(2) Other expressions used in these Rules shall have the meanings assigned to such expressions in the Act.

Powers of Commissioner

3. Anything which is authorized or required by these Rules to be done by the Commissioner may be done by such other officer as the Commissioner may direct.

Service or issue of notice and other documents

4. Section 145 of the Act shall apply to any notice or other document which is authorized or required to be given, served or issued by the Commissioner under these Rules.

Deduction of tax at standard rate

5. Every employer who makes any payment of, or on account of, emoluments during any year to any employee of his liable to payment of tax shall deduct from such emoluments tax at the standard rate in accordance with the provisions of these Rules.

Determination of free monthly pay

6. The employer shall determine for each month in respect of the employee the free monthly pay of the employee and for that purpose the employer shall have regard to the following—

(a) one twelfth part of the personal allowances to which such employee is entitled;

(b) any amount notified, on the free monthly pay notification, to the employer by the Commissioner as free monthly pay of such employee; and

(c) the unused free monthly pay of such employee:

Provided that for the purposes of the determination of free monthly pay of such employee, the employer, unless notified to the contrary by the Commissioner, shall have no regard to any personal allowance to which such employee may be entitled unless such employee has duly completed the allowances claim form provided by the employer, in the form authorized by the Commissioner, for the Territory in which such employee is resident; and such allowances claim form when duly completed shall be sufficient evidence to the employer that such employee is entitled to the personal allowances claimed thereon.

Determination of Commissioner that no tax at standard rate is deductible.

7. The Commissioner may at any time determine that no tax at the standard rate shall be deducted from any emoluments of any employee—

(b) if the Commissioner is not satisfied that such emoluments will be chargeable to tax at the standard rate:

Provided that, where such determination is made known to the employer during the year, any tax at the standard rate deducted from the emoluments of such employee may be refunded to such employee by the Commissioner.

Calculation of deduction and maintenance of records

8. (1) On the occasion of the last payment in any month of emoluments to the employee, the employer except where these Rules otherwise provide, shall ascertain the monthly pay paid to the employee during that month, the free monthly pay of the employee for that month, the chargeable monthly pay, if any, of the employee for that month and the tax at the standard rate payable on such chargeable monthly pay.

(2) If the monthly pay of the employee for any month exceeds the free monthly pay of such employee for such month, then the employer shall deduct tax at the standard rate on the chargeable monthly pay of such employee for such month from the last payment in such month of emoluments to such employee:

Provided that if the tax at the standard rate payable on such chargeable monthly pay is greater than the last payment of emoluments to such employee in that month, the employer shall deduct such tax as is not recoverable from such payment from the first payment in the following month of emoluments to such employee and from any subsequent such payments as may be necessary to recover such tax.

(3) The employer shall record for every month in which any payment of emoluments is made to the employee, either on the tax deduction card or in such other form as may be authorized by the Commissioner, such particulars as the Commissioner may direct in respect of any such payment.

(4) Where the Commissioner determines that no tax shall be deducted from any emoluments of any employee, the foregoing provisions of this rule shall not apply, and the employer shall deduct no tax at the standard rate but shall record, for every month in which any payment of emoluments is made to the employee, either on the tax deduction card or in such other form as may be authorized by the Commissioner, the monthly pay paid to the employee during such month.

(2) If the amounts of tax at the standard rate which the employer has deducted under these Rules from emoluments paid by him during any month is less than twenty shillings or if, under these Rules, the employer has deducted no tax at the standard rate from emoluments paid by him during any month, then the employer shall not comply with the provisions of paragraph (1) of this rule but shall send, before the tenth day following the end of such month or before such other day as may be notified to him by the Commissioner, to the Commissioner or as the Commissioner shall direct, a certificate, in the form authorized or provided by the Commissioner, showing either that the amount of tax which he deducted in such month was less than twenty shillings or that he deducted no amount of tax in such month:

Provided that when the amount of tax at the standard rate deducted from emoluments paid by him in any month is less than twenty shillings, such amount shall be added to the amount of tax at the standard rate deducted from emoluments paid by him in the following month, or months, and when the total amounts of such tax is greater than twenty shillings, or in the month of December notwithstanding that the total amounts of such tax is less than twenty shillings, the employer shall comply with the provisions of paragraph (1) of this rule.

