GAZETTE NOTICE NO. 3338

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE NO. 117 OF 1985

Parties:

Transport and Allied Workers' Union
and

Alitalia World Airline

Issue in dispute:

Redundancy of K. Kiburia and Mrs. C. Rodrigues.

THE Transport and Allied Workers' Union shall hereinafter be referred to as the claimants and Alitalia World Airline shall hereinafter be referred to as the respondents.

2. The parties were heard in Nairobi on 29th May, 1986, and relied on their written and verbal submissions.

AWARD

3. The Minister for Labour referred this dispute to the Industrial Court in accordance with section 8 of the Trade Disputes Act, on 4th October, 1985 together with the statutory certificates from the Labour Commissioner.

Mrs. Rodrigues was employed by the respondents on 1st September, 1974 and Justin Kimondo Kiburia on 1st November, 1968. At the time of their employment with the respondents, they indicated that Mrs. Rodrigues was born on 9th February, 1931, and Mr. Kiburia on 20th July, 1931. The respondents operate a number of flights per week from Europe to Nairobi and back.

The claimants stated that the respondents wrote to them that following the cancellation of their flights AZ 1802/1803, route: Rome/Nairobi-Mauritius/Nairobi-Rome, they were going to apply to the Ministry of Labour seeking the Ministry's consent to declare eight of their employees redundant. Two of the affected employees were expatriates while the rest were members of the claimants. In an effort to find a solution to the redundancy issue, the parties met at the respondents' offices on 7th March, 1984, and during this meeting, the claimants maintained that there was no need for the respondents to declare the six (6) local staff redundant because by declaring the two expatriates redundant alone, the respondents' wage bill could greatly offset their operational costs since the salaries earned by the two expatriates were far more than the total of the salaries of all the six local staff selected for redundancy. The claimants further stated that as the two employees in question were nearing the age of normal retirement, they should have been left to carry on without being frustrated by such offers of ex-gratia payments which were far less than what they would be entitled to under their normal terms of retirement. The claimants further contended that the respondents were not in any way overcome by any financial problems and maintained that the respondents only wanted to get rid of some local employees who had less than two years to retire.

Lastly, the claimants told the court that between the period 7th March, 1984 and June 1984, the respondents had partially achieved their goal of declaring employees redundant in that they had managed to induce three employees to accept premature retirement which to the claimants' view was coupled with more impressive compensation than what is contained in their collective agreement. The claimants went on to say that before the Ministry had acted on the letter of 28th July, 1984, the respondents had managed to convince one of the three remaining employees destined for redundancy to accept premature retirement leaving the claimants to contest the intended redundancy of only two employees whose case is now before this court for adjudication.

However, before the investigator appointed by the Ministry of Labour could initiate the investigation process, the respondents took upon themselves to serve Mr. Kiburia and Mrs. Rodrigues with letters asking them to proceed on two-months paid leave commencing from 5th November, to 31st December, 1984 for what was described by the respondents as shortage of work. This action caused a lot of inconvenience to the two employees and to make matters worse, they were not allowed to resume their duties after the expiry of their two-months leave on 31st December, 1984. Instead, they were verbally advised to stay away.

The claimants concluded by saying that the investigation was carried out by the Ministry of Labour and a report was communicated to both parties with a recommendation that in the light of the findings, the two employees should not be declared redundant. Surprisingly, on receipt of the investigation report, the respondents, through their advocates, wrote to the Ministry of Labour stating that they were withdrawing their redundancy application which appeared to the claimants to be a total disregard of the labour laws of this country. However, the Ministry wrote to the respondents' advocates and advised them that their client's withdrawal of the redundancy application had been overtaken by events in that it came after the Ministry's findings and recommendations had already been conveyed to the parties concerned and in view of the same, the respondents were advised not to declare the two employees redundant.

The claimants asked the court to note that this advice was not heeded by the respondents and contrary to the Ministry's advice, the respondents terminated the services of the two employees and undertook to pay them the following terminal benefits:

Mr. Kiburia:

- (a) One month's salary in lieu of notice.
- (b) Provident Fund.
- (c) Ex-gratia payment in the sum of KSh. 52,140 as token of appreciation for the contribution made to the company during his tenure.

