GAZETTE NOTICE No. 4596

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSES NOS. 19, 20 AND 21 OF 1988

Parties:

Bakery, Confectionery, Manufacturing and Allied Workers Union (K).

and

Unga Feeds Limited, Unga Limited and Unga Maize Millers

Issue in dispute:

Recognition.

THE Bakery, Confectionery, Manufacturing and Allied Workers Union (K) shall hereinafter be referred to as the claimants and the Unga Feeds Limited, the Unga Limited and the Unga Maize Millers, respectively, shall hereinafter be referred to as the respondents. The Kenya Union of Commercial Food and Allied Workers shall hereinafter be referred to as the interested party.

The parties were heard in Nairobi on 3rd, 23rd, 24th June and 14th July, 1988, 9th May, 20th, 21st June, 4th, 28th July, 1989 and 3rd July and 6th September, 1990, respectively. The parties relied on their written and verbal submissions.

AWARD

3. The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 27th September, 1987, duly signed by the parties was received by the court on 22nd March, 1988, together with the statutory certificate signed by the Labour Commissioner.

The respondents are a group of companies who collectively form the Grain Milling Group of Federation of Kenya Employers. They mainly engage in the manufacture of animal feeds and processing of baking and maize flour (Unga and Jogoo).

The respondents employ a total labour force of 1,155 unionizable employees. The employment level by each company is as follows:

Company	Unionizable Employees
Unga Limited	569
Unga Feeds Limited	305
Unga Maize Millers	217
Proctor and Allan	64
Total	1,155

The claimants submitted that it is only their union that has constitutional mandate to represent the industrial interests of workers engaged in food manufacturing industry. The claimants added that B.C.M.A.W.U. (K) being fully aware of its right to represent the employees in the food manufacturing industry has spared no effort to organize employees in the food industry. The claimants move is to ensure that employees in the industry can enjoy industrial representation under a common umbrella. As a result the respondents' unionizable employees within their three sister companies, were recruited into the claimants' membership. Thereafter the claimants appointed such individual company seeking to secure recognition agreement with them. The respondents apparently informed the claimants that they could not accord them recognition agreement since there was already inforce such an agreement between the interested party and respondents.

The claimants then reported the matter to the Ministry of Labour. An investigation committee was appointed on 17th November, 1986. The Ministry's findings and recommendation were released to the parties on 27th August, 1987.

The recommendation was that:

"The respondents' three sister companies should accord recognition to the claimants B.C.M.A.W.U. (K), and that when the current C.B.A. between K.U.C.F.A.W. and Grain Milling Group expires, then negotiations of subsequent C.B.A. should be conducted by B.C.M.A.W.U. (K) and the three respondents' firms."

The claimants told the court that the interested party had no right to represent the employees engaged in food manufacturing industry under its registered constitution. The claimants went on to say that recognition of the interested party by the respondents was wrong, and to allow its existance denied the respondents' employees the right of proper industrial representation. Secondly, the recognition agreement between the respondents and the interested party itself seriously violates the principle of representation of employees on industrial basis. Thirdly, the workers according to their freedom and right of association have chosen a trade union of their own choice between two conflicting unions. They further stressed that, the interested party by coming to the court is trying indirectly to force employees to be its members.

The claimants pleaded with the court to reject both the respondents and interested party's prayers and also that the recognition agreement between them should not be allowed to endure. The claimants prayed the court to award as follows:

(a) The respondents sign a recognition agreement with B.C.M.A.W.U. (K) for a representation of industrial interests of their employees.

(b) Comply with the registrar's directive on union dues remittance and send from their kit the amount due to the claimants which they have adamantly refused to send for the last three (3) years.

The respondents told the court that for the claimants to try to represent the interests of workers outside the bakery industry would be ultra-vires their registered constitution. In these circumstances, if the claimants are granted recognition then this will conflict not only with the established industrial policy in Kenya but also the recognition agreement existing between the interested party and the respondents.

The respondents submitted that, the issue before the court is actually a demarcation dispute between the two trade unions. The rivalry between the two unions is over which one should represent the interests of the unionizable employees in their firms. The respondents told the court that, the interested party's constitution is much more explicit than that of the claimants' when it comes to organizing membership. They referred the court to the interested party's rules particularly membership clause rule No. 3 (a) (1) which they quoted as follows:

"Distributive and commercial group which shall embrace all employees engaged in warehouses, and merchandise, flour, coffee and spice mills food processing"

The interested party prayed the court that the claimants' amended constitution be ignored and dismissed. They felt that the amendment were initiated by the claimants through malice and might be a possible source of future discontent and wranglings between unions. They asked the court not to encourage a situation like this. The interested party further told the court that the employees are after representation by a union and not a personal individual. It is as a result of this that the claimants have not secured majority membership in the respondents' companies.

