THE INDUSTRIAL COURT
CAUSE No. 91 OF 1990

Parties:

Kenya Union of Commercial Food and Allied Workers and Consumer Products (K) Ltd.

Issue in dispute:

Dismissal of Annah Mbithe Maingi.

THE Kenya Union of Commercial Food and Allied Workers shall hereinafter be referred to as the claimants and Consumer Products (K) Limited shall hereinafter be referred to as the respondents.

2. The parties were heard in Nairobi on 21st January, 5th February and 5th March, 1991, and relied on their written and verbal submissions. The parties also called the following witnesses to give evidence on their behalf:

Claimants—Annah Mbithe Maingi.

Respondents—Joyce Mwihaki Kimondo.

AWARD

3. The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 16th November, 1989, and signed by the parties was received by the court on 10th August, 1990, together with the signed statutory certificates from the Minister for Labour and the Labour Commissioner.

The grievant was initially employed by the respondents as a general hand on a temporary basis for about one (1) year, and on 23rd December, 1979, she was placed on permanent terms of employment. She was promoted to the position of a product filling machine operator; and, at the time of her summary dismissal on 5th December, 1988, she was earning a monthly salary of KSh. 1,600, plus a house allowance of KSh. 450.

The respondents have alleged that on Saturday, 3rd December, 1988, the grievant was caught at the gate by a security officer with a 90 ml. bottle of Vaseline Intensive Care Lotion inside the pocket of her jacket wrapped in a toilet paper without a gate pass. On interrogation, the grievant claimed that she had forgotten the gate pass in her locker in the factory. She requested to go for it, but when she came back she said that her locker was locked and the key thereof had been taken away by another lady. The grievant was allowed to go home and advised not to report on duty until Monday, 5th December, 1988, when her case would be considered. Meanwhile, the matter was reported to the management by the supervisor, Simon Karuku. On Sunday, 4th December, 1988, the grievant surprisingly turned up for work and produced a gate pass which was rejected by respondents on the ground that it was unconnected with the 90 ml. bottle of Vaseline Intensive Care Lotion. With the permission of the production manager, the grievant's locker was searched by the security personnel in her presence and an assortment of company products were found.

On Monday, 5th December, 1988, the respondents' Personnel Assistant, Joyce W. Kimondo, investigated the matter in the course of which she recorded an unsigned statement from the grievant but the latter repudiated it. On the same day, the grievant was summarily dismissed.

The claimants took up the matter with the respondents and the parties held a joint meeting on 27th January, 1989, at which the latter have alleged that the former washed their hands off the whole matter because the grievant had admitted to have taken the bottle of vaseline. However, the claimants later reported a trade dispute to the Minister for Labour and Miss Hellen Musa, was appointed to act as an investigator. On 13th October, 1989, the chief industrial relations officer forwarded to the parties the following recommendation:

Recommendation:

Considering that the management had in one meeting reduced the dismissal to termination with full terminal benefits, I recommend that, either Mrs. Maingi be reinstated to her previous job without loss of benefits except the period between the dismissal and the reinstatement be treated as leave with half pay or that she be considered to have had her services terminated and be paid her full terminal dues, according to the collective agreement between the parties and in addition she be paid 12 months' wages as compensation for wrongful dismissal.

The claimants accepted the ministry's recommendation, but the respondents rejected it as totally biased, misconceived, erroneous, wrongful and unjustified; and the matter is now before the court for consideration.

In their submission, the claimants denied that the grievant, who had worked for the respondents for a period of ten (10) years with a clean employment record, stole the product as alleged. They pointed out that the respondents had a scheme whereby rejected items were either sold or given free to the employees.

The claimants prayed the court to reinstate the grievant to her former job with full benefits.

The respondents strongly denied the claimants' written and verbal submissions and arguments on how the grievant came to possess the bottle of vaseline. They denied further that company products were given free to the employees as alleged by the claimants.

In conclusion, the respondents requested the court to consider the demeanour of their witness and also to evaluate the creditworthiness of the grievant. They also asked the court to note the conspicuous absence of Mr. Nyumba, who had handled the matter on behalf of the claimants. The respondents stated that Mr. Nyumba washed his hands off the matter but the claimants' representative dragged the matter to court. They maintained that the meeting actually took place between the parties at which it was agreed that the grievant would be paid her terminal benefits, and they have not changed their minds on the matter. The respondents, however, conceded that they were willing to reduce the dismissal to normal termination.

The respondents, however, prayed the court to uphold their action and reject the claimants' demand.

The facts of and evidence on record in this case clearly show that the grievant lost her job with the respondents on 5th December, 1988, on the ground that she fraudulently obtained and was caught by a security guard at the gate on 3rd December, 1988, with a 90 ml. bottle of Vaseline Intensive Care Lotion without a gate pass for it, contrary to the company regulations in force. On 4th December, 1988, a search of her locker was conducted in her presence by the supervisor on duty and an assortment of products belonging to the company were allegedly recovered. But the grievant has denied that some items were found in her locker; and, on the contrary, maintains that only her uniform was found therein. In the course of her investigation of this matter the following day—i.e., 5th December, 1988—Miss Kimondo, the personnel assistant, recorded statement from the grievant.

When Miss Kimondo read back the statement to the grievant and requested her to sign, the latter rejected and refused to sign it. Hence, the remark "Statement not acceptable to Anna Mbithe Maingi". Surprisingly, underneath the remark are signatures of Miss Kimondo and the Commercial Manager, Mr. Duncan G. Mwangi, and the date given when the remark was made is 14th February, 1989. The court is persuaded, therefore, by the handwriting of the remark and the second statement, that the remark was made by Mr. Mwangi, when he recorded the second and longer statement from the grievant on that date. This statement was signed by the grievant and Mr. Duncan G. Mwangi and Miss Joyce Kimondo. Mr. Benjamin Birgen, also signed it as a witness.