Employer failing to pay tax or to provide required certificate

12 (1) If, before the tenth day following the end of every month or before such other later day as may have been notified to him by the Commissioner, the employer has paid no amount of tax under rule 11 for such month and the Commissioner is unaware of the amount, if any, which the employer is liable so to pay or the employer has failed to provide the certificate mentioned in paragraph (2) of rule 11, the Commissioner may give notice to the employer requiring him to render, within the time limited in the notice, a return showing the name of every employee to whom he made any payment of emoluments in the period stated in the notice, together with such particulars with regard to each such employee as the notice may require being particulars of—

- (a) any determination under rule 6 appropriate to the employee's case;
- (b) the payments of emoluments made to the employee during that period; and
- (c) any other matter affecting the calculation of the tax at the standard rate which the employer was liable under these Rules to deduct from the payments of emoluments to the employee during that period.

(2) The Commissioner shall ascertain and certify, to the best of his knowledge and belief—

(4) Where a notice given by the Commissioner under paragraph (1) of this rule extends to two or more consecutive months, the provisions of these Rules shall have effect as if the said consecutive months were one month.

(5) A notice may be given by the Commissioner under paragraph (1) of this rule notwithstanding that an amount of tax has been paid under rule 11 by the employer for any month or that the certificate mentioned in paragraph (2) of rule 11 has been provided, if the Commissioner is not satisfied that the amount so paid is the full amount which the employer would have been liable to pay under rule 11 for that month had he complied with the provisions of these Rules, and the provisions of this rule shall have effect accordingly.

Recovery of tax

(3) A certificate of the Commissioner that any amount of tax at the standard rate such as is mentioned in paragraph (2) of this rule has not been paid, to the best of his knowledge and belief, as he has directed shall be sufficient evidence that the sum mentioned in the certificate is unpaid and is due and payable; and any document purporting to be such a certificate as aforesaid shall be deemed to be such a certificate until the contrary is proved.

(2) The declaration referred to in paragraph (1) of this rule shall be signed by the employer.

(3) If more than one month after the end of the year the employer has failed to pay as the Commissioner has directed the tax deducted at the standard rate which he would have been liable to pay under rule 11 had he complied with the provisions of these Rules the Commissioner may prepare a certificate showing the amount of tax remaining unpaid for that year; and to the amount shown in the said certificate the provisions of rule 13 shall apply with any necessary modification.

Inspection of employer's records

15. (1) Every employer, when called upon to do so by any person authorized by the Commissioner, shall produce, in such language as the Commissioner may require, to that person for inspection, at the employer's premises or at such other place as may be notified to the employer by the Commissioner—

- (a) all wages sheets, salary vouchers and any other books, documents and records whatsoever relating to the calculation or payment of the emoluments of his employees in respect of the years or months specified by the authorized person or to the deduction of tax at the standard rate by reference to such emoluments; or
- (b) such of those wages sheets, salary vouchers and other books, documents and records as may be specified by the authorized person.

(2) The person authorized by the Commissioner may, on the occasion of each inspection, prepare a certificate by reference to the information obtained from the inspection of the documents and records produced under paragraph (1) of this rule and such certificate shall show—

- (a) the amount of tax at the standard rate which it appears from the documents and records so produced that the employer would have been liable to pay under rule 11 for the years or months covered by the inspection had he complied with the provisions of these Rules;
- (b) any amount of such tax which, to the best of his knowledge and belief, has not been paid as the Commissioner has directed.

(3) The production of the certificate mentioned in paragraph (2) of this rule shall be sufficient evidence that the employer is liable to pay, in respect of the years or months mentioned in the certificate, the amount shown therein pursuant to paragraph (2) (b) of this rule; and any document purporting to be such a certificate as aforesaid shall be deemed to be such a certificate until the contrary is proved.

(4) The provisions of rule 13 shall apply with any necessary modifications to the amount shown in the said certificate pursuant to paragraph (2) (b) of this rule.

Death of employer

16. If an employer dies, anything which he would have been liable to do under these Rules shall be done by his personal representative, or, in the case of an employer who paid emoluments on behalf of another person, by the person succeeding him, or, if no person succeeds him, the person on whose behalf he paid such emoluments.

Change of employer in the same employment

17. This rule applies where there has been a change in the employer from whom an employee receives emoluments in respect of the same employment.

