on the issue of raising the minimum wage to Sh 250 for Group "C" personnel that it has been pursuing this subject since 1959. Increases have been achieved more often by threat than by peaceful negotiation and this reflects the negative attitude of Management and the constant reply of lack of finance to meet these demands.

In November 1964, it is true that an increase was given to Group C to raise their wages to Sh 175 but it should be realized that this increase came about after the Union had threatened strike action to get Sh 250 and the settlement at Sh 175 was nothing more than a means of averting strike action and the Union cannot accept that this was other than an interim increase pending the main negotiation of the demand of the Union for an all round minimum of Sh 250.

Management has for a long time argued that it cannot raise any more money to pay higher wages and that any surplus must be ploughed back into development. This argument is closely tied up with productivity. The labourer is interested in productivity as he knows that this will bring a greater reward to him, but he cannot see his fellow workers in Government and Common Services employed at more advantageous terms whilst he is kept at an uneconomic wage. Management has told the Union that it cannot raise money by increasing tariffs as these will hit at Agriculture, particularly, and at other developing industries in Kenya and that they are by their Articles of Constitution bound to provide cheap and efficient transportation. The Union accepts this as a principle but it cannot agree that the worker must be the sacrifice on the altar of development.

Another reason for the Union's insistence on pursuing this objective of Sh 250 is that in April 1964 the Kenya Government accepted the Pratt Report and put the wages of its subordinate staff up to Sh 200, in the main townships, but the Railway Administration has done nothing to follow the lead of the Kenya Government. The Union will produce evidence to show that the wage of Sh 175 is quite unrealistic and bears no relation to what it costs a man to live in Nairobi with his family, but the Union is more interested in the equity of a realistic wage than in proving what must be apparent to any one who lives in this township. The question of availability of money to meet this demand is a matter which Management must face up to, it has always found the money in the past to give token increases to the lower-paid staff but now the time has come when it must realize that a living wage is due to all its employees. If it is a question of planning then Management has often told the Union that it is engaged in making provision for future planning and it must be reasonably assumed that such planning includes the provision of a decent wage for those in the lower grades.

(ii) On the matter of converting Group 'B' staff to the Flemming recommendations the Union states that the whole question of implementing the Harres Commission Scales was dealt with in such a manner that the Union had no alternative but to reject these scales. When Sir Gilbert Flemming made his report it was realized that a start was made on removing inequalities in salary scales but not enough was done, however when the Railway Administration did not accept these recommendations the Union realized that it would have to press hard for an improvement in the scales for this group. The Harres Commission was imposed by the action of Management and the Union hoped that by representation it would be able to impress the Commission of the poor salary scales Group 'B' received in comparison with similar grades in Kenya Government. The Union was totally in ignorance of the submission by Management of the document which is attached to the Respondent's memorandum as Appendix 'A' and is dated 13th September 1962. This document was produced to influence the Harres Commission before it even arrived in Kenya and it shows quite clearly that the Administration would resist any improvement in salaries. In paragraph 16 (iii) it is explained that the African taking over from overseas staff will have less education, training and experience than the staff they are replacing and on the grounds of worth alone there is a case for reducing salaries. The Note by Management goes on to say that the African staff have different living conditions and standards almost all have small holdings or shambas on which their wives continue to live whilst the man goes out to work. Further, it is doubtful whether the changes which will come should be encouraged to take place too quickly by the application of salaries artificially high in relation to the customary way of life. To this expression the Union takes exception it is objectionable in so much that it reflects an untrue picture of the employees of the Railway Administration, most employees live in the towns and have done so for a long time the allegation that their living costs are subsidized by land holdings is not true. Finally, the submission of Management to the Commission on the question of timing is just another proof to the Union that Management was determined to see that there should not be any improvement in the salary structure. The attention of the Court is drawn to paragraph 16 (viii) in which it is stated:

If a reduction in salary scales has to be made then the present is probably the best time to effect the change.

Nothing in the opinion of the Union, could be so conclusive of Management's intentions and to have submitted this intention in advance to the Commission is to influence the Commission before it even started its work.