The grievant was summarily dismissed way back on 5th December, 1988, and the court wonders why the respondents had to record the above statement from the grievant long after her summary dismissal and the meeting of 27th January, 1989, between the parties at which it is alleged that the grievant was offered terminal benefits. Either the respondents tricked the grievant into believing that if she gave the statement she would be reinstated to her former job, or they needed the statement to bolster their case in the event that the matter reached the court. The court is convinced that the former was the case as the grievant had stated in her evidence.

The respondents have also been hit by the minutes of the meeting held on 27th January, 1989. The minutes contained the signatures of three (3) senior members of management staff—i.e., general manager, factory manager and personnel assistant, who testified that the claimants' representative could not have signed the minutes because they were typed after his departure. None of the persons before whom the grievant is alleged to have admitted that she stole the 90 ml. bottle of vaseline was called to testify. When the respondents were pressed to produce the handwritten version of the minutes which were signed by the parties, they failed to do so. Admittedly, the meeting must have taken place, but the respondents' failure to obtain the signature of the claimants' representative is a serious lapse on their part, and it is inexcusable because an agreement to be valid under the law must be signed by both parties.

All in all, the court feels that this case was, from its inception, poorly handled by the respondents. Miss Kimondo acted hastily by summarily dismissing the grievant and outrightly rejecting the purported gate pass which was produced by her to back up her case, without a thorough investigation of the matter.

It would appear that the respondents dismissed the grievant on the suspicious ground that she was not a fit person to be retained in service after the alleged discovery of company property in her locker. Miss Kimondo is not a material witness in this case; and her evidence is suspect and of no use to the court at all.

On the documentary evidence, the court feels that the parties were not wholly truthful. Some of the annexures and other documents, especially the gate passes, which the parties attempted to produce in support of their cases, were unsatisfactory and led the court to no firm conclusion.

In the circumstances, and taking into account the gravity of the alleged misconduct and the previous clean record of the grievant, the balance of probabilities heavily tilts against the respondents, but the court does not consider it advisable to direct the respondents to reinstate the grievant to her former job.

In the result, the court awards that the grievant's summary dismissal be reduced to normal termination of service and she be paid all her terminal benefits in accordance with the applicable parties' collective agreement. The court further awards that the grievant be paid full compensation—i.e., 12 months—for wrongful summary dismissal that she has suffered.

Dated the 16th May, 1991.

2. Stephen Musinga.
3. Joseph Aluoch.

3. The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 22nd July, 1989, and duly signed by the parties was received by the court on 10th August, 1990, together with the appropriate statutory certificates from the Minister for Labour and the Labour Commissioner.

The first grievant was initially engaged by the respondents on casual basis on 19th April, 1982, at the rate of KSh. 5.50 per hour. He remained as such until 1st February, 1986, when he was promoted to a position of a packer and placed on permanent terms of employment at a monthly salary of KSh. 1,385. After three (3) months probationary period, his salary was raised to KSh. 1,706 per month plus house allowance of KSh. 255.

The second grievant was employed by the respondents as a filing operator on 1st April 1976, at a consolidated monthly salary of KSh. 417. This was subsequently raised to KSh. 1,385 per month; and at the time of her dismissal on 18th September, 1986, she was earning a monthly salary of KSh. 2,346, and a house allowance of KSh. 255.

It is alleged that on 16th September, 1986, the second grievant, who was a machine operator, unlawfully removed a withdrawal cord from the "O.B." machine room in the respondents' factory godown No. 18, and took it to the finished goods godown No. 16, where she handed it over to the first grievant, who was the storeman-in-charge, to hide it for her while she pondered how she could remove it from the premises at a later and safer time without the knowledge of the respondents. The first grievant went and hid the cord in a small room next to the ladies' toilet. On a tip-off of the factory manager, Mr. Aluoch, interrogated the grievants the next day—i.e., 17th September, 1986, and they confessed their guilt and pleaded with the respondents to grant them normal termination of service instead of summary dismissal. The respondents ignored the plea and on 18th September, 1986, the grievants were served with the letter of summary dismissal.

After protracted attempts to convene a meeting with a view to resolving the matter, the parties finally met but no amicable settlement was reached. The claimants, therefore, reported a trade dispute to the Minister for Labour, and Mr. B. O. Okello, of Labour Office, Nairobi, was appointed to act as an investigator. On 8th June, 1989, the Minister recommended to the parties that the grievants' dismissal should be reduced to normal termination of service and they be paid all their terminal benefits in accordance with the parties' C.B.A. In addition, the grievants should also be paid two (2) and six (6) months' basic salary respectively, by way of compensation for wrongful dismissal they suffered.

The claimants accepted the recommendation but the respondents rejected it as erroneous, and the matter is now before the court for consideration.

The claimants, prayed the court to either award the grievants reinstatement to their former jobs without loss of benefits and seniority or terminal benefits and compensation in accordance with the ministry's recommendation.

The respondents submitted that the removal of the withdrawal cord from the machine room to the finished goods godown No. 16 by the second grievant, and also requesting the first grievant to hide it for her in the ladies' toilet, amounted to an intention to steal. Furthermore, the former had also admitted that she had intended to steal the said cord and the latter had aided and abetted her in the act or crime for which they were summarily dismissed.

Accordingly, and on the basis of the evidence on record against the grievants, the respondents prayed the court to reject the claimants' demands in total as lacking in merit.

It would appear on careful consideration of the parties' submissions and the evidence tendered that the grievants' summary dismissal stemmed from a tip-off by one Grace Akinyi, who is alleged to have alerted the respondents that she had seen the second grievant carrying something into the ladies' toilet. The respondents also relied heavily on their witnesses' evidence that the grievants had confessed to the theft of the withdrawal cord. The witnesses deposed that, on interrogation, the first grievant produced the withdrawal cord from a washing room next to the ladies' toilet. The grievants were not caught red-handed and no written confession was recorded from them during the inquiry or interrogation. If the grievants had confessed to have committed such a gross misconduct as alleged by the respondents, the proper course that they should have taken was to obtain written and signed statements from them, otherwise, they would have no peg, as is the case in this matter, to hang on. Thus the manner of inquiry was very haphazardly dealt with by the respondents' factory manager. Furthermore, the subject matter of the alleged theft was very petty—a withdrawal cord—and the fact that the first grievant produced it in good faith when requested to do so is not sufficient to impute any motive to him that he was aiding and abetting the second grievant in the alleged theft.

