3. The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 29th August, 1984, duly signed by the parties was received by the court on 7th January, 1985, together with the statutory certificates signed by the Minister for Labour and the Labour Commissioner.

The respondents have a recognition and a collective agreement with the claimants regulating terms and conditions of their unionizable staff.

(a) J. M. Kagai was employed by the respondents on 1st October, 1974, as a driver/salesman (milk) and was thereafter deployed in the various sections of branches of the respondents outfit until he was dismissed on 3rd May, 1983, when earning KSh. 1,931 per month.

(b) D. M. Kariuki was engaged on 3rd October, 1972, as a general hand and remained in the respondents' employment until his dismissal on 3rd May, 1983, when he was a driver/salesman. His salary at the time of his dismissal was KSh. 1,931 per month.

(c) Joseph Maganjo Kibichu, joined the respondents on 1st February, 1964, as a general hand. At the time of his dismissal on 9th June, 1983, he was earning KSh. 1,930 per month as a driver/salesman.

(d) Elijah Kagootho Kimani, joined the services of the respondents on 9th February, 1967, as route assistant. He served in various positions until his dismissal on 3rd May, 1983, when he was a driver/salesman earning KSh. 1,931 per month.

(e) Farajali Mukamba, took up employment with the respondents on 1st September, 1971, as a general hand and having served the respondents in various positions, he was dismissed on 9th June, 1983, when he was a driver/salesman, earning a salary of KSh. 1,932 per month.

The reason that led to the five (5) grievants' dismissal was that while working as drivers/salesmen for the respondents, delivering dairy produce to one of the respondents' customers, Messrs. New Westlands Stores, they were involved in fraud when issuing invoices for goods sold to this customer on credit. This customer, after investigation, notified the respondents vide letter dated 25th April, 1983, of their employees' malpractices. The respondents on receipt of the complaint instituted a thorough investigation into the alleged malpractices which revealed, among others, that the grievants on certain occasions, with intention to cheat, failed to use the cardboard as required, thereby making it possible to get carbon impression of the customers signature on several sets of invoices beyond the only set required for one transaction.

The customer listed a number of invoices in his complaint spread between January 1981 and March 1983. In these invoices it was clearly established that the grievants deliberately failed to use the cardboard meant to prevent their writing to appear on the next set of invoices. As a result of this negligence, they made the customer's signature to appear on the second set of invoice as well which was in fact not in use. When the customer's signature appeared on the duplicate and triplicate copies it automatically confirmed receipt of goods listed therein. The respondents would subsequently send out statements calling for the settlement of the account. In practice, the customer kept the original copy of the invoices for the goods he actually received but for the original of the next set of invoice claimants possibly destroyed it, while goods in this invoice would be sold to kiosks or other outlets and the proceeds pocketed by the claimants while the respondents billed the customer for goods he never received.

The respondents further stated that the customer was frequently asking the respondents for photostat copies of invoices appearing on his statement for which no trace of their originals could be found in his shop. While waiting for the copies of the invoices they had to settle the bill in fear of losing credit facility.

The respondents further argued that it was not possible to have identical signatures, on the same spot for two or more sets of invoices unless one superimposed one invoice on top of the other thereby obtaining carbon impression on the next set.

When the respondents received a formal complaint from their customer, the grievants were asked to make written statements. These were considered against the customer's complaint and the five (5) grievants were found to have breached their contractual relationship under the existing terms and conditions of employment and were subsequently dismissed. They then reported the matter to the claimants who held meetings with the respondents in an effort to solve the dispute. They disagreed and the claimants reported a trade dispute to the Ministry of Labour.

After investigations by the Ministry, their finding and recommendation was that the five (5) grievants be reinstated back to their jobs without loss of benefits.

The recommendation as conveyed to the parties was rejected by the respondents and the matter was finally referred to the court.

The claimants have bitterly contested this dispute. First, they maintained that their members were dismissed on grounds of fraud which is a criminal offence which should have been referred to a criminal court for hearing. Secondly, the respondents' customer took about three (3) years before bringing the case to the respondents notice, so the dismissal was on mere suspicion without stating a definite amount of money lost by each grievant.

Further, the dismissal letter to each grievant stated that the grievants had violated clause 21 (c) of the terms and conditions of employment agreement which states that:

"An employee may be dismissed for—carelessly, by breach of duty or by drunkenness causing loss or serious risk to the company's property".

