THE INDUSTRIAL COURT
CAUSE NO. 104 OF 1986

Parties:

Kenya Timber & Furniture Workers Union
and
Leonard Moore Limited

Issue in dispute:

Dismissal of Daniel Owino

THE Kenya Timber and Furniture Workers Union shall hereinafter be referred to as the claimants and Leonard Moore Limited shall hereinafter be referred to as the respondents.

2. The parties were heard in Nairobi on 29th July, 1987, and relied on their written and verbal submissions. The claimants called the grievant to give evidence while the respondents called Raj Mediratta and Henry Inyangala as witnesses.

AWARD

3. The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 8th April, 1986, duly signed by the parties was received by the court on 28th October, 1986, together with the statutory certificates signed by the Minister for Labour and the Labour Commissioner.

The grievant, Daniel Owino, worked for the respondents from 9th July, 1979, as a polisher and was dismissed on 28th May, 1984. His salary at the time of dismissal was Sh. 1,004. The circumstances which led to his dismissal took place on 28th May, 1984, when it was alleged that he intended to fight or he fought a colleague, Henry Inyangala, at their place of work.

It was alleged that the management wanted the employees to do overtime that day but Mr. Owino who was opposed to it, asked other workers also not to do overtime but Mr. Inyangala opted to do it.

The claimants told the court that after Mr. Owino's dismissal on Monday, 28th May, 1984, the claimants branch officials and management, carried out investigations to establish the cause of the trouble between the two employees. Their investigations revealed that the previous Saturday the two employees had quarrelled at a drinking place over Mr. Inyangala's girlfriend, who was taken by Mr. Owino. Mr. Inyangala reported the disagreement to the director who dismissed Mr. Owino instantly.

Giving evidence in court, the grievant, Daniel Owino, stated that on Saturday, 26th May, 1984, he and Henry Inyangala were drinking in a bar at Mathare Valley. Mr. Inyangala had a girlfriend who he, Mr. Owino, did not know. After talking to her she agreed to go with him. Mr. Owino left the bar at about 8 p.m. with the girl. On their way home Mr. Inyangala followed them with intent to fight Mr. Owino. When he found Mr. Owino was accompanied by three other men, he went away. On Monday, 28th May, the two met at the place of work. Mr. Owino stated that Mr. Inyangala confronted him for what had happened on Saturday. Mr. Owino told Mr. Inyangala that they would fight outside the factory and not inside. Mr. Inyangala went to the director and reported that Mr. Owino wanted to fight him. Mr. Owino told the court that both were called in the director's office. The director called the shop steward and a supervisor as well, Mr. Owino's file was brought and the director, after reading it, dismissed him instantly. Mr. Owino denied having fought Mr. Inyangala and also denied that they were asked to do overtime that day which he did not want other workers to do.

The respondents told the court that on Monday, 28th May, 1984, at 9 a.m. the workers were told they would do overtime work that day by the management. After the instruction, Mr. Owino told other workers that those in senior grades would do overtime but those in lower grades would not do it. When Henry Inyangala from the lower grade opted to do overtime, Mr. Owino hit him. The matter was reported to the director. As Mr. Owino had a previous relevant warning, the director who is charged with maintaining peace and discipline had no alternative but to dismiss Mr. Owino.

Giving evidence in court, Henry Inyangala stated that on Monday, 28th May, 1984, at about 9 a.m. while at work, they were told that there will be overtime work that evening. Mr. Owino took a piece of paper and started writing names of those who would do the overtime and who will not do it. Mr. Inyangala stated that he and other workers who were in his grade applied to do the overtime. Because Mr. Inyangala opted to do it, Mr. Owino hit him. Mr. Inyangala said he went to the director and reported the matter. Mr. Inyangala who claimed he does not drink beer, denied that there was any trouble between him and Mr. Owino on the previous Saturday over a girl at a bar in Mathare.

Another witness, Raj Mediratta, the director of the respondents, told the court that on Monday, 28th May, 1984, while going round the factory, he saw Mr. Owino hold Mr. Inyangala's shirt. When he asked them what was happening, Mr. Inyangala said that he wanted to do overtime but Mr. Owino did not want them to do it. Mr. Mediratta told the court that he gave instructions on Saturday, 26th May, that workers would be required to do overtime on Monday but Mr. Owino said they did not want overtime. Mr. Mediratta told the court that as he had warned Mr. Owino for fighting previously, he dismissed him. Mr. Mediratta stated that he witnessed the incident himself and that no one reported it to him.