The interested party requested the court not to hesitate in dismissing the claimants' case.

The court is very much aware and conscious of the main principles at stake in this dispute both from the claimants' point of view and that of the respondents and the interested party respectively.

The claimants were registered as a trade union in December 1977, under the name of Kenya Bakeries and Confectioners Workers' Union after a ruling by the high court. Their membership clause at that time read:

Membership of the Union shall be open to all employees engaged in bakeries, and to all employees engaged in pastries, biscuits, cakes, confectionery making, and sweets making factories provided such employee is of not less than sixteen years of age.

In September 1985, the claimants amended their constitution and also changed their name to the present one, that is Bakery, Confectionery Manufacturing and Allied Workers Union (K). Their membership clause now after the amendment reads:

Membership of the Union shall be open to all employees engaged in bakeries, and to all employees engaged in pastries, biscuits, cakes, confectionery making, sweets making factories, and other food manufacturing and related industries provided that such employee is of not less than sixteen years of age.

The interested party on its part is an amalgamation of four trade unions which took place in 1965. These four trade unions were for workers in the following trades:

Distributive and Commerce Group.

Laundry Cleaners and Dyers Group.

Tobacco Trade Group.

Bottling and Brewing Group.

The interested party's membership clause reads:

(a) Membership of the Union shall be open to all employees engaged in the following industrial groups provided that such employee(s) is above the apparent age of sixteen (16) years.

- (i) Distributive and Commerce Group—which shall embrace all employees engaged in warehouses, and merchandise, flour, coffee and spice mills, food processing, banks, insurances, cinemas, showgrounds, shopworkers, wholesale and retail, watchmen organizations, distributive dairy workers, co-operative societies and statutory boards, slaughterhouses, financial institutions.
- (ii) Laundry Cleaners and Dyers Group—which shall embrace all employees engaged in dyers, dry cleaners and laundry industries.
- (iii) Tobacco Trade Group—which shall embrace all employees engaged in tobacco industries.
- (iv) Bottling and Brewing Group—which shall embrace all employees in bottling and brewing industries.

The interested party has had dealings through the grain milling group of Federation of Kenya Employers with the three respondents from the time of their inception or at least from 1965 and from the time of various changes in their operational formats involving creation of new firms under new names. This resulted in their having an established relationship with the interested party prior to 1985 and even now. This relationship is being challenged by the claimants on the ground that this so called recognition agreement between the parties is not valid and that the interested party has no business to represent employees in the food manufacturing industries.

The claimants after the amendment to their constitution in September 1985, embarked on an enrolment campaign of the respondents' employees into their membership and at the time of reporting this trade dispute to the Minister for Labour, claimed that they had a simple majority of the respondents' employees in their membership.

It is on record that the registrar of trade unions did not in any way seek the views and/or objections from the interested party when he registered the crucial amendment to the claimants' constitution.

The registrar of trade unions has further in his subsequent letters repeated that as far as he was concerned there was no overlapping of the constitutions of the claimants and the interested party. The claimants have used this point vigorously to further their cause in this dispute. The registrar, of trade unions, however, advised the Chief Industrial Relations Officer of the Ministry of Labour, on 8th February, 1989, that the dispute between the two unions is a demarcation dispute which is outside his jurisdiction.

The investigation committee set up by the Ministry of Labour found in favour of the claimants but reading through that report it is obvious that the committee did not address itself sufficiently in depth to the crucial question of what is entailed in the words "food manufacturing and allied workers" as they appear in the claimants' constitution and the words "food processing" as they appear in the interested party's constitution. Are these words one and the same and do they mean the same thing and serve the same purpose? These are some of the vital questions that have to be answered in this dispute. It is not a simple matter to be decided upon by the number of workers which the rival trade unions claim to be their members. Unfortunately the investigation committee based their decision more on this than on any other important points at stake in this dispute.

The claimants who started as a "bakery" union have, after the aforesaid amendment, spread their tentacles to food processing industry as well for the time being and are embroiled in a bitter trade union war with the interested party. This is only the beginning because as the claimants have argued they are now the proper trade union for the "food manufacturing industry".

The relevant United Nations publications which were cited by the claimants in support of their demand show that food manufacturing industry encompasses the following enterprises:

Food Manufacturing

Slaughtering, preparing and preserving meat.

Manufacture of dairy products.

Canning and preserving of fruits and vegetables.

Canning, preserving and processing of fish, crustacea and similar foods.

