GAZETTE NOTICE No. 2429

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE No. 52 OF 1986

Parties:

Kenya Union of Commercial Food and Allied Workers and
Kenya Commercial Bank Limited

Issue in dispute:

Wrongful dismissal of William Ondiek.

THE Kenya Union of Commercial Food and Allied Workers shall hereinafter be referred to as the claimants and Kenya Commercial Bank Limited shall hereinafter be referred to as the respondents.

2. The parties were heard in Nairobi, on 2nd April, 1987 and relied on their written and verbal submissions. The dispute was originally fixed for hearing on 22nd October, 1986, but the parties delayed their written submissions.

AWARD

3. The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 19th November, 1985, duly signed by the parties was received by the court on 13th May, 1986 together with the statutory certificates signed by the Ministry for Labour and the Labour Commissioner.

The grievant William Ondiek was employed by the respondents on 1st April, 1974, and was dismissed on 15th March, 1983 after a service of 9 years. Reasons regarding his dismissal are that on 27th February, 1983 he was involved in a quarrel with a policeman over a woman which led to his arrest and he was taken to Lurambi Police Station. At the police station Mr. Ondiek complained to the officer-in-charge of the station that the policeman had taken KSh. 250 from him. Mr. Ondiek was released the same day. The following day Mr. Ondiek was re-arrested and ended up being charged with giving false information to a person employed in the public service. Mr. Ondiek, who was represented by a lawyer was sentenced to nine (9) months imprisonment on 1st March, 1983. The respondents dismissed him on 15th March, 1983 and the dismissal was, with effect from 1st March, 1983.

The claimants stated in court that when Mr. Ondiek was sentenced his lawyer appealed immediately against the conviction and sentence and that on 8th March, 1983 the advocate for Mr. Ondiek wrote a letter to the respondents requesting them to withhold any anticipated action against him until the outcome of the appeal. The claimants told the court that the appeal was heard on 29th April, 1983, two months from the date of Mr. Ondiek's arrest and he was acquitted and set free. The claimants stated that when Mr. Ondiek went back to his place of work the respondents refused to reinstate him.

The claimants stated that the parties had a collective agreement with a provision which outlines the procedure to be followed in a case of this nature which read:

Clause 5 (c) (ii):

However in the event that an employee is awaiting trial either on remand or at large and a prosecution is pending on a matter involving moral turpitude as laid down in paragraph 5 (a) (iv) above the suspension shall be ninety (90) days which may be extended at the discretion of the employer until such time as the case has been finalized by the court during which period the employee shall be entitled to be paid at the rate of half his basic salary.

The claimants told the court that the respondents ignored the parties' collective agreement and instead invoked section 17 (f) of the Employment Act in dismissing their member. The claimants argued that under the circumstances of this case the respondents should have suspended Mr. Ondiek for ninety (90) days with half pay. In this case Mr. Ondiek was in jail for sixty (60) days. The claimants told the court that as the respondents were informed by Mr. Ondiek's advocate on 8th March, 1983, that an appeal had been filed in the high court, the respondents knew his whereabouts.

The claimants produced a circular letter from the respondents' headquarters addressed to their area and branch managers advising them to invoke the parties' agreement in matters of this nature and wondered why this time they chose to invoke section 17 (f) of the Employment Act. The claimants further produced another letter dated 6th September, 1973 from the office of the Attorney-General regarding cases of this nature which states in part:

If a conviction is quashed and sentences set aside, it is in the opinion of this office that the person(s) charged with the offence(s) should be treated as though no legal proceeding had ever taken place. Any such person should, therefore, be reinstated and paid all arrears of wages due, and the operation and terms of the contract should be entirely unaffected.