In view of the above and in consideration of the material points in the evidence of the respondents' witnesses, the court finds that the summary dismissal of the grievants was extremely severe, considering their past clean and long records of service, especially that of the second grievant. They are, therefore, entitled to relief. But since a suspicion has cropped in the respondents' mind regarding the alleged theft, which is an offence involving moral turpitude, the court would not like to thrust the grievants on the respondents.

In the circumstances, the court awards that the grievants' summary dismissal be reduced to normal termination of service and they be paid all their terminal benefits in terms of the parties' relevant collective agreement. In addition, court awards that the respondents must pay the grievants three (3) and nine (9) months' salary respectively as compensation for the wrongful and illegal dismissal they have suff-

2. The parties were heard in Nairobi on 26th and 28th March, 1991, and relied on their written and verbal submissions.

AWARD

3. The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 7th August, 1990, and duly signed by the parties was received by the court on 19th December, 1990, together with the statutory certificates signed by the Labour Commissioner.

The respondents are one of the oldest saw-milling enterprises in the country. They were established in 1930s, and the present management have been carrying on the business on the same site since 1954. The respondents are situated about 25 km. from Nairobi and currently employ 50 unionizable employees, 31 of whom are union members and affected by this dispute.

The parties entered into a recognition agreement on 23rd October, 1989, following the de-registration of the Kenya Timber and Furniture Workers Union in 1985, whose latest collective agreement with the respondents expired on 30th June, 1987. Consequent upon the signing of the recognition agreement, the claimants forwarded to the respondents their proposals, comprising 42 clauses seeking a review of the terms and conditions of employment of the latter's unionizable employees; and, as a result, the parties met at their own level on 13th February, 1990, when 18 issues were settled, leaving 24 items. The claimants reported a trade dispute to the Minister for Labour on the remaining issues, and Mr. J. N. Ndiho, of Kiambu labour office was appointed to act as a conciliator. During the conciliation meetings the parties reached a settlement on four (4) more issues, but deadlocked on the issues now before the court for consideration.

In their opening submission, the claimants stated that the respondents have denied their employees compensation for the rise of the cost of living since June, 1987, when the latest collective agreement between them and the defunct Kenya Timber and Furniture Workers' Union lapsed. In the circumstances, the employees have found themselves in an embarrassing financial situation, leading to a serious erosion of their purchasing power. They contended that the respondents have deliberately and without justifiable reasons caused untold suffering to the poor and unfortunate employees; and unless the court came to their rescue, they will continue to suffer.

In reply the respondents submitted that they have been doing a lucrative business before, but about two (2) to three (3) years ago their business has undergone through various operational problems which have reduced its production capacity to between 25 cent and 40 per cent, and almost brought about the collapse of the enterprise.

These problems included:

- (a) Lack of permanent forest licence to enable them operate in, and obtain the required logs from, the forest for their saw-milling business purposes.
- (b) Long distance, i.e. over 60 kilometres in search of logs unlike previously when they were operating mainly within 20 to 30 kilometres from their plant (in Kiambu District). This has occasioned increased transport and other operational costs.
- (c) Increased operational and production costs and overheads due to escalating prices of fuel, spares and maintenance vis-a-vis the prices of timber which have not increased proportionally.
- (d) Competition from surrounding firms—there are about five saw mills in the vicinity.
- (e) Decreasing demand for timber, leading to a drop in their sales by about 40 per cent.
- (f) Minimal profits which may lead to the closure of the business in 1992. Hence, their letter dated 14th January, 1991, to the Ministry of Labour of intended redundancy.

The respondents have, therefore, pleaded financial inability to meet most of the claimants' demand on the ground that the same were unrealistic and unreasonable, and for this reason they could not accept them.

In their final submission, the claimants accused the respondents of being recalcitrant in settling the matter, and for this reason the employees have been unable to receive their wage and other incentive entitlements since 1986. They argued that the respondents, being one of the oldest industries in the area, had the capacity and ability to compensate the employees adequately. The claimants strongly contended that the respondents are engaged in similar lucrative business as their sister company, Messrs. Gordhandas Dharamshi & Brothers Ltd., of Limuru, with whom they, the claimants, have signed a collective agreement which has already been registered in this court. They also relied, among others, on the terms and conditions of employment of the Timber Industries Employers' Association of F.K.E., which has since expired and is due for renewal. The claimants therefore, prayed the court to award in their favour accordingly.

In reply, the respondents have strongly pleaded financial constraints and inability in meeting most of the claimants' demands; and have maintained that, although they are a sister company to Messrs. Gordhandas Dharamshi & Brothers Ltd., of Limuru, the latter's business capacity was three (3) times more than their own. They averred that, apart from saw-milling business, Messrs. Gordhandas Dharamshi & Brothers Ltd., are engaged in other business, such as manufacturing of polythene bags, pre-fabricated houses and tyres. Hence, they earn more income from various sources.

The respondents informed the court that after the deregistration of the Kenya Timber and Furniture Workers' Union their employees have earned salary increments of 10 per cent on 1st July, each year for the years 1987, 1988 and 1989. The travelling and safari allowances have likewise been increased during the same period. The respondents, therefore, felt that, in view of their financial inability as stated hereinabove, the claimants' demands are very unrealistic and unreasonable.

The respondents are a saw-milling industry and this type of industry has some characteristics of its own. It is situated predominantly in rural areas and most of them are large employers of labour at a low average wage, and the value of its output is comparatively low. These characteristics are more marked than for any other industry because it is a supply-based industry with a labour-intensive production function. This arises from the isolated location of many saw-milling establishments due to their need to be as near as possible to the forests from which the timber is drawn. Many saw-mills exist as virtually self-contained communities and this requires a degree of organization and expenditure on amenities which can only be carried by a high level of production. Accordingly, the ratio of labour costs to other costs indicate the labour-intensity of this industry's production function.

