THE INDUSTRIAL COURT
CAUSE NO. 94 OF 1986

Parties:

Tailors and Textiles Workers Union

and

National Seasun Garment Factory Limited

Issue in dispute:

Dismissal of Mrs. Christine Keke.

THE Tailors and Textiles Workers Union shall hereinafter be referred to as the claimants and the National Seasun Garment Factory Limited shall hereinafter be referred to as the respondents.

2. The claimants were heard in Nairobi on 25th August, 1987, and relied on their written and verbal submissions whereas the respondents did not put in any written submission nor did they appear in court in person despite having been warned that the hearing would take place as scheduled.

AWARD

3. The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 7th May, 1986, signed by the parties was received by the court on 23rd September, 1986, together with the statutory certificates signed by the Minister for Labour and the Labour Commissioner.

The background of this dispute is that Mrs. Keke was employed by the respondents in 1979, on weekly basis and was converted to monthly contract on 1st November, 1981, and continued working for the respondents until she was dismissed on 24th June, 1983. At the time of dismissal she was earning Sh. 664 per month plus house allowance of Sh. 150 per month.

The respondents were members of the new defunct Mombasa and Coast Tailors Employers Association which had a collective agreement on wages terms and conditions of employment with the claimants and hence the respondents employees were covered by the same agreement.

The claimants told the court that on 10th June, 1983, Mrs. Keke was not feeling well and she started vomiting while she was on duty, and decided to go and see a doctor at the Coast General Hospital where she was treated and given four days off-duty and was instructed to go and rest at home. Mrs. Keke was supposed to resume work on 13th June, 1983, but she was still weak and sick due to the fact that she had reached advanced stage of pregnancy and she had asked her husband to convey the message to her employer that she was unable to resume work.

The claimants further informed the court that Mrs. Keke's husband had telephoned the respondents regarding his wife's sickness. Moreover Mrs. Keke personally went to the factory of the respondents on 15th June, 1983, to tell the respondents about her sickness and apply for both maternity leave and cash in form of advance for the month of June 1983, and that both requests were turned down by the respondents.

The claimants further told the court that Mrs. Keke gave birth on 20th June, 1983, and the news of Mrs. Keke's delivery were conveyed to the respondents by her husband through telephone and as soon as the respondents received the news that Mrs. Keke had given birth they decided to dismiss her immediately for being absent for four days without permission. The claimants submitted that despite their efforts to convince the respondents that the absence of Mrs. Keke from her place of work was due to advanced stage of pregnancy, the respondents did not change their mind.

The claimants then decided to report an informal dispute and a meeting was held on 23rd August, 1983, chaired by Mr. G. R. M. Japhet of Mombasa Labour Office and the outcome of that meeting was in their favour but the respondents refused to abide by it, and therefore they had to report a formal trade dispute to the Minister for Labour and the Ministry's finding and recommendation were in their favour but still the respondents refused to accept them.

The claimants ended their submissions by asking the court to award as follows:

1. Mrs. Keke be paid all her terminal benefits.
2. She be paid two months maternity leave pay.
3. She be paid sick leave pay for the period of 10th to 14th June, 1983.
4. She be paid 12 months wages as compensation for the wrongful dismissal which she had suffered.

The court has given careful consideration to this dispute and notes that the respondents did not put in a written submission nor appear in court in person to defend their interests. Therefore in the absence of the respondents' submissions and their failure to appear in court the court had to come to a decision on the written and verbal submissions of the claimants. The court was convinced by the claimants that Mrs. Keke was sick due to advanced stage of pregnancy and her husband informed the respondents of what was happening all the time. The court is of the opinion that the punishment meted to Mrs. Keke was harsh and inhuman. The court agrees with the Ministry of Labour's findings and recommendations that the dismissal was wrongful and awards that Mrs. Keke's dismissal should be reduced to normal termination of employment and she be paid all her terminal benefits in accordance with the parties collective agreement in force at the time including pay for maternity leave. She must in addition be paid two (2) months salary as compensation for the wrongful dismissal she suffered.

Given in Nairobi on 21st September, 1987.

