THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE NO. 56 OF 1989

Parties:

Bakery, Confectionery Manufacturing and Allied Workers' Union (K.)
and Elliots Bakeries Limited.

Issue in dispute:

Wrongful dismissal of:

1. Paul Mulila Mwaniki.
2. Mwanzi P. Vulimu.
3. Charles Nderitu.
4. Justus Kainga.
5. Dickson Ochieng'.
6. Gerald Anyolo.

THE Bakery, Confectionery Manufacturing and Allied Workers' Union (K.), shall hereinafter be referred to as the claimants and the Elliots Bakeries Limited shall hereinafter be referred to as the respondents.

2. The parties were heard in Nairobi on 13th November, and 14th and 15th December, 1989, 26th, 27th and 28th February, 1st and 29th March, 12th, 13th, 14th and 29th June, 1990, and relied on their written and verbal submissions. In addition, the claimants called the grievants and the respondents called their Technical Manager, Mr. Jonathan A. Kahi, to give evidence on oath.

AWARD

3. The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 3rd March, 1989, and duly signed by the parties was received by the court on 25th July, 1989, together with the statutory certificates signed by the Minister for Labour and the Labour Commissioner.

The six grievants in this dispute had served the respondents for fairly long periods prior to their summary dismissals as follows:

(1) Mr. Paul Mulila Mwaniki:

He was employed by the respondents on 16th July, 1974, as plant hand at a monthly salary of Sh. 398. He rose to the position of a charge hand in 1984; and at the time of his summary dismissal on 6th January, 1986, allegedly for sleeping while on duty, his salary stood at Sh. 2,180 per month.

(2) Mr. Mwanzi P. Vulimu:

He was employed by the respondents on 1st January, 1970, as a wrapper at a salary of Sh. 285 per month; and at the time of his summary dismissal on 3rd January, 1986, for being absent from duty without authority with effect from 21st December, to 10th January, 1986, his salary was Sh. 1,590 per month.

(3) Mr. Charles Nderitu:

He was engaged by the respondents on 1st July, 1972, as a plant hand at a monthly salary of Sh. 312. In July 1975, Mr. Nderitu was promoted to machine operator, and he was summarily dismissed on 30th September, 1985, for eating a piece of dry bread during working hours.

(4) Messrs. Justus Kainga, Dickson Ochieng' and Gerald Anyolo:

The grievants were employed by the respondents on 28th February, 1973, 15th July, 1980 and 1st December, 1977, as general fitter, plant hand and senior clerk at a monthly salary of Sh. 523, Sh. 752 and Sh. 1,012 respectively. They rose through the ranks, and at the time of their summary dismissal on 21st November, 1985, for attempting to defraud the respondents through the funeral scheme, they held the position of maintenance superintendent, dividerman and staff superintendent at a salary of Sh. 4,778, Sh. 1,915 and Sh. 3,435 per month respectively.

The claimants took up the matter of their dismissals with the respondents, but no settlement was reached. In consequence, they reported a formal trade dispute to the Minister for Labour in accordance with section 4 of the Trade Disputes Act, Chapter 234 of the laws of Kenya; and Mr. P. Nyambari of Industrial Area Labour Office, Nairobi, was appointed to act as an investigator. On 20th February, 1989, the Ministry of Labour released its findings and recommendation to the parties wherein it found that the dismissals were wrongful and recommended that the first, second and third grievants' dismissals should be reduced to normal termination of service and be paid all their terminal benefits in accordance with the terms of the parties' collective agreement. The Ministry recommended further that the three employees should be paid three, four and six months' salary respectively as compensation for wrongful dismissal. As regards the fourth, fifth and sixth grievants, the Ministry recommended that they should be reinstated to their former positions without loss of service benefits.

On receipt of the Ministry's report, the claimants wrote to the respondents on 27th February, 1989, with a view to settling the matter on the basis of the report, but the latter rejected it on the ground that their views were totally disregarded by the investigator; and, in any case the findings of the report were also in conflict with the recommendations. Under the circumstances, the parties were, therefore, restored to their original positions and accordingly they had their options open. The dispute is now before the court for consideration.

The court must state at the outset that this dispute has presented some difficulty because the incidents which led to the summary dismissal of the first, second and third grievants were completely different from each other and also unconnected with the alleged fraudulent attempt by the fourth, fifth and sixth grievants. The dispute has also been very bitterly contested by both parties as is apparent from their lengthy submissions and the evidence adduced by the witnesses.

In considering the parties' submissions and the evidence on record in respect of the first, second and third grievants, the court has come to the following decision on each case.