On the facts of this dispute and after careful scrutiny of the respondents' financial statement as at 31st December, 1989, the court is in no doubt that their financial conditions will not enable them to bear any ad hoc additional burden imposed. In coming to this conclusion the court has taken into account the practice prevailing in other similar concerns in the country and future prospects of the industry. The respondents have made a definite case that it was in a rather precarious position financially; and that being the case, it is incumbent upon the court to carefully weigh the pros and cons and give an award that will not be beyond the capacity of this particular concern.

With the above observations in mind, the court awards as hereunder on the various issues at stake.

The court awards that a status quo be maintained on the following issues:

7. Protective clothing/uniforms and other equipment.
11. Transfer allowance.
12. Supply of milk.
13. Night shift allowance.
14. Transportation.
16. Termination by death.
17. Increase to existing unaffected employees.

1. Hours of Work.

The court notes that the current working hours in almost all enterprises, especially in this kind of industry, are common, and for this reason the court awards that:

- (a) The normal working week for employees other than watchmen shall consist of forty-five (45) hours of work at the rate of eight (8) hours per day from Monday to Friday inclusive, and five (5) hours of work on Saturdays (hereinafter referred to as the normal hours of work) per week or per day as the case may be.
 - (b) The normal working week for day watchmen shall consist of forty-five (45) hours of work to be spread over six (6) days of the week.
 - (c) The normal working week for night watchmen shall consist of fifty-two (52) hours of work to be spread over six (6) nights or six (6) shifts of the week.
 - (d) An employee who is stopped from working by the company for any period of time for any reason other than termination of employment or dismissal shall be entitled to his/her full rate of wages per day or per month as the case may be.
- Sub-clauses (e) and (f) are not appropriate.

2. Annual Leave.

On this issue the court awards as follows:

- (a) After completion of each period of twelve (12) months consecutive service with the company, an employee shall be entitled to annual leave for a period covering twenty-six (26) working days with full pay (exclusive of Sundays and gazetted public holidays) and leave may be taken at any time during the ensuing twelve (12) months.

- (a) An employee who is unable to carry out his/her duties due to sickness or any other physical incapacity shall be entitled to sick leave with full pay of forty-five (45) days and thereafter to sick leave with half pay up to a maximum of forty-five (45) days in any period of twelve (12) months.

5. Maternity Leave.

The court awards that:

- (a) A female employee shall be entitled to sixty (60) consecutive days maternity leave with full pay and other privileges provided that she forfeits her annual leave in that year.
- (b) Any extension of maternity leave shall be without pay. But if a female employee is hospitalized after expiry of maternity leave, such an employee shall be granted sick leave of forty-five (45) days on full pay and a further forty-five (45) days on half pay.

6. Termination of Employment.

The court awards that:

- (a) The first two (2) months of employment with the company shall be treated as probationary period, and during such period the contract may be terminated by seven (7) days notice in writing to be given by either party, or otherwise by payment by either party in lieu of notice of seven (7) days wages.
- (b) In the case of an employee who has completed two (2) months but less than five (5) years' continuous service with the company, the contract shall be terminable by one month's notice in writing to be given by either party, or otherwise by payment by either party in lieu of notice of one (1) month's wages.

- (d) In the case of an employee being terminated at the initiative of the company after completion of five (5) years' continuous service such employee shall be entitled to gratuity as per the terms of this agreement.
- (e) After successful completion of probationary period an employee will be confirmed as permanent employee of the company.
- (f) Nothing in this clause shall prejudice the right of either party to terminate a contract summarily for a lawful cause.

8. Safari Allowance.

As regards this issue, the court awards that an employee who is required to perform work away from his/her principal place of employment shall be entitled to be paid subsistence and accommodation allowance as follows:

	1st Year KSh.	2nd Year KSh.
(a) For any such period of duty exceeding six (6) hours but not exceeding twelve (12) hours	35	40
(b) For any such period of duty exceeding twelve (12) hours but not including an overnight stop	55	65
(c) For an overnight stop in Nairobi area and Mombasa Municipality an employee shall be entitled in addition to subsistence allowance payable under proviso (b) to accommodation allowance of	135	150
(d) For an overnight stop elsewhere an employee shall be entitled in addition to subsistence allowance payable under proviso (b) to accommodation allowance of	100	115

Sub-clause (e) is rejected.

N.B.—Vehicles used for transportation are not acceptable accommodation.

9. Housing Allowance.

The court has given serious consideration to this pressing problem and awards as hereunder:

- (a) An employee who is not provided with reasonable and satisfactory free housing accommodation by the company shall be entitled, in addition to his/her basic rate of wages prescribed in this agreement, to a housing allowance of fifteen (15) per cent of the employee's wages.

- (b) For those employees who are employed for a period of time less than one (1) calendar month, the daily rates of housing allowance shall be deemed to be fifteen (15) per cent of the employee's daily wages.

10. Suspension from duty.

The court awards on this demand as follows:

- (a) An employee charged with a criminal offence or suspected of having committed a criminal offence in which the company is interested may be suspended from duty without pay pending the outcome of court action.
- (b) Should the result of the court action prove that the employee was not guilty, such an employee shall be reinstated in his/her previous employment without loss of wages or any other privileges and benefits.
- (c) Should the result of the court action establish that the employee was guilty of the offence with which he was charged, such disciplinary measures as appropriate may be taken against that employee but without loss of wages and other benefits already earned.

15. Retirement (Gratuity) terminal benefits.

The claimants' demand on this issue is reasonable fair, and the court, therefore, awards, with minor amendments, as follows:

On completion of five (5) years' service with the company, an employee shall be entitled to fifteen (15) days pay for every completed year of service by way of gratuity to be based on employee's wages at the time of termination of services.

