GAZETTE NOTICE NO. 3454THE INDUSTRIAL COURT*CAUSE NO. 122 OF 1985*Parties:

Kenya Union of Commercial Food and Allied Workers

and

National Cereals and Produce Board

Issue in dispute:

Termination of Jackson Karanja Muchina.

THE Kenya Union of Commercial Food and Allied Workers shall hereinafter be referred to as the claimants and the National Cereals and Produce Board shall hereinafter be referred to as the respondents.

2. The parties were heard in Nairobi on 14th August, 1986, and relied on their written and verbal submissions. The case had originally been fixed for hearing on 5th June, 1986, but was stood over at the claimants' request.

AWARD

3. The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 3rd July, 1985, duly signed by both parties was received by the court on 4th October, 1985 together with the statutory certificates signed by the Labour Commissioner and the Minister for Labour.

The grievant, Jackson Karanja Muchina, was employed by the respondents on 1st May, 1978, as a store clerk at a salary of KSh. 640 per month. He worked in various up-country depots of the respondents until June 1981 when he was transferred to Nairobi where he was allocated a store and made in-charge. His services were terminated on 7th December, 1982.

The claimants told the court that the reasons leading to termination of their member's services were as a result of his alleged frequent absenteeism. The claimants informed the court that on 29th November, 1982, Mr. Muchina had taken his sick child to the doctor for medical treatment in the morning and was back on duty in the afternoon, and on 30th November, 1982, he was on duty full time. The claimants further submitted that on 1st December, 1982, Mr. Muchina took the same child for medical treatment in the morning and when he came back in the afternoon he was barred from entering the respondents' premises and was told to explain why he was absent on 29th and 30th November, and 1st December, 1982. The claimants further stated that their member explained the cause of his absence and even produced medical certificates signed by the doctor in support of his case but the respondents considered them unsatisfactory and subsequently terminated his services. The claimants accused the respondents for taking the law into their own hands by using administrative powers to throw the grievant out of the company's premises on 1st December, 1982.

The claimants ended their submissions by telling the court that the punishment meted to their member was harsh and that a warning letter could have sufficed considering the number of years the grievant had served the respondents. The claimants, therefore, requested the court to reinstate their member to his job without loss of benefits.

The respondents strongly resisted the claimants' demand that Mr. Muchina be reinstated to his job. They informed the court that Mr. Muchina absented himself from his place of work for half day on 29th, full day on 30th November, 1982 and again half day on 1st December, 1982 despite the fact that he was served with a warning letter in July 1982 for his frequent absenteeism and warned that should he commit another offence, he would be dismissed.

The respondents further stated that Mr. Muchina accepted that he was absent during the days in question and the reasons he gave were that he had been taking his sick child to the doctor for treatment. The respondents further told the court that they had lost confidence in Mr. Muchina because of the number of offences he had committed in the past which were as follows:

That the audit check established that when the rice was transferred from Mombasa to Nairobi, Mr. Muchina instead of signing the receiving advice sent from Mombasa to confirm receipt he would prepare his own receiving advices thereby acknowledging less receipts as opposed to the actual deliveries. In this way Mr. Muchina created excess stock of 52 bags of imported rice which was not recorded in the respondents' books and could subsequently be sold illegally for lack of supporting documents.

The respondents also cited another incident when two outsiders, a man and a woman, stole a bag of rice in broad daylight and Mr. Muchina denied having seen them despite the fact that the same rice came from the store of which he was in-charge and as a result of this, culprits escaped punishment.

The respondents ended their submissions by telling the court that Mr. Muchina's absence coincided with the handing-over exercise which involved auditing. In the circumstances the respondents suspected that his absence was intentional simply to avoid the auditors for reasons best known to himself. The respondents finally requested the court to uphold their decision to terminate his services.

The court has carefully analyzed all the submissions by both parties and has some observations and remarks to make before giving a ruling. It is quite obvious that the respondents harboured lack of confidence in Mr. Muchina over a period of time because of his past mistakes.

The court is of the opinion that since the respondents had previously pardoned Mr. Muchina for all other offences, it is only the three days' absence that they should have considered before taking action to terminate his services. On the side of claimants, the court notes with regret the behaviour of Mr. Muchina, a person who had worked for the respondents for a reasonable period of time and yet could not bother to seek permission from his employer to be absent but seemed to have had a wrong belief that by producing medical certificates of his child's treatment as proof of his absence would absolve him from his misbehaviour.

The court, however, agrees with the Ministry of Labour's findings and recommendation that the termination was rather harsh, but taking into account the fact that the confidence which the respondents had in Mr. Muchina had eroded over the years, the claimants' demand for reinstatement is ruled out. The court, therefore, upholds the recommendation by the Ministry of Labour that in addition to his normal terminal benefits, he be paid two months' salary by way of compensation and the court so awards.

Given on the 29th August, 1986.
