GAZETTE NOTICE NO. 1026THE INDUSTRIAL COURT
CAUSE NO. 59 OF 1985*Parties:

Kenya Union of Domestic, Hotels, Educational Institutions, Hospitals and Allied Workers and Asumbi Teachers College

Issue in dispute:

Dismissal of Joseph Makowenga.

THE Kenya Union of Domestic, Hotels, Educational Institutions. Hospitals and Allied Workers shall hereinafter be referred to as the claimants and Asumbi Teachers College shall hereinafter be referred to as the respondents.

2. The parties were heard in Nairobi on 16th and 17th January, 1986 and relied on their written and verbal submissions. The parties called the following witnesses:

Claimants.—Joseph Makowenga.

Respondents.—Joshua Fredrick Omange.

AWARD

3. The Minister for Labour referred this dispute to the Industrial Court in accordance with section 8 of the Trade Disputes Act, on 6th June, 1985.

This dispute concerns the dismissal of Joseph Makowenga by the respondents through the board of governors appointed by the then Ministry of Basic Education to run the affairs of the college under the directives of the said ministry. Being a government institution, the respondents were represented in court by a state counsel.

It is claimed that Joseph Makowenga was employed by the respondents from 1st July, 1980, as a librarian in job group "K" at a salary of KSh. 3,590 per month. His services were terminated on 27th August, 1981, after just over one year of service. It is further claimed that Joseph Makowenga was paid KSh. 665 per month instead of the said salary for a librarian in job group "K" of KSh. 3,590 as stated in his letter of appointment. It is also claimed that he was not paid his terminal benefits.

The claimants accused the respondents of having failed to honour their obligations to pay their member as per the letter of appointment they issued him and further terminated his services without any cause when he had a clear record for the time he was in their employment. The claimants prayed the court to award their member re-instatement and order the respondents to pay him the difference in pay between KSh. 3,590 and KSh. 665 for the period July 1980 to 27th August, 1981 and also he should be fully compensated for the period he was out of employment.

Giving evidence in court, Joseph Makowenga stated that he was employed by the respondents in January 1980 as an assistant clerk at a salary of KSh. 665 per month. He worked in every section of the respondents' institution as instructed by the principal upto 1st March, 1980 when he was transferred to the library. He stated that the principal verbally told him he was on three-months' probation after which he would be appointed a librarian. Mr. Makowenga stated that on 1st July, 1980, after having completed the three-months' probation, the principal gave him a letter of appointment as a librarian in job group "K" which carried a salary of KSh. 3,590 per month. He said this letter was signed and given to him by the principal who was also the secretary to the board of governors. Joseph Makowenga told the court that the respondents, however, continued to pay him the assistant clerk's salary until they terminated his services.

The respondents resisted this accusation saying that Joseph Makowenga had previously worked with the respondents between 1967 and October 1969 and that the ministry refused to allow his re-employment. In addition to that the respondents told the court that the post of a librarian, job group "K", was a post for a librarian graduate and Mr. Makowenga could not have been appointed to it as he had no relevant academic qualifications. The respondents submitted that Mr. Makowenga was requested time and again to give his academic qualifications but chose not even to reply to the letters on this subject. Failure to this and the fact that he had worked with the respondents previously, the ministry directed that his services be terminated.

The respondents called the then principal and secretary to board of governors, Joshua Fredrick Omange, who gave evidence. Mr. Omange stated that in their establishment, there was no post of a librarian. In any case, Mr. Omange said, if there was a post to be filled, the board selected a panel to interview and the ministry sent a representative. This was not done in this case. Mr. Omange stated that the board employed Joseph Makowenga as a temporary clerk. As he was good in all fields, he was made acting assistant librarian clerk. At this stage the respondents found Mr. Makowenga had no academic certificates at all. Mr. Omange agreed that the signature on the appointment letter in question was his but said that probably Mr. Makowenga who used to do the typing for him, got hold of a signed form and filled it. Mr. Omange said that he never appointed and would not appoint a librarian without authority from the ministry as claimed by the claimants. Moreover, there was no post for a librarian at the respondents' institution. Mr. Omange stated further that he asked Mr. Makowenga to produce his certificates several times but he failed to do so.

The court finds that there is direct conflict between the evidence of Mr. Makowenga and the principal on the letter of appointment of Mr. Makowenga designating him a librarian with a monthly salary of KSh. 3,590. The court must say that the principal at some stage must have been very negligent and careless in this whole affair because he admits that the signature on the letter of appointment is his but denies all the other contents.

The court finds it proved that the respondents' library was in a disarray and the principal who found Mr. Makowenga to be an efficient worker asked him to organize and establish the library properly. Circulars were sent out to various donors in which Mr. Makowenga was referred to as the librarian.

The court also finds that there was no post of a librarian at the respondents' undertaking at the time and, therefore, Mr. Makowenga could not have been appointed to that post notwithstanding the letter of appointment.

The court, however, finds that Mr. Makowenga, who is an experienced and efficient person, performed duties far above those of an assistant clerk. In fact the principal found him extremely useful and saw some talent in him which would make him good librarian and even sponsored him on a couple of relevant courses organized by the British Council.

The court has carefully considered all aspects of this dispute and finds that Mr. Makowenga is not entitled to salary of KSh. 3,590 per month from 1st July, 1980 to August 1981, instead of KSh. 665 per month which he was paid. The court, however, finds that Mr. Makowenga deserves some additional payment for the duties which he performed well above those of an assistant clerk and the court has decided to award him KSh. 750 per month in addition to his normal salary of KSh. 665 per month. The court accordingly directs that the respondents should pay Mr. Makowenga a sum of KSh. 10,500 in full and final settlement of all his claims. The court finds that re-instatement is not warranted in this dispute.

Dated the 25th February, 1986.