The attention of the Court is drawn to Appendix 3 of the Claimant's memorandum in which it will be seen to what extent members have suffered by the implementation of the Harres scales and it is left to the Court to draw its own conclusions on the inequalities which are perpetuated by having some staff on the Flemming scales and who on being promoted as is their normal expectation suddenly find themselves worse off by going on to the Harres scales.

In summing up on this point, the Union must draw attention to the implementation of these scales. Whatever may be said about the appointment of this Commission, the Union had a reasonable expectation that before the recommendations were accepted there would be consultation on the report. This was not so, the Union was left out and found that the report had been accepted by the Ministerial Communications Committee and would be tabled in the Central Legislative Assembly without its opinion being asked for. This Assembly then imposed a standstill of one year which denied the Union any hope of raising the matter for negotiation and it is hoped that the Court will see the injustice which has been done and restore the rights of the Union by awarding the conversion of those Group B staff who have been placed on the Harres scales to Flemming and confirming that those on the Flemming scales shall retain their proper expectations under those scales.

(iii) The Union feels most strongly about the transfers of Messrs Kima Lole, Buberwa and Eku. There are far too many coincidences in the dating of the transfers and the persons concerned took a leading part in the organization of the strikes at Mombasa and Kisumu, for Management to explain away their actions as administrative transfers.

The Executive Council of the Union held a meeting to decide on whether to strike on their demand for Sh 250 in Group 'C' and it was the Executive who instructed branch officials to organize a stoppage of work on 5th March 1965. The General Secretary has to carry out the instructions of his Executive and he was doing no more than that when he told the meeting in Mombasa to disregard all rumours and listen only to instructions from him. When the agreement was signed on 4th November a member of the Executive took action immediately to advise the branches at Kisumu and Mombasa that the strike was off. The General Secretary was ordered to go to Voi and see that all main line staff were back at work and the President went to Kisumu to make sure the main line northwards was functioning properly.

The Union regrets that these two centres did not return immediately to work but the failure is due to poor communications and is in no way concerned with the failure of branch officers to do their duty of conveying to the members that the strike was off. This they undoubtedly did and in so doing gained a lot of unpopularity, they were blamed by the workers for not achieving the target of Sh 250 and for reaching an agreement which gave considerably less than was demanded. Their position became so difficult that they had to ask for police protection and this in itself proves that they did not try to prolong the strike.

Management undertook an investigation, but the outcome of this has not been made known to the Union, in addition, Management received a letter signed by eight persons who the Union admits had been subjected to intimidation during the strike. This letter is produced by Management as Appendix 'B' to their memorandum on 'Alleged Victimization', in it the signatories state they are particularly concerned with Messrs Lole and Kima who not only organized the strike but also the massive violence against us.

The Union maintains that not a shred of evidence has been given to prove that they organized the violence, that they organized the strike is no more than carrying out the instructions of the Executive Committee. It is accepted that they were unable to end the strike as it took a visit from the Permanent Secretary to the Ministry of Labour, the General Secretary and the Chairman of the Nairobi Branch to Mombasa to persuade the strikers that they should return to work.

Discussions were held with Management as soon as it was known that the four officials concerned were going to be disciplined by Management. Management denied that these transfers were in any way disciplinary but were purely administrative in accordance with their right to move employees to any place to suit the Administration. The Union cannot accept this as it is inconsistent with an Article which appears in Management's newspaper Sikio dated 1st March 1965, which reads:

'Two employees primarily responsible for the dreadful scenes perpetrated in Mombasa last November have been transferred two others responsible for the unconstitutional strike which occurred at Kisumu at the same time have also been transferred. Management deems these transfers necessary for disciplinary reasons.'

The Union therefore thinks that this is a negation of the General Manager's assurance given in his letter of 5th February, paragraph 2 in which he denies that the transfer of the employees from Mombasa and Kisumu is victimization, but are being transferred in the interests of the E A R & H and the public at large. It should be remembered that this newspaper is read by many more people than the circulation of 13 000 indicates and the Union feels that this attempt to discipline Union officials can only be put right by returning the persons concerned to their original place of employment.