After careful consideration of the submissions and evidence before it, the court notes that the dismissal letter gives reason for dismissal as "intended to fight" and not actual fighting while Henry Inyangala stated that he was hit by Mr. Owino. The dismissal letter confirms the evidence by the director who was at the scene personally, that Mr. Owino intended to fight by holding Mr. Inyangala's shirt. Another contradiction is that Mr. Inyangala stated that he reported the matter to the director but the director denied that it was reported to him. The third discrepancy between the respondents' witnesses is the date on which workers were told that they would be required to do overtime. These discrepancies cast doubt as to what actually happened. On the other hand the court does not believe that there was trouble between Mr. Owino and Mr. Inyangala at a bar in Mathare the previous Saturday.

The court has decided to give Mr. Owino the benefit of doubt and awards that his dismissal be reduced to normal termination and that he be paid three months salary as compensation for the wrongful dismissal he has suffered.

Given in Nairobi on 20th August, 1987.

GAZETTE NOTICE NO. 4014

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT
CAUSE NO. 112 OF 1986

Parties:

Kenya Union of Journalists
and
The Nation Newspapers Limited and
The Standard Limited

Issues in dispute:

- Salaries,
- Housing and housing allowance,
- Annual leave,
- Leave travel expenses,
- Medical treatment scheme for family,
- Mileage allowance,
- Training,
- Suspension,
- Transfer/disturbance allowance,
- Hours of work and overtime,
- Off-duty compensation,
- Taking down correspondent's stories.

THE Kenya Union of Journalists shall hereinafter be referred to as the claimants and the Nation Newspapers Limited, and the Standard Limited shall hereinafter be referred to as the respondents.

2. The parties were heard in Nairobi on 18th and 19th March, and 18th and 21st May and 9th June, 1987, and relied on their written and verbal submissions.

AWARD

3. The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 10th November, 1986, signed by the parties was received by the court on 18th November, 1986, together with the statutory certificate signed by the Labour Commissioner.

The parties to this dispute are governed by a two-year collective agreement, and the one under dispute became effective on 1st April, 1982, and expired on 31st March, 1984.

During the hearing of this dispute, the parties accused each other of failing to follow the laid down negotiating procedures which resulted in a prolonged delay in getting the dispute to the court. Once again the claimants raised their objection to the inclusion of the Federation of Kenya Employers officers by the respondents during their round of negotiations, but this was strongly resisted by the respondents on the ground that parties are free to bring any representative at any stage of negotiations in accordance with the parties recognition agreement. Further the parties have on several occasions accused each other of delay in submitting proposals in good time for early consideration in order to deny journalists salary increases at the right time. Even now the parties' next two-year agreement, the subject of this dispute, has already expired on 31st March, 1986, and is over one year late. The court has, time and again, stressed this point to the parties in order to save the respondents from arrears and many complications that arise after the announcement of the court award.

In the current dispute the main issues are salaries, housing allowance, leave allowance which in themselves have been bitterly contested by both parties and will consequently have a major bearing on the remaining issues in relation to the total labour cost to the respondents. The respondents, however, have submitted that, of the 12 issues brought before the court, virtually no fresh arguments since the last court award have been advanced by the claimants to win the court's sympathy when making its award. This, the claimants vehemently refuted as baseless.

Salaries

Under this item the claimants referred the court to cause No. 89/84, and the interpretation application which they had made in respect of the award made in that cause and which application has overlapped with the present dispute. The claimants argued that the court award based on the salary scales which the respondents had offered in cause No. 89/84, had tampered with the anniversary increases to the detriment of several of their members. They praised the Standard Limited for having implemented the court award in line with the claimants' interpretation and asked the court to reinstate the old salary scales incorporating the anniversary increases as they existed at that time and then to make an award in the present dispute.

In the present dispute the claimants' demand is based on an alleged undercompensation to their members over the previous years. They mentioned a figure of 31 per cent or more for which they were not compensated.