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE No. 20 OF 1987

Parties:

Transport and Allied Workers Union
and
Rhino Safaris Limited

Issue in dispute:

Refusal by the management to pay terminal benefits to Alois K. Githiaka.

THE Transport and Allied Workers Union shall hereinafter be referred to as the claimants and Rhino Safaris Limited shall hereinafter be referred to as the respondents.

2. The parties were heard in Nairobi on the 13th August, 30th March, 1987, together with the statutory certificate signed by the Labour Commissioner.

AWARD

3. The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 25th March, 1986, duly signed by the parties was received by the court on 30th March, 1987, together with the statutory certificate signed by the Labour Commissioner.

This dispute has arisen from the refusal by the respondents to pay the grievant terminal benefits when he resigned on his own accord. The respondents interpretation of the parties collective agreement clause dealing with terminal benefits is that an employee who resigns on his own accord is not entitled to terminal benefits, while the claimants claim that such an employee is entitled to terminal benefits.

The claimants told the court that the grievant, Mr. Githiaka, was employed as a tour driver on 1st July, 1974, by the respondents. Mr. Githiaka worked for the respondents until 3rd May, 1985, when he resigned on his own. He had served for ten (10) years and ten (10) months when he resigned. The claimants told the court that the parties have a collective agreement which stipulates payment of terminal benefits and referred the court to clause 24 of the agreement which reads:

"24. Terminal Benefits:

An employee whose services are terminated for reasons other than gross misconduct by the company or his/her own, shall be entitled to two (2) days pay for each completed month of service, provided that such employee has completed one year continuous service with the company".

The claimants told the court that according to the above clause of the parties' agreement, their member was entitled to 140 days pay and prayed the court so to award.

The respondents argued their case by telling the court that the respondents' interpretation of the above clause is that if an employee terminated his or her services on his or her own will, as was in Mr. Githiaka's case, then he/she is not entitled to the terminal benefits as stipulated regardless of his/her length of service. The respondents stated that the parties had voluntarily entered into a binding agreement having read and understood its contents, before signing it. The respondents told the court that the claimants are well aware of the meaning of the above clause but they have now chosen to interpret it in a manner most suitable and beneficial to their members. The respondents stated that when Mr. Githiaka gave notice to resign, the resignation was accepted and his terminal benefits were paid to him after he signed a full and final settlement certificate. The respondents feel that this dispute came as an afterthought and as a test case in case of future resignations. The respondents prayed the court to find that their interpretation of the above clause to be correct and award in their favour.

The court finds that the relevant clause is ambiguously worded as it can be interpreted either way. As in the past, the court has advised parties to collective agreements to clearly put in writing what they have in their minds, and to carefully study the agreement before signing it and forwarding it for registration. In this dispute it is clear that the parties contributed to the present confusion due to lack of serious study before signing the collective agreement and they are now asking the court to interpret it for them.

The court was told that the parties are in the process of revising the collective agreement including the clause in question to make it more clear.

In these circumstances the court feels that both parties should share the blame equally and accordingly awards that the respondents should pay Mr. Githiaka terminal benefits amounting to 70 days pay.

Given in Nairobi on 18th September, 1987.

GAZETTE NOTICE No. 4573

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE No. 114 OF 1985

Parties:

Railways and Harbours Union (K)
and
Kenya Railways Corporation

Issue in dispute:

Dismissal of William Onunga.

THE Railways and Harbours Union (K) shall hereinafter be referred to as the claimants and the Kenya Railways Corporation shall hereinafter be referred to as the respondents.

2. The parties were heard in Nairobi on 6th August, 1987, and relied on their written and verbal submissions. The case was fixed for hearing on four different occasions in 1986 but the claimants were not prepared to proceed with the hearing on each occasion.

AWARD

3. The Minister for Labour signed the reference of this dispute to the Industrial Court on 1st October, 1985, in accordance with section 8 of the Trade Disputes Act. The court received the notification of the dispute from the Minister with the relevant statutory certificates on 4th October, 1985, signed by the Labour Commissioner and the Minister himself.