(iv) The Union submits that the industrial relations are the main cause of discontent in the staff side, it is accepted that regulations must exist for the proper administration of the Railway but it is obviously unfair that one set of regulations should be subject to the Memorandum of Agreement and that another set should be regulated at the sole discretion of the General Manager. Mr Whitson came out to look into the industrial relations in the E A R & H and the Union agrees that some of the mistakes were corrected by his report, but due to inexperience on the part of both sides the Memorandum of Agreement which was signed on the basis of his report has left other mistakes which cannot be resolved except by negotiating a fresh memorandum. In particular the Union draws attention to the industrial relations machinery dealing with discipline and the Regulations in the Second Schedule to the Public Service Commission Act, and states that discrepancies have left members at a disadvantage.

The disputes procedure is not functioning smoothly and Union representatives are not being given sufficient scope at branch level and the Union feels that if discussion at this level could be treated in the right spirit then a lot of the matters which should be settled at this level would never get beyond the disputes procedure. However as the Management side especially in the engineering section is more concerned with machines than men it is not surprising that the relationship on the shop floor needs improvement.

Local Staff Committees are a waste of time and should be scrapped or if they are to function then the Union should be represented in the form of shop stewards who are directly responsible to the Union Executive.

Finally, on this matter of industrial relations, the Union felt that some of the trouble could be found in the Industrial Relations section of the Respondent's Administration. Mr Whitson in his report laid special emphasis on the staffing of this section, he said that the industrial relations officers are of supreme importance and should be recognized as such, however, the Union found by experience that industrial relations officers at district level are mere cyphers they have no powers and can do nothing without prior consultation with the Principal Industrial Relations Officer. Mr Whitson was most emphatic in his recommendations on this subject but the Union finds that Management has only partially implemented this most important part of the industrial relations machinery.

Here again the Union asks that the Court should review the whole set up in the light of the expert's recommendations and the failure of Management to see that this side of our relationship is properly appreciated.

MAIN SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE RESPONDENT

(i) The Respondent submits on the subject the minimum wage to be raised to Sh 250 that this claim has only recently been considered and an increase of over 20 per cent given in November last year. It is thought to be totally unrealistic to expect the Respondent to review wages so soon and the period which in the view of the Respondent would be reasonable is a 12 month interval between wage revisions. The Claimant may think that the increase given in November was an interim rise pending further negotiation but it must be understood that there was no such thinking in the mind of the Respondent.

Financially the Administration cannot afford any more pay increases. In more prosperous times and when the credit worthiness of the EAR & H stood at a high level it was possible to borrow money on long-term credit and when the time came to repay it was possible to offset these redemptions by offering new stock, but those days are over and the Administration is now having to make provision for repayment of loans which mature in 1968/1970. The amount involved is in the region of £12 million, and the money which is being put into reserve for this purpose could have been used, in other times, for expansion programmes. At the present moment any expansion has to be met from general revenue, it has been mentioned that imports have gone up by 30 per cent and that this should help the Railway in balancing its budget, but it should be remembered that these increases all demand more rolling stock and this has to be financed from revenue and all these factors reduce the surplus which is available for increases in wages and fringe benefits. Of course there is the other way of raising revenue, by increasing tariffs but this will only tend to put the Railways at a further disadvantage in competition with road transport. Quite apart from that aspect there must be increasing opposition to any application for an increase in tariffs as these mitigate against the main cargo producers, the farmers and plantation industries.

In so far as the employees in the Railways operating in the rural areas are concerned they are already well in advance of the Kenya Government rate and more than double that of the agricultural worker to give any form of increase to this sector would further increase the difference in the rural areas.

Lastly, the Respondent submits that the present low level of productivity is such that there will have to be considerable improvement if the present rate of wages is to be paid to the large labour force at present employed. It is quite impossible to continue the current output per man-day at the wage rate now being paid and it is thought that the Claimant should co-operate in persuading his members to work harder so that they can in time be given the fruits of more economic production.

(ii) The Respondent states in reference to the conversion to Flemming recommendations that it has always been known that the inducement necessary to keep expatriate employees in the service created a special problem but this inducement was made up by allowances and the Claimant had never really objected to this principle. It had been suggested to the Harres Commission that basic salaries should be the same but as the report had been silent on this matter it was assumed that it presented too many difficulties. Furthermore, these officers were protected by the Public Officers Agreement which provided that there would be no change in their terms of service that was detrimental.