(2) Where this rule applies the employer after the change shall, in relation to any matter arising after the change, be liable to do anything which the employer before the change would have been liable to do under these Rules if the change had not taken place:

KENYA POST OFFICE SAVINGS BANK ACCOUNTS FOR THE YEAR 1963

REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE ACCOUNT
INVESTMENTS ADJUSTMENT ACCOUNT
RESERVE ACCOUNT

BALANCE SHEET
ACCOUNT OF DEPOSITS AND WITHDRAWALS

RESERVE ACCOUNT
1. I have examined the accounts listed above in accordance with section 13 of the Post Office Savings Bank Act. I have obtained all the information and explanations that I have required, and I certify, as the result of my audit, that in my opinion these accounts are correct, subject to the following observations.

REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE ACCOUNT

2. Interest Credited to Depositors—£140,000.—This has been estimated from total monthly balances standing to the credit of depositors in the Main Ledger for 1963.

3. Interest Credited to Depositors for 1962.—Numerous errors were again found during the sample audit of calculations of interest credited to depositors. It is hoped that such errors will be eliminated when electronic data processing is introduced late in 1964.

4. Losses of Savings Bank—It is hoped that such errors will be eliminated when electronic data processing is introduced to depositors.

4. Losses of Savings Bank Money £4,262 5-63. This amount comprises 251 items and includes:—
 (i) Overpayments to the public, in 11 cases, amounting to £114 18-10.
 (ii) One case of armed robbery resulting in the loss of £7 5-0.
 (iii) Numerous cases of forgery and fraudulent alteration of Savings Bank pass books by organized gangs and by individuals resulting in the loss of £3,959 2-73.
 (iv) Losses amounting to £201 resulting from five cases of misappropriation, forgery and fraudulent manipulation of Savings Bank accounts by Post Office employees.

BALANCE SHEET

5. Balance Due to Depositors—£5,756,071—5—85.—The comparison of the total amount standing to the credit of individual depositors' accounts with the relevant account in the Main Ledger as at 31st December 1963 is being undertaken but is not yet completed.

6. The known difference by which depositors' accounts exceed the Main Ledger account as at 31st December 1962, after allowing for errors brought to light in 1963, is £7,194. This is an increase of £2,122-6-40 over the difference at the end of the previous year.

7. Cash and Investments Held by the Crown Agents.—Statements certified by the Comptroller and Auditor-General of the United Kingdom in respect of cash and investments held by the Crown Agents on behalf of the Savings Bank at the 31st December 1963 have not yet been received although uncertified copies of these statements have been seen.

KENYA POST OFFICE SAVINGS BANK

DURING 1963, 36,071 new accounts were opened and 14,049 closed, a net increase over the previous year of 22,022, and the total number of depositors in the Bank now stands at 450,557. However, the average active holding fell from £16.32 to £15.35. A decade ago this holding was £49.30.

In spite of the increase in the number of accounts, the total amount deposited declined slightly, and for the year was £3,149,603. Withdrawals were £3,783,073, producing a deficiency of £633,470. This is a matter of concern, and necessitated the disposal of investments to the value of £476,044. The cumulative effect of similar action in previous years is reflected in the Revenue and Expenditure Account; fortunately the value of investments held again appreciated, thus reducing the deficit on the Reserve Account by £192,022.

As at 31st December 1963, the amount standing to the credit of depositors was £5,756,071. This includes an estimated £140,000 being interest due to depositors.

In the Report for 1962 reference was made to the fact that the majority of participants in the Voluntary Deductions Scheme were not effecting regular savings, but were using the facility on a current account basis. During 1963 an intensive study of the Scheme was undertaken, and it was apparent that it involved the Bank in considerable management costs, out of all proportion to the value of the deposits. After consultation with the Government the facility was withdrawn in the latter part of the year.

It is a matter of satisfaction that in spite of a decline in the interest from investments of £5,440, the Revenue and Expenditure Account deficiency of £6,164 was £9,472 less than in 1962. The cessation of the Deductions Scheme referred to above was a factor in this improvement, coupled with general economies at Headquarters.

coupled with general economies at Headquarters.

Efforts are being made to stimulate the interest of business houses in Provident Fund facilities for their employees and in the Savings Bank for depositing the joint funds. Every assistance is afforded to employers, model schemes being submitted for guidance if necessary. Deposits received from Provident Fund sources are gradually increasing, and this field of saving is being actively pursued as it results in funds being deposited on a long-term basis.

It is proposed to make use of a computer for Savings Banks Headquarters during the current year. This will improve accounting efficiency, particularly in regard to the annual calculation of interest. In addition the computer facility will provide an analysis of transactions, so that preventative measures can be readily applied to accounts which are not being used to effect regular savings.

During 1964 Savings Banks Headquarters will be moving to more convenient premises, and a saving on rental for office accommodation will be made.