The grievant, William Onunga, was employed by the respondents in 1959 as a Trainee Yard Foreman. His employment services were terminated on 4th April, 1979, after a service of nearly twenty (20) years.

The circumstances that led to his dismissal took place on 14th March, 1977, when the grievant entered Mombasa yard with a shunting engine to collect 13 wagons loaded with coffee destined for Makupa Siding. On 16th March, 1977, it transpired that two of the wagons namely: CLB 55150 and CLB 55636 were found empty within Mombasa yard having been off-loaded of their contents. As a result, the matter was reported to the Railway Police who instituted investigations by arresting a number of suspected employees, including Mr. Onunga, for questioning. The matter ended up with the grievant, Mr. Onunga, and Mr. Nyakundi being charged in a court of law. The two employees were later discharged when the state entered a nolle prosequi. The missing coffee was valued at KSh. 2,297,500 and a claim for this amount was subsequently paid to the consignees by the respondents.

The claimants told the court that after Mr. Onunga's acquittal the respondents resorted to departmental action against him for gross misconduct and neglect of duty which culminated in his dismissal. The claimants further stated that, after the grievant was served with his dismissal letter, they took up the issue with the respondents and on the 18th June, 1984, the parties were able to hold a consultative meeting. The parties' consultative meeting among other things considered the facts that the state had withdrawn the criminal charge against Mr. Onunga and after the 14th March, 1977 incident, he continued to work for the respondents upto 4th April, 1979 a period of two years.

In these circumstances the consultative meeting reached a conclusion that Mr. Onunga be reinstated to duty with full benefits, but to treat the period of his absence from work, with effect from 4th April, 1979, upto January 1986 as leave without pay.

The claimants went ahead to tell the court that the respondents decision to offer the grievant reinstatement without pay for the period he was terminated was unacceptable to them, but appreciated that, it was a good move towards final settlement of the issue. The claimants submitted that the offer was unacceptable because it had taken the respondents over three years to react to their appeal dated 18th April, 1979, which proved that the respondents were not interested in settling the issue promptly and amicably. On turning down the offer, they reported a trade dispute to the Minister for Labour and an investigator was appointed.

The dispute was investigated by the Ministry of Labour and its findings and recommendation were conveyed to the parties on 12th April, 1984, as follows:

"... It is recommended that Mr. Onunga be reinstated without loss of seniority or he be paid 12 months salary as compensation for the wrongful dismissal. This should be in addition to his retirement benefits."

The parties did not accept the finding and recommendation and the matter was brought to the Industrial court.

During the hearing, the claimants advanced that, the Ministry's recommendation was found to be a move in the right direction as it formed a basis upon which the final settlement could be reached, but the respondents did not yield and continued to offer terms of reinstatement without pay for the seven years the grievant was out of employment. They also submitted that, the Ministry's recommendation as well as the respondent's offer were unacceptable because of various disadvantages to the grievant as follows:

- (i) According to the obtaining regulations, the period of leave without pay does not count as pensionable implying that the grievant will have to lose about seven (7) years' pension benefits.
- (ii) The grievant has been out of employment for nearly seven years during which period he suffered economically and socially for no fault of his own.

In view of the above developments, the claimants have pleaded with the court to award in their favour that the grievant be paid all his salary arrears and his service be regarded as continuous for the purpose of his pension when he retires.

In their reply the respondents stated that, they resorted to the provisions of Staff Regulations G.9 (f) to take departmental action against Mr. Onunga for gross misconduct and neglect of duty. The grievant's reply in form of defence was given due consideration but it was found unsatisfactory and unacceptable with the result that Mr. Onunga had to be given a dismissal punishment.

During the hearing, the respondents explained to the court that, the claimants continued to make written representations and which culminated in a consultative meeting between the parties on 18th June, 1984. The respondents undertook to re-examine the matter and, as a gesture of goodwill prompted by the fact that the state had withdrawn the criminal charge against Mr. Onunga and because of the representations made by the claimants, it was decided to reinstate the grievant to duty with full benefits, but to treat the period of his absence from work as leave without salary.