The Respondent states that no objection was raised to this matter going to the Board of Inquiry under the Chairmanship of Mr Waruhui. It is maintained that the Respondent has always known that the anomalous position would have to be cleared up and has been said hereinabove it was suggested to the Harres Commission. Mr Waruhui's report ended its second recommendation by saying that in any future revision of the salary structure an attempt be made to establish a common basic salary for all employees. With this recommendation the Respondent is in agreement, but as the problem is not unique to the Respondent Administration it is felt that it cannot be tackled unilaterally, but is more properly a matter for the whole of the Public Service. The Respondent submitted finally that this question is currently being studied on a wider field than is covered by the Railway Administration, it was not possible to give details as many other parties are involved and without their consent no more can be said, but the Court is asked to note that the Respondent is alive to the problem and is doing something positive to find a solution.

(iii) In the matter of alleged victimization the Respondent states that this issue began with the signing of the agreement on the evening before the strike was due to start. Every possible facility was afforded the Union leaders to make sure that they advised their branch officials and it is not doubted that information was passed to both Mombasa and Kisumu. The branch officials did nothing to prevent the strike taking place and on the evening of 4th November made no effort to pass the word round that an agreement had been signed and that the strike was off. The Respondent went on to say that on 5th November, two Union officials, Mr Lole and Mr Kima travelled by road from Mombasa to Voi on the pretext of searching for Mr Ottenyo who was supposed to be travelling down the main line on the way they stopped at various stations, where, instead of encouraging the staff to return to work they instructed those who were on duty to stop and so brought about a complete paralysis in the Mombasa sector.

The letter from eight members of Management's staff posed a problem to the Respondent who was well aware that the persons mentioned were senior officials in the Union and that any action taken by Management would be interpreted as victimization but in the absence of any move by the Union the Respondent was obliged to stand by its members and restore to them their status as members of Management. In a large organization it is absolutely essential that the senior members of the staff should be respected by their subordinates also the eight persons concerned would be justified in thinking that Management had no confidence in them if their morale was not uplifted by active support from Management. Under these circumstances the General Manager decided to use his vested powers to transfer Mr Lole and Mr Kima to other districts, to have done otherwise would have shown Management as powerless to act in such situations and would make any future occurrence even worse than what occurred at Mombasa.

In the case of Kisumu it is fortunate that the ugly incidents at the Coast were not repeated there. The Respondent is satisfied that the Union's Executive passed news of the settlement to Kisumu and indeed the Acting Principal Industrial Relations Officer was in Kisumu at the time and did his best to get the news round that the strike was off. However, from the information at the disposal of Management it is clear that Mr Buberwa and Mr Eku instead of doing nothing as the officials did in Mombasa went round the employees housing telling the workers to disregard the propaganda of Management and that the strike was still on. It is the opinion of the Respondent that these two officials deliberately defied the instructions of their Executive and although they did not exhort violence they did nothing to prevent intimidation, a letter produced as Appendix 'C' to the Respondent's memorandum being a typical example of the threatening attitude adopted by the Chairman of the Kisumu Branch. The Respondent states that once again the question of maintaining the dignity of staff employees was at stake and the ability of Management to handle a situation which had undoubtedly gone beyond the normal limits had to be demonstrated or lose the respect of all reasonable persons.

The Respondent wishes to emphasize to the Court that it is satisfied that neither of the four employees concerned was victimized, they were disciplined but that is within the right of Management regardless of whether he is a Union official or not. Transfer is something to which every employee of the Respondent Administration is subject and may expect at any time to facilitate the proper organization of the Railway and none of the four employees lost in rank, pay or prospects by their transfer so the allegation of victimization is utterly refuted.

(iv) The Respondent does not accept that the Industrial Relations Machinery of the EAR & H is outdated and does not function properly. Examination of the Agenda and Minutes of the Central Joint Council will show that regular meetings are held and a wide variety of subjects discussed, any failure of this body to achieve settlement of issues under discussion is attributable to the intransigence of the Union on such matters as wages.