- (a) An employee who resigns for any reason other than certified ill health or old age shall not be entitled to gratuity.
- (i) In the event of any dispute as regards resignation on medical grounds, the verdict of a qualified medical practitioner shall prevail.
 - (ii) An employee who attains fifty (50) years of age shall be entitled to retire with full benefits.
- (b) The retiring employee shall be entitled to a sum equivalent to his/her one way leave travelling allowance.
- (c) An employee who has worked for a period up to five (5) years continuous service shall receive one month's notice or one month's pay in lieu thereof.
- (d) An employee who has completed over five (5) years continuous service shall receive two (2) months' notice or two (2) months' wages in lieu of notice.
- (e) In case of death of an employee, the retirement benefits/gratuity shall be paid by the company to the lawful heirs of the deceased.

18. Basic minimum rates of wages per month (exclusive of housing allowance).

After careful and anxious consideration of the parties' submissions on this issue and its financial implications, the court awards a wage increase to all categories of employee of 8.5 per cent for the first year and 10 per cent for the second year, or 18.5 per cent for the two (2) year-period.

19. Effective date and duration of the agreement.

The court awards 1st July, 1990, as the effective date with a duration period of two (2) years from that date. After the expiry date, the agreement shall remain in force until it is amended by mutual consent. However, a party wishing to amend any clause or clauses of this agreements shall give one month's notice to the other party, setting out in detail such proposed amendment or amendments.

20. Redundancy.

On this demand the court awards that it shall be a condition in every contract that where the employment of an employee is to be terminated on account of redundancy, the following principles in addition to the requirements of the relevant provisions of the Trade Dispute Act in force, shall apply:

- (a) The union shall be informed of the reasons for and the extent of the intended redundancy prior to the issue of notices.
- (b) Discharge for redundancy will be effected on the basis of "Last in First Out" in any section to be affected by the redundancy.
- (c) Any leave due to an employee who is declared redundant shall be paid for in cash.

- (d) Any redundant employee with less than five (5) years' continuous service with the company shall be entitled to one (1) month's notice or one (1) month's pay in lieu thereof. An employee with five (5) or more years of service shall be entitled to two (2) months' notice or two (2) months' wages in lieu of notice.

- (e) An employee declared redundant shall be entitled to severance pay at the rate of fifteen (15) days' pay for each completed year of service.

N.B.—For the purpose of this clause redundancy shall mean the loss of employment, occupation, job or career by involuntary means through no fault of an employee involving termination of employment at the initiative of the employer where the services of an employee are superfluous and the practice commonly known as abolition of office, job or occupation, closure or sale of business.

The parties must now proceed to sign a collective agreement incorporating this award on the various issues and also those which they have already agreed upon at their own level.

Deputy Registrar, Machakos.

It would appear that the respondents dismissed the grievant on the suspicious ground that she was not a fit person to be retained in service after the alleged discovery of company property in her locker. Miss Kimondo is not a material witness in this case; and her evidence is suspect and of no use to the court at all.

On the documentary evidence, the court feels that the parties were not wholly truthful. Some of the annexures and other documents, especially the gate passes, which the parties attempted to produce in support of their cases, were unsatisfactory and led the court to no firm conclusion.

In the circumstances, and taking into account the gravity of the alleged misconduct and the previous clean record of the grievant, the balance of probabilities heavily tilts against the respondents, but the court does not consider it advisable to direct the respondents to reinstate the grievant to her former job.

In the result, the court awards that the grievant's summary dismissal be reduced to normal termination of service and she be paid all her terminal benefits in accordance with the applicable parties' collective agreement. The court further awards that the grievant be paid full compensation—i.e., 12 months—for wrongful summary dismissal that she has suffered.

Johnson and Johnson (K) Ltd.

Kenya Chemical and Allied Workers' Union

Issue in dispute:

Dismissal/termination of Robert A. Manono and Salome Wangari by their employer on 18th September, 1986.

THE Kenya Chemical and Allied Workers' Union, shall hereinafter be referred to as the claimants and Johnson & Johnson (K) Ltd., shall hereinafter be referred to as the respondents.

2. The parties were heard in Nairobi, on 29th January and 20th February, 1991, and relied on their written submissions and verbal arguments. In addition, the respondents called the following witnesses to give evidence on their behalf:

1. Patrick John Akona.
2. Stephen Musinga.
3. Joseph Aluoch.

The claimants did not call any witness.

AWARD

3. The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 22nd July, 1989, and duly signed by the parties was received by the court on 10th August, 1990, together with the appropriate statutory certificates from the Minister for Labour and the Labour Commissioner.

The first grievant was initially engaged by the respondents on casual basis on 19th April, 1982, at the rate of KSh. 5.50 per hour. He remained as such until 1st February, 1986, when he was promoted to a position of a packer and placed on permanent terms of employment at a monthly salary of KSh. 1,385. After three (3) months probationary period, his salary was raised to KSh. 1,706 per month plus house allowance of KSh. 255.

The second grievant was employed by the respondents as a filing operator on 1st April 1976, at a consolidated monthly salary of KSh. 417. This was subsequently raised to KSh. 1,385 per month; and at the time of her dismissal on 18th September, 1986, she was earning a monthly salary of KSh. 2,346, and a house allowance of KSh. 255.

It is alleged that on 16th September, 1986, the second grievant, who was a machine operator, unlawfully removed a withdrawal cord from the "O.B." machine room in the respondents' factory godown No. 18, and took it to the finished goods godown No. 16, where she handed it over to the first grievant, who was the storeman-in-charge, to hide it for her while she pondered how she could remove it from the premises at a later and safer time without the knowledge of the respondents. The first grievant went and hid the cord in a small room next to the ladies' toilet. On a tip-off of the factory manager, Mr. Aluoch, interrogated the grievants the next day—i.e., 17th September, 1986, and they confessed their guilt and pleaded with the respondents to grant them normal termination of service instead of summary dismissal. The respondents ignored the plea and on 18th September, 1986, the grievants were served with the letter of summary dismissal.

After protracted attempts to convene a meeting with a view to resolving the matter, the parties finally met but no amicable settlement was reached. The claimants, therefore, reported a trade dispute to the Minister for Labour, and Mr. B. O. Okello, of Labour Office, Nairobi, was appointed to act as an investigator. On 8th June, 1989, the Minister recommended to the parties that the grievants' dismissal should be reduced to normal termination of service and they be paid all their terminal benefits in accordance with the parties' C.B.A. In addition, the grievants should also be paid two (2) and six (6) months' basic salary respectively, by way of compensation for wrongful dismissal they suffered.