(1) Mr. Paul Mulila Mwaniki:

The court notes that the grievant was summarily dismissed on the ground that he slept for 15 minutes while on duty, during which period the respondents suffered a loss of 477 loaves of bread worth Sh. 1,500.25. This accusation was categorically denied in writing by the grievant when he was given an opportunity to show cause why disciplinary action should not be taken against him. The grievant promptly disputed the cause and amount of loaves of bread which were allegedly damaged. He pointed out that there were only 123 burnt or damaged loaves of bread as a result of the sub-standard dough that had been fed into the oven by other employees—namely, David Njuguna and Charles Anunda. The technical manager, Mr. Kahi, who gave evidence on behalf of the respondent, was remotely connected with the events which were taking place in the dough-room on the night of 20th/21st December, 1985. He received the report concerning the burnt or damaged loaves of bread the next morning from the shift controller, Mr. Atema, and the ovenman, Mr. Mburi. This may be so but the court has no evidence on record from either of the two employees to link the grievant's lapse of duty to the burnt or damaged loaves of bread. Under the circumstances, the court is constrained to treat Mr. Kahi's evidence as inconsequential in this case.

Even if the grievant had slept as alleged while on duty, the amount of loaves of bread and the circumstances under which they were burnt or damaged are in dispute. The claimants have on the one hand stated that only 123 loaves of bread were damaged because of sub-standard dough which was fed into the oven. On the other hand, the respondents have averred that they suffered a loss of 477 loaves of bread worth Sh. 1,500.25, due to lack or supervision of the employees because the grievant had slept while on duty. Weighing the claimants' submission and the grievant's evidence on this point against the respondents' submission and the evidence of the technical manager, Mr. Kahi, the court is inclined to accept the claimants' version that the loss suffered by the respondents arose because of the sub-standard dough that was fed into the oven.

All in all, the court feels that the lapse by the grievant, after 11½ years of service, should not have led to his summary dismissal. Perhaps a second warning letter in terms of clause 4 of the parties' collective agreement would have sufficed. Under the circumstances, the court, therefore, accepts the Ministry's findings and recommendation that the grievant has suffered a wrongful dismissal, and for this reason it awards that the grievant's summary dismissal should be reduced to normal termination of service that would entitle him to all his terminal benefits in accordance with the terms of the parties' collective agreement in force at the time. While accepting the Ministry's report and taking into account the grievant's length of service, the court feels that three months' compensation is inadequate in the circumstances. Accordingly, the court awards that, in addition to his terminal benefits, the grievant should be paid five months' salary by way of compensation for the wrongful dismissal he has suffered.

The claimants demand for reinstatement and other benefits is rejected.

(2) Mr. Mwanzi P. Vulimu:

The grievant's services were dispensed with under clause 18 of the parties' collective agreement after absenting himself from duty for 20 days on the alleged ground that he had a bout of malaria which stuck him on 21st December, 1985. His sick-off attendance record from a Dr. S. I. Aluda, M.D., of Duruma Road Surgery, Nairobi, indicate that the grievant consulted him on 21st, 26th, 31st December, 1985, and 5th January, 1986. On each occasion he was granted five days off-duty. On 10th January, 1986, the grievant visited the surgery and he was certified "fit to resume duty".

The respondents bitterly contested that they had no knowledge of the grievant's alleged sickness or whereabouts. Furthermore the grievant who lived at Gatundu visited the doctor for treatment in Nairobi in several occasions without informing them about his alleged sickness. The grievant countered this in his evidence by telling the court that on Monday, 23rd December, 1985, his father reported the matter to the respondents, whose personnel assistant perused the sick sheet and returned it to his father so that he (the grievant) might complete his treatment and produce the same when he reported on duty. The grievant informed the court that he actually tendered the sick sheet to the respondents when he resumed work—that is on 10th January, 1986—but the respondents rejected it and he left it with them.

In the absence of any evidence on oath and proper explanation to the contrary from a witness, especially the personnel assistant, from the respondents' side, a big doubt has been created in the court's mind on this point and the court has therefore decided on the balance of probabilities and in the interests of justice, to give the grievant that benefit of the doubt. Having come this decision and after taking into account the grievant's 17 years of service to the respondents, the court concurs to a large extent with the Ministry's findings and recommendation that there was no justification for the respondents to summarily dismiss the grievant.

Under the circumstances, the court awards that the grievant's summary dismissal should be reduced to normal termination of service and he should be paid all his terminal benefits in terms of the parties' collective agreement obtaining at the time. In addition, the grievant should be paid seven months' salary as compensation for the wrongful dismissal he has suffered.

The claimants' demand for the grievant's reinstatement and other entitlements is untenable.

(3) Mr. Charles Nderitu:

The grievant's services were terminated by the respondents for having allegedly eaten a dry piece of bread while on duty. The grievant strongly denied the offence, and he was consequently summarily dismissed. Without going into the pros and cons of this case, the question for consideration is: whether the grievant's action or conduct constituted an offence that justified his summary dismissal. What constitutes an offence that would justify summary dismissal depends on the circumstances of each case. It involves conduct of quasi-criminal nature—the intentional doing of something either with the knowledge that it is likely to result in serious injury or with a wanton or reckless disregard for its probable consequences.