Resistance has been felt from the Claimant Union at the level of Local Staff Committees and this is solely because of the fact that the Constitution which was negotiated does not entitle the Union to nominate the staff side members. It should be remembered that amendments and alterations to negotiated agreements must have the consent of all the parties to the agreement and in this case the attention of the Court is drawn to the Memorandum of Agreement negotiated between the Administration and all the bodies representing the employees. This is provided for in clause 17 of the Memorandum and the Claimant Union must realize that to modify the Constitution of the Local Staff Committees will require the process laid down in this clause. The Respondent has no objection to the matter being discussed, provided the proper channel is used.

The Respondent draws the Court's attention to one other aspect of the Industrial Relations Machinery and that is the matter of expenses. Mr Whitson in his report commented upon the fact that Management bore the whole expense of administering the machinery, wages during the time members of the various bodies attended meetings, free transport and accommodation when required to travel to meetings. Mr Whitson recommended that as soon as possible after the establishment of joint machinery the trade unions and staff associations should commence to pay at least their own expenses, and later their share of the expense of any consultative and negotiating machinery set up. It was not until the middle of 1964 that the staff side agreed to pay part of their own expenses.

The responsibility of administering the machinery is one which the Respondent accepts but would like to see the staff side taking a more practical interest in it. The proper functioning of negotiating bodies at all levels is of mutual interest and as much to the benefit of the Respondent as to the Claimant. An Industrial Relations section is part of the General Manager's office; assistant industrial relations officers are stationed at the main centres. This section is complementary to the machinery and if the necessary good will is forthcoming then there is no reason in the opinion of the Respondent why the relationship between the staff side and the Respondent should not be most cordial. At all events the Respondent makes every effort to ensure that the opportunity exists for joint consultation and negotiation but co-operation and understanding of Management's problems is sometimes not as good as it should be.

AWARD

The Court has examined in great detail all the submissions made by the parties and the consequences that are likely to follow if awards are made on certain lines. No point, however trivial, has been overlooked by the Court in these long drawn out proceedings.

(i) Minimum wages to be raised to Sh 250 per month—Early in November 1964, the Claimant having threatened strike action, eleventh hour negotiations took place to avert a strike which was due to take place on 5th November 1964. This particular strike, which was called off everywhere except Mombasa and Kisumu, is discussed at greater length under the award on issue 'C', resulted in a formula being arrived at between the parties hereto. As this is of considerable importance the relevant section relating to minimum wages is reproduced below—

"The Group 'C' salary scales will be increased as follows with effect from 1st November 1964—

- (a) In the major towns of Dar es Salaam, Tanga, Kampala, Jinja, Nairobi and Mombasa Island the minimum wage will be increased to Sh 175 per month and where an employee is not housed, the housing allowance will be Sh 35 per month
- (b) In the rest of the scheduled towns the minimum wage will be increased by Sh 20 per month
- (c) In all areas outside the scheduled towns the minimum wage will be increased by Sh 10 per month
- (d) All Group 'C' employees who do not receive an increase as a result of the arrangements referred to above will receive an increase of Sh 5 per month"

It is significant that such a major agreement having been arrived at, the parties chose not to specify the duration of this agreement. The Claimant urges that the reason for this omission was that it was an interim arrangement. The Respondent on the other hand points out that it was not an interim agreement and should be allowed to run for a reasonable period which, it submits, should be up to 31st December 1965. The Court finds that it was a serious omission and is in considerable doubt as to what was the real intention of the parties at the time. This being so the Court finds that this issue is open to investigation and review.

The Respondent's contention that the machinery laid down has not been followed and, therefore, there is no further case in this connexion for the Court to hear has been taken care of by the joint declaration of the parties when the dispute was brought to the Court which states:

"... and in accordance with the procedure laid down in our agreement on recognition and negotiating procedure we have discussed these issues and have failed to reach a settlement."

If this in fact did not happen and it was an untrue declaration then the parties must be deemed to have cast aside their existing negotiating machinery. The Court has full sympathy with the Respondent on account of the circumstances under which it was obliged to sign this declaration but it is obvious that the state of affairs on or about the 8th March 1965, had reached a point where recourse to the existing machinery would have been valueless and would not have helped matters at all.