For the purposes of calculating their members' entitlement in the present dispute in addition to the above undercompensation they asked the court to note that the lowly paid categories in their collective agreement are defined as those salaries that range from 1st to 8th year within the scales and the highly paid are those salaried categories which are outside and above the scales. They demanded about 26 per cent per year by way of wage increase for the "lowly paid" journalists and about 20 per cent for the "highly paid".

The respondents very strongly resisted the claim that there had been any undercompensation to the journalists involved and stated that if anything they had been overcompensated over the years. They offered an 8 per cent per year increase for the "lowly paid" journalists and 5 per cent each year increase for the "highly paid".

The court gave every opportunity to the parties to put forward their arguments comprehensively and table all the necessary documentary evidence during the hearing of this dispute and has carefully considered all the arguments and submissions made by the parties in arriving at its decision.

The court would like to clarify that the issue of salaries has to cover and include salary scales within which are incorporated anniversary increases. All aspects touching the salaries like salary scales, their progression, and anniversary increases, are an inherent part of salaries and cannot be divorced. It is the court's duty to develop a logical salary progression and to remove anomalies wherever they may exist. This the court did in clause No. 89/84 but as pointed out by the claimants it resulted in some of their members' anniversary increases being drastically reduced. The court being satisfied on that score has decided to accede to the claimants' demand that the Nation Newspapers Limited, should fall in line with the Standard Limited on this issue, and the court accordingly awards that for the purposes of its award in the present dispute the salary scale as it has developed at the Standard Limited after the court's award in clause No. 89/84, should be implemented by the Nation Newspapers Limited as well with effect from the effective date of the court's award in this dispute which date the parties are in agreement is 1st April, 1984.

Having brought both the respondents at par as far as salary scales are concerned and taking into account the wages guidelines the court awards a 10 per cent wage increase per year to journalists within the scales and an 8 per cent salary increase per year for those above the scales. These increases are to be effective from 1st April, 1984.

Housing and housing allowance

When the issue of a separate housing was agreed to after April 1980, this item was treated as a separate negotiable item. Currently the claimants have demanded 15 per cent of the journalists' salary to be paid as housing allowance based on the journalists' second-year salary. They further submitted that this demand is half of the percentage entitlement for salary increases and that it is in line with the allowed compensation under the guidelines. The respondents have on the other hand found the demand outrageous and have offered a 5 per cent increase on the existing housing allowance. They maintain, the claimants are among the well paid employees in the country and they should not expect the house allowance, after the recent introduction of house allowance as a separate item for them, to meet the high cost of accommodation in the main towns.

The court notes that the relevant wages guidelines read as follows:

Guideline (iv) (a) Overall wage increases for all income groups covered in a particular contract shall average no more than three quarters of the rise in the cost of living. However, full compensation for cost of living increases should be allowed for the lower paid groups. The percentage of compensation shall decrease progressively as applied to the higher paid employee groups.

- (b) (i) Separate compensation for rent increases in addition to (iv) (a) above should be allowed provided that this will not exceed one half of the permissible percentage compensation due for a particular group as provided for under Guideline (iv) (a) above.

With the foregoing submissions in mind and the guidelines in force at the time the court awards a monthly housing allowance of Sh. 450 to those journalists earning less than Sh. 4,000 per month and Sh. 650 for those earning above Sh. 4,000 per month from 1st April, 1984.

Annual leave

On this issue the claimants have demanded an additional five working days on top of the current 30 working days. They claim that they lost 2 days in the previous award and would like to be compensated. The respondents have asked the court to restore the old 32 consecutive days. After careful consideration of this issue the court has decided to leave the journalists entitlement as it is.

Leave travel expenses allowance

The claimants have demanded under this item Sh. 1,500 against the respondents offer of Sh. 1,300.

The respondents have argued that there has hardly been any appreciable rise in transport costs during the period under review, so their offer is more than adequate compensation.

The court has given due consideration to all the arguments advanced by the parties, and awards that the current level of leave travel allowance be increased from Sh. 1,200 to Sh. 1,400 per annum to be paid to journalists when proceeding on annual leave and will become effective from 1st April, 1984.