Mrs. Rodrigues:

- (a) One month's salary in lieu of notice.
- (b) Provident Fund.
- (c) Ex-gratia payment in the sum of KSh. 41,780 as token of appreciation for the contribution made to the company during her tenure.

The claimants pointed out that if the respondents cannot honour the Ministry's recommendations by reinstating the two employees back to their former positions unconditionally, then the respondents should be asked to pay the two employees their monthly salary from 1st May, 1985 upto their retirement dates as indicated above since the respondents had paid them their monthly salaries upto April 1985 after refusing the two employees in question to resume their duties on 1st January, 1985.

The respondents opened their submissions by asking the court to determine the question of termination of service by them, of the two employees concerned and not the application for redundancy which the respondents had already withdrawn.

The respondents pointed out that clauses 25 and 28 of the collective agreement between the parties were most relevant in this case. They argued that the employment of regular staff stipulates that either the employer or employees can give either party one month's notice or payment of one month's salary in lieu of termination of service. Furthermore, clause 28 makes provision in respect of retirement and states clearly that an employee shall on the attainment of the apparent age of 55 years retire but earlier retirement will be entirely at the discretion of the employers.

The respondents had applied to the Minister for Labour as per section 4 of the Trade Disputes Act, to seek the Minister's consent and authority for certain employees to be declared redundant.

However, the recommendation of the Ministry of Labour was received on 27th April, 1984, to the effect that the two employees namely Mr. Kiburia and Mrs. Rodrigues should not be declared redundant and the matter had to be settled in accordance with the Trade Disputes Act. The respondents further pointed out that it took unduly long time to receive the communication from the Ministry of Labour and by the time the recommendation was received by them, they had withdrawn the application for redundancy and the said employees had had their services terminated in accordance with clause 25 which they referred to earlier on. Despite their withdrawal, the matter was brought to the court by the claimants. The respondents reiterated what they had stated earlier that they were entitled to act the way they did as they had to cut-down their operating expenses.

Finally, the respondents asked the court to note that the amounts which they had offered the two employees as ex-gratia payments were not within the collective agreement and were way above what they are entitled to under the agreement. They, therefore, pleaded that the court should reconsider the stand of the Ministry of Labour and to uphold the respondents' decision to terminate the services of the two employees with the ex-gratia payments as stated in the letters of termination.

The court has carefully studied and considered the parties' submissions in this dispute and can find no reason whatsoever as to why the respondents decided to terminate the services of the two grievants who both had fairly long and satisfactory service with them. This leads the court to the only logical conclusion to be drawn in this case and that is that the respondents having failed to get the Minister for Labour's approval to their application to declare these two employees redundant, decided to get rid of them by giving them a normal termination with an offer of ex-gratia payments. This, they purported to have done before they received the official notification from the Ministry of Labour of the rejection of their redundancy application but the court is of the view that the respondents must have unofficially come to know of the Ministry's views in the matter. In any case, the respondents' action in terminating the services of these two employees before getting the official decision from the Ministry on the matter of redundancy was most improper and the court must condemn it. If all the employers were to succeed in this sort of tactic and manoeuvres, then it will throw the industrial relations in the country into complete chaos and will make a nonsense of seeking approval of the Ministry of Labour or, in the event of a disagreement, to bring the matters of redundancy before the Industrial Court.

In the absence of any justifiable reasons for the termination of the services of these two employees and in view of the respondents' most improper step in terminating their services before the Ministry's decision on redundancy was communicated to them, the court finds that the two grievants have suffered a wrongful dismissal. The court has pointed out in the past that in this context, dismissal and termination amount to the same thing.

The court notes that the respondents have also referred to the retirement clause of the collective agreement which reads:

Retirement: The normal age of retirement from the service of the employer be on the attainment of an apparent age of 55 years but earlier or later retirement will be entirely at the discretion of the employer.