The Court is satisfied that the Union has made a good case for raising the minimum wage and after examining the financial and other implications pointed out by the Respondent the Court awards that the minimum wage in Group "C" be raised as follows—

|---|----------|
| (i) Nairobi and Mombasa | by Sh 25 |
| (ii) Kitale, Eldoret, Nakuru, Kisumu, Nyeri, Naivasha, Thomson's Falls and Nanyuki | by Sh 20 |
| (iii) In all other places | by Sh 10 |
| (iv) Any employee in Group C who does not receive an increase as a result of the award (i), (ii) and (iii) above will receive an increase of Sh 5 per month | |

These new rates of pay are exclusive of housing allowance. The Court is not inclined to withhold a rise in wages where it is satisfied that they are lower than what they should be on the grounds that money cannot be found at present. This award is to be with effect from 1st August 1965, and shall remain in force for a period of 12 months therefrom.

(ii) Conversion to Flemming Recommendations in respect of Group B—The following facts under this issue are not in dispute—

- (a) That on 4th November 1964, both the parties agreed as follows—

(i) That a Board of Inquiry be appointed forthwith to look into the Group B salary scales with particular reference to the Union's claims that there should be a reversion to the Flemming scales. The Board will consist of a Chairman acceptable to both sides and each side will appoint a member. The Board will make recommendations as soon as possible."

- (b) A Board of Inquiry was appointed with Mr Waruhu as Chairman. It sat for about a month and made the following recommendations—

The Board feels that much of the pressure behind the present Union claim is due to resentment over differences in the basic salaries of employees performing the same, or similar, work. The Board recommends that, in any future revision of the salary structure an attempt be made to establish a common basic salary for all employees.

The Board recommends no change in the present Group 'B' salaries.

We are satisfied that these rates of pay constitute satisfactory remuneration for the jobs performed in this group and we cannot recommend any upward adjustment as this would nullify what we consider to be the minor step taken by Harres towards reducing the gap between the lowest and highest paid employees. The root cause of discontent amongst local officers in this group is not dissatisfaction with the present salaries as such but a feeling that they are being discriminated against. This feeling arises from the presence of other officers who receive higher basic salaries. The discontent also arises from the loss of expectation which ensues on promotion to the Harres scales. If our Recommendation No 2 above is accepted a solution will be found to the problem of what the staff consider to be discrimination. Loss of expectation does not in our view warrant the granting of salary increases. We are also mindful of the fact that any increase in Group 'B' salaries at this juncture would have undesirable repercussions on other groups not covered by our term of reference.

- (c) A job evaluation team under the Chairmanship of Mr Rodgers has been functioning for a considerable time now and which will reduce the grades to a total number of six. The report of this committee is expected to be out within the next few months.

The Court agrees with the finding of Mr Waruhu's Board of Inquiry set out in (b) above. The resulting situation has indeed become a source of dissatisfaction. But its solution poses a number of practical problems. The Court was informed by the Respondent that consultations between the Government and Administration have been started with a view to examining the problems and working out possible solutions. The Court was told that the details of these consultations are still in confidence and would not be divulged in Court without the permission of all the Administrations concerned. The Court is satisfied that this state of affairs whereby practically all Africans are on Harres scales and all non-Africans are on Flemming is a potentially serious and explosive situation and an answer to eliminate this very unfortunate differential should be found very soon. However in view of the fact that the matter is under consideration the Court makes no award under this issue but requires this matter to be finalized within six months from the date of the award failing which the Claimant will be at liberty to make appropriate representations through the recognized channels.