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE NO. 14 OF 1966

Parties:

Domestic and Hotel Workers' Union
and
Block Hotels Limited

Issues in Dispute:

- (1) Minimum Wages.
- (2) Incremental Scales.
- (3) Seniority.

1. Domestic and Hotel Workers' Union shall hereinafter be referred to as the Claimants and Block Hotels Limited shall hereinafter be referred to as the Respondents.

2. The Parties were heard in Nairobi on the 21st day of April 1966 and relied on their written and verbal submissions.

GENERAL BACKGROUND

3. The Respondents granted recognition to the Claimants in 1964 and shortly after an Agreement on Fringe Benefits was drawn up between them. Later in 1964 and in 1965 wage rates were also agreed which specified the minimum and maximum for each job with an incremental scale. On 17th December 1965 the Claimants submitted fresh wage demands which were not acceptable to the Respondents. A dispute having arisen the matter was referred to the Industrial Court in accordance with the provisions of the Trade Disputes Act, 1965, and the Parties signed the notification form on or about 9th March 1966.

MAIN SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE CLAIMANTS

4. (1) Minimum Wages.—The Claimants submitted that the Respondents owned some of the largest hotels in East Africa and enjoyed good financial standing. The Respondents' hotels, they stated, catered for overseas visitors and had to maintain international standards which they were able to do through the co-operation and hard work of their employees. It was, therefore, right and proper that the minimum rates paid by them should be higher than those paid in other hotels.

It was not fair for such big employers to continue paying wages based on the Regulation of Wages (Hotels and Catering Trades) Order, 1965. That Order, the Claimants pointed out, was meant to apply to small hotels and did not lay down maximum rates for the various jobs, only minimum rates were specified. If the Court found that the Respondents were in a position to pay higher rates then there was nothing to stop the Court from so awarding.

The Claimants further submitted that during their negotiations on terms and conditions of service the Respondents had conceded that after the implementation of the revised Wages Council Order they would meet and negotiate on enhanced rates of pay, but that although the Order came into effect on 1st December 1965 the Respondents had refused to increase their rates of pay. And, further, that the Respondents had never during negotiations put forward any arguments which showed that they were not financially able to meet their demands. It was quite unfair for well-established employers like the Respondents to take advantage of a Wages Council Order.

The Claimants requested the Court to award increased minimum rates for the various jobs as shown in their Appendix 1 to their written submissions which reflected a considerable increase in the rates specified by the Wages Council Order.

(2) Incremental Scales.—On Incremental Scales, the Claimants pointed out that at present an employee did not get any increment for his first two years of service, but that after that period he qualified for increments for his 3rd, 4th and 5th year of service and that that was the end of the incremental scale. The Claimants submitted that the Wages Council for the Hotel and Catering Trades revised its Order every two years which coincided with an employee's first increment; this resulted in the employee getting an increment after three years and not two years as appeared on paper. All employees were now stagnating at their maximum rates and to overcome this unsatisfactory situation the Claimants requested the Court to make the following award—

- (a) all employees on their maximum who earned less than Sh. 400 per month should get an increment of Sh. 50 a month;
- (b) all employees on their maximum who earned between Sh. 400 and Sh. 600 per month should get an increment of Sh. 80 a month; and
- (c) all employees on their maximum who earned Sh. 600 and more should get an increment of Sh. 100 a month.

The Claimants maintained that the majority of workers employed by the Respondents had more than five years' service and had already reached the maximum of their scales and that unless the Court awarded as requested, such workers had no future prospects.

(3) Seniority.—The Claimants submitted very strongly that employees who had served for more than five years should be given recognition for their valuable contribution in helping to develop the Respondents' hotels. The Respondents has argued that until a worker had completed eight years of service he should not be recognized as a senior employee and should not get the long term bonus; this the Claimants rejected and stated that employees who had reached their maximum after five years should not have to wait for another three years before being entitled to a long term bonus. It was their submission that on completion of five years' service employees should be recognized as senior staff and should be given seniority allowance as follows:—

- (a) After 5 years' continuous service—15 per cent seniority allowance per month above their wages.
- (b) After 10 years' continuous service—20 per cent seniority allowance per month above their wages.
- (c) After 15 years' continuous service—25 per cent seniority allowance per month above their wages.
- (d) After 20 years' continuous service—30 per cent seniority allowance per month above their wages.