In view of the above clause and because the respondents were indirectly relying on it as well during the hearing, the court awards both Mr. Kiburia and Mrs. Rodrigues their full salaries and house allowance, if any, from 1st May, 1985 until both of them attained the age of 55 years. Mr. Kiburia was born on 20th July, 1931, so he was 55 years on 20th July, 1986. Mrs. Rodrigues was 55 years of age on 9th February, 1986. At the time of their termination, Mr. Kiburia was earning a salary of KSh. 4,438 per month, and Mrs. Rodrigues was earning KSh. 6,692 per month. The court directs that these salaries should be adjusted as per relevant collective agreement with effect from January, 1986. In addition to the above award of the payment of full salary and house allowance, if any, to both grievants, from 1st May, 1985 until their aforesaid dates of retirement, the court awards that both the grievants should be paid their full benefits to which they are entitled on normal retirement under the Provident Fund/Pension Scheme as duly certified by the insurance company.

GAZETTE NOTICE NO. 3339

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE NO. 139 OF 1985

Parties:

Kenya Building Construction, Civil Engineering and Allied Trades Workers' Union
and
Excelo Structures Limited

Issue in dispute:

Wrongful termination of Boniface Ochieng' and Joseph Kang'ethe.

THE Kenya Building Construction, Civil Engineering and Allied Trades Workers' Union shall hereinafter be referred to as the claimants and Excelo Structures Limited shall hereinafter be referred to as the respondents.

2. The parties were heard in Nairobi on 26th June, 1986, and in addition to relying on their written and verbal submissions, the claimants called Joseph Kang'ethe to give evidence on oath.

AWARD

3. The Minister for Labour referred this dispute to the court in accordance with section 8 of the Trade Disputes Act, on 11th November, 1985 and was received by the court on 19th November, 1985.

The respondents carry out steel fabrications and other related activities in structural engineering in various parts of the country.

This dispute arose as a result of the dismissal of Boniface Ochieng' and Joseph Kang'ethe, who were employed as artisans by the respondents.

During the hearing, the claimants withdrew the case of Boniface Ochieng' as he had no case against the respondents.

Joseph Kang'ethe was employed as ungraded fitter in October 1980 on a monthly wage of KSh. 1,100 and a house allowance of KSh. 130.

The claimants submitted that at the time of termination of Joseph Kang'ethe's service, the respondents were members of the Kenya Association of Building and Civil Engineering Contractors (hereinafter called the association) which association recognizes the claimants for the purpose of collective bargaining.

The claimants further pointed out that Mr. Kang'ethe's services were terminated without good cause and the way the respondents handled his case was not in accordance with the terms and conditions of service which were in force at the time. Furthermore, the respondents were unwilling to discuss the issue of the grievant, when the claimants took up the matter in order to reach a settlement. The claimants stated that the action of the respondents was an infringement of the parties' collective agreement and should, therefore, not be allowed.

The claimants strongly castigated the respondents for not following the association's collective agreement in force at the time and for terminating the services of their member who had served them with a clean record and for refusing to sign Form "A" for reference of the dispute to the court. They further stated that the respondents had failed to give reasons for his termination but instead they were willing to pay him wages in lieu of notice.

The claimants requested the court to award the grievant all terminal benefits as stipulated in the association's collective agreement in force at the time under redundancy clause and any arrears accrued under the said agreement and also maximum compensation as the respondents had failed to comply with the provisions of the Trade Disputes Act.

The respondents argued that they had never been members of the Federation of Kenya Employers or the association and had never entered or recognized the claimants for the purpose of collective bargaining hence they only adhered to the statutory regulations laid down by the government as applicable to such workers.

The respondents further stated that Mr. Kang'ethe was of unsteady nature and although having gained experience in his work proved incompetent and careless. He could no longer be relied upon to do a good job as the respondents had received several complaints from their customers for his bad workmanship. The respondents pointed out that during his employment with them, Mr. Kang'ethe had received two warning letters for poor performance of his duties and at one time he had resigned but later was re-employed by the respondents as he found himself in a desperate situation.