(iii) Alleged victimization—This issue relates to certain transfers of Respondent's employees who were also Union officials from Mombasa and Kisumu to other destinations outside Kenya. This involves a very important principle as any finding condemning the Respondent's action in transferring its employees would on the face of it appear to be an encroachment on the Respondent's inherent right of transfer for administrative purposes. The details of the incidents leading to these transfers are mentioned hereinabove in the General Background. The Court is satisfied that the strike took place in Mombasa on 5th November 1964, due to Mr Ottenyo's statement at a meeting on 3rd November, that the workers should go back to work only when he told them to do so. The Court notes that he made this statement with the concurrence of the National Executive. The acts of violence which are not disputed by the Claimant appear to be the work of strikers who got out of control on the morning of the 5th November 1964. They may have indulged in these acts of violence due to the fact that Mr Ottenyo kept quiet when the workers shouted, 'we will stone them', in answer to a question from Mr Ottenyo when he asked, 'what shall we do to the non-strikers'. Most of these acts of violence took place when Mr Lole and Mr Kima had already left Mombasa for Voi on their alleged search for Mr Ottenyo. The Court is satisfied that these two officials went along the line asking various employees to stop work as otherwise they would not have taken about five hours to reach Voi from Mombasa. But they appear to have been carrying out the instructions given to them by the Claimant's head office through Mr Ottenyo on 3rd November 1964, i.e. not to go to work until told by Mr Ottenyo himself as otherwise the Respondent's propaganda would break the strike. Had Mr Ottenyo continued his journey to Mombasa on the 5th instead of stopping at Voi the disgraceful and dreadful incidents which took place on the morning of the 5th would have been averted. Admittedly he may have encountered some difficulty in getting the strikers back to work but he should have gone to Mombasa and faced up to his responsibilities. The Court finds that Mr Ottenyo cannot escape criticism for his neglect of duty on such an important and serious matter. It is incredible that the Executive Committee of the Claimant asked Mr Ottenyo to go as far as Voi only. The Court finds that for whatever happened at Mombasa Mr Ottenyo and the National Executive are more to be blamed than any other branch official who are indeed small fry and dare not go against the decisions of the National Office-bearers. The Court is aware that Mr Kima is the National Vice-President.

At some stage prior to the transfers taking place meetings were held between the Claimant and the Respondent at which the General Manager, Railways gave the Claimant a certain time within which to discipline the culprits who disobeyed the Claimant's instructions and proceeded to strike at Mombasa and Kisumu. The Claimant could not do this as it is the Claimant's submission that its Constitution did not make provision for such matters. After this the Respondent, having suspended the transfers pending representation by the Claimant, effected them in great haste.

It should be noted that an agreement between the parties was reached in the Central Joint Council to the following effect —

"Management viewed the Union's case with sympathy and it was agreed that a letter would be sent to all departments requesting them not to transfer Union officials unless this was absolutely necessary and in such cases to give reasonable notice."

The Respondent admits that Messrs Kima, Lole, Buberwa and Eku were transferred because of the part they played in the strikes at Mombasa and Kisumu. It is further contended that this action was not taken to undermine the authority of the Claimant but rather to support it.

It is quite obvious that these transfers were not normal administrative transfers. This is further borne out by the following quotations from Sikio—the Railway paper dated 1st March 1965 —

"3 Transfer of Employees Two employees primarily responsible for the dreadful scenes perpetrated in Mombasa last November have been transferred two others responsible for the unconstitutional strike which occurred at Kisumu at the same time have also been transferred. Management deems these transfers to be necessary for disciplinary reasons."

Moreover, reference is made to the transfers in a handout issued by the General Manager prior to the March strike and which is reproduced hereinbelow —

"3 That Management has arbitrarily transferred Union officials. Management has the right to transfer its staff at any time but naturally takes account of any special circumstances relating to the individuals concerned. In this case the employees, who were Union officials, were people who had disobeyed the instructions of the Union that there should be no strike last November. These officials at Mombasa and Kisumu, acted contrary to the instructions of the Union leaders and proceeded to call out on strike staff in Mombasa and Kisumu. In being transferred they have not been victimized because they were acting contrary to the Union's instructions. Management considered it absolutely necessary that they should be transferred to other places of work and this has been done."

Further the Respondent by virtue of the agreement arrived at with the Claimant on the transfer of the Union officials which is quoted hereinabove has surrendered to that extent its prerogative of transferring its employees.

This being so the Court finds that these transfers are not administrative transfers and should, therefore, be revoked. But as it appears that some of these persons have been promoted and are probably going to be transferred again to other places the Court rules that these employees should be given the option of either returning to their original stations or staying where they are. The Court is seriously perturbed that such a responsible Union as the Claimant did nothing whatsoever to discipline its officials who were concerned in not calling off the strike in Mombasa and Kisumu on 5th November 1964, after agreement had been reached on the previous day, and hopes that these officials will be dealt with appropriately by the Claimant in order to avoid such incidents in future.