Manufacture of vegetable and animal oils and fats.

Grain mill products.

Manufacture of bakery products.

Sugar factories and refineries.

Manufacture of cocoa, chocolate and sugar confectionery.
Manufacture of food products not elsewhere classified.
Manufacture of prepared animal feeds.

The same classification has been adopted by the Kenya Government as is evident on pages 5 and 6 of the Kenya Statistical Digest.

A close examination of the broad spectrum of the food manufacturing industry will clearly reveal how the claimants' move will bring them in conflict with a couple of other trade unions because the food manufacturing industry at present is being catered for by several trade unions in the country.

The court is being asked by the claimants in this dispute to give them the go ahead and to operate in Kenya as a trade union for the food manufacturing industry because this is what the effect of the court award in their favour would mean. They would get the court's blessing to their moves in this direction.

The court wonders if this is the right and proper way of establishing a trade union for food manufacturing industry, that is, the claimants having started as a "bakery" union, get an amendment inserted in their constitution with the approval of the registrar of trade unions and now assume the mantle of a food manufacturing industry trade union on the ground that the interested party had no business to involve itself in the food processing industries (which the claimants maintain is one and the same as food manufacturing) and that the interested party did so illegally for the past 25 years or so even before the claimants came into existence.

The court would now like to examine how the claimants' constitution reads after the aforesaid amendment. The relevant part of the constitution now reads "... bakeries, pastry, biscuit, cake, confectionery, sweet-making factories and other food manufacturing and related industries."

The court has to determine in the light of the above wording if the claimants are entitled to be the sole trade union for food manufacturing industry.

The interested party's constitution since 1965 allows them under their distributive and commerce group to embrace employees engaged in warehouses, and merchandise, flour coffee and spice mills, food processing, banks, insurance companies, cinemas, showgrounds, shopworkers—wholesale and retail, watchmen organizations, distributive dairy workers, co-operative societies and statutory boards, slaughterhouses and financial institutions.

A very tall order indeed! ! ! And when the rest of the membership clause of the interested party is studied one can see that they are one of the largest trade unions in the country. This however is in line with the Government policy enunciated way back in September 1965, as a result of a Presidential Committee's recommendations.

The court agrees with the claimants' submission that things cannot remain static and changes are inevitable. The question, however, is who brings about such changes and in what manner and what procedure is to be followed for that purpose because the changes, if at all they are due, impinge on the reorganization of the trade union movement in this country.

The court notes that the registrar of trade unions does not see any overlapping in the two constitutions of the claimants and the interested party and that he did not call upon any other trade unions to voice their objections to the amendment which the claimants sought and he registered to their constitution by adding the words "other food manufacturing and related industries". The interested party has bitterly attacked the registrar for it.

Now coming to the amended constitution of the claimants, the words other "food manufacturing and related industries" appear after the words bakeries, pastry, biscuit, cake, confectionery, sweet-making factories. In this wording, can it be construed that the claimants have been given the mandate overnight to be the trade union for the food manufacturing industry of which bakeries and grain milling operations are part of many other activities set out above. The court does not believe that the amendment gives the claimants that right. The words food manufacturing and related industries must be read within the context of the words that precede them.

Moreover there is a difference between food processing and food manufacturing. When wheat or other similar products are milled, that is food processing and when flour is used for baking, confectionery, biscuit, etc. it is food manufacturing.

The court must acknowledge that the claimants have made a beautiful case for the creating of a trade union for the food manufacturing industry. They have, however, not convinced the court that after starting as a "bakery" union they can speak for the whole of the food manufacturing industry as a result of the aforesaid September 1985 amendment.

The court would like to point out that any reorganization of the trade union movement is the prerogative of the Government who know how to go about it when it is warranted and is desirable.

Strictly without prejudice to the aforesaid the court would now like to deal with the question of the respondents' employees membership of the claimants and the interested party.

During the hearing copious lists of check-off forms were presented by both of them with each alleging that the other parties' lists were forged with the claimants expressing a wish that the matter should be referred to a handwriting expert.

The court did not go along with this idea and instead directed the chief economist in the Planning and Research Division of the Ministry to carry out an independent investigation to establish the exact number of members of the claimants and the interested party in relation to this dispute.

The chief economist carried out his investigation and finalized his report on 24th July, 1990, and the court asked the parties to give their final comments on it.

The claimants bitterly criticized the report and made rather serious allegations against the aforesaid officer. The court, however, cannot accept such allegations in the absence of concrete evidence in support thereof.

In the report it is established that the total unionizable employees in the three respondents' undertakings are 1,069.