The respondents decision to reinstate the grievant was conveyed to Mr. Onunga through the claimants and the Ministry of Labour with a request to the Ministry to withdraw this dispute from court. The respondents drew the court's attention to the fact that the grievant was reinstated to duty on 21st January, 1986 and on reinstatement the issue in dispute before the court namely: "Dismissal of William Onunga" was overtaken by events and that the claimants' prayer now is not properly before the court.

The respondents further informed the court that, the claimants by pressing the grievants' case further after the reinstatement are trying to circumvent the provisions of the Trade Disputes Act by introducing a new issue which has not been registered with the Minister and which has never been presented to the respondents in tune with the parties' Voluntary Collective Agreement. The respondents have asked the court to reject the claimants' claim as being inadmissible and thus null and void.

The court overrules the respondents submissions that the dispute in its present form is not properly before the court.

The circumstances of this dispute are rather unusual because it was only after the acquittal that the departmental action that resulted in this dispute was taken. The court notes that it also took the parties over three years to start serious deli- of Labour officials to settle dispute at the earliest opportunity part of the parties that the dispute took almost seven years to reach the court. The court would like to stress that the parties should take seriously the efforts made by the Ministry of Labour officials to settle disputes at the earliest opportunity at local level rather than try to be too technical and stretch such disputes all the way to the Industrial Court. Mere technicalities cannot be allowed to defeat the ends of justice.

After careful consideration of submissions by the parties and evidence given before it, the court finds it has not been established that Mr. Onunga was wholly responsible or an accomplice for the disappearance of the 1,319 bags of coffee valued at KSh. 2,297,500. The court also feels that even if the respondents had a good and plausible reason for punishing Mr. Onunga, a summary dismissal under the circumstances was rather too harsh.

The court has examined this dispute from every possible angle but it inevitably leads the court to only one inescapable conclusion that concurs with the Ministry's findings that Mr. Onunga was wrongfully dismissed. The court in making its award on compensation for the grievant has taken into account the facts that after the Ministry of Labour's investigation report was out, the respondents sat over the dispute for twenty (20) months. Secondly, it has been taken into account that the grievant had worked for the respondents for twenty (20) years and he has already been reinstated.

The court awards that the grievant be paid two-and-a-half (2½) years' salary by way of compensation for the nearly seven (7) years he was out of employment as he suffered a wrongful dismissal. The court also rules that Mr. Onunga's service with the respondents should be deemed to have continued without a break.

Given in Nairobi on 15th September, 1987.

GAZETTE NOTICE No. 4575

THE TRADE MARKS ACT

(Cap. 506)

NOTICE is given that any person who has grounds of opposition to the registration of any of the trade marks advertised herein according to the classes may, within sixty (60) days from the date of this Gazette, lodge notice of opposition on form TM. No. 6 (in duplicate) together with a fee of KSh. 50.

Notice is also given that official objection will be taken under rule 21 (3) to all applications in which the specification claims all the goods included in any class unless the registrar is satisfied that the claim is justified by the use of the mark which the applicant has made, or intends to make if and when it is registered. Where an applicant considers that a claim in respect of all the goods included in a class can be justified it will save unnecessary delay in examining applications if a claim is filed simultaneously with the application, accompanied in appropriate cases by supporting documents.

The period for lodging notice of opposition may be extended by the registrar as he thinks fit and upon such terms as he may direct. Any request for such extension should be made to the registrar so as to reach him before the expiry of the period allowed.

Formal opposition should not be lodged until after reasonable notice has been given by letter to the applicant for registration so as to afford him an opportunity of withdrawing his application before the expense of preparing the notice of opposition is incurred. Failure to give such notice will be taken into account in considering any application by an opponent for an order for costs if the opposition is uncontested by the applicant.

Where it is stated in the advertisement of the applicant that the mark, upon its registration, is to be limited to certain colours, the colours are, as far as possible, indicated in the accompanying representation of the mark in the usual heraldic manner.

Representations of the marks advertised herein can be seen at the Trade Marks Registry, State Law Office, Nairobi.