(iv) The operation of Industrial Relations Machinery within within the E A R & H—From the very outset the Court found that the operation of Industrial Relations Machinery in the East African Railways and Harbours was far from satisfactory. This is not due so much to lack of adequate procedural machinery as due to lack of appreciation of the other party's point of view on any given issue. The Court found the parties' attitude extremely rigid and a complete lack of appreciation that Management and labour are complementary to each other for the success of any enterprise. As one witness remarked both the Respondent and the Claimant have built a wall around themselves. There is no co-operation and an attitude of 'I am stronger than you' seems to prevail. No number of agreements can produce good industrial relations unless and until the attitude of the parties to each other changes and an improvement in human relations is effected. The Court finds that this is where things go wrong, the machinery is not only sufficient but extremely elaborate and one which, when drawn up, was best suited to the needs of the parties. The Court feels that the existence of various racial Unions is an anachronism and immediate steps should be taken to remedy this. The existing recognition agreement and the subsidiary agreements cannot be amended without the consultation of all the parties thereto which are all the various racial Unions and which are not a party to this dispute. The Court therefore, cannot in these circumstances make any specific order on this issue but makes a finding that the following matters are a cause of constant friction and which should be investigated by the Central Joint Council when the industrial relations machinery agreements come up for review which the Court understands will be in the near future —

- (i) The continued existence of the various racial Unions and staff Associations
- (ii) The lack of demarcation between unionizable and non-unionizable employees
- (iii) Consideration should be given to the setting up of a Productivity Council or Committee with equal members from both sides to find ways and means of stepping up productivity and increasing the income of the Respondent
- (iv) The controversial amendment to regulation G 2. This amendment seems to be an extremely provocative one. This need not be so and with the all-round improvement envisaged in the relations between the parties hereto it may be found that this is completely unnecessary
- (v) The existing machinery appears to be ponderous and there seems to be a need to simplify it
- (vi) Difficulty of representation on Local Staff Committees. It is unfair that when the Union is recognized at the top its authority should be challenged at the lower levels
- (vii) The final cause of friction which was evident to the Court is that Staff Regulations contain certain matters which have been negotiated between the parties, particularly so when the General Manager has the overall authority to vary them at will.

With these observations the Court hopes that a new era in industrial relations in the Railway Administration will be heralded with its immense benefits and the acrimony at present prevalent between the parties giving way to good will and co-operation.

GAZETTE NOTICE No 2568

THE TRADE MARKS ACT
(Cap 506)

NOTICE is hereby given that any person who has grounds of opposition to the registration of any of the trade marks advertised herein according to the classes may, within 60 days from the date of this Gazette, lodge notice of opposition on Form TM No 6 (in duplicate) together with a fee of Sh 50

Notice is also hereby given that official objection will be taken under rule 21 (3) to all applications in which the specification claims all the goods included in any class unless the Registrar is satisfied that the claim is justified by the use of the mark which the applicant has made, or intends to make if and when it is registered. Where an applicant considers that a claim in respect of all the goods included in a class can be justified it will save unnecessary delay in examining applications if a full explanation of the circumstances thought to justify such a claim is filed simultaneously with the application, accompanied in appropriate cases by supporting documents.

The period for lodging notice of opposition may be extended by the Registrar as he thinks fit and upon such terms as he may direct. Any request for such extension should be made to the Registrar so as to reach him before the expiry of the period allowed.

Formal opposition should not be lodged until after reasonable notice has been given by letter to the applicant for registration so as to afford him an opportunity of withdrawing his application before the expense of preparing the notice of opposition is incurred. Failure to give such notice will be taken into account in considering any application by an opponent for an order for costs if the opposition is uncontested by the applicant.

Where it is stated in the advertisement of the applicant that the mark, upon its registration, is to be limited to certain colours, the colours are, as far as possible, indicated in the accompanying representations of the mark in the usual heraldic manner.

Representations of the marks advertised herein can be seen at the Trade Marks Registry, State Law Offices, Nairobi.

Applications for registration in Part A of the Register are shown with the official number unaccompanied by any letter. Applications for Part B are distinguished by the letter B pre-fixed to the official number.