The claimants accepted the recommendation but the respondents rejected it as erroneous, and the matter is now before the court for consideration.

The claimants, prayed the court to either award the grievants reinstatement to their former jobs without loss of benefits and seniority or terminal benefits and compensation in accordance with the ministry's recommendation.

The respondents submitted that the removal of the withdrawal cord from the machine room to the finished goods godown No. 16 by the second grievant, and also requesting the first grievant to hide it for her in the ladies' toilet, amounted to an intention to steal. Furthermore, the former had also admitted that she had intended to steal the said cord and the latter had aided and abetted her in the act or crime for which they were summarily dismissed.

Accordingly, and on the basis of the evidence on record against the grievants, the respondents prayed the court to reject the claimants' demands in total as lacking in merit.

It would appear on careful consideration of the parties' submissions and the evidence tendered that the grievants' summary dismissal stemmed from a tip-off by one Grace Akinyi, who is alleged to have alerted the respondents that she had seen the second grievant carrying something into the ladies' toilet. The respondents also relied heavily on their witnesses' evidence that the grievants had confessed to the theft of the withdrawal cord. The witnesses deposed that, on interrogation, the first grievant produced the withdrawal cord from a washing room next to the ladies' toilet. The grievants were not caught red-handed and no written confession was recorded from them during the inquiry or interrogation. If the grievants had confessed to have committed such a gross misconduct as alleged by the respondents, the proper course that they should have taken was to obtain written and signed statements from them, otherwise, they would have no peg, as is the case in this matter, to hang on. Thus the manner of inquiry was very haphazardly dealt with by the respondents' factory manager. Furthermore, the subject matter of the alleged theft was very petty—a withdrawal cord—and the fact that the first grievant produced it in good faith when requested to do so is not sufficient to impute any motive to him that he was aiding and abetting the second grievant in the alleged theft.

In view of the above and in consideration of the material points in the evidence of the respondents' witnesses, the court finds that the summary dismissal of the grievants was extremely severe, considering their past clean and long records of service, especially that of the second grievant. They are, therefore, entitled to relief. But since a suspicion has cropped in the respondents' mind regarding the alleged theft, which is an offence involving moral turpitude, the court would not like to thrust the grievants on the respondents.

In the circumstances, the court awards that the grievants' summary dismissal be reduced to normal termination of service and they be paid all their terminal benefits in terms of the parties' relevant collective agreement. In addition, the court awards that the respondents must pay the grievants three (3) and nine (9) months' salary respectively as compensation for the wrongful and illegal dismissal they have suffered.

2. The parties were heard in Nairobi on 26th and 28th March, 1991, and relied on their written and verbal submissions.

AWARD

3. The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 7th August, 1990, and duly signed by the parties was received by the court on 19th December, 1990, together with the statutory certificates signed by the Labour Commissioner.

The respondents are one of the oldest saw-milling enterprises in the country. They were established in 1930s, and the present management have been carrying on the business on the same site since 1954. The respondents are situated about 25 km. from Nairobi and currently employ 50 unionizable employees, 31 of whom are union members and affected by this dispute.

The parties entered into a recognition agreement on 23rd October, 1989, following the de-registration of the Kenya Timber and Furniture Workers Union in 1985, whose latest collective agreement with the respondents expired on 30th June, 1987. Consequent upon the signing of the recognition agreement, the claimants forwarded to the respondents their proposals, comprising 42 clauses seeking a review of the terms and conditions of employment of the latter's unionizable employees; and, as a result, the parties met at their own level on 13th February, 1990, when 18 issues were settled, leaving 24 items. The claimants reported a trade dispute to the Minister for Labour on the remaining issues, and Mr. J. N. Ndiiho, of Kiambu labour office was appointed to act as a conciliator. During the conciliation meetings the parties reached a settlement on four (4) more issues, but deadlocked on the issues now before the court for consideration.

In their opening submission, the claimants stated that the respondents have denied their employees compensation for the rise of the cost of living since June, 1987, when the latest collective agreement between them and the defunct Kenya Timber and Furniture Workers' Union lapsed. In the circumstances, the employees have found themselves in an embarrassing financial situation, leading to a serious erosion of their purchasing power. They contended that the respondents have deliberately and without justifiable reasons caused untold suffering to the poor and unfortunate employees; and unless the court came to their rescue, they will continue to suffer.

In reply the respondents submitted that they have been doing a lucrative business before, but about two (2) to three (3) years ago their business has undergone through various operational problems which have reduced its production capacity to between 30 per cent and 40 per cent, and almost brought about the closure of the enterprise.

These problems included:

- (a) Lack of permanent forest licence to enable them operate in, and obtain the required logs from, the forest for their saw-milling business purposes.
- (b) Long distance, i.e. over 60 kilometres in search of logs unlike previously when they were operating mainly within 20 to 30 kilometres from their plant (in Kiambu District). This has occasioned increased transport and other operational costs.
- (c) Increased operational and production costs and overheads due to escalating prices of fuel, spares and maintenance vis-a-vis the prices of timber which have not increased proportionally.
- (d) Competition from surrounding firms—there are about five saw mills in the vicinity.
- (e) Decreasing demand for timber, leading to a drop in their sales by about 40 per cent.
- (f) Minimal profits which may lead to the closure of the business in 1992. Hence, their letter dated 14th January, 1991, to the Ministry of Labour of intended redundancy.

The respondents have, therefore, pleaded financial inability to meet most of the claimants' demand on the ground that the same were unrealistic and unreasonable, and for this reason they could not accept them.

