Operators under this category shall own and operate any form of communications infrastructure (based on satellite, terrestrial, mobile or fixed).

(b) Applications service Provider (ASP)

(c) Contents Services Provider (CSP)

Licensees under this category shall provide contents services material, other information services and data processing services.

5.7.2. Process of Migration:

CCK will be expected to ensure a smooth transition to the ULF and will encourage licence holders who wish to migrate to the new framework to seek the appropriate modified license(s) from CCK as provided for under Annex 1.

5.7.3. Licensees who opt to remain under old regime:

The Government recognizes that there are some licensees who may not be able to migrate to the new framework immediately. To this end, CCK will ensure that licensees who choose to operate under their existing licenses retain those licenses under the original terms.

5.7.4. Protection of existing rights:

The Government is committed to fostering a predictable and attractive regulatory environment capable of attracting and promoting investments in the sector. Against this background, the CCK will ensure that the terms and conditions of the modified licences under ULF will not diminish the rights of existing licences.

To provide even more certainty in the sector, licences issued under the ULF will be on the same or more favourable terms.

CCK will also ensure that when modifying licences existing licensees maintain their numbering resources and assigned radio frequency spectrum for the duration for which those resources are assigned.

Consistent with the Government's objective of ensuring a smooth transition to the ULF, no licensees should be charged or incur expenses relating to the horizontal migration of existing licences.

The attached Annex 1 gives the possible migration scenarios for the existing licensees depending on their scope of operation.