They argued that the Respondents had made fantastic profits due to the fact that their employees had been paid low wages for a very long time and it would be unfortunate if the workers who were building the economy of this country did not get a fair deal. Money earned from overseas visitors, tourists and foreign investors would remain in the country if workers' wages were increased as they would spend the money locally and this again would boost the economy of the country. The Claimants submitted that it was their main duty to raise the standard of living of their members and as the cost of living had gone up considerably they submitted that their demands were reasonable and fair.

MAIN SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE RESPONDENTS

5. The Respondents submitted that although there were three issues recorded under "issues in dispute" there was little doubt that they existed in one context only and it was for this reason that they had made a general submission covering all aspects of the wage structure which currently applied to their staff at the New Stanley Hotel and Norfolk Hotel. They strongly refuted the Claimants' statement that they had taken advantage of the Wages Council Order for the Hotel and Catering Trades as only a few employees in their two hotels received wages at the level of the Wages Council Order.

It was their submission that they had adopted a paternalistic policy to their employees and it was for this reason that the current wage structure had evolved. Employees in the hotels benefited by an incremental scale and when their emoluments reached the top level of the scale were further enhanced on completion of periods of service by bonus payments involving percentage increases of current earnings. They submitted that they had negotiated willingly with the Claimants and that this fact was demonstrated by their current Agreement on fringe benefits which allowed privileges to their employees far above those laid down in the Wages Council Order. Details of these fringe benefits were given to the Court.

It was the Respondents' further submission that the Claimants had not supported their case with evidence to show that other Hoteliers in Kenya of equivalent status were currently paying at an equal, or more generous level. This evidence they argued, could not be produced because they led the field with their extremely high level wage structure and fringe benefits. This being the case, the Respondents submitted that the Claimants should have approached other enterprises to raise up their standards to their level and that unless this was done it would be unfair to further raise the wages and benefits of their employees.

Referring to the Wages Council Order the Respondents pointed out that the minimum wage specified in the First Schedule was the beginning of the pay scale in their wage structure and that incremental credit was granted thereafter. Only newcomers to employment received the current Wages Council Order levels. Staff of competence and experience were remunerated at a much higher level. The Respondents submitted that it would be illogical to have an indefinite incremental scale. The top level of the incremental scale was the rate for the job and it could be seen that the rates available at the top level were far higher than the legitimate expectations of the bulk of employees in the hotel trade.

The Respondents drew the Court's attention to international practices in the hotel industry in support of their view that their employees were very well-off even when compared with the rates being paid in other parts of the world. In these circumstances the Respondents very strongly requested the Court to make a nil award on all three issues.

AWARD

6. In this dispute the Claimants presented their case in a confused manner and most of their contentions were not fully supported with facts or figures. On the other hand, the Respondents produced evidence to the fact that their wage structure and level of fringe benefits were well above those specified in Regulation of Wages (Hotel and Catering Trades) Order, 1965, which came into operation on 1st December 1965.

The Court notes that out of about 100 employers in the hotel and catering trades the Claimants have only so far succeeded in obtaining "recognition" from the Respondents leaving all the others to comply with wages and fringe benefits as specified in the aforesaid Regulation of Wages Order. The Claimants had stated, however, that negotiations for obtaining "recognition" were in progress, and whether or not they succeeded was a matter to be seen as negotiations were still in a preliminary stage.

The Court is satisfied that the Respondents' wage structure is superior to that of the First Schedule in the aforesaid Regulations of Wages Order and that only a few employees are at present on the minimum rates. Further, wages, incremental scales and fringe benefits being enjoyed by the Claimants' members, are not at all unreasonable and compare favourably with the current trends in the country. The Court has also taken into consideration the fact that the whole amount collected through Service Charge is distributed 100 per cent among the employees; this in 1964 amounted to £61,722 and was in addition to £144,000 (approximate figure) representing the total wage bill. The Service Charge total is variable but the Court does not envisage it going down in future due to the scarcity of hotel accommodation in the country.

In these circumstances, the Court is constrained to make a Nil Award on all issues except in the case of those employees who have reached their agreed maximums and have not received an increment for two years. The Claimants succeeded in satisfying the Court that there was some justification for an increase as far as these employees were concerned.

The Court awards to all such employees an increase of Sh. 25 per month; provided that if any such employee is in receipt of a wage above the new total i.e. maximum rate plus Sh. 25, such employee shall not benefit under this Award.

This Award shall be with effect from 1st May 1966.

Given in Nairobi this 7th day of May 1966.