Out of these, 260 employees of the Unga Feeds Limited and the Unga Limited at Nakuru refused to either sign the questionnaire or to be interviewed but the chief economic through his verbal discussions with the workers came to the conclusion that employees of the Unga Limited numbering 120 are members of the interested party. The 140 employees of the Unga Feeds Limited are members of the claimants.

Out of the 494 who made their wishes known, 305 are members of the interested party and 189 are members of the claimants.

Those employees who were not interviewed for one reason or the other are 294 and 21 were undecided. There is, however, no pointer as to which union these 294 belonged.

The claimants pointed out a few anomalies but they do not really affect the issue as they are minor ones.

Under these circumstances the court cannot come to any definite conclusion as to how many workers are members of the claimants and how many are of the interested party.

After careful consideration of all the submissions the court has come to the conclusion that the claimants' demand must fail and the court accordingly rejects it.

The court must, however, express its grave concern on the matters that have come to light in this dispute in which two trade unions have bitterly struggled against each other as a result of certain developments. It is not difficult to imagine its effect on the industrial relations in the country. The court feels that the Government's attention should be drawn to the issue at stake. The court accordingly directs that the copies of this award should go to the Permanent Secretary, Ministry of Labour, the Registrar-General and the President's Office.

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT CAUSE NO. 100 OF 1989

Parties:

Kenya Union of Domestic, Hotels, Educational Institutions, Hospitals and Allied Workers,

and

Hilton International Hotel.

Issue in dispute:

Termination of Mr. Samuel Mwamburi's services.

THE Kenya Union of Domestic, Hotels, Educational Institutions, Hospitals and Allied Workers (K.U.D.H.E.I.H.A.) shall hereinafter be referred to as the claimants and the Hilton International Hotel shall hereinafter be referred to as the respondents.

2. This dispute was fixed for hearing on 13th March, 1990, but on this date, the parties informed the court that there was a possibility of settlement and requested the court to give them time. The dispute was then listed for mention on 21st May, 1990, for the parties to report to the court on their attempt to reach a settlement. However, the parties reported a deadlock, and the matter was listed for a further mention the next day, that is 22nd May, 1990, with a view to fixing it for hearing.

The parties were finally heard in Nairobi on 26th June, and 16th July, 1990, and relied on their written and verbal submissions. The claimants also called the grievant, Mr. Samuel Mwamburi to give evidence on oath.

AWARD

3. The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 15th August, 1989, and signed by the parties was received by the court on 27th November, 1989, together with the statutory certificates signed by the Minister for Labour and the Labour Commissioner.

The grievant was employed by the respondents on 1st January, 1973, as a plantman at a salary of Sh. 177 per month. On 10th May, 1976, the grievant was promoted to the position of a plantman/plumber at a salary of Sh. 341 per month. He was again promoted on 1st November, 1977, to the post of a swimming pool attendant/plumber and petrol attendant reliever at a monthly salary of Sh. 506.55. The grievant's services were terminated for gross negligence of duty on 28th December, 1983, after having served the respondents for a period of eleven (11) years.

The incident which led to the grievant's termination occurred on 16th December, 1983, between 7.45 p.m. and 9.00 p.m. at the respondents' Taita Hills and Salt Lick Lodges. It is alleged that on the material day, the grievant and a receiving clerk, Mr. Joseph Mwakideu, received some petrol and diesel deliveries from Esso Standard without ascertaining the amount delivered, and as a result the respondents suffered a loss or shortage of 359 litres of petrol. On the following day, the grievant, after taking some readings of the quantity of petrol and diesel in the tanks, reported the loss or shortage to the management; and when he and Mr. Mwakideu were questioned about the matter, they admitted having been present during the delivery of the petroleum products. The grievant also confirmed that he did not issue any petrol after the delivery of the products and discovery of the loss or shortage the next day. He admitted further that he had forgotten to countersign the delivery invoice of the products as was the normal practice. In the circumstances, Mr. Mwakideu's services with the respondents were terminated, but the grievant was served with a warning notice and advised that his salary, amounting to Sh. 2,154, would be deducted over a reasonable period to cover the loss or shortage to the respondents. The grievant did not accept the proposal, and in consequence he was suspended on 23rd December, 1983, without pay. His services were subsequently terminated by a letter dated 28th December, 1983.

After a period of two years, the claimants took up the grievant's case with the respondents, and the latter offered to pay the grievant his terminal benefits. The claimants rejected the respondents' offer and the matter was reported to the Coast Disputes Committee who referred it back to the shop floor level. But because of the delay in resolving the matter, the claimants reported a formal trade dispute on 12th October, 1988, to the Minister for Labour, and after the usual procedural investigation, the Chief Industrial Relations Officer forwarded the following recommendation to the parties:

"RECOMMENDATION:

.... I recommend that Mr. Samuel Mwamburi should be paid all his terminal benefits as per the parties collective agreement. Due mainly to his old age, reinstatement is not advisable.