The claimants requested the court to take into consideration this opinion by the office of the Attorney-General. The claimants referred to the investigation by the Ministry of Labour who found the dismissal to be wrongful. The investigator had recommended that Mr. Ondiek be paid nine (9) months salary as compensation for the wrongful dismissal. Finally, the claimants observed that the offence committed by their member was not against his employer so no immediate action was warranted by the respondents. The claimants prayed the court to award a reinstatement of Mr. Ondiek without loss of service and benefits and to award him full salary for all the time he was out of employment.

The respondents told the court that Mr. Ondiek was dismissed under the provisions of labour laws of Kenya and that the claimants contention that clause 5 (c) of the parties' collective agreement should have been applied in this case is extending the provisions of that clause beyond limits. The respondents stated that offences enumerated in clause 5 (a) (i) to (iv) are issues involving an employee and his employer which is not the case in this dispute. The respondents further stated that Mr. Ondiek was convicted and sentenced on his own plea of guilty and for this reason, the respondents were left with no alternative but to dismiss him under section 17 (f) of the Employment Act which states:

If in the lawful exercise of any powers of arrest given by or under any written law, an employee is arrested for a cognizable offence punishable by imprisonment and is not within ten (10) days either released on bail or bond or otherwise lawfully set at liberty, this will justify summary dismissal for lawful cause.

The respondents stated that the offence committed by Mr. Ondiek was committed in the public outside office hours and away from the employers premises, so the application of the parties' collective agreement cannot, therefore, be dragged into this matter. The respondents stated further that from the high court judgement, it is clear that Mr. Ondiek was set free because of a technical error by the prosecution otherwise the appeal would not have been in Mr. Ondiek's favour. The respondents requested the court to find and award that the action taken against the grievant was justified and reject the claimants' demand.

The court has, carefully, analyzed the parties' submissions and finds that the respondents would have been in a very strong position in this case had it not been for the fact that the grievant's advocate had informed them on 8th March, 1983, that he had filed an appeal on his behalf and requesting the management to withhold any action against the grievant until the outcome of the appeal.

Under these circumstances, the court finds that the respondents should have exercised their reliance on section 17 (f) of the Employment Act more reasonably. The court concurs with the Ministry of Labour's finding, though for different reasons, that the grievant has suffered a wrongful dismissal.

The court awards that the respondents should pay the grievant five (5) months salary by way of compensation in addition to his normal terminal benefits in accordance with the parties' collective agreement. The respondents will be entitled to deduct any money already paid to the grievant from his dues.

Given in Nairobi on 13th May, 1987.

GAZETTE NOTICE No. 2430

THE TRADE MARKS ACT

(Cap. 506)

NOTICE is given that any person who has grounds of opposition to the registration of any of the trade marks advertised herein according to the classes may, within sixty (60) days from the date of this Gazette, lodge notice of opposition on form TM. No. 6 (in duplicate) together with a fee of KSh. 50.

Notice is also given that official objection will be taken under rule 21 (3) to all applications in which the specification claims all the goods included in any class unless the registrar is satisfied that the claim is justified by the use of the mark which the applicant has made, or intends to make if and when it is registered. Where an applicant considers that a claim in respect of all the goods included in a class can be justified it will save unnecessary delay in examining applications if a claim is filed simultaneously with the application, accompanied in appropriate cases by supporting documents.

The period for lodging notice of opposition may be extended by the registrar as he thinks fit and upon such terms as he may direct. Any request for such extension should be made to the registrar so as to reach him before the expiry of the period allowed.

Formal opposition should not be lodged until after reasonable notice has been given by letter to the applicant for registration so as to afford him any opportunity of withdrawing his application before the expense of preparing the notice of opposition is incurred. Failure to give such notice will be taken into account in considering any application by an opponent for an order for costs if the opposition is uncontested by the applicant.

Where it is stated in the advertisement of the applicant that the mark, upon its registration is to be limited to certain colours, the colours are, as far as possible, indicated in the accompanying representation of the mark in the usual heraldic manner.

Representations of the marks advertised herein can be seen at the Trade Marks Registry, State Law Office, Nairobi.