GAZETTE NOTICE NO. 1646

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE NO. 16 OF 1966

Parties:—

The Tailors and Textiles Workers' Union

and

The East Africa Bag and Cordage Company Limited

Issues in dispute:—

- (1) Wage Increase.
- (2) Overtime Rates.
- (3) Leave Facilities.

1. The Tailors and Textiles Workers' Union shall hereinafter be referred to as the Claimants and the East Africa Bag and Cordage Company Limited shall hereinafter be referred to as the Respondents.

2. The Parties were heard in Nairobi on the 26th day of April 1966, and relied on their written and verbal submissions.

GENERAL BACKGROUND

3. The Respondents granted recognition to the Claimants on 8th November 1961. An agreement was finalized between the Parties relating to terms and conditions of service of the Respondents' employees in September 1964, but was back-dated to 1st April 1964. This agreement was for two years. Negotiations were carried out to revise this agreement and the Parties failed to resolve the aforesaid three issues. The matter was referred to the Industrial Court for adjudication on 8th March 1966, in accordance with the Trade Disputes Act, 1965.

MAIN SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE CLAIMANTS

4. (1) Wage Increase.—The Claimants submitted that at present the rates being paid for the various Grades were as follows:—

Grade A	Sh. 600 per month
Grade B	Sh. 420 per month
Grade C	Sh. 240 per month
Grade D	Sh. 180 per month
Grade E	Sh. 140 per month
Grade F	Sh. 120 per month
Grade G	Sh. 108 per month.

Employees were also provided with free housing in addition to the above rates of pay.

The Claimants stated that they represented 1,448 members out of a total labour force of 1,700 employees.

On the wage demand the Claimants submitted that although they had started negotiations for a 60 per cent increase on the aforesaid rates, they had dropped this to 40 per cent in the spirit of collective bargaining. They regretted, however, that the Respondents had not moved in the same spirit but had stuck obstinately to their initial offer of only 10 per cent increase on Grades E, F and G, 7½ per cent on Grades C and D and 5 per cent on Grades A and B. They had rejected the Respondents' offer as it was too low and compared poorly with the continuous rise in the standard of living.

The Claimants justified their 40 per cent wage increase demand on the following grounds:—

- (a) The Respondents were not facing any competition either in East or Central Africa as there was no other firm engaged in the same type of business;
- (b) the Respondents were in a better position to meet the Claimants' demands as they were not affected in any way by import or export restrictions as was the case in other industries;
- (c) the cost of living had risen considerably, school fees had gone up, employees had to pay higher Graduated Personal Tax and a wage of at least Sh. 350 was needed to enable an employee to meet his bare necessities of life; and
- (d) the Respondents were an international company and traded all over the world and were, therefore, able to meet the Claimants' demands.

In these circumstances, they requested the Court to make an award in accordance with their demands.

(2) Overtime Rates.—The Claimants pointed out that they had put forward no demands on this issue as they were quite happy with the present arrangement which was as the result of an Arbitration Award in 1964. The Respondents, however, had sought revision of the overtime rates in order to reduce them to which demand they could not, under any circumstance, agree. They stated that there could be no valid reasons for reducing any benefit which the Unions had won.

(3) Leave Facilities.—Here, again, the Claimants pointed out the Respondents were seeking a revision of the existing agreement in order to reduce the current entitlement of the employees which, again, they would not accept. They stated that their demands put before the Arbitrator in 1964, under both these issues, were considerably higher than what the Arbitrator gave as his award.

MAIN SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE RESPONDENTS

5. (1) Wage Increase.—The Respondents submitted that the employees' cash earnings were more than those specified in the various rates for the grades as they had an extensive incentive system which increased monthly earnings on an average ranging between Sh. 127 per month at the top level and Sh. 55 at the bottom. In addition, there were other benefits like free housing, free entertainment, medical and welfare facilities which included the services of a team of trained Health Visitors and Midwives; social services alone, the Respondents pointed out, cost them about £8,000 per annum. In these circumstances, the Respondents stated that there was no reality in the Claimants' demand for a 60 per cent wage increase which they had later dropped to 40 per cent.

When they had made their offers for wage increases amounting to 10 per cent for the bottom three grades, 7½ per cent for the next two grades and 5 per cent for the top two grades, they had done so in good faith and in the light of the fact that in Kenya today bags could be imported from India and Pakistan at an equivalent or lesser price than it cost to produce a similar bag in their factory. They believed their offers to be realistic as the new wages would be well in line with contemporary negotiations and awards. They stated that they were prepared to accept the claim that there had been a rise in the cost of living but believed that their offers would take care of such increase.