On serious consideration of this matter as a whole and taking into account the grievant's 13 years of service, the court feels that there were no sufficient reasons advanced by the respondents for summarily dismissing the grievant. The grievant's conduct in eating a piece of bread was a trivial matter to warrant a severe punishment like this one. In the court's view, this is another clear case where a warning letter would have met the ends of justice.

Accordingly, the court endorses the Minister's report and awards that the grievant's summary dismissal should be reduced to normal termination of service and he should also be paid all his terminal benefits as provided in the parties' collective agreement. In addition, the grievant should be paid six months' salary as compensation for wrongful dismissal he has suffered. Needless to say, but the claimants' demand for his reinstatement and other benefits is rejected.

(4) Messrs. Justus Kainga, Dickson Ochieng' and Gerald Anyolo

These grievants who had served the respondents for 13, 5½ and 8 years respectively, were summarily dismissed for attempting to defraud the respondents of their money through the employees' funeral scheme. The claimants have, mainly on the basis of the standing rules governing the operation of the scheme which were produced in court, strongly argued that the scheme was purely a workers' affair in which the respondents had no part to play. The court is now called upon to determine whether or not the grievants attempted to defraud the respondents of their money. The claimants' contention is that since the respondents did not contribute to the scheme, then their involvement in it was uncalled for. But, the operation of the scheme affected the respondents' funds in that as there were no regular contributions, the amount paid to a deserving member initially belonged to the respondents who would later recover the same from the contributions of the member of the scheme. The court notes that an employee only qualified as a member of and benefited from the scheme by virtue of his contribution of Sh. 10, which is deducted from his salary or wages as "special recovery". The "computer printout" for the period under consideration clearly showed that there was no recovery of the "special recovery" from Mr. Ochieng's wages. Hence, he was not a member of the funeral scheme.

The claimants maintained that since the respondents did not contribute to the scheme, the grievant's summary dismissal was unfair. This is not true because any act of dishonesty by an employee in the course of his service or employment, which is prejudicial to the employer's interest, will justify dismissal. In this case Mr. Ochieng' connived with Messrs. Kainga and Anyolo to obtain financial assistance from the employees' funeral scheme, and yet he was not a member of it. On discovering the attempted fraud, the respondents promptly dismissed them, otherwise they could not at any subsequent time dismiss them on account of the offence which they had waived or condoned.

After careful consideration of all the submissions and the evidence tendered by the grievants, the court has no hesitation in coming to the conclusion that Messrs. Kainga and Anyolo hastily and dishonestly processed and approved Mr. Ochieng's application for financial assistance in an attempt to defraud either the respondents or the members of the scheme of their money. It was immaterial whose money was at stake, but the court must protect the employers and member workers of such schemes from dishonest employees like the grievants. In the circumstances and for the foregoing reasons, the court takes exception to the Ministry's findings and recommendation, and finds that the grievants deserved summary dismissal.

Accordingly, the claimants' demands in respect of each of them are rejected.

Dated the 12th September, 1990.

Judge.

THE TRADE MARKS ACT

(Cap. 506)

NOTICE is given that any person who has grounds of opposition to the registration of any of the trade marks advertised herein according to the classes may, within sixty (60) days from the date of this Gazette, lodge notice of opposition on form TM. No. 6 (in duplicate) together with a fee of KSh. 120.

Notice is also given that official objection will be taken under rule 21 (3) to all applications in which the specification claims all the goods included in any class unless the registrar is satisfied that the claim is justified by the use of the mark which the applicant has made, or intends to make if and when it is registered. Where an applicant considers that a claim in respect of all the goods included in a class can be justified it will save unnecessary delay in examining applications if a claim is filed simultaneously with the application, accompanied in appropriate cases by supporting documents.

The period for lodging notice of opposition may be extended by the registrar as he thinks fit and upon such terms as he may direct. Any request for such extension should be made to the registrar so as to reach him before the expiry of the period allowed.

Formal opposition should not be lodged until after reasonable notice has been given by letter to the applicant for registration so as to afford him an opportunity of withdrawing his application before the expense of preparing the notice of opposition is incurred. Failure to give such notice will be taken into account in considering any application by an opponent for an order for costs if the opposition is uncontested by the applicant.

Where it is stated in the advertisement of the applicant that the mark, upon its registration, is to be limited to certain colours, the colours are, as far as possible, indicated in the accompanying representations of the mark in the usual heraldic manner.

Representations of the marks advertised herein can be seen at the Trade Marks Registry, State Law Office, Nairobi.

Applications for registration in part A of the register are shown with the official number unaccompanied by any letter. Applications for part B are distinguished by the letter B prefixed to the official number.