The claimants argued that there was not sufficient proof that the grievants broke the said clause in the agreement. They concluded that reasons given by the respondents for dismissing the grievants were against the principle of natural justice. Under these circumstances the grievants had suffered a wrongful dismissal.

Turning to the respondents' witness, the court was told that the grievants obtained signatures on invoices on the dates when Mr. Shah was not in the shop. He maintained that somebody must have forged his signature.

He further stated that there were fixed dates when they got delivery from the respondents, otherwise they had to fetch their requirements themselves from the respondents depot. He refuted the allegation from the claimants that there was a shortage of dairy products during this period. The years in question were quite normal and they obtained their requirements regularly.

The respondents stated that they had lost a total sum of KSh. 339,906.20 due to the machinations of the grievants and this had forced them to withdraw the credit facility from their old customer.

The court was surprised to find that the majority of the disputed invoices were on unofficial delivery dates. On these dates the grievants were supposed to serve other routes and not the Westlands route. A case in point was that, an invoice was produced when the grievant was supplying Kajiado market and could not have been in Nairobi to supply the respondents' customer. This state of affairs went a long way to prove that the grievants took advantage of laxity in the customers' administration which provided the grievants with a favourable opportunity to obtain goods fraudulently for a long time. However, the court was told that the director in-charge of administration of the respondents' customer was constantly ill and finally died and this could explain why there was this time lag before they could arrest the situation.

The court has carefully examined the various exhibits which were produced during the hearing and finds that there are certainly grave irregularities apparent in them. The court has carefully considered the claimants' submission that if the respondents accuse the grievants of fraud then the matter should have been referred to the criminal court in the first instance.

The court has decided to approach this dispute on the basis of a master and servant relationship as distinct from the criminal aspect of these alleged transactions although in the Employment Act, an employer has a right to dismiss an employee under section 17 (g) which reads:

"If an employee commits, or on reasonable and sufficient grounds is suspected of having committed, any criminal offence against or to the substantial detriment of his employer or his employer's property".

The court has also applied its mind to the fact that New Westlands Stores took such a long time in reporting the non-receipt of the dairy products by them for which they were being billed month after month. The court notice that this firm and the respondents are now engaged in litigation regarding the recovery of the amount arising from the aforesaid dubious transactions.

The court is satisfied that the grievants were afforded an opportunity by the respondents of defending themselves of the alleged offences committed by them and the court has come to the conclusion that under the circumstances of this dispute the respondents are entitled to lose confidence in all these grievants each one of whom has a fairly long service with them and to part with them. The court, however, has decided to reduce their summary dismissal to a normal termination as provided for in the collective agreement in force at the material time.

Given in Nairobi on the 22nd January, 1987.

GAZETTE NOTICE No. 475

THE TRADE MARKS ACT

(Cap. 506)

NOTICE is given that any person who has grounds of opposition to the registration of any of the trade marks advertised herein according to the classes may, within sixty (60) days from the date of this Gazette, lodge notice of opposition on form TM. No. 6 (in duplicate) together with a fee of KSh. 50.

Notice is also given that official objection will be taken under rule 21 (3) to all applications in which the specification claims all the goods included in any class unless the registrar is satisfied that the claim is justified by the use of the mark which the applicant has made, or intends to make if and when it is registered. Where an applicant considers that a claim in respect of all the goods included in a class can be justified it will save unnecessary delay in examining applications if a claim is filed simultaneously with the application, accompanied in appropriate cases by supporting documents.

The period for lodging notice of opposition may be extended by the registrar as he thinks fit and upon such terms as he may direct. Any request for such extension should be made to the registrar so as to reach him before the expiry of the period allowed.

Formal opposition should not be lodged until after reasonable notice has been given by letter to the applicant for registration so as to afford him an opportunity of withdrawing his application before the expense of preparing the notice of opposition is incurred. Failure to give such notice will be taken into account in considering any application by an opponent for an order for costs if the opposition is uncontested by the applicant.

Where it is stated in the advertisement of the applicant that the mark, upon its registration, is to be limited to certain colours, the colours are, as far as possible, indicated in the accompanying representations of the mark in the usual heraldic manner.

Representations of the marks advertised herein can be seen at the Trade Marks Registry, State Law Office, Nairobi.