Details of their diminishing markets were given to the Court by the Respondents which, on an East African basis alone, they claimed, to have suffered a net loss of 30 tons. And as far as exports to other countries were concerned there had been a marked drop in trade due to various factors. They requested the Court to confirm their offers on wage increases.

(2) Overtime Rates.—The Respondents pointed out that they had been burdened for a long time with the misfortune of paying excessive overtime rates due to a misunderstanding as they currently paid 2½ times for week-days and 2½ times for Sundays, Christmas Day and Kenyatta Day. During the course of negotiations the Claimants had submitted a demand for an increase in these rates and although, at a later stage had withdrawn them, they were not prepared to meet them on the need to bring these rates back to the established normal in Kenya. This arrangement had been confirmed by the Arbitrator in 1964. It was the view of the Respondents that at some stage these unfortunate figures should be removed and what was established practice in the country substituted in their stead. They requested the Court to bring the overtime rates in this industry to the level of the current rates in the country generally.

(3) Leave Facilities.—The Respondents rejected demands by the Claimants for increased leave and at the same time ought to eliminate the 42 days' leave every three years provided for in their Agreement. They pointed out that the difficulties created by the extended leave period when applied to their staff exceeding 1,600, imposed serious extra costs as there was a need to retain a large number of spare machine operators who must be available to step into the places of those persons proceeding on long leave. They accepted the need for employees to take regular leave but submitted that the 42 days were non-productive and that there was no justification for "long leave". They requested the Industrial Court to change this particular leave provision and to bring it into line with contemporary practice.

AWARD

6. The Court, having very carefully considered the submissions made by the Parties and the evidence tendered, grants a monthly increase of Sh. 30 to all employees in Grade A, Sh. 20 to all employees in Grades B and C, and Sh. 15 to all employees in Grades D, E, F and G.

On the other two issues, the Court sees no reason to vary the existing Agreement and, therefore, records a nil award.

GAZETTE NOTICE NO. 1647

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE NO. 12 OF 1966

Parties:

Kenya Union of Commercial Food and Allied Workers
and
Saccone and Speed (East Africa) Limited

Issue in Dispute:

Whether the Employer is bound by the Terms and Conditions of Service of the Bottling Group of the Brewing and Bottling Association.

1. Kenya Union of Commercial Food and Allied Workers shall hereinafter be referred to as the Claimants and Saccone and Speed (East Africa) Limited shall hereinafter be referred to as the Respondents.

2. The parties were heard in Nairobi on 15th of April 1966, and relied on their written and verbal submissions.

GENERAL BACKGROUND

3. An agreement entered into between the parties dated 31st December 1963, for a period of 14 months from 1st December 1963, was automatically extended under the Tripartite Agreement for a further period of 14 months up to 31st March 1966. Relations between the parties have always been on a very friendly basis and although the Respondents were not members of the Brewing and Bottling Association until the 20th January 1966, they kept in close touch with its members, so that their terms of employment were fairly comparable.

On 3rd August 1965, the Respondents received a letter from the Claimants requesting talks and suggesting that they join the Brewing and Bottling Association. In the subsequent correspondence that ensued the Claimants disputed the Respondents' contention that the Tripartite Agreement had extended their Agreement by 14 months to 31st March 1966. A meeting took place on 6th October 1965, but ended in deadlock because of failure to agree on a subject for discussion. This dispute was reported to the Minister for Labour by the Claimants.

On 11th October 1965, a Conciliator was appointed and the first joint meeting, under his chairmanship, took place on 22nd November 1965. At this meeting the Respondents stuck to their point of view that the Tripartite Agreement had extended their existing Agreement to 31st March 1966.

Strike action was threatened by the Claimants on 5th January 1966, and another meeting with the Conciliator was held on 13th January 1966. At this meeting the Respondents agreed to join the Brewing and Bottling Association and to date their wage adjustment back to 1st October 1965, that is, as awarded by the Court in the dispute between the Claimants and the Bottling Group of the Brewing and Bottling Association. The Claimants refused to accept this and at a further meeting on 19th January 1966 requested that the matter be referred to the Industrial Court. The Respondents stated that they could not refer the matter to the Industrial Court, since, after joining the Brewing and Bottling Association, they had no dispute with the Claimants. (The Respondents had applied for membership of the Brewing and Bottling Association on 19th January 1966 and was immediately accepted as from 20th January 1966.) On 25th January 1966, the Claimants sent a circular giving strike notice and on 5th February 1966 the Respondents agreed to refer the dispute to the Industrial Court. The form of notification of dispute to the Industrial Court was signed on 1st March 1966.