The respondents further stated that they had complied with the statutory regulations in paying him his dues as they still maintained that they were not a party to the association's collective agreement referred to by the claimants.

The respondents confirmed that they had paid Mr. Kang'ethe a total sum of KSh. 2,785.85 at the time his services were terminated which is made up as follows:

- (a) Wages for the days worked.
- (b) One month's wage in lieu of notice.
- (c) Severance pay for two years.
- (d) Annual leave was granted to him in January 1982 and September 1983.

The respondents refuted the claim for arrears due in wages paid to him, overtime for extra hours worked and house allowance. They requested the court to dismiss the case as they had complied with the legal provisions.

The court ordered the parties to find out whether or not the respondents were members of the association and it transpired that they were admitted as members of the association on 8th December, 1981, and were later deleted from the list of the association members on 11th January, 1983, and have since then ceased to be members.

After careful consideration of the parties' submissions, the court feels that the method applied by the respondents in terminating the services of Mr. Kang'ethe left a lot to be desired. They should not have avoided dealing with the claimants when they approached them on his behalf.

The court, therefore, awards Joseph Kang'ethe two months' wages as compensation for the wrongful dismissal that he has suffered and any other dues including arrears that were not paid to him in accordance with the association's collective agreement. The court notes that the claimants' demand is as follows:

- (a) Wages for the days worked.
- (b) One month's wage in lieu of notice.
- (c) Twenty-six (26) days severance pay.
- (d) Twenty-four (24) days annual leave.
- (e) Arrears of wages at the rate of sixty (60) cents per hour on top of his wages from 1st April, 1982.
- (f) Arrears of overtime worked.
- (g) One (1) hour per day as overtime from 1st April, 1982.
- (h) Arrears of housing allowance at the rate of eighty (80) shillings on top of his housing allowance from 1st April, 1982.

The respondents have paid him:

- (i) Wages for the days worked.
- (ii) One month's wage in lieu of notice.
- (iii) Severance pay for two (2) years and they claim that he was granted annual paid leave in January 1982 and September 1983.

Since the court has awarded in favour of the claimants, the court directs that the parties should work out the balance of wage arrears, overtime claim and other dues to which the grievant is entitled and which he claims with the assistance of the Chief Industrial Relations Officer or any other officer designated by him.

GAZETTE NOTICE No. 3344

THE TRADE MARKS ACT

(Cap. 506)

NOTICE is given that any person who has grounds of opposition to the registration of any of the trade marks advertised herein according to the classes may, within sixty (60) days from the date of this Gazette, lodge notice of opposition on form TM. No. 6 (in duplicate) together with a fee of KSh. 50.

Notice is also given that official objection will be taken under rule 21(3) to all applications in which the specification claims all the goods included in any class unless the registrar is satisfied that the claim is justified by the use of the mark which the applicant has made, or intends to make if and when it is registered. Where an applicant considers that a claim in respect of all the goods included in a class can be justified it will save unnecessary delay in examining applications if a claim is filed simultaneously with the application, accompanied in appropriate cases by supporting documents.

The period for lodging notice of opposition may be extended by the registrar as he thinks fit and upon such terms as he may direct. Any request for such extension should be made to the registrar so as to reach him before the expiry of the period allowed.

Formal opposition should not be lodged until after reasonable notice has been given by letter to the applicant for registration so as to afford him any opportunity of withdrawing his application before the expense of preparing the notice of opposition is incurred. Failure to give such notice will be taken into account in considering any application by an opponent for an order for costs if the opposition is uncontested by the applicant.

Where it is stated in the advertisement of the applicant that the mark, upon its registration is to be limited to certain colours, the colours are, as far as possible, indicated in the accompanying representations of the mark in the usual heraldic manner.

Representations of the marks advertised herein can be seen at the Trade Marks Registry, State Law Office, Nairobi.

Applications for registration in part A of the register are shown with the official number unaccompanied by any letter. Applications for part B are distinguished by the letter B prefixed to the official number.