Medical Treatment scheme for family

The claimants have submitted that the current medical facility they enjoy should be extended to their whole families without any limitation as to cost. This submission has been vigorously resisted by the respondents, who have argued that if journalists would like to join the management medical scheme then, they must be prepared to join and abide by the conditions governing such scheme. They cannot have their own medical scheme for this purpose quite apart from that of management thereby making themselves a class of their own in the industry. They have further argued that families do not form part of the employment contract and as such the obligation on the part of the respondents is towards its employees only. The respondents have, under the circumstances rejected this demand.

The court had asked, the parties to deliberate on this issue but, notes with disappointment that nothing worthwhile had taken place in that direction.

The court in consideration of the situation, is of the view that the matter be left in abeyance until the parties are ready to seriously go into this issue and come out with useful proposals to enable the court to arbitrate upon. Under the circumstances the court rules that the present arrangement continues.

Mileage allowance

On this item the claimants have demanded Sh. 6 per km. or Sh. 8.40 per mile against the respondents current rate of Sh. 4 per km. or Sh. 6.40 per mile.

They have alleged that the old agreement allowed for a review upwards of these rates whenever the fuel costs go up during the life of the agreement. The respondents failed to review these rates when fuel costs went up. The respondents refuted this and pointed out that fuel costs never went up to the tune suggested by the claimants and submitted that the current rates be retained at their current level.

The court rejects the claimants demand for the time being.

Training

Under this issue the claimants would like any journalist proceeding on training to have such training paid for in full by the respondents. This would include training on trade union matters and other related training touching on the claimants' professional lines.

The respondents have submitted that training is really the prerogative of the management when considering manpower development directly related to the respondents' business. To this end, the respondents are better placed to plan their training needs, and, the respondents have often arranged such training locally and overseas upto degree level. The respondents have further submitted that local training arrangements are being discussed further covering trade union courses and are best left in the hand of labour advisory board for the time being.

After careful consideration of the submissions made by the parties the court finds it necessary to advise the parties to await the amending labour legislation in the pipeline on this issue since the government has made known its policy on trade union training programme. As far as the professional training of journalists is concerned it is a matter of management prerogative.

Suspension

With regard to this issue the claimants submitted that suspension for gross misconduct should not be less than three months on full pay. Further if a journalist, after investigation, is terminated then he should be entitled to all his benefits.

The respondents on the other hand submitted that no evidence had been advanced by the claimants to warrant a review of this issue and request the court to reject the demand.

Taking into account all the submissions made during the hearing, the court rules that the existing provisions adequately cover this matter. The court finds no merit in the claimants' demand and accordingly rejects it.

Transfer/disturbance allowance

On this issue the claimants demand that the current one months' pay for those on transfer is inadequate and should be increased to three months' pay due to the high cost of hotel accommodation. They pointed out that this issue affects very few people at any given time and would not be very expensive for the respondents.

The respondents have submitted that this issue was rejected during the last award, and, the claimants have failed to bring fresh and convincing reasons to warrant a change on an earlier court ruling.

The court has carefully examined the points raised by the parties and finds that 30 days allowance is adequate for the time being, and rejects the claimants' demand.

Hours of work and overtime

Under this item the claimants have demanded Sh. 200 per late shift worked, additional tea/dinner and transport home.

The respondents have argued that there has been no change in the working arrangements and as such no inconveniences have been caused to the claimants' members to warrant a review of their existing allowances and transport arrangements.

The court in its last award directed the parties to hold serious talks over this issue during their negotiations, but they have failed to come up with any evidence of having done that.

The court has decided to reject the claimants' demand.

Off-duty compensation

Under this item the claimants' demands are—

- (a) KSh. 400 or one day's pay whichever is greater;
- (b) One day off plus KSh. 250 ex-gratia payment for inconvenience.

The respondents on the other hand submitted that they offer a day for a day or ex-gratia payment of KSh. 100.

The court has carefully considered the submissions and awards a day off plus an ex-gratia payment of KSh. 175 for the inconvenience.

Taking down correspondent's stories

Under this item the claimants have demanded that since they are doing secretarial duties while taking stories sent to them over the telephone in addition to their usual work they should be paid Sh. 80 per story so taken.

The respondents on the other hand have argued that the situation has not changed since the court rejected this item in its last award. This work is part and parcel of the journalist's job.

The court finds no merit in this demand and it is rejected.