MAIN SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE CLAIMANTS

4. The Claimants submitted that the Respondents were not competent to be covered by the Industrial Court's award in the dispute between them and the Bottling Group of the Brewing and Bottling Association of Kenya. Their reasons were given as follows:—

(a) The Respondents were bottlers and merchants of wines and spirits like Messrs. Jardin Limited in whose case the Federation of Kenya Employers had ruled that they could not join the Brewing and Bottling Association;

(b) Despite repeated requests to the Respondents, in the past, they had always refused to join the Association and had preferred to negotiate individually with them;

(c) The Respondents had admitted that the structure of their business was different from that of the soft drink industry;

(d) The Respondents' profit margin differed from that of the soft drink industry generally and if they joined a group then it should be the Brewing Group;

(e) In Cause No. 48 of 1965 the Respondents were not a party and, therefore, the Court's award could not automatically extend to them;

(f) The Respondents' tactics were cunning and that they had waited for the outcome of the Court's award before joining the Association;

(g) The Respondents were in a good position of offering better terms to their employees;

(h) Although "freedom of association" was guaranteed by the Constitution of the Republic it was not applicable to trade union and employer relationships where mutual consent played a very important role;

(i) The Respondent had not yet revoked their Agreement with them;

(j) The Industrial Court, if it upheld the Respondents' submission, would be creating a bad precedent whereby any employer could associate, or disassociate, with his colleagues at will depending on whether he liked a particular award or not.

For the foregoing reasons, the Claimants strongly submitted that the Respondents were not bound by the Terms and Conditions of Service of the Bottling Group of the Brewing and Bottling Association. They requested the Court to direct the parties to negotiate on the demands put forward by them.

MAIN SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE RESPONDENTS

5. The Respondents submitted that they were the largest wine and spirits merchants in East Africa and that their competitors were W. and A. Gilbey (East Africa) Limited, Jardin Limited, L. N. Lakhani Limited and Smith Mackenzie and Company Limited. They imported, bottled and distributed wines and spirits and also distributed beer and minerals. Much of their business was distribution and in Nairobi were closer to the Kenya Union of Commercial Food and Allied Workers, however, for simplicity, and as the bulk of their labour was at the Bottling Hall, Mombasa, they had agreed some years ago to negotiate only with the Brewing and Bottling Workers' Union. Both unions had now amalgamated and, therefore, this problem no longer existed.

The Respondents submitted that "freedom of association" was guaranteed by the Constitution of the State. The Government of Kenya had further committed itself to "freedom of association" or the right to join, or not to join, a trade union or an employers' association when it voluntarily adopted in Parliament the I.L.O. International Convention No. 98. In addition, it had been clearly established between the trade unions and the employers' associations, that the trade unions had a complete right to organize themselves as they wished and either to amalgamate or to separate without reference to the Employers' Federation. Equally, the employers had a similar right to so organize themselves into appropriate trade associations or to negotiate with a trade union on an individual basis.

In view of the foregoing, the Respondents maintained that, once they had joined the Bottling Group of the Brewing and Bottling Association, they were bound by the Terms and Conditions prevalent in that Group. In these circumstances, they requested the Court to find that they were bound by the Terms and Conditions of Service of the Bottling Group of the Brewing and Bottling Association.

AWARD

6. After a careful study of the submissions made by the parties, the Court finds that the question of "freedom of association" is not quite relevant to this dispute.

On the issue in dispute, the Court finds that the Respondents are not bound by the Terms and Conditions of Service of the Bottling Group of the Brewing and Bottling Association because negotiations between the parties hereto had already commenced when the Respondents joined the Bottling Group. On 3rd August 1965, the Claimants had suggested to the Respondents that they should join the Bottling Group, but the Respondents had not done so at that time for reasons which are not very material. It is not fair now to deny the Claimants their right to finalize negotiations which they had commenced directly with the Respondents before the latter joined the Bottling Group.

If an employer joins a particular group he is not automatically bound by the terms and conditions of that group the moment he joins. Terms and conditions are a matter which have to be discussed and finalized between the parties in accordance with the provisions of their recognition agreement. In this case, there is no evidence that either the Bottling Association's Recognition Agreement or that of the parties hereto had been amended.

In these circumstances, the Court rules that the Respondents are not automatically bound by the Terms and Conditions of Service of the Bottling Group of the Brewing and Bottling Association.