In addition, Mr. Mwamburi should be paid 8 months basic salary by way of compensation for wrongful termination he suffered."

The respondents have told the court that, although the Ministry's recommendation was too excessive and inconsiderate, they subsequently accepted, and still accept, it as a basis for settlement of the dispute. The claimants rejected the recommendation and the dispute is now before the court for consideration.

In this dispute, the court notes that the parties are in complete agreement that the respondents actually suffered a loss or shortage of 359 litres of petrol. It is also clear from the parties submissions that this loss or shortfall occurred at the lodges, and after a full investigation, the receiving clerk, Mr. Mwakideu, and the grievant, who was the petrol attendant reliever were held responsible. The respondents viewed the grievant's conduct in neglecting or failing to countersign the delivery invoice as serious, which called for summary dismissal. But because of his good employment record, they decided to terminate his services and pay him his terminal dues.

The grievant bitterly contested his termination of service on the ground that he was not responsible for the said loss or shortage of 359 litres of petrol because whenever fuel delivery arrived, his job was only to open and close the tanks or manholes. In any case he had in February 1981, objected to being assigned the job of petrol attendant reliever. On being pressed during cross-examination to explain why he had not counter-signed the delivery invoice on this particular occasion as he had done previously, the grievant engaged in a loquacious, vague and evasive discourse. The court, after seriously weighing the grievant's demeanour and his evidence as a whole does not believe his story when he says that he was not accountable for this loss or shortfall, and yet he was the petrol attendant responsible for the overall deliveries and issuance of the petrol products.

It is true that the grievant had complained in February 1981, when he was assigned the duties of a petrol attendant, but in spite of his complaint, he continued as such to render his services thereafter, to his respondents. In the circumstances, the grievant is estopped from setting up that objection or complaint to cover his misdeeds or negligence in the performance of his duties.

On careful consideration of all the submissions made by the parties and the evidence adduced by the grievant, the court has come to the conclusion that the recommendation forwarded by the Chief Industrial Relations Officer of the Ministry of Labour to the parties is adequate and will meet the ends of justice in this matter. The respondents were reasonably fair to the grievant in accepting the Ministry's recommendation of eight months salary by way of compensation as a basis for settlement of the matter. The grievant should consider himself lucky.

For these reasons, the court, therefore, awards that, in addition to all his terminal benefits in terms of the parties' collective agreement, the grievant should be paid eight months' salary by way of compensation. The court cannot assist the grievant anymore.

In view of the circumstances of this case and the inordinate lapse of seven years since the grievant's termination of service, the court has decided that it will not be in the interests of the parties to reinstate him.

Dated the 18th September, 1990.

Judge.

GAZETTE NOTICE No. 4598

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE No. 62 OF 1990

Parties:

Kenya Engineering Workers' Union.
and
Megh Metal Works Limited.

Issue in dispute:

Night Shift Rotation.

THE Kenya Engineering Workers' Union shall hereinafter be referred to as the claimants and the Metal Works Limited shall hereinafter be referred to as the respondents.

2. This dispute was listed for mention on 26th April, 1990, when it was fixed for hearing on 19th June, 1990. On this date, the respondents' representative appeared in court, but there was no appearance for the claimants. The court also noted that the parties had not filed their memoranda in this matter; and, in the circumstances, the case was stood over generally. After receiving the claimants' memorandum which was filed out of time on 20th July, 1990, the court ordered that the matter be listed for mention on 15th August, 1990. Meanwhile, on 14th August, 1990, the respondents filed their replying memorandum thereto. On 15th August, 1990, the claimants' representative again failed to appear for the mention, and the case was, therefore, stood over generally once more.

However, on 20th August, 1990, the claimants apologized to the court for having failed to attend court during the previous occasions, and at the same time moved it to fix the dispute for hearing, but the matter was listed for mention on 13th

September, 1990. The case was listed for further mention on 14th and today, when the parties requested the court to make an award by consent as stated below.

AWARD

3. The Notification of Dispute Form "A", dated 27th October, 1989, and signed by the parties was received by the court on 29th March, 1990, along with the statutory certificates signed by the Labour Commissioner.

By consent of the parties the court awards that the agreement reached between the parties at the Federation of Kenya Employers offices on 25th May, 1989, and which is annexed to the claimants' submission as appendix 3 in this matter, be implemented with immediate effect.

Dated the 18th September, 1990.