In their final submission, the claimants accused the respondents of being recalcitrant in settling the matter, and for this reason the employees have been unable to receive their wage and other incentive entitlements since 1986. They argued that the respondents, being one of the oldest industries in the area, had the capacity and ability to compensate the employees adequately. The claimants strongly contended that the respondents are engaged in similar lucrative business as their sister company, Messrs. Gordhandas Dharamshi & Brothers Ltd., of Limuru, with whom they, the claimants, have signed a collective agreement which has already been registered in this court. They also relied, among others, on the terms and conditions of employment of the Timber Industries Employers' Association of F.K.E., which has since expired and is due for renewal. The claimants therefore, prayed the court to award in their favour accordingly.

In reply, the respondents have strongly pleaded financial constraints and inability in meeting most of the claimants' demands; and have maintained that, although they are a sister company to Messrs. Gordhandas Dharamshi & Brothers Ltd., of Limuru, the latter's business capacity was three (3) times more than their own. They averred that, apart from saw-milling business, Messrs. Gordhandas Dharamshi & Brothers Ltd., are engaged in other business, such as manufacturing of polythene bags, pre-fabricated houses and tyres. Hence, they earn more income from various sources.

The respondents informed the court that after the deregistration of the Kenya Timber and Furniture Workers' Union their employees have earned salary increments of 10 per cent on 1st July, each year for the years 1987, 1988 and 1989. The travelling and safari allowances have likewise been increased during the same period. The respondents, therefore, felt that, in view of their financial inability as stated hereinabove, the claimants' demands are very unrealistic and unreasonable.

The respondents are a saw-milling industry and this type of industry has some characteristics of its own. It is situated predominantly in rural areas and most of them are large employers of labour at a low average wage, and the value of its output is comparatively low. These characteristics are more marked than for any other industry because it is a supply-based industry with a labour-intensive production function. This arises from the isolated location of many saw-milling establishments due to their need to be as near as possible to the forests from which the timber is drawn. Many saw-mills exist as virtually self-contained communities and this requires a degree of organization and expenditure on amenities which can only be carried by a high level of production. Accordingly, the ratio of labour costs to other costs indicate the labour-intensity of this industry's production function.

On the facts of this dispute and after careful scrutiny of the respondents' financial statement as at 31st December, 1989, the court is in no doubt that their financial conditions will not enable them to bear any ad hoc additional burden imposed. In coming to this conclusion the court has taken into account the practice prevailing in other similar concerns in the country and future prospects of the industry. The respondents have made a definite case that it was in a rather precarious position financially; and that being the case, it is incumbent upon the court to carefully weigh the pros and cons and give an award that will not be beyond the capacity of this particular concern.

With the above observations in mind, the court awards as hereunder on the various issues at stake.

The court awards that a status quo be maintained on the following issues:

7. Protective clothing/uniforms and other equipment.
11. Transfer allowance.
12. Supply of milk.
13. Night shift allowance.
14. Transportation.
16. Termination by death.
17. Increase to existing unaffected employees.

1. Hours of Work.

The court notes that the current working hours in almost all enterprises, especially in this kind of industry, are common, and for this reason the court awards that:

- (a) The normal working week for employees other than watchmen shall consist of forty-five (45) hours of work at the rate of eight (8) hours per day from Monday to Friday inclusive, and five (5) hours of work on Saturdays (hereinafter referred to as the normal hours of work) per week or per day as the case may be.
- (b) The normal working week for day watchmen shall consist of forty-five (45) hours of work to be spread over six (6) days of the week.
- (c) The normal working week for night watchmen shall consist of fifty-two (52) hours of work to be spread over six (6) nights or six (6) shifts of the week.
- (d) An employee who is stopped from working by the company for any period of time for any reason other than termination of employment or dismissal shall be entitled to his/her full rate of wages per day or per month as the case may be.

Sub-clauses (e) and (f) are not appropriate.

2. Annual Leave.

On this issue the court awards as follows:

- (a) After completion of each period of twelve (12) month's consecutive service with the company, an employee shall be entitled to annual leave for a period covering twenty-six (26) working days with full pay (exclusive of Sundays and gazetted public holidays) and leave may be taken at any time during the ensuing twelve (12) months.
- (b) Where employment is terminated before the completion of any twelve (12) months leave earning period, an employee shall be entitled to pro rata leave of two (2) days with full pay for each month of service completed by him/her since the start of such leave earning period.
- (c) An employee shall be entitled to leave pay at least one day before commencement of annual leave.
- (d) Any pro rata leave earned within a period of twelve (12) months at the time of termination of services shall be paid for in cash.

3. Leave Travelling Allowance.

The court awards that:

- (a) After each period of twelve (12) months' continuous service with the company, an employee shall be entitled to a leave travelling allowance of shillings one hundred and fifty (KSh. 150) during the first year and shillings one hundred and eighty (KSh. 180) for the second year of this agreement, or to payment in advance by the company of the actual cost of travel to the employee's home and back to his/her place of employment, whichever payment is greater.
- (b) An employee who is requested by the company to proceed on leave before the expiry of any twelve (12) months or to commute leave to cash shall be entitled to full leave travelling allowance only once in any consecutive twelve (12) months period.

4. Sick Leave.

On this item the court awards as follows:

- (a) An employee who is unable to carry out his/her duties due to sickness or any other physical incapacity shall be entitled to sick leave with full pay of forty-five (45) days and thereafter to sick leave with half pay up to a maximum of forty-five (45) days in any period of twelve (12) months.
- (b) An employee claiming sick leave pay as provided for by paragraph (a) of this clause shall produce a certificate of incapacity covering the period claimed and signed by a qualified medical practitioner in-charge of a medical institution or by a person acting on his behalf.
- (c) An employee who is injured or falls sick at the place of work shall be provided with transport by the company to the nearest hospital/dispensary and back from such hospital/dispensary to the place of his/her employment or residence.

- (d) An employee who is absent due to sickness shall continue to be paid housing allowance in full during the period of sickness and as long as he/she remains in the company's employment.

5. Maternity Leave.

The court awards that:

- (a) A female employee shall be entitled to sixty (60) consecutive days maternity leave with full pay and other privileges provided that she forfeits her annual leave in that year.
- (b) Any extension of maternity leave shall be without pay. But if a female employee is hospitalized after expiry of maternity leave, such an employee shall be granted sick leave of forty-five (45) days on full pay and a further forty-five (45) days on half pay.

6. Termination of Employment.

The court awards that:

- (a) The first two (2) months of employment with the company shall be treated as probationary period, and during such period the contract may be terminated by seven (7) days notice in writing to be given by either party, or otherwise by payment by either party in lieu of notice of seven (7) days wages.
- (b) In the case of an employee who has completed two (2) months but less than five (5) years' continuous service with the company, the contract shall be terminable by one month's notice in writing to be given by either party, or otherwise by payment by either party in lieu of notice of one (1) month's wages.
- (c) In case of an employee who has completed five (5) years continuous service with the company, the contract shall be terminable by two months' notice in writing to be given by either party, or by payment by either party in lieu of notice of two (2) months' wages.
- (d) In the case of an employee being terminated at the initiative of the company after completion of five (5) years' continuous service such employee shall be entitled to gratuity as per the terms of this agreement.
- (e) After successful completion of probationary period an employee will be confirmed as permanent employee of the company.
- (f) Nothing in this clause shall prejudice the right of either party to terminate a contract summarily for a lawful cause.

8. Safari Allowance.

As regards this issue, the court awards that an employee who is required to perform work away from his/her principal place of employment shall be entitled to be paid subsistence and accommodation allowance as follows:

	1st Year KSh.	2nd Year KSh.
(a) For any such period of duty exceeding six (6) hours but not exceeding twelve (12) hours	35	40
(b) For any such period of duty exceeding twelve (12) hours but not including an overnight stop	55	65
(c) For an overnight stop in Nairobi area and Mombasa Municipality an employee shall be entitled in addition to subsistence allowance payable under proviso (b) to accommodation allowance of	135	150
(d) For an overnight stop elsewhere an employee shall be entitled in addition to subsistence allowance payable under proviso (b) to accommodation allowance of	100	115

Sub-clause (e) is rejected.

N.B.—Vehicles used for transportation are not acceptable accommodation.

9. Housing Allowance.

The court has given serious consideration to this pressing problem and awards as hereunder:

- (a) An employee who is not provided with reasonable and satisfactory free housing accommodation by the company shall be entitled, in addition to his/her basic rate of wages prescribed in this agreement, to a housing allowance of fifteen (15) per cent of the employee's wages.

(b) For those employees who are employed for a period of time less than one (1) calendar month, the daily rates of housing allowance shall be deemed to be fifteen (15) per cent of the employee's daily wages.

10. Suspension from duty.

The court awards on this demand as follows:

(a) An employee charged with a criminal offence or suspected of having committed a criminal offence in which the company is interested may be suspended from duty without pay pending the outcome of court action.

(b) Should the result of the court action prove that the employee was not guilty, such an employee shall be reinstated in his/her previous employment without loss of wages or any other privileges and benefits.

(c) Should the result of the court action establish that the employee was guilty of the offence with which he was charged, such disciplinary measures as appropriate may be taken against that employee but without loss of wages and other benefits already earned.

15. Retirement (Gratuity) terminal benefits.

The claimants' demand on this issue is reasonable fair, and the court, therefore, awards, with minor amendments, as follows:

On completion of five (5) years' service with the company, an employee shall be entitled to fifteen (15) days pay for every completed year of service by way of gratuity to be based on employee's wages at the time of termination of services.

(a) An employee who resigns for any reason other than certified ill health or old age shall not be entitled to gratuity.

(i) In the event of any dispute as regards resignation on medical grounds, the verdict of a qualified medical practitioner shall prevail.

(ii) An employee who attains fifty (50) years of age shall be entitled to retire with full benefits.

(b) The retiring employee shall be entitled to a sum equivalent to his/her one way leave travelling allowance.

(c) An employee who has worked for a period up to five (5) years continuous service shall receive one month's notice or one month's pay in lieu thereof.

(d) An employee who has completed over five (5) years continuous service shall receive two (2) months' notice or two (2) months' wages in lieu of notice.

(e) In case of death of an employee, the retirement benefits/gratuity shall be paid by the company to the lawful heirs of the deceased.

18. Basic minimum rates of wages per month (exclusive of housing allowance).

After careful and anxious consideration of the parties' submissions on this issue and its financial implications, the court awards a wage increase to all categories of employee of 8.5 per cent for the first year and 10 per cent for the second year, or 18.5 per cent for the two (2) year-period.

19. Effective date and duration of the agreement.

The court awards 1st July, 1990, as the effective date with a duration period of two (2) years from that date. After the expiry date, the agreement shall remain in force until it is amended by mutual consent. However, a party wishing to amend any clause or clauses of this agreements shall give one month's notice to the other party, setting out in detail such proposed amendment or amendments.

20. Redundancy.

On this demand the court awards that it shall be a condition in every contract that where the employment of an employee is to be terminated on account of redundancy, the following principles in addition to the requirements of the relevant provisions of the Trade Dispute Act in force, shall apply:

(a) The union shall be informed of the reasons for and the extent of the intended redundancy prior to the issue of notices.

(b) Discharge for redundancy will be effected on the basis of "Last in First Out" in any section to be affected by the redundancy.

(c) Any leave due to an employee who is declared redundant shall be paid for in cash.

(d) Any redundant employee with less than five (5) years' continuous service with the company shall be entitled to one (1) month's notice or one (1) month's pay in lieu thereof. An employee with five (5) or more years of service shall be entitled to two (2) months' notice or two (2) months' wages in lieu of notice.

(e) An employee declared redundant shall be entitled to severance pay at the rate of fifteen (15) days' pay for each completed year of service.

N.B.—For the purpose of this clause redundancy shall mean the loss of employment, occupation, job or career by involuntary means through no fault of an employee involving termination of employment at the initiative of the employer where the services of an employee are superfluous and the practice commonly known as abolition of office, job or occupation, closure or sale of business.

The parties must now proceed to sign a collective agreement incorporating this award on the various issues and also those which they have already agreed upon at their own level.

Dated the 23rd May, 1991.

Judge.
